Commenting on President Roosevelt's Chicago attack on war-making nations, Fumitaka Konoye, a Princeton University senior, said: "It was nothing much, or at least I hope not.

"It seems to me that the President thought he had to say something to re-establish American prestige. In any event, it would be bad for America to start anything against Japan because she would only lose a good customer (Japan) and get a bad one (China)."

Japan, he said, was not worried about financing its fight in China, and he predicted the fighting would end by March, with Japan accepting peace terms by China permitting establishment of a second independent state in China extending to the Yellow River.

WALLY'S OLD HOME AWAITS HER VISIT

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9 (AP)— The House at 212 East Bidd le street, where Bessie Wallis Warfield gazed at the red wallpayer and wax flowers of the '90's, to-day was offered to the Duchess of Windsor as "home."

The Duchess' childhood residence, operated as a museum, was thrown open to her and the Duke when she returns here this fall for a visit.

"Dear Duchess," wrote Catherine Carter, curator of the house, "the announcement of your planned visit to our shores is an occasion we hope will permit the opportunity for His Royal Highness and your Grace to revisit some of the scenes which may recall pleasant association."

Meanwhile, Mrs. W. W. Matthews, "hostess" of the museum, showed visitors the "chaperone's perch," and the facsimilies of the English crowns displayed in the narrow, brownstone house.

The chaperone's perch, she explain, was accidental but useful in the formal 590's. An airshaft led up from the sitting room. Perched on a shelf on the second floor level, the chaperone sat and knitted, watching the young people below.

People now tour the ancient house at so much per head.

Mrs. Matthews said it was hoped the house could be left standing as "a shrine to romance"—"something to remind people that "love is the greatest thing."

TREATED SEEDS GROW SPEEDIER

CHICAGO, Oct. 9—(AP)—A revolutionary change in agricultural practice through use of chemically treated seeds was forecast to-day by Howard D. Salins, Chicago, after harvesting of test fields of fibre flax and corn in Illinois and Wisconsin.

Salins, inventor of the process, said it is applicable to all forms of plant life.

Results of this year's tests proved to his satisfaction, Salins said, that fibre flax of quality equal to that of the best grown in Europe can be produced in North America from treated seed and it affords a highly profitable return to farmers. Little or no domestic fibre flax is grown now, although there is considerable seed flax.

Yields of corn from treated seed, he said, were 25 per cent greater than yields from various kinds of untreated seed planted in adjacent fields this year north of Merrill, Wis., where frosts limit the season to less than 90 days and corn is cut green for silage, a number of farmers, Salins said, grew corn to maturity from treated seed.

Bacteria Aids Soil.

Reaction of the seed germ to the chemical, Salins said, gives the soil opportunity to facilitate fecundity At the same time the treatment promotes growth of certain bacteria which replenishes the soil with those elements used as food by the growing plant, he said. Consequently, he added, use of fertilizer is unnecessary.

In addition to soil fertilization and increased yields, treated seed, he said, produces plants resistant to disease, pests, and variable unseasonal weather and which show marked ability to reach maturity in a shorter growing season.

In areas where yields of grain could be increased 25 per cent. through use of treated seed, Salins said grain acreage could be cut down and fibre flax substituted as a rotation cash crop.

BANDITS SHOOT MAIDSTONE MAN ROB HIS SISTER

Trio, Thought Negroes, Ransack Farm House

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 12 (CP)—Three masked bandits, believed to be negroes, shot Albert Beckett, 55, in the neck and escaped last night with about $15 after ransacking his farm house on the sixth concession, Maidstone township. He was not in serious condition.

The .32 calibre bullet which ploughed through the fleshy part of Beckett's neck was one of three fired through the wooden door at close range when it was shut against the holdup men.

After Beckett had jumped through a bedroom window and run to a neighboring farm house for help, the three men invaded the house and obtained the money from his sister, Miss Mary Beckett.

Before handing over the cash, however, Miss Beckett grabbed the pistol hand of the stocky leader of the trio and while she faintly struggled for possession of the weapon she managed to pull down the dirty towel which masked his face. She told police he was a negro and smooth shaven. She said she was sure the others were also negroes.

Provincial police found tracks near the house, indicating the bandits had made their getaway in an automobile.

NORMAL SCHOOL HAS 84 STUDENTS

Delayed four weeks by the Province-wide infantile paralysis epidemic, the opening of the Peterborough Normal School saw a gain of three students over last year's enrolment this morning. A total of 84 students registered.

Under the system now in effect several years, all students are seeking first class certificates in a standard one-year course. Their admissions to the school will not be final until medical examinations have been completed during the coming week.

Two staff changes were effective this morning. Miss Constance Wagar is filling the position as art instructor left vacant by the death of Miss Ambia Going. The post of manual training instructor, left vacant by the transference of A. F. Hagerman to the London Normal School, is to be filled by W. L. Stricker of Hamilton. Mr. Stricker will serve both the Peterborough and Hamilton schools during the term.

3 Tots Burned Near Amherstburg

AMHERSTBURG, Ont., Oct. 12.—(CP)— Three children in this district 18 miles south of Windsor, suffered burns during the week-end bringing total number injured in this manner to six in the last five days.

Most seriously burned of the three was two-year-old Russell, son of Oliva Meloche, Anderdon township. He suffered burns to his chest and abdomen when he pulled a container of hot lard on top of himself.

When a pan of hot water upset on her left hand, the year and one-half old daughter of Steve Calzavara, Anderdon township, received burns. Four-year-old Beverly, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Johnston, Amherstburg, was scalded when she fell into a tub of boiling water which was being prepared for a bath.

Among the entrants was Miss Maisie Nicklin of Arisa, appearing for the first time. She is entered in the stubble class, using her own tractor.

Holiday Toll Of Six Sees Three Shot In Gun Accidents

2 Gun Victims Are Boys—Stray Shot Hits One Autos Add Two, and Train Another To List

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—(CP)—A death toll of six was counted today as Ontario citizens returned to work after the Thanksgiving week-end. Three persons died in shooting accidents, a man was struck and killed by a train and two others were hurt fatally by automobiles.

Two of the three shooting victims were boys. Donald Graham, 13, died in a Sault Ste. Marie Hospital yesterday after being shot in the abdomin when a shotgun in the bottom of a boat in which he and his father, Dr. N. F. W. Graham, were shooting ducks was moved and discharged. The accident occurred at Maskinonge Bay on the St. Mary's River.

The boy's father bound up the gaping wounds with towels and rushed his son to hospital where two blood transfusions failed to revive Donald. Death was attributed to shock. Similar were the circumstances in the death of Harvey Stewart, 25, who received the contents of a shotgun in the head when he lifted it while paddling in a canoe near Orillia.

Wilfred Stewart, brother of Harvey, made his way on foot five miles to telephone for help. The two set out on Sunday on a hunting trip down the Black River. The scene of the accident was near Severn Falls, 25 miles north of Orillia.

Hit by Stray Bullet.

The third shooting occurred at Timmins on Saturday. A stray bullet struck and killed Augustine Kader, 16, as the boy was walking on the outskirts of the Northern Ontario town. For some time police had been conducting a campaign against the indiscriminate use of rifles in Timmins suburbs.

There were not fatalities in highway accidents yesterday, though 13 persons were injured. In Saturday mishaps, James Horner, 23, was killed when an automobile sideswiped a car in which he was a passenger. He died in Timmins Hospital of a fractured skull. James G. Blackwood, 36, was struck by an automobile in New Toronto on Saturday night. As he lay on the road, another machine ran over him. Neither driver stopped. The sixth week-end death was that of Freeman Lucas, 57, killed in the railway yards at Windsor as he was working.

JAPS MACHINE-GUN BRITISH EMBASSY CARS—NONE HURT

SHANGHAI, Oct. 12 — (AP). — Three automobiles belonging to the British Embassy were machine-gunned to-day by two squadrons of Japanese warplanes. None of the occupants was injured.

The staff cars in which S. S. Murray, the assistant air attache of the British Embassy was riding with several other Britons, were attacked by the rsiding Japanese planes near Minghong, 14 miles south of Shanghai.

Although the three motor cars carried the Union Jack, the British officials said, the Japanese warplanes continued their machine gunning after the occupants jumped from the machines and sought cover.

The British asserted the cars could have been identified and added there was no doubt the attacking planes were Japanese.

Herbert Phillips, British consul general, said an immediate investigation was ordered although no details of the assault was received by his office.

The embassy staff cars were en route to Shanghai from Nanking on the same highway on which two Japanese planes recently injured the British ambassador to China by bombing and machine gunning the automobile in which he was making a similar journey.

Taken Seriously in Britain.

British sources received the news of the episode with the gravest concern in view of the previous attack on Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, the Ambassador.

The British Consul-General immediately communicated with the Chinese authorities requesting their assistance in the investigation. It was understood Chinese military authorities set out at once for Minghong to obtain details.

The Consul-General informed the Chinese officials the cars were flying the British flag and were on a peaceful mission.

Japanese authorities said the incident had been reported and they were investigating. They explained it appeared from the available information the British authorities had not informed either the army or the navy that British cars were making the journey.

He added that Chinese were constructing strong, new defence positions in the vicinity of Minghong and the presence of motor cars with-

TWO MEN NABBED WEARING STOLEN MILLBROOK GOODS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 12.—Two of the men who it is alleged burglarized Fowler and Pendrie's store on Sept. 27 were arrested in a rooming-house on Sackville Street, Toronto, at the weekend and lodged in Cobourg gaol.

The men, Karl Wightman, aged 27, and Arthur Checkee, 17, were wearing some of the stolen clothing when taken in custody, and had two trunkfuls in their possession. Constable E. C. Richards and David Fowler, junior member of the firm, went to Toronto upon receipt of information from the police of that city. Mr. Fowler identifying the goods, which were, however, only about one-quarter the total quantity stolen from his firm.

A third man, whom the other two mention as "Jim," and about whom they refuse to talk further than to say he owned the car in which the trio were travelling, is also involved. According to their story, they were cruising around in Jim's car and arrived in the village about one a.m., coming from the direction of Bewdley. It was their first visit here, and the robbery was carried through without any premeditated plans.

Wightman and Checkee were remanded for a week, and the police are hopeful that the third member of the party may shortly be apprehended.

ACTRESS KNOCKED OUT

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12 (A.P.). — Eleanor Holm Harrett's dark tresses covered a painful lump on her head to-day. The press department of her studio announced she was knocked unconscious.

Spanish Heads To Flee From Valencia City

Hear Rebels About To Cut Off Present Capital From France, Catalonia

CERBERE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 12.—(AP).—Spanish government sources disclosed to-day all important ministries would be moved shortly from Valencia, seat of the government, to Barcelona.

The first announcement of the move and said only the defence ministry would be transferred to bring army officers closed to their source of supplies. It was explained that most of the munitions factories controlled by the Spanish government are located in Catalonia.

(The seat of the Spanish government was moved from Madrid to Valencia for greater safety, about a year ago when the insurgent armies of General Franco began the full pressure of their civil war siege of Madrid.

(Other reports to-day from Perpignan said that the insurgents were about to launch a major offensive on the Teruel sector, west of Valencia, to cut off the present capital from Catalonia and France by land.)

Canton Poorhouse Razed By Bombs

Canton, Oct. 12 (UP)

CHINESE military sources reported today that Japanese war planes bombed the Canton poorhouse on Sunday, blowing up the building and killing scores of elderly inmates.

The raid was described as part of an aerial offensive of tremendous proportions throughout Southern China, in which scores of buildings, including a schoolhouse, reportedly were blown up and hundreds killed.

WOMAN SUSTAINS INJURIES TO HEAD

Miss Freda Irwin of Halls Bridge, sustained injury to her forehead that required five stitches, when the car in which she was a passenger was involved in an accident on Lakefield road, in the vicinity of the city's stone crushing plant this morning.

The car, driven by Clifford Whetung, son of Chief Dan Whetung of Curve Lake Reserve, was proceeding towards Peterborough. A truck driven by Gordon Little, loaded with crushed stone, which was ahead of the car, was stated to have suddenly slackened pace, so that the driver of the car had to make a sudden swerve in an effort to avoid striking the rear of the truck.

It was raining at the time and

Expect McQuesten Will Be New Attorney-General

See Highway Post for Kirby—MacBride, Labor; Oliver, Agriculture; Campbell, Public Works

TORONTO, Oct. 12—(CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn made his first appearance at Queen's Park today since the October 6 election and announced the Ontario cabinet would be sworn in at 9 o'clock tonight. The cabinet, to be larger than the previous one, will have the six re-elected ministers and six new ones. Names of the new ministers were not announced.

Mr. Hepburn appeared at his offices early and within an hour made the announcement regarding the swearing in of the cabinet, Ontario's second Liberal administration in three decades. Present members of the cabinet were summoned to a meeting this afternoon.

It was learned the resignations of Hon. Duncan Marshall, agriculture minister, and Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, health minister, would be tendered this afternoon. Mr. Marshall was defeated in Peel and Dr. Faulkner in Hastings West.

There will be a reshuffling of portfolios among some of the present ministers as well as setting up of a new portfolio of labor.

The Line-up?

Whether the only minister without portfolio in the former Government, Hon. C. W. Cox, would be re-appointed was not known.

Most authoritative Cabinet forecast, recognizing the possibility that last-minute changes might be made this afternoon, was considered to be the following:

Prime Minister and Provincial Treasurer—Mr. Hepburn.

Attorney-General—Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Hamilton-Wentworth, who was Minister of Highways in the last Cabinet.

Minister of Labor—M. M. MacBride, Brantford.

Others mentioned prominently as Cabinet possibilities and who may be included before the swearing in are A. St. Clair Gordon, Kent West; P. M. Dewan, Oxford, and Gordon Conant, Ontario.

In the event the forecast proves correct the Cabinet will include two ministers who ran as other than Liberals in the general election. Mr. Oliver won Grey South as a U.F.O. candidate, but he was not opposed by the Government. Neither was Brantford's Mayor, Mr. MacBride, who ran as an Independent Liberal.

MRS. ROOSEVELT OFFERS TO GUIDE DUKE OF WINDSOR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP). — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said yesterday she "supposed" the Duke and Duchess of Windsor would visit the White House during their forthcoming visit to the United States. She offered to guide them on their proposed inspection of housing conditions.

Asked at her press conference if she would accompany the Duke and his American wife to Greenbelt and other Federal housing projects in which she has been interested, Mrs. Roosevelt said she would be delighted to show them whatever they want to see if they desire her assistance.

She recalled she met the Duke when he visited here as the Prince of Wales in 1919.

Mrs. Roosevelt, 53 years old today, expressed delight and amusement at the President's gift — a watertight wrist watch, designed to withstand occasional dips into the swimming pool.

Family dinner was the only birthday observance planned.

READY FOR JUNKING FREIGHT CARS BURN IN HAVELOCK YARD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Ont. 12. — Nine Canadian Pacific freight cars were totally destroyed by a fire of undetermined origin late on Sunday evening, at the Havelock Yards. The blaze, when discovered at approximately 11.30 p.m., had gained quite a headway, and it was feared for a time that the remaining two hundred cars might be swept by the flames. A volunteer train crew, however, was speedily assembled and succeeded in switching the remainder of the cars out of danger.

The loss has not as yet been estimated, since the total domage to ties and rails is not yet known. Loss of the cars, fortunately, is not as great as it might ordinarily be, since they were soon to be junked.

Spectators, numbering between two and three hundred, were attracted to the scene of the blaze, the reflection of which could be seen for miles about the village.

Many football games in England are to be broadcast solely to hospital patients.

General Is Slain Triple Shooting

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Oct. 12 (AP)

POLICE Chief Babatti of Vera Crux City reported General Felix Gonzales, military commander of Vera Cruz, was slain yesterday after he killed State's Attorney-General Adolfo Moreno.

To avenge Moreno's death, Rabaite said Elias Ontiveros, an aide of the Attorney-General, shot and killed the military commander and then committed suicide.

BAYONNE, France—French anti-aircraft batteries today fired a warning shot at a German airliner which authorities declared flew low over a forbidden zone of the Franco-Spanish frontier.

Goes Shopping, Memory Slips —Now Fighting For Life In Hospital

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 12 (CP) —While Herbert Nutley, 41, fought the effects of exposure and exhaustion in hospital today, relatives and doctors attempted to learn how he became stranded in a deserted tent on Hamilton mountain.

Nutley was missing from his home for 11 days. Members of his family, fellow war veterans and Boy Scouts searched for him during the week-end. The lake shore and wooded areas were visited.

A chance visit of campers to clean up a cabin for the winter resulted in the finding of Nutley. He was lying in an old tent, weak, and unable to tell his name or how he reached the tent.

"I haven't had anything to eat for 10 days," he managed to whisper. In his pockets was found a club membership card with his name and address.

His rescuers carried Nutley to their automobile and rushed him home where doctors advised his immediate removal to hospital. At hospital today he was said to be resting comfortably. Nutley failed to return from a shopping trip Sept. 30. He left home with only a few cents in his pockets. After chatting with William Redmond, neighbor, he wandered away.

"My brother had not been in good health and was worried about his war disabilities," Charles said. "He was gassed twice."

Morrisburg Pastor Killed In Car Crash Near Kingston – 4 Women Hurt

Kingston, Oct. 12 (CP)

REV. Stanley M. W. Gartung, Morrisburg, Ont., was killed today when his car plunged from the highway and turned over three times three miles east of Kingston on No. 2 highway.

Four women occupants of the car were injured and taken to Kingston General Hospital. With Mr. Gartung they were on the way to Hamilton from Morrisburg to attend a Lutheran Church convention.

It is believed the minister lost control of his car on the slippery pavement when approaching a turn near the Barriefield military camp site.

Injured were Mrs. Stanley Gartung, wife of the clergyman; Mrs. Fred Casselman, Mrs. Ralph M. Sweldfager, and Mrs. Austin Salmon Ball of Morrisburg.

At hospital it was said the women were badly injured, but it was impossible to determine the extent of their injuries.

Last Minute News Flashes

TORONTO — Russell Nesbitt, Conservative candidate, made formal application today for a recount of votes in Toronto Bracondale constituency, cast in the Oct. 6 election. Unofficial returns election night showed Nesbitt was defeated by the Liberal candidate, Lionel Conacher, by 47 votes.

TORONTO — Probability W. L. Houck, Liberal member for Niagara Falls, would be appointed to the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission instead of to the cabinet as minister of education appeared this afternoon following a conference between the member and Premier Hepburn.

6,000 Apples Sold By Boy Scouts

From their "Apple Day" effort the local Boy Scout Association expects to realize a net profit of $175, which is to be used for the promotion of Scouting in the city and for the training of Scout and Cub leaders.

Around one hundred Scouts and Wolf Cubs, directed by a committee headed by Scouter George Groombridge, on Saturday sold sixteen barrels of apples and 6,000 tags. The gross proceeds from the "Apple Day" effort was $275, which showed a decrease over last year of $59.

The boys were out at an early hour, and in addition to their street sales, canvassed several places of business throughout the city.

Dr. G. Murray Fraser, president of the local Scout Association, commenting on the results of the effort, declared he wished to thank the general public for their support of the Scout organization on behalf of the association he represents.

Communism Now Among Great Canadian Parties Says Buck

Re-elected Secretary Calls For Greater Organization Among Women And Children

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—(CP)— Tim Buck, party leader since 1929 again at the helm, four hundred representatives of Canadian Communism, today prepared to wind up their eighth national convention, having the assurance of Mr. Buck that the party was now "one of the great parties of Canada."

Mr. Buck, who once served a prison term for membership in the party, at the time its illegality was declared under the now-repealed section 98 of the criminal code, was unanimously re-elected general secretary of the party last night. There is no party chairman and the secretary is the leader.

Every province but Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick is represented at the convention, now, according to a report to the meeting, representing 15,000 Canadians. At the last convention in 1934 membership was reported at 6,000.

Want More Women In Party

Organizational report saw a lamentable lack of recruiting among women and young people and urged steps to correct this. Youth work was called "the weakest link in the chain of organization."

A resolution deplored the recently-enacted statute forbidding enlisting of Canadians in foreign armies and declared it was a blow at the Spanish government cause. The Canadian government, while stopping export of war materials to the Spanish insurgents, via Spanish Morocco.

The convention recorded its support of China in the undeclared war with Japan and called on Canadians generally to boycott Japanese goods.

London's Metropolitan Railway has been found to be the world's oldest subway, having been opened in 1863 and electrified in 1905.

Bombs End Famed Wedding Centre

SHANGHAI, Oct. 12.—(AP).—Because of the destruction of Shanghai's city hall the municipal government announced to-day that weddings could not be held in the civic centre which has long been famous for its massed ceremonies.

In the past, scores of "foreign-style" marraiges occurred there daily, the dainty Oriental brides wearing smart, western wedding dresses with long veils in preference to the native costumes.

Despite the carnage and chaos of war, marriages all over China are steadily increasing. Orthodox Chinese parents, holding out against their daughters marrying until the prospective son-in-law could at least afford to give his bride a dowry, are now anxious to rush through the marriages. The heavy war casualties have greatly decreased the number of eligible youths.

England has a building boom.

Australia has a sparrow plague.

Anchorage, Alaska, Oct. 12 (AP)

TWO of the northland's prettiest prospectors—a blond and a brunette from Mississippi—headed homeward today with nothing much to show for their gold-seeking venture but a coat of tan and a touch of rheumatism.

Miss Sue Comer and Mrs. Hortense Landru of Vicksburg, Miss., paused at a Portage long enough to discuss their 2½ months prospecting expedition.

They dug for gold in the lonely Lake Togiak district about 75 miles northwest of Goodnews Bay. They lived principally on boiled owls, roast porcupine and reindeer beef. They were soaked by rain and tormented by rheumatism most of the time.

They found little gold.

THINK WAY OPEN FOR NEW ATTACK ON BLACK'S POST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Some legal experts expressed opinion today the United States Supreme Court has left the way open for further challenges of Justice Hugo L. Black's eligibility.

The court ruled yesterday Albert Levitt, former federal judge in the Virgin Islands, and Patrick Henry Kelly, Boston attorney, did not have sufficient interest in the outcome to warrant their attacks on the new justice's right to his seat.

This made it possible, in the opinion of some observers, for filing of new contests by litigants who might be directly interested.

Levitt and Kelly contended Black was constitutionally ineligible because there was no vacancy on the court and because the justice was a member of the senate which increased the "emoluments" of justices by permitting them to retire at $20,000 a year after becoming 70 and serving 10 years.

Black looked on while Chief Justice Hughes read the brief decision. "It is an established principle," the court held, "that to entitle a private individual to invoke the judicial power to determine the validity of executive or legislative action, he must show that he has sustained or is immediately in danger of sustaining a direct injury as the result of that action."

Although he participated in none of the actions taken yesterday, when the court agreed to review 72 controversies and refused to pass on 235, Black was expected to join in the decision of cases argued hereafter.

ENJOYABLE RALLY OF WOMEN'S GUILD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, Oct. 12.—The Women's Guild of St. Mary's Church held their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. W. L. Hannah. There were ten members present and one guest. The president conducted the opening devotional service.

The major business of the meeting covered the arrangements for the annual fowl supper to be held in the covered shed at St. Mary's Church on Friday, October 15. Supper will be served from 5 o'clock until all are entertained at this sumptuous meal. Later a play, entitled "Lighthouse Nan," put on by the A.Y.P.U. Dramatic Club of St. Mary's Church, with musical selections by various artists, will be given.

A cash donation was tendered by a member of the Guild towards the proceeds of the fowl supper, which was thankfully accepted. A bazaar still will be another attractive feature on the evening of the supper, and many pretty and useful articles will be put on sale.

Several pieces of work found ready sale at the meeting, and after the closing prayer by Mrs. (Rev.) Holden, a dainty supper was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. B. Sisson, and a social hour was spent together.

SILVER TEA SET FOR YOUNG BRIDE

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 12. — Miss Edith Nichols of Lakefield, whose marriage to Roland Darling of Douro takes place to-day, was the guest of honor at a party held on Friday evening, when the young people of the Baptist Church and a number of friends of Miss Nichols met at the home of Clarence Duff and his aunt, Miss Quinn. A short program was presented by the Baptist Young People in charge of Rev. W. B. Walker, after whih Robert Northey read an address, and Miss Nichols was presented with a beautiful silver tea set, a gift from members of the Baptist Church, and a shower of lovely gifts from her friends.

Refreshments were served and a social hour spent. All join in wishing Miss Nichols every happiness in her new sphere of life.

WOMAN IS STRUCK BY PASTOR'S CAR

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Oct. 12.—Stepping out from behind a parked car into the path of a car driven by Rev. L. W. Scott, Roseneath, Miss Charlotte Crowe of Alderville was knocked down and suffered severe leg and head injuries. The accident occurred on Saturday evening in the village of Roseneath. Miss Crowe was given first aid treatment by Dr. G. H. Field and later removed by ambulance to Cobourg General Hospital.

Pupils in one Moscow, Russia, school are Russia, Mongolian, Latvian and German.

Getting Up Nights Caused By Kidney Germs

Are you worried and annoyed by Getting Up Nights? Marmora House Burns To Ground

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Oct. 12 — Mr. John Bue, Sr. who resides on the outskirts of the village met with a grave misfortune on Friday afternoon when his residence was burned to the ground. A spark from the chimney ignited the roof and the fire spread so rapidly that nothing could be done to save the dwelling. A few pieces of furniture were salvaged from the burning building. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

BOYS' CALF CLUB HAS FINE RECORD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 12.—A. E. Summers, Agricultural Representative for Durham, has prepared the following report on the Junior Boys' Calf and Foal Clubs in connection with their exhibit at the Millbrook Central Fair. The Federal and Provincial Departments of Agriculture and the Board of the Millbrook Fair sponsored and gave grants.

There were ten entries in the Calf Club, the standing as to quality being: I. J. Whittington, Bruce Fisher Eric Fallis, Ray. Stewart, Gordon Fallis, William Gibson.

Taking into account showmanship, the summer's work with the calves, feed records, and the judging competition, the results were: Ralph McCamus, Jack Whittington, Gordon Fallis, Bruce Fisher, Alfred Allin, Alan Dawson. Representing the Beef Club Team at the Inter-County Club Competition at Guelph on October 22 will be Jack Whittington and Bruce Fisher.

Twenty-one entries were made in the Foal Club, including nine Clydesdales and thirteen Percherons, the quality standing being (for first six):

Including showmanship, judging competition, etc., final results were:

Clydesdales—Allan Beer, Allan Earle, Gordon Macklin, James Cook, Edward Healey, Arnold Barnard. Percherons—Alan Dawson, Harold Hepburn, Elias Whyte, Gordon Staples, Richard Dunn, Willis Patton.

Judges were A. D. Runions, Agricultural Representative for Peterborough County, and H. McLeod, Assistant Representative for Prince Edward County. Ribbons for the Foal Club members were presented by R. S. Duncan, Director of Representatives, Toronto, and the initial Agricultural Representative for Durham County.

TWO ARE INJURED AS CARS COLLIDE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Oct. 12.—A serious accident was narrowly averted about 3 p.m. on Friday when Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stinson and daughter Helen were returning to their home at Omemee after having visited with the former's father, Sam Stinson. The Stinson car, as it was proceeding east about one mile from the village, was sideswiped by a car owned and driven by Mr. Jacob Lowe of Omemee, who was bringing his sister-in-law, Mrs. Albert Stinson, to her home here following a vacation.

It is presumed that Mr. Lowe was blinded by the sun as he rounded the corner and proceeded over a slight grade where the accident took place.

Both new cars were badly smashed, but the occupants miraculously escaped death. Mrs. Albert Stinson, who is one of the older residents, was the most seriously injured and was removed in a neighbour's car to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hildon Johnston, where Dr. Hamilton of Bethany was summoned and found the victim to be suffering from chest injuries, two broken ribs and severe shock.

Little 6-year-old Helen Stinson was cut about the face with flying glass. All the glass on one side of the car was broken, but providentially flew over the heads of the occupants with only the above mentioned results.

The cars were abandoned and the victims who were all more or less suffering from bruises and shock were taken to their homes by friends.

VANITY SET GIVEN MISS RITA SMITH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 12.—Miss Lila McGee, Miss Ellene Hoard and Mrs. Edgar Fisher were responsible for a most delightful time held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smith of Percy township on Tuesday evening when over 150 young people met together in honor of their daughter, Miss Rita Smith, who leaves next week as a nurse-in-training in the Parry Sound Hospital.

During the evening Miss Helen Hendy read a farewell address to Miss Smith in which she expressed their good will but regrets at her leaving their neighborhood. Miss Lila McGee then presented her with a beautiful eight-piece vanity set, also a sum of money, as a gift from those present.

Dancing proved to be a most enjoyable pastime, the music being furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Rae Archer. A luncheon provided by the ladies and a social hour at midnight was followed by dancing which lasted until the early hours of morn.

Auxiliary Train Kills Motorist On Way To Wreck

LEWIS IS AMUSED BY A.F.L. OUSTER AND OLIVE BRANCH

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Oct. 12 (AP)—John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization heard with eager but amused interest today that the American Federation of Labor convention had authorized the ouster of his union. He reserved comment.

Pending a definite statement on the federation's action by the official conference here of heads of his 32 affiliated unions, Lewis would only recall his Sunday night statement the C.I.O. already considers itself out of the fold of William Green, A.F.L. president and Lewis' bitter foe.

"Our attitude is one of complete indifference," he said then. "We are separate and apart."

Lewis smiled when he learned Green had told the federation's convention at Denver that he stood ready to "welcome" and "embrace" any C.I.O. organization which "comes to the door" in response to an appeal to "come back home."

Lewis said the resolutions committee of the C.I.O. strategy conference probably would "make a report" on this subject today or tomorrow.

Although the committee worked secretly there were indications it had also started consideration of a resolution expressing the C.I.O. attitude toward the fighting between China and Japan. Some officials quietly sought support for a demand for an economic boycott of Japan.

Door Still Open.

DENVER, Oct. 12.—(AP).— The American Federation of Labor extended to-day to its unions which have joined John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization their choice of the olive branch of peaceful return or the club of expulsion.

The A. F. L. Executive Council will meet at the close of the Federation's convention here, probably tomorrow night or Thursday, but there was little indication it will attempt to wield immediately the power to expel, conferred yesterday by a 25,615 to 1,227 vote of the convention.

TO BORROW $10,000 FOR SKATING RINK

OMEMEE, Oct. 12.— The Village Council met Monday, Oct. 4 in the council chamber, with Reeve Moncrief, Councillors Fee, White, Bent and Parker present.

The minutes of the September meeting were read and on motion of Councillors White and Parker were adopted.

By-law No. 164 authorizing the borrowing on an amount up to $10,000 from the Bank of Toronto, for erection of a skating rink until debentures were sold, had its several readings, was passed, signed by Reeve and Clerk and sealed.

Moved by Parker, seconded by Fee, that Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Laidley, representing Woman's Institute, be heard.

The ladies asked privilege of using Coronation Hall without charge on Nov. 4 for a bazaar. The Reeve promised consideration.

Moved by White, seconded by Bent, that hall be used by W. I. on Nov. 4 without charge.—Carried.

Moved by Parker, seconded by Fee, that Messrs. Bent and White be a committee to dispose of old material taken off Mill bridge.—Carried.

Moved by Bent, seconded by Fee, that following accounts having been examined and found correct: the treasurer be authorized to issue cheques for same: Street lights for September, $83.50; Gordon Lloyd, work on streets, $2.50; A. L. Williamson, ¼ salary, $31.25; A. L. Williamson, work on streets, $2.00; R. W. Mitchell, work and material on Mill bridge, $53.34. Total $172.59.

Moved by White, seconded by Fee, that R. W. Mitchell be given contract of installing 1¼ inch galvanized pipe from well to skating rink.—Carried.

Moved by Parker, seconded by White, that council adjourn, to meet first Monday of November at 8 p.m.—Carried.

Latest In Modernized Traps Starts Mouse Conference

Sprayed Cheese Perfume And Series Of Mirrors Prove Fatal Lures

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12 (AP).— The modern mouse is born with two strikes on him. The latest gadget designed to eliminate the little rodents is described as a perpetual motion trap by Managing Director Roy B. Burns of the National Inventors' Congress, which meets here December 7-10.

"The better mouse trap is the winner so far," he said. "It is irresistible to the first mouse and when he enters he automotically sets it for the second mouse. It works like this: The first mouse sees in front of him a modernized mouse hole. It is sprayed delicately with cheese perfume which is thin and elusive at the entrance and increasingly strong toward the end of the hole. The mouse enters the hallway and looks into a lighted mirror. He thinks his own reflection is another mouse.

"Losing all caution, he moves into a glassed-in compartment of a little room full of mirrors—and a grating drops behind him. He discovers, the cheese is in another transparent chamber. He stops to cogitate.

"Another mouse outside looks in and sees a dozen mice — a whole convention — so he comes in, too. Another grate drops, and so it goes."

Legion Rallying Whitby Oct. 24

WHITBY, Oct. 12—(Special).—At least 1,000 members of the Canadian Legion from all parts of Central Ontario are expected to gather here Sunday, Oct. 24, for the annual drumhead service in Municipal Park to be conducted by Rev. E. Ralph Adye, honorary chaplain of the 19th Battalion, Branch No. 122. Lieut.-Colonel H. R. Alley, O.B.E., President of the Ontario Command, will be in charge of the parade and Colonel the Hon. H. A. Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, will take the salute. The drumhead service will be broadcast at 3 p.m., also the 19th Battalion service at Mr. Adye's church in the morning.

THREE WHEELING IT

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 12—(AP).—George B. Melrod was booked in police court on a reckless driving charge, but Patrolman Walter G. Maul said it was a new offense—three-wheeling. He testified he arrested Melrod for driving 1¼ miles through street at 30 miles an hour with the right front wheel missing from his car.

"I didnt know it could be done," commented Judge Robert J. Summers as he set the case for trial Thursday.

NO NEW RECORDS AT CAMPBELLFORD SCHOOL FIELD DAY

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 12.—Fair skies and a chill breeze that suggested snow did not deter a number of interested spectators from witnessing the annual field day as it was run off on the High School grounds Friday afternoon. J. Robertson was winner of the senior boys' championship with A. Rowe a close second. Charles Jeffs was champion of the Intermediate boys and R. Curle was high in the Junior boys section. Helen McGee took the honors in the Senior Girls section, followed by M. Lisle who was second. The Junior title went to C. McKelvie. Although all the events were keenly contested, no new records were made. Officials at the field day included E. H. Greig, E. Darling, and E. Stephens. Following are the events and winners.

Turkey's 'Flying Amazon' Only Woman To Hold Air Force Title

Columbia, S.C., Oct. 12.

JAMES FRED OLIVER, 14-year-old Indianapolis negro, was timid as he was haled into police court on a loitering charge.

Respectful of the court, James almost immediately began rattling off quotations from the Bible. He named in order the 66 books of the Bible, and then, without pausing for breath lest sentence be passed in their interim, he recited the Apostles' Creed and the 23rd Psalm.

The court dismissed the charge, and police gave the youth a double handful of change.

Quit Gambling In All Forms W.C.T.U. Convention Urged

Boycott Of All Magazines Carrying Cigaret Advertising Is Suggested

OSHAWA, Oct 12—It was urged that all members of the W.C.T.U. abstain from gambling in any form, making no exceptions in the cases of churches, service clubs or social groups, and that members seek the enforcement of the Lord's Day Alliance Act, stated resolutions passed at the last day of the sixtieth annual convention of the W.C.T.U. of Ontario in session here.

Appreciation of the work performed by the Ontario Provincial Police in enforcing the O.L.C. Act, and of the Canadian Radio Commission in elfminating all liquor advertisements from broadcasts, were voiced.

Would Curb Films

In passing on a plan of work for the new year it was resolved to approach the Censor Board of motion pictures asking for discontinuance of demoralizing features on special programs for children, and that editors of magazines be asked to discontinue cigaret advertisements, that members boycott such magazines carrying these "ads" and seek to influence girls and young people from smoking.

Scoring the use of alcohol by persons driving cars, airplanes and other modes of transportation, the convention stressed that "the Government be memorialized requesting that all drivers of road vehicles, pilots in aircraft, operators of railways or passenger boats when on duty and for twenty-four hours before going on duty, be prohibited from consuming any alcoholic beverage, that blood tests be required in automobile accidents, that the supplying of intoxicating beverages at air ports, on aircraft, and to any one preparing to operate any public conveyance be considered as criminal negligence. The Provincial Government be asked to furnish more institutions for returning to health those people addicted to drink and narcotics."

Officers Elected

The election of officers for 1937-38 resulted as follows: Mrs. John Wright, Brantford, president; Mrs. F. R. Dale, Stratford, vice-president; Mrs. A. K. Cressman, Waterloo, corresponding secretary; Mrs. S. R. Davey, Chesley, recording secretary; Mrs. J. S. MacLean, Ottawa, treasurer; Mrs. R. D. Wright, Peterborough, "Y" secretary, and Mrs. F. W. Ambrose, Hamilton, L.T.L. secretary.

Lions May Remind Child Of His Father

Philadelphia, Oct. 12

IF JUNIOR is afraid of lions it might be because they remind him of his father, Dr. Kenneth E. Appel, of the University of Pennsylvania Medical Society's convention.

"Animal fears in children are not uncommonly the displaced representation of home relationships," he said yesterday.

"Many children don't like lions, for example, because they fear them most, and if they were asked why they will explain that it is because the lion reminds them of the roarings of their father."

WIRELESS SPEEDS WEATHER 'PROBS'

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 12—(CP) (CP)—Largely because of the growing demand of airmen for weather information, tremendous efforts are being made in the north to obtain the latest reports. They are collected by Canadian government wireless at Churchill, where William Baker is in charge, and sent by land lines from here to Toronto, Washington and Victoria, B.C.

At 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. the receivers in the white station here, looking out from the grim rocks on Hudson Bay, begin taking these reports from across the continent. The first come from a tier of stations in Greenland—Scoresbysund, Julianahaab, Godthaab, Godhavn, Angmagssalik. All are sent in international code that is, in figures.

The Canadian wireless at Resolution Island in Hudson Straits picks up the Greenland broadcast and relays it to Churchill. Churchill can pick it up direct in the winter but not through the interference which prevails most of the summer.

The weather reports follow from Resolution itself, Cape Hopes Advance, Nottingham Island, Chesterfield and Coppermine. The Canadian stations also send a noon report.

HUNGARY'S EXPORTS DOUBLE

Hungary's exports to the United States in the first half of this year were valued at more than twice those of the corresponding period of 1936.

MERE MEN LIKE SHORTER DRESS

CHURCHILL, Man., October 12.—A male correspondent of The Argus says: "As it has been conceded that women dress their best not only to make other women envious but to please men, it is but natural for men to express their opinions on fashion.

"They are cheered, it seems, by the belief conveyed to them at recent gatherings that the tendency to long skirts noticed in recent years has swung back, and that short skirts are here again. Men first noticed this variation at the tea-rooms. The smart waitresses flitting about; mostly wear frocks ending at the bend of the leg. Men's views are that such dresses ought to be a check on extravagance in attire, and that they are certainly smarter for the youthful."

CLIFFORD HURL WILL HEAD Y.P.U.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 12. — Clifford Hurl was re-elected president of the Lakefield United Church Young People's Union at their first meeting of the season, which was held in the Sunday School Room of the church on Monday evening, October 4, at the usual hour. Although the attendance was small, considerable business was transacted, the most important of which was the election of officers. The following officers were chosen:

President, Clifford Hurl.
Vice-president, Clayton Bullock.
Secretary, Muriel Bullock.
Treasurer, Zelma Darling.
Pianist, Eva Hendren.
Assistant pianist, Mrs. J. R. Hull.

Convenors of Committees: Christian Fellowship, Rev. G. F. Kelly, assistant Delmar Jackman; Christian Missions, Helen Burgess, assitant Mrs. G. F. Kelly; Christian Citizenship, Margaret Tanner, assistant Mrs. O. Calberry; Christian Culture, Robert Spence, assistant Morley Bullock.

On Wednesday next, October 13, the society will hold an opening social to which all persons interested in young people's work are invited.

The program for the remainder of the year was drawn up and plans made for a Hallowe'en party to be held on Friday, October 29, at Lakefield, when the local society will be hosts to the other societies in this district. It is expected that about 125 persons will attend.

HYDRO IS YOURS . . . . USE IT !

HYDRO... Driving Force of Industry

A busy plant—the hum of machinery—the steady movement of parts toward an assembled whole—finally—the manufactured product which brings profit to the manufacturer, salaries to staffs, payrolls for the workers.

Throughout Ontario this steady hum of industry is increasing—payrolls are being added to—manufacturing costs are steadily rising higher—yet the cost of the driving force of Ontario industry—Hydro power—moves steadily downward.

Have you ever stopped to consider what would happen if Hydro power was suddenly cut off throughout the Province—the loss in money and inconvenience you would suffer? How vital Hydro is to industry?

You should, because Hydro means much to you in personal income. Low-cost power attracts industries, with consequent employment of thousands of workers increasing the individual buying power within the Province, consequently influencing your income regardless of your occupation.

The success of Hydro in the past two years in lowering power costs has been outstanding. Its efforts to increase the prosperity of our Province by lowering power costs still further, and extending the benefits of low-cost electricity to those in cities, and those on farms, to commerce, to industry, to all who may benefit by its use, is something which you, as a partner in this enterprise, may take justifiable pride.

They Might Ask Boothville

There is something we like about the correspondents who write things for the papers from the smaller places in the country. Not often they have what the man on the desk in the daily office would call a "hot" piece of news. Not very often is there anything which would call for a special writer and a photographer to hurry away and get the story and pictures.

And yet there are good pieces of news coming from a number of these smaller places. As an example here is one from the Dundalk Herald:

> A genuine surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, of Boothville, Monday evening, when a few friends, on behalf of the surrounding community, met and presented them with a most substantial sum of money, also promises of quantities of hay, straw and grain, to help defray the loss caused by the burning of their barn containing the entire season's crop.

What is worth while in a story like that is the motive. It is not unusual to read of such a happening in the rural communities. The folk who gathered together at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hill in Boothville were doing something which if applied to affairs of state and the world in general would revolutionize our whole method of living. We find it difficult to put down the feeling that we would like to see the people of Boothville, near Dundalk, have a chance to operate on a larger scale because it is so different and so much better than the ways of world governments.

Japan, for instance, knows China is weak in a military way, and therefore Japan goes in to take another section of land from China. Italy wanted Abyssinia and knew the resistance could not possibly be great because the natives had so little with which to protect themselves. So the strong walks out and takes advantage of the weak.

But the people at Boothville did nothing like that. When Mr. and Mrs. Hill came upon a season of misfortune there was no attempt made to get control of their property. Not a bit of it. The neighbors wanted to do something which would make it easier for the distressed owners to get on their feet again, and they acted accordingly. The people of Boothville need no spies or secret service to carry on their ideas of how the world should be governed, nor do they feel the urge to pile up armaments to make their good designs effective. They appear to have a League of Families which operates with more success than the League of Nations. If the world wants the cure for its troubles it might send its delegates to Boothville.

It Cost Him $50

William Kologee of Hamilton recently inherited $200, and he decided it would be good policy on his part to keep out of sight for a few days. Probably he had friends who would be wondering what sort of a celebration he was going to stage. Apparently Mr. Kologee was going to keep his $200. So he registered at a local hotel; next night he went to another and each time he signed a name on the register which was not his own.

Doing such a thing is against the law and leaves one open to a charge of false registration. The fine for that is $50, which is exactly 25 per cent. of the money William Kologee had inherited. The report from Hamilton says the man was surprised when he found he had done anything wrong, and "horrified" when he was told the extent of the fine. If the report from Hamilton gives the case just as it occurred, it seems the only desire Kologee had was to get out of the way for a few days until the first blush of his windfall had subsided. We doubt if those who framed the law bearing on false registration had in mind fining a man who did what William Kologee had done.

Becoming Modest

A meeting was held in Windsor when creditors with claims of $39,646.25 against a gold mining company listened to a statement of affairs which disclosed there was 74 cents in the bank. If one is particularly good at figures and has a yearning to come across rather difficult problems which require solution, then right there is the makings of a happy evening at home. Find out the amount which will be paid to each creditor. There are 45 of them.

We learn a question was asked at the meeting regarding the state or prospects of the mine, and the reply was it had "good possibilities." From our own slight and sad experience with such things as mines we regard such a reply as being modest. We have always heard more abundant and full-chested adjectives used in telling of the possibilities of the property—such as "magnificent, first-class, excellent, colossal or spectacular." Always they ran toward the top of the ladder. Never were they put down merely as "good." Whether there has been a new law passed on mining adjectives is something we do not know, but it does seem strange that a mine with 74 cents actual cash in the bank and debts of only $39,646.25 should be referred to as having only "good" possibilities. Language in the mining world seems to be weakening.

Drunk Driving Increases

In Albany, N.Y., careful records have been kept on car accidents. In the first six months of the year convictions based on drunk driving have increased 56 per cent. Intoxicating drivers were involved in 417 highway accidents.

From January to the end of August 2,285 driving licenses were revoked for driving while intoxicated. Since the statistics bureau was established in 1925 the total number of licenses revoked for drunken driving has reached the rather enormous total of 28,564.

The hours of drunken driving have been carefully noted as well as the habits of the drivers. Most of the accidents occur between midnight and 4 in the morning. In 33 per cent. of cases the drivers have been on the wrong side of the highway and 21 per cent. have been exceeding the legal speed limit. The majority of the drunken drivers are men.

We have often seen it advocated that stiffer sentences will cut down on the number of drunk driving cases, but it is worth noting that in New York 28,564 licenses have been revoked and still the figure for drunk driving has increased 56 per cent. in the last six months. What has happened to the 28,564 evidently means nothing at all to the new crop of drunken drivers.

Need Not Be Afraid

Two women living in different parts of New Toronto died suddenly after taking medicine which they had secured at the same drug store on the prescriptions of different doctors. That of course is the sort of news which attracts attention and probably causes people to talk about the carelessness of druggists.

The truth is druggists are not careless. We take it that every day in the week the country over they are filling thousands of prescriptions, and one hardly ever hears of a mistake. There are plenty of bottles in a drug store which contain poisonous stuff, but these are not turned up and poured in at random. Your prescription druggist does his work well and does it carefully. After reading of the one druggist who went wrong in two cases you can take your prescription to any reputable druggist and be quite certain you will get exactly what that prescription calls for.

Why Mosley Is Attacked

England has trouble enough with Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the black-shirted Fascists, and Mosley in turn appears to have trouble enough with the anti-Fascists who wear clothes of the ordinary variety. Only a few days ago London police had a nasty time breaking up a parade by Mosley, the reason being the procession had been deliberately planned so it would pass through the Jewish section of the East End. The police decided it was not going that way, and as usual the police had their way. More recently Sir Oswald Mosley launched another great public meeting at Liverpool and in a van with loud-speaking equipment he drove to the midst of a crowd of some 8,000 people, but most of them were anti-Fascist. Mosley was struck with a stone and the meeting broke up as the police took charge and made arrests.

The fact that Sir Samuel Hoare, Home Secretary, intervened and caused the Fascist demonstration in London to alter its original plan of passing through the Jewish section of the city is significant. The Fascist movement in Britain is anti-Jewish. Mosley and those associated with him object to—and here we quote from "The Fascist" (London):

> "The presence of Jews as citizens on an equality in the British Empire. The citizenship of the 'naturalized' Jew is unfortunately in this country a matter of established law. I (Mosley) and those supporting me desire to alter this 'matter-of-state-established' for the good of our country and our race."

That is quite plain, and Mosley means the Fascists intend to deprive the Jewish folk of the rights as British citizens. Possibly he would approve of them living in the ghetto, herded together by themselves in such a way that they might possibly be tolerated in the country but not recognized as citizens. That aim of the Fascists may be the explanation of the violent attacks which have been made against Mosley and his cohorts both in London and Liverpool. The Jewish people have long found asylum in Britain or British possessions or in the British Empire, and Mosley will find he is butting his head against a stone wall when he seeks to change that order.

Hen Lays 1,000 Eggs

At Vineland, New Jersey, there is one of those egg-laying stations where well-bred hens are gathered together for the purpose of making records. Everything is efficient as can be around that place, and the hen which has now become famous has only a number, 30-6. In the scientific atmosphere in which she lives and does her work this hen probably does not know who she is; has no recollection of her mother or her brothers and sisters or aunts or uncles. She is just number 30-6.

But she has gone places and done things. For the first time in the history of hendom this White Leghorn has reached the point where a hen has laid 1,000 eggs. Perhaps they get a good price for the eggs from such a hen, but if they went at 30 cents a dozen it would mean that in her life-time this Leghorn has laid $30 worth of eggs, and it may be she has thus left the world richer and better than when she entered, which is said to be the chief aim and object in living.

Of course that is all new. Never did we bother with such things on Lot Four, Concession Ten. Gathering the eggs there was one of the lesser chores and part of the business was in being smarter than the hen that had found an odd and a new place to lay her eggs. But as to which hen had actually laid an egg we knew only in a general way. If some one had happened to be around when a hen was cackling then that hen stood a fair chance of gaining a reputation as a fair enough layer. We admit being a trifle puzzled by this new-fangled system which can ring a bell when a hen has laid 1,000 eggs. We figure it would take a man with a pretty fair education working with a set of books and a bottle of ink and a desk to keep the records straight, and on the Tenth we are certain as can be grandfather would have found something else for him to do. There was something of the pioneer left in him and he was rather partial to the form of work which produced the maximum of muscular development and the minimum of surplus lard upon the ribs. We are sure as can be he never would have tolerated a person putting down marks in a book to show how many eggs a hen had laid. But it may be there is more in this new way of doing business than we suspect. We are certain no person living along the Tenth could have told with a degree of accuracy that a hen had just completed laying her 1,000th egg. Most of them probably never had a chance to live long enough to get into any such figure, for increasing age always had a way of decreasing the length of time between the present and the chopping block.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Premier Aberhart says that politics is a game and the way he plays it there are evidently no rules.

That Chinese engine-driver who stole a munition train from the Japanese should be made a general without delay.

By this time it must have begun to faintly dawn upon the Japanese people that the world at large is not admiring their actions in China.

There is one thing to be said about plowing matches. They certainly stir up the country—or at least large sections of it.

An Eastern Ontario man boasts that he has been voting for 80 years. He certainly should know how to mark his ballot in the right place, if not in the right way.

Angus Dickson was elected to the Legislature in Perth last week and the next night his barn burned to the ground. That is the sort of twist fate takes every now and then.

A Chatham man is experimenting with growing cotton. The politicians overlooked a bet there. None of them offered to do anything for the cotton-growers of the province.

More ballots were found in an Ops township poll than there were voters on the list and we imagine that was a rather embarrassing discovery for the election officials.

The United States has ordered thirteen new multi-engined bombing planes. Those flying fortresses will cost two and a half million dollars, just a drop in the ocean of armament expense.

The electors of Dufferin-Simcoe and Frontenac-Addington hadn't finished their first sigh of satisfaction over the fact that the provincial election was over when they were informed they would have to face Federal by-elections next month.

CONFESSION

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When it came to Thanksgiving Day, I vowed to put my chores away, and be a thankful guy; I'd count the good things that I had, and from them be a trifle glad, and let my thoughts run high.

¶ But there were things that should be done, I thumbed them over one by one, I'd take the fly doors down; the flies won't bother me much more, most folk had pulled theirs down before, mine was the last in town.

¶ Before I start on jobs like that, I wonder where the tools are at, I have to hunt some more; my searching takes me far too long, my way of keeping things is wrong, I borrow things next door.

¶ And then I knew I had to change, location of the kitchen range, before it turned too cold; the pipes were stuck and held with rust, and two of them they up and bust, I guess they're rather old.

¶ Before I got things up again, I'd called in three good neighbor men, the three men got it done; I pinched my leg going through the door, said words I never used before, gouged sections from my thumb.

¶ I pitched in paper, chips and straw, and found the stove just wouldn't draw, my neighbors didn't stay; I mind the lofty plans I'd made, but somehow they all got mislaid—upon Thanksgiving Day.

WITH THE question of the German colonies bobbing up every now and then it should be of interest to know that south-west Africa which was invaded and wrested from the Germans by General Louis Both during the Great War is bigger than France and twice the size of Italy. Its population is estimated at about 267,000 of which only 31,600 are European. Of these 40 per cent. are of German origin and the remainder Dutch and British.

Large tracts of the country are uninhabited and almost uninhabitable. There are some 3,980 farms with an average area of 32 square miles. But even on such huge farms as these it is often difficult to make a living, while in a great drought the yield of the land is practically nothing.

South-West Africa was recently described by a South African politician as "a land fit for only bushmen and goats." Another description was "a slag heap—mile after mile of desolation." Travellers along its coast see nothing but barren wastes.

To colonise it cost Germany $150,000,000 and the lives of 2,000 officers and men. The native population was decimated during years of fighting. Although the natives themselves had been constantly at war before the white invasion, although they stoned murderers to death and burned women guilty of adultery at the stake they still retain bitter hatred of Germany's brutal colonisation methods.

Evidence was taken by the British government in 1918 of barbarous floggings, bayonettings, and rape and of General von Trotha's notorious order to wipe out the whole race of Hereros. The capture of the country by the South Africans was regarded by the natives as liberation.

Ice Packs and Death.

A STORY from Kingston, Jamaica, says that an ice pack as a cure for death reached almost fad proportions there before Kingston doctors discouraged the practice. It was even suggested that the reviving properties were to be found exclusively in the ice supplied by a particular company.

It all began with the "first death" of "Mother" Jones who in August was pronounced dead by two constables and according to the custom in the hot season was packed in ice to await burial. Five hours later the 90-year-old negress terrified her mourners by rising from her coffin. Later she gave an elaborate description of heaven where she said there were no men.

A month after her "first" death Mother Jones died for the second time and officials of the poorhouse where the negress was taken after her sojourn in "heaven" said there would be no return this time.

Since the "resurrection" doctors have frowned upon the suggestion that the ice-packs had anything to do with Mother Jones' recovery and go on to say that normally such treatment would expedite, rather than postpone death.

The Legislative council of Trinidad evidently believes in preparedness, and in keeping in step with the rest of the world in the matter of rearmament. Recently the council voted $32,000 for new rifles to replace the obsolete weapons now used by the island's military forces. He takes no chances.

He Takes No Chances.

Ontario Voted For Three-Ringed Circus

Dynamic Has Beaten the Static Again; Hepburn Won Because He Kept Moving

(From the Montreal Star)

THE DYNAMIC has beaten the static again— this time in Ontario. Aspiring politicians everywhere might well take note. In this chronically disturbed era, the people greatly prefer public men who do things to those who don't. They readily forgive a ruler who makes mistakes if he makes them trying actively to better the condition of his fellow-citizens. The one thing they will not tolerate is indefiniteness, inaction and a dignified retirement into the Victorian sanctuary of laissez-faire.

Hepburn kept moving. He moved so fast that it was difficult at any given time to tell just where he stood. But that did not really matter because, before it became necessary to "locate" him, he had moved on. Still, the great thing was that he acted. He thought the Quebec Power contracts were unfair. But he did not start a long lawsuit or open endless negotiations. He just tore them up. The Power people did not like that. The rest of us held our breath in shocked dismay. It was as lawless in its way as Japan's attack on Shanghai. How could business go on under such anarchic conditions? Whither are we drifting?"—and similar copy-book lamentations. But the people of Ontario pocketed their ill-gotten gains from reduced power rates, overlooked the methods employed to get them, and voted him back into office.

That case was typical of Hepburn methods. He found that his effort to "right an old wrong" in the case of the distribution of school funds was unpopular. Any other leader would either have felt bound to fight it through to prove his courage and consistency, or else have turned and twisted and soft-pedalled to shake off the ghost. But not "Mitch." He simply got up in the Legislature and accepted the Opposition motion of censure holus bolus. He pleaded "guilty" and stopped the trial. "Consistency, thou art—paste!" But he won the election.

His startling leap from radicalism—a la Roebuck—to high Tory anti-Lewisism—a la General Motors—was the most sensational of his career. But it out-flanked the position of his opponents and kept the Tories voting for him. He was still "the daring young man on the flying trapeze, who flies through the air with the greatest of ease"—and far more than the ladies loved him for it. There is no doubt that this generation likes a politician in motion. That makes half the charm of Roosevelt and a fair proportion of the magnetism of Hitler and Mussolini. The day of the "stuffed shirt" statesman is over—at least temporarily.

Ontario has voted overwhelmingly for a continuation of its "three-ring circus." It has not the smallest idea what startling novelties the management have in view for the second performance, but the audience is quite certain that in any case they will be much better than anything the tame, cautious, consistent and conservative Earl Rowe could offer.

So resounding a personal victory must be very gratifying to Mr. Hepburn. He was not only the leader of the Government—he was also the sole issue. The people were voting for or against "Hepburn." He will not have to share his success with even the Liberal organization, for the Federal party was by no means hearty in its support of the still unrepentant and unreturned Prodigal Son who just a few months ago was boasting that he was "not a Mackenzie King Liberal." Indeed, the Federal Premier did not swing onto the tail of the band-wagon until the very last day before polling.

It is probably not too much to say that the Hepburn victory is no more a party victory than was the Duplessis victory in Quebec. We can, indeed go farther and say that the policies pursued by these two non-party Premiers have of late been remarkably similar. We may see in this a promise that these two old Provinces will get together and establish a bulwark against some of the more flighty and unconsidered attacks in less stable sections of the Dominion on our established institutions and national unity.

In fact, if we cannot yet have a National Government at Ottawa—a Government strong enough to settle all our problems — we can hope to have understudies of the same in these two Provinces; and out of their co-operation there may come the inspiration and the leadership for a real National Government of the Dominion.

Making Joyful Noises in a Church

Claims There Is Plenty of Authority For It; But Selection of Hours Is Another Matter

(St. Thomas Times Journal)

IT REMAINS to be seen if Rev. E. N. Kulbeck of Grace Tabernacle, Woodstock, will go to jail rather than pay fine and costs amounting to $21.75 for allowing or creating a disturbance by noisy services late at night. Mr. Kulbeck expects federal or provincial authorities to defer or quash the sentence.

The Woodstock pastor made a rather cynical address to Magistrate McCrimmon in court, particularly as to other types of noises which are permitted, but if he has another say in the matter we would suggest that he quote Psalms 66.1; 81.1; 95.1 and 98.6. Not once but four times are worshippers enjoined "to make a joyful noise unto the Lord." It is contained in each of these four Psalms. There is no restriction there as to the time when the noises should be made, nor is any limit placed upon the volume of sound—simply to make a joyful noise. Presbyterians, we know, worship in a dignified and sedate manner, but even Mr. McCrimmon might have been constrained to waive conviction and content himself with a friendly and fraternal admonition to tone down the transports of joy, the paeans of praise, toward the hour when less enthusiastic Christians want to go to sleep.

Even General William Booth, who pioneered in joyful noises to God with tinkling brass and sounding cymbal; kept these things within reasonable hours.

Man With Two Guns Never Existed

Wild Men of the West Largely a Myth; Guns Used Inferior to Those Made To-day

(From the Edmonton Journal)

THESE ARE hard times on old and cherished institutions. One of the latest of these to fall is the old western "two-gun-man" myth.

Everyone knows him, this hard-fighting, quick-shooting hero, who rides every week out of the pages of the "western" magazines. He was regarded as a vanished but picturesque figure of the West of the last century. Now it seems he never was! Not that many of the picturesque figures of western fiction did not have some historical foundation, but that the amazing feats of gunmanship attributed to them were impossible owing to the types of gun they used. It appears the story of the man who could shoot the buttons off a vest without disturbing the vest's occupant, or of the cowboy who made a practice of shooting cigarettes from the lips of his friends had no more reliable foundation than the imagination of some writer.

Actually, the best marksman of the old West was a man whose name is unknown to the readers of western fiction. He was Major Frank North, commanding officer of the Pawnee Scouts, a body of Indian soldiers that served during the Indian campaigns.

His brother, Captain Luther North, relates that the test of good marksmanship in the frontier days was the ability to put six revolver shots through an envelope pinned on a wall 10 paces away from the marksman. A stamp was pasted in the centre of this envelope and one of the shots had to pass through this stamp. The envelope was five inches square and the stamp one inch. Not a difficult or impressive feat with the guns available today. Captain North admits, but difficult in the old days with the revolvers then in use.

Not only were the amazing feats of marksmanship attributed to the early cattlemen and rangers impossible, he states, but the gun toter who carried two or more revolvers strapped to his belt and upon the slightest provocation pulled both and fired them simultaneously is also a myth. It is almost impossible to use two guns effectively at the same time, and the average frontier revolver weighed nearly four pounds! A man with two or three of these on his belt would be as heavily weighed down as if he wore armor.

Apparently these wonderful yarns originated in the mind of a man who deserves a lasting place in the history of American literature. He had a remarkable imagination—and an almost total ignorance of his subject. He wrote under the name "Ned Buntline." His real name was Edward Z. C. Judson.

But the characters about which his stories were woven were real enough, and probably were in many ways as picturesque as the characters which grace the pages of fiction. Deadwood Dick, Wild Bill Hickok, Calamity Jane, and a score of others, semi-legendary figures who are likely to be remembered as long as civilization on this continent endures.

CASE OF EMERGENCY.

(Pearson's Weekly)

I WAS DOWN at Southampton the other day to meet several celebrities arriving in this country from America aboard the Normandie. And one of the most interesting people I met was the ship's carpenter.

While wandering about the luxury liner, I found myself in the carpenter's shop. And there, lying against a bulkhead, I saw a newly-made coffin.

The carpenter laughed at my dismay. "Were glad to say that we haven't had cause to use the coffin on this journey," he said. "But we always have one ready in case of emergency."

I learned that, unknown to most ocean travellers, every big liner carries a couple of coffins and its ship's doctor is a qualified embalmer. There are not so many burials at sea as before. The relatives of people who die abroad liners prefer, usually, for the body to be landed at the home port.

MODERATE SPEED.

(Ottawa Journal)

AT THIS SEASON especially drivers of motor vehicles should make common sense govern their speed, should not assume that thirty in the city and fifty in the country are safe and reasonable.

There are leaves on the pavements and with a touch of rain the conditions are ideal for a skid. Darkness comes early, and the dusk sees in the cities the heavy homegoing traffic while children still are using the streets. Caution is doubly imperative if mishaps and tragedies are to be avoided.

The legal maximum speeds are permitted only under conditions that make them safe. If a driver going at twenty on a narrow city street skids on the leaves and hits a child he cannot plead in defence that he was well within the speed limit. Reckless driving is driving that is dangerous under existing circumstance.

Canada Is Training Her Youth To Take Places In Forest Mines, Farms And Industries

Youths Between 18 And 30 Get Allowances While Receiving Tuition

By HOWARD GEERING
Central Press Canadian Staff Writer

Toronto, Oct. 12—Countless young men in Canada, without work and without money, will soon be placed in industry as a result of the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training program being sponsored by the federal government and Canada's nine provinces. Designed to prepare young men between 18 and 30 for work in various industries, the plan is to pay those enrolled in training classes while they learn one of a half-dozen trades.

In Ontario alone at least 1,000 unemployed youths are expected to be trained for positions in mining, agriculture, forestry and industrial tradesin addition to the 350 young girls who are enrolled in the home training course. Other provinces in the Dominion are training young men for similar work, some having been in operation for several months.

It is expected 500 young men will be trained in Ontario under the agriculture division, with boys being paid while receiving actual experience on carefully selected farms.

Youths taking the farms training course will be placed on farms, one to each county, and any unemployed youth registered through the employment service of Canada, with the exception of farmer's sons are eligible. At the end of the six-month training period, graduates will be placed on farms at fair wages.

Positions in small mines will be found for mining course graduates and the youths will be in actual charge all year round, according to the Ontario department of labor. The mining branch of the training program will be divided into three classifications, surveying, mineralogy and assaying. Only 50 boys will be admitted to this course and because of the nature of their work all must have senior matriculation. In addition each must pass a health examination.

The graduates of this course, while in actual charge at the small mines, will not be left entirely to their own resources but will be visited periodically by a professional miner. Should they pass the required number of examinations the graduates may eventually become full-fledged mining engineers.

Forestry Plan Proved

Following closely the plan which has been in effect in British Columbia for two years, Ontario has also instituted a course in forestry work. Because weather conditions play an important part in this work the 350 youths engaged in the course have been working in Ontario's northern woods for some time. The course will end about Nov 15. So far they have been engaged in repairing forestry telephone lines, cutting trails and repairing roads. In the event of forest fire breaking out in the locality where they are working, they are immediately pressed into service as firefighters.

In British Columbia where the forestry training course has been in effect for two years, over 1,000 young men between the ages of 18 and 30 will be trained this year. Last year with $100,000 to spend on the course, the government had 509 persons enrolled. This year $200,000 was granted for the work and the number in the course doubled. Under the heading Young Men's Forestry Training and under the leadership of forest rangers, the trainees are paid an amount which usually clears them about $25 a month after board has been paid.

At Sudbury, Ont., where 50 young men are working, they have been divided into four groups, three of which are living under canvas. One group of six has been carrying out improvements on the forestry branch headquarters at Rutter, Ont., while another group has been placing a telephone line through the bush between Burwash forestry post and Second Tower.

Train Industrial Workers

Under the heading, "Apprentices in Industry," which will include potential factory or industrial employees, the provincial government will place men on various industrial centres following a 13-week training course to meet the demands of specific industries. In this, as in all courses, a living allowance has been granted those taking the course.

Employers will be asked to take their full quota of apprentices as outlined under the Apprenticeship Act of 1928 and those wishing additional apprentices will be sent a half dozen graduates from which to make their selection. The employer and the boy will be required to sign a contract guaranteeing the youth a reasonable amount of work.

At the end of the various courses —some are for 13 months while others are ofor six months—graduates will be given certificates or diplomas based on the qualifications and character of the graduate. Following their being found positions in work of a similar nature a follow-up system will be instituted by the government to observe their progress in actual gainful employment.

OBITUARY

MRS. THEODORE THORNTON

The death of Mrs. Theodore Thornton occurred at her home, 563 Harvey street, Monday following an extended illness. She was 62 years of age.

Formerly Mary Elizabeth Chynoweth, she was born at Kinmount, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Chynoweth. For the past 45 years she had resided in this city. She was a member of George Street United Church.

Surviving are her husband, one son, John, and two daughters, Mary A. and Esther J., all of this city; three brothers, John of Wainwright, Alberta; Richard of Saskatchewan, and Joseph of Coboconk; and two sisters, Mrs. Harper Mills and Mrs. Norman Cooper, both of Wainwright. Two brothers, William and James, and one sister, Mrs. George Tremaine, predeceased her.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 2.30 o'clock from the residence to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. M. C. Parr officiating.

An exceptionally interesting event took place in Colborne recently when Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Brooks celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at a surprise party arranged by their immediate family.

To honour their parents and to extend their sincere good wishes for the future years, came children, grandchildren, brothers, sisters and friends, when it was found that only one present, Mrs. Archie Hall, of Peterborough, was a guest at her sister's wedding fifty years ago.

After congratulations, the guests were shown to the dining room, where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. The table, which was centred by an unusually attractive two-story wedding cake, was made beautiful by quantities of autumn flowers and leaves.

Had Eight Children.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks were married at Trent River, and of their family of eight children, six are living, as well as seventeen grandchildren. These include Bruce of Port Hope, Victor of Kitchener, (Rose), Mrs. A. B. Ferguson of Detroit, Alfred of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Albert of Peterborough, and (Lily) Mrs. Henry Turner, also of Peterborough.

Many beautiful gifts were given to Mr. and Mrs. Brooks on this happy occasion, among which was a very fine radio and lamp, but they cherish most, the loving and sincere wishes expressed by children and friends.

TOO MANY DRUNKS IN PETERBOROUGH MAGISTRATE SAYS

"There are too many intoxication cases for a city this size. It should not average above one case a day," asserted O. A. Langley, K.C., to-day when he found a post-holiday docket that included four "drunks."

His Worship imposed a fine of $50 and $4.50 costs or one month's imprisonment on Frederick Gillies, a transient who pleaded guilty as a second offender to an intoxication charge. Two other transients were ordered to pay $10 and $4.50 costs each with the option of 10 days on pleading guilty to being drunk. A fourth inebriate, James Wheaton, was fined $10 and $4.50 costs or 7 days.

Joseph Leo Kelly entered a plea of guilty to a reckless driving charge and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs. His driving permit was cancelled 2 months. It was stated by police, the defendant was involved in an accident on Water street on October 10, that involved damages under the value of ten dollars.

Theft of Old Iron.

Three young men were arraigned on charges of stealing old iron, the property of the Peterborough Lumber Company Ltd., on October 11. Frederick Judge, 17, Douro Township, and Harold Goodell both pleaded guilty to the charge. On application of the Crown they were remanded to October 18, bail being set in the sum of $500 in each instance.

Joseph Delore, 28, of this city jointly charged with the offence, pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence to October 18. On a further charge of stealing a box stove and two cook stoves, he entered a plea of "not guilty" and was remanded to the same date.

Roland Miles, Dummer Township, appeared on a remand on a plea of "not guilty" to a charge of breaking and entering by night the butcher shop of Ross Payne. Because "further investigation is being made" the Crown obtained a further remand until October 19 bail being set in the sum of $1,500.

When two other cases, which have been pending since July and August respectively, were called, and the parties concerned were not ready to go on His Worship ordered peremptory adjournments.

By consent of the Crown he adjourned a charge of false pretences against William D. McIlwaine involving the sum of $361.25 until October 25; and also adjourned a reckless driving charge against Donald O'Connor until October 19, warning that both cases must go on when next called. "It is my duty as magistrate to dispose of charges and not let them run on and on," His Worship commented.

the pavement was slippery. Skidding anglewise into the rear of the truck, the car was badly damaged, the right side being almost completely ripped off. Other passengers in the car who included Jean McNevin of R.R. 3, Keene and James Heron, 575 Stewart street, Peterborough, and the driver of the car, escaped injury.

Proceeding towards Peterborough on Highway 7 about six miles east of the city at 3 a.m. Sunday a car allegedly driven by William Gardiner, Carleton Place, was badly wrecked when it got out of control and overturned. The driver and his three passengers were not injured.

According to police, Gardiner was proceeding along a new section of pavement which is open to one-way traffic only, when he struck a boulder and his car proceeded for a considerable distance out of control before dropping off the pavement at the south side of the highway.

Two other cars were damaged in an accident on the Burleigh road near Burleigh Falls at 12.30 a.m. Sunday. A car said to be owned by Robert McQuaid, Mount Julian, was badly damaged about the left front and rear wheels and left running board as the result of allegedly sideswiping another vehicle owned by H Starr, 861 Water street, city.

The Starr car had damages to the left front wheel, it is stated.

The accidents were all investigated by Provincial Motorcycle Traffic Constables Lloyd McClure and Gordon Broughton.

Donald Coughlin sustained minor cuts to the forehead when the truck which he was driving was in a collision with a car driven by John Faux of R.R. No. 10, Peterborough. The two vehicles collided at the corner of Douro street and Armour Road.

SLIGHT FIRE DAMAGE

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 12—Faulty ignition was thought to be the cause of a fire which broke out in the engine of a car owned by John Younger. Centre street, on Saturday evening. Mr. Younger came out of his house and stepped on the starter at 8.30 p.m. and as the engine fired flames shot out from under the hood of the car. With the aid of neighbors the first was extinguished as the fire department arrived in the scene.

HOLY NAME PARADE IS HELD AT DOURO

Eight hundred members of Holy Name Societies of the district took part in the annual diocesan parade at Douro Sunday afternoon. Other parishes represented were Norwood, Hastings, Campbellford, Lakefield, Lindsay, Peterborough and Young's Point.

Rev. J. J. Garvey of Lakefield preached the special sermon for the occasion during the services in St. Joseph's Church. His theme was the need of charity in all men's relations, love of God and love of one's neighbor. The Catholic Church had always championed the rights of labor. In the middle ages the guild system had received the sanction of the church, and that system was more effective than any labor union existing today, because the guilds were permeated with Christian ideals and thought. Formation of unions had been recommended by Pope Leo XIIII. in his encyclical as means by which labor could present its claims and rights. On the other hand, the Church was opposed to Communism because it was a false system of materialism, sprung from the abuses of capitalism. Its basic philosophy of materialism was a barren content offering no hope of happiness because it was purely materialistic.

Father Garvey spoke briefly of the duties of labor, and expressed the conviction that no labor union could attain its end unless founded on Christian justice and charity.

Bishop O'Connor conducted the concluding benediction.

Rich Creamy Corn Soup Is Delightful Dish To Serve

Some Splendid Ideas in Making Of Soup Offered By Mary Moore

By MARY MOORE

Did you hear that delightful radio presentation of Alice in Wonderland the other Sunday night? Our little Marianne (Nearly 5 now) chortled over every scene of it and was constantly waiting for the Mock Turtle to sing "Soup, Soup, Beeyootiful Soup" and all the soup in our house this week has been "Beeyootiful" whether it really was or not!

The most authoritative subject on which I could enlarge today is how to manage a 12-room house with your husband and maid sick at once (I didn't say together—I don't like the thought of the snickers from some of you irreverent ones)—two very lively youngsters to care for, a b-rrrrring telephone with voices demanding the doctor's services, who have to be put off politely,—but there is no use running on—except to admit the proudest job I did yet was to connect up the radio in his room. Sticking the furnace and dressing an infected ear are other little incidentals. Who did the washing? I did, and before nine o'clock it was hung out—but my sister-in-law, bless her forever, took all the flat things home and returned them next day beautifully smooth and neat from her ironer.

But what I should be telling you of is the rich creamy corn soup we made from 2 dozen cobs of corn, too old to eat from the cob or do anything else with that I know of.

(from overripe corn)

Cut the kernels off the cobs raw and put through food chopper. The kernels from eight cobs should be added to 3 cups whole or skim milk and put in top of double boiler together and stood over simmering water for one hour, then force through strainer. Add 1 tablespoon butter, and ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon salt and return to top of double boiler, and let stand over simmering water until heated through. Your soup will be thick and nourishing if you have the patience and energy to work forcing the pulp through the strainer. The color is rich cream and the flavor is yours to describe. Make lots—there will be repeat orders.

Mostly everybody thinks they know how to make tomato soup, but is yours always successful? Mine isn't unless I follow these rules:

Savory Tomato Soup

The underripe tomatoes that come in these late fall baskets of them can be used for this, also those that aren't perfect for slicing or salads. Two lbs. fresh (or 1 large can) tomatoes, 1 pint water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 small onion sliced, 2 cloves, half a bay leaf, shake of pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 tablespoon parsley or 1 teaspoon celery salt. Stew all together 15 minutes, stirring occasionally then strain. Melt 2 tablespoons butter with 1 tablespoon flour and when blended pour over the hot strained soup and stir until it thickens a very little.

The following soup is not original with me, my sister who has a far greater flair for cooking than I is to be credited with the curry idea.

Cream of Tomato and Corn Soup

Two tablespoons each, onion, butter, flour, 2 cups stewed or fresh tomatoes, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups water, 1 cup canned or cooked fresh corn, ½ cup cream or top milk, 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon sugar ¼ teaspoon fresh curry powder. Put butter and onion in saucepan and stir and cook for 5 minutes. Add flour and cook until slightly brown, then add remaining ingredients except cream and yolk, and cook gently for 30 minutes. Force through sieve getting as much pulp as possible from the corn, and just before serving add the cream beaten stiff into which the egg yolk has been folded—do not stir this down into the soup too much and it makes an effective garnish.

Sometimes I sneak about ¼ of the mushrooms out of a fresh pound—for although I like them best fried they make such good soup.

Emem's Mushroom Soup

Chop finely ¼ lb. washed and scrubbed (but not peeled) mushrooms and saute them very slowly in 2 tablespoons best butter— putting cover on to keep steam in between stirring times—five minutes is enough to wilt them and soak them a little with the butter if they are chopped finely enough. Add ½ teaspoon salt and if the pan is big enough add 3 cups whole milk and let come to scalding point. Melt 1 more tablespoon best butter and to it add 1½ tablespoons flour and stir until blended then pour over the hot soup and stir until it thickens somewhat. Add ¼ teaspoon pepper and let this stand in top of double boiler for about 15 minutes before serving to heat it through and make it mellow, milling the skin that forms on top back into the soup with the Dover beater.

French Vegetable Soup

Now without being afraid of you contradicting me I know that if an average Canadian housewife was about to make vegetable soup without any meat or bones, she would chop up the vegetables and add them to water and add some salt and hope to goodness they'd taste like something resembling soup when done. Well they won't, so the French housewife has much to offer in soup lore—economical too.

Finely chop into ¼ inch dice, 2 large crisp carrots, 1 large onion, 4 large stick celery, 1 very small turnip (not more than ½ cup), ½ cup chopped green or yellow beans or shelled out bread or lima beans (fresh). Saute these in large frying pan in about ¼ cup butter for about 10 minutes or until the vegetables are distinctly browned and crispy. Then add 1 quart water and season with 1½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon parsley chopped finely and boil for 1½ hours at simmering point, covered. This has a nice rich brown appearance because of the sauteing and is grand for both children and adults for an economical lunch or supper dish.

Tomatoes and onions stewed together and added to sauteed mushrooms and seasoned make grand soup, but the formula is still a secret so I can't be any more explicit than that—I tasted the soup made by its originator (a laboratory masculine cook—awesome creature) and since it is potentially for commercial use its mystery must remain untold. Make up your own concoction, the mixture is impossible to ruin, no matter what your proportion.

I hie me to my own soup pot for the sick siege isn't over yet.

Pear and Grape Marmalade

Prepare equal weights of Bartlett pears and Concord grapes, by washing and stemming the grapes, and letting them simmer until soft in enough water to keep them from burning. Press through sieve. Add this to the pears which have been pared, cored and cut in thin slices. Simmer, cooking until pear slices are tender. Then measure mixture and add ¾ cup sugar for each cup of fruit. Cook until mixture is thick like marmalade, stirring almost constantly to prevent burning. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal with paraffin.

Grape Butter (economical)

Using equal amounts of apples and purple grapes, prepare by washing and stemming only (apples may be cut in quarters) and put over slow heat with 2 cups water to each 6 quarts of the mixed fruit. Cook, stirring, until tender, then force through strong sieve and add half as much sugar as pulp. Cook slowly, stirring almost constantly until thick.

For Spice Butter add 1 cup vinegar and ¼ cup mixed ground spices to 6 lbs. grape and apple pulp and 3 lbs. sugar.

Both of the above were tried this Fall and found especially good.

Fashion Spotlight Again On Blonds

The tipoff came today from hairdressers at the annual fall and winter coiffure revue put on by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers Association.

The reason, they said, was because golden glitter is the keynote of the fall color picture. Black gowns, for daytime and evening, are accented with embroidery, belts and jewelry of gold.

Gold sequins lavishly trim evening dresses, sparkle on veils, evening bags and hats. Gold metallic cloth is a style leader.

Therefore, a gold head to match one's gold belt. That's the idea as the hairdressers see it.

And the gold in the hair this fall is yellow gold—not platinum.

In general the style trend in hair is an "upward and outward" line achieved with shallow waves and many curls placed to give an upward sweeping effect.

Facts and Fancies

Little Things in Cakes.

There are many small details to be watched in making cakes. For example, there is the matter of cleaning off the spoon and cleaning down the sides of the bowl carefully and thoroughly after creaming the butter. If this is not done, these flecks of butter and sugar may be mixed in the batter the last minute and cause sorry lumps through the cake batter.

In the matter of sifting the flour before measuring, someone said recently that she never sifted the flour, because she felt the additional flour was needed. Recipes to-day call for accurate measuring, and if flour is not sifted before measuring too much flour will be used in the cake, resulting in one which has a dry, rather bready texture.

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE?

THERE are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

Men, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell cat the rest of the time.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I note in the cookery page of September 11, 1936, that you are not overly fond of according leeway to "Pickles."

You struck an answering chord in my culinary breast. Although engaged in the art of feeding large and small families for years in Scotland, converting vegetables into pickles encroached on a mere percentage of the wholetime job. Indeed, so unique did I consider this angle, that when my lady requested me to reduce surplus green tomatoes into chutney to sell at a forthcoming "Red Cross" bazaar I considered it a feather in my cap.

When I was told my sealers of "dope" sold like the proverbial hot cakes and a "repeat performance" required for disappointed customers, you will begin to surmise the hue of aforesaid quill, Uh-Huh!—a replica of "Redwing".

Since engaging in the newer type of food conversion in Canada, I have recollection of small children "kicking up a dust" for their quota of pickle—no matter how tasty the bill of fare. Beetfoot used to be our standby at the family board, and it was received with indifference by we younger members, proving your contention that pickles for healthy young appetites are superfluous.

Being no longer young the munificent display of pickling materials on the market on current Saturday seemed to make a more than ordinary appeal, and I felt sorry for the producers having to take such quantities home.

Cauliflower caught me napping, and I'd love to tuck away a quart spaler full for Christmas. The rudiments for pickling same float in nebulous form through my cranium: Sprinkle with salt; let stand? Boil for some time? Pour vinegar over? Hot or cold? I'm bunkered. Will you clarify my vague ideas? You will? Thank you.—"Table Talk."

ANSWER: You letter is delightful for the interesting atmosphere you give to your activities.

Pickled Cauliflower

Select choice white firm heads of cauliflower and separate into small flowerets (cutting some of the large flowerets in half if necessary to keep them of uniform size.) Let stand overnight in a brine of 1 cup salt to 1 gallon water—this covers 6 quarts prepared flowerets. In the morning drain. Pour boiling water over the cauliflower and boil for 3 minutes then immediately drain. Prepare about 1 gallon cider vinegar by boiling with two sticks cinnamon, 1 tablespoon each pepper berries and whole cloves, and two or three hot chilli peppers for 10 minutes. Pack parboiled cauliflower in clean crock or sterile jars and pour over boiling hot vinegar without straining it. Adjust lids or put on cover. Let stand about 2 weeks before using. If desired sweet add 2 lbs. white sugar to the vinegar before boiling.

We hope this suits your purpose and that we will continue to be friends through the cookery page.

QUESTION: Would you please send me a recipe for Fruit Sauce consisting of pears, peaches, plums, grapes, etc. I would also like one for Celery Relish. Thanking you very much, Mrs. T. A.

ANSWER: I am not familiar with what you mention, but have a conserve recipe in which the fruit remains chunky, but does not contain native grapes. California grapes could be added to it though if you desire. Native grapes would color the whole thing and make it very uninteresting to look at.

Fruit Conserve

Prepare equal parts of pears, plums (green gages are preferable) and peaches and if desired California grapes. Measure and add ¾ the amount of sugar and let stand for 1 hour adding the juice of 3 lemons and stirring the juice and sugar in well to prevent the fruit discoloring. Put over low heat with asbestos mat and bring slowly to boiling point, and boil stirring very frequently until of desired consistency—not less than ½ hour. Pour into sterile jars and seal.

The following recipe for Tutti-Fruitti might intrigue you:

Tutti-Fruitti

Put one pint brandy into a stone jar, add the various fruits as they come in season. To each quart fruit add the same quantity of sugar, and stir the mixture each morning until all the fruit has been added. Raspberries, strawberries, apricots, peaches, cherries and pineapples are the best to use.

Celery Relish

Three cups chopped celery, (including some of the small, tender leaves), 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon mustard, ½ cup vinegar. Mix all together and let stand overnight. (This will keep for some time without cooking). However, it is better to bring to boiling point, boil 8 minutes, and pour into sterile jars and seal.

We hope you like all these recipes and that we can be of help to you again.

QUESTION: I am a newcomer, to have a nice recipe for Doughnuts—something quite rich. I have oddly tried one batch of doughnuts and they were a flop. Now if you can conveniently do so I should love to receive at least one recipe from you. Thanking you for past favors and hoping to hear from you soon.—F. O. C.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Doughnuts

One cup sugar, 2½ tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg, 1½ teaspoons salt, flour to roll out. Cream the butter and add one-half the sugar. Beat egg until light, add remaining sugar to them and combine mixtures. Add 3½ cups sifted flour, sifted with baking powder, salt and spices; then enough more flour to make dough stiff enough to roll. Toss one-third of this mixture on floured board, knead slightly, pat and roll out to one-fourth inch thickness. Shape with floured doughnut cutter, fry in deep fat at 360 deg. Fahr. Doughnuts should rise quickly to top and be turned when under side is golden. While still hot drop in bag containing sugar and shake about to coat them with it.

This recipe is recommended. Do let us help you whenever you have cooking difficulties.

QUESTION: How can I make my preserves so that they are not too sweet? For peaches, pears and plums I use 1 cup of sugar to each cup of water for the syrup and for citron I use no water but one cup sugar and 2 cups pulp. Could I possibly use less sugar without fear of spoilage? We do like the fruit but these always seems to be too much sweet. Please help me as soon as possible.—Mrs. P. C. L.

ANSWER: Sugar does help to preserve but should not be depended upon, so you may do fruit as I do mine using 1 cup sugar to 2 cups water if the peaches are ripe which they should be. I think it is better to use two-thirds sugar to every cup of water when preserving plums.

All sterilizing precautions should be strictly observed—jars sterilized 20 minutes with rubbers, tops and rings. Use kitchen pinchers, sterilized, to pick these things out of the boiling water, pour syrup over fruit packed in jars, boiling hot. Sterilize required time, 25 minutes for quarts of both peaches, pears, but 30 minutes for plums if they have the stones in. At boiling point having water come to within 2 inches of tops of jars. Hoping these suggestions are what you require. Less sugar may be used with citron too.

All These Meals Have Been Served, Eaten and Approved

SUNDAY (economical)
Mock Duck (see note)
Franconia Potatoes
Vegetable Marrow with Cheese Sauce
Celery Salad
Apples Baked in Red Cinnamon Syrup
Gingerbread Muffins Coffee

Note: Mock Duck as most of us old-timers know is Round Steak spread with bread stuffing containing some sage and onion, and rolled and tied and baked, being basted often from juice in pan and extra boiling water in which some butter has been melted. But what is usually wrong with it is that it becomes too dry in the baking. Answer: Cover it tightly, the best utensil for this is a Dutch oven if you are lucky enough to have one. A little catsup added to the pan gravy is a nice addition about 15 minutes before it is finished. Allow three hours for a mock duck made with a 3-lb. slice from the round. Bake the potatoes around the Mock Duck basting them when you do the meat and sprinkling them with paprika to help them brown.

MONDAY (familiar guests)

Like tender hearts of CELERY, the choice, young TEA LEAVES bring FLAVOR

Blended and packed in Canada

EXPERIENCE taught you, years ago, that the overgrown, heavy stalks of celery are tasteless. The tender heart has the flavor.

Think of this when you're buying tea. In a package of tea, you buy the leaves of the tea plant. As with celery, the small, young leaves have the flavor.

In every package of Tender Leaf Tea, you get those choice, young leaves. No coarse, heavy leaves are included for bulk.

What this means was shown when 14 leading brands of tea were tested by a new scientific method. The aroma was actually measured. Only one, more expensive brand, equaled Tender Leaf Tea. Some of the remaining brands had as little as one-sixth as much aroma.

Your grocer has Tender Leaf Tea in two convenient sizes. The name suggests how good it is—ask for Tender Leaf Tea!

Norton-Leslie.

The Gospel Hall at the corner of McDonnel and Water streets was beautifully decorated with ferns, palms and autumn flowers for the wedding at eleven o'clock on Monday, Thanksgiving Day, of Helen Viola, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Leslie, of 403 Park Hill Road, and Charles George Norton, only son of G. S. Norton, of 501 Park Hill Road, and the late Mrs. Norton. Evangelist F. R. Peer of Belleville, performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by W. Lloyd, wore a gown of Royal blue chiffon velvet, made on princess lines with long fitted sleeves, puffed at the shoulders, and ending in points over the hands. The rolled collar was finished with a large brilliant clasp at the neck. She wore a velvet halo hat with nose veil, matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses, baby's breath and maidenhair fern.

Miss Rosamund Castle, as bridesmaid, was gowned in wine velvet, with short puffed sleeves and brilliant clasp trimming the high neckline. Her velvet halo and accessories matched her dress, and her bouquet was of Briarcliff roses and fern.

Roy Ellison attended the groom as best man, and the ushers were Walter Ellison and George Meeks. The wedding music was played by Mrs. G. V. Hartshorn, and Mrs. J. MacConnell sang during the signing of the register.

A reception was given later in the basement of the hall. Mr. Norton and his bride left later in the afternoon for a short honeymoon trip, the latter wearing a green crepe dress, with matching hat, brown tweed coat and brown accessories. On their return they will reside at 515 Park Hill Road.

Group A, W.M.S. George St. ... Presents Mrs. Hagerman Gift

Mrs. G. Baird, George Street, was hostess on Thursday evening to Group A of the W.M.S. of George Street United church, and their friends for the regular October meeting. The leader, Mrs. Ruth Reynolds presided. The meeting opened by the singing of a hymn with violin accompaniment by Mrs. E. G. Wellwood, followed by prayer by Mrs. H. McHoull. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. H. A. Bonney. The roll call was answered by each member repeating a verse of scripture. Miss Geneva Sedgwick sang two beautiful solos and Mrs. A. F. Hagerman gave a humorous reading entitled "Sally Ann's Experience," which was much enjoyed. A special feature of the evening was the presentation of a needlepoint hand bang to Mrs. A. F. Hagerman a very faithful and valuable member of the group who is leaving shortly to reside in London. The presentation was made by Mrs. E. G. Wellwood on behalf of the group, expressing the regret of losing such a devoted and faithful member of the group and wishing her every success in her new home in London. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. H. McHoull social convenor and a social time was spent during which the hostess was tendered a hearty vote of thanks by Mrs. J. Fairurother.

OPEN PYRENEES FRONTIER THREAT IS SOFT PEDALLED

LONDON, Oct. 12—(CP)—Great Britain and France continued their search to-day for a new approach to the problem of Italian intervention in Spain, with less emphasis on previous hints France would open the Pyrenees frontier.

A slump in the London stock market yesterday and an apparent veering from the political Left in France's Cantonal elections on Sunday were factors in the negotiations.

One report said Great Britain was urging Paris not to open the Spanish frontier to the flow of arms and munitions for the Valencia government. The French cabinet was reported split on this issue.

There was a growing likelihood the question of foreign soldiery in Spain would be submitted to the 27-nation non-intervention committee in London. This action was one counter-proposal Italy made Saturday in rejecting the invitation to three-power talks.

Foreign Secretary Eden, after week-ending with the King in Balmoral Castle, returned to London and received French Ambassador Charles Corbin to-day in an effort to co-ordinate the policy of the two governments. The cabinet will review the position to-morrow. It was believed a cautious policy would be decided upon, precluding any step likely to increase the chances of war.

In a speech last night, Air Secretary Viscount Swinton said "Britain cannot be the policeman of the world." He denounced persons who "urge the government to go here and there, barging in every quarrel."

Duce Strikes Back.

Mussolini, who has been sending reinforcements to Italy's North African colony, Libya, took a dig today at Great Britain over the Admiralty's retraction of a report October 4 that the destroyer Basilisk had been the object of a torpedo attack off the Spanish eastern coast.

Mussolini turned journalist in his Milan newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, to chide London and Paris newspapermen for playing up details of what he—and previously the Admiralty—called an imaginary submarine attack.

The Premier reviewed the instigations Italy was guilty of this piracy and then printed the Admiralty communique to the effect that the attack never occurred.

Mussolini concluded that this

The new remedy for RHEUMATISM

It becomes increasingly obvious that the Rheumatic Sufferers of Canada have for long been seeking a new remedy for their nagging aches and pains. How else can you account for the enthusiastic welcome given to Fynnon Salt, a combination of natural salts of the Earth?

Wherever anyone who is subject to the tortures of Rheumatic Pains decides to take Fynnon Salt regularly, life for him begins to wear a brighter aspect. No longer do the pain-racked joints defy his efforts to secure longed for relief because the corrective ingredients in Fynnon Salt—Sodium, Potassium, Lithium—just won't be defied. Uric Acid can't remain in the system—it has to move on, move out.

And sufferers who have turned to Fynnon Salt have had good cause to bless the day they gave it a trial. Wherever the subject of Rheumatic Pains crops up, you will hear the praises of Fynnon Salt sung. Take a ½ teaspoonful of Fynnon Salt in a tumblerful of water every morning for your Rheumatic Pains, Sciatica, Lumbago, etc., and you will soon be reciting that life has become bright and cheerful again. Your druggist sells Fynnon Salt, the proven British remedy, 75¢ a large package. If you have any difficulty getting supplies, write: Laurentian Agencies, St. Gabriel St., Montreal. 1

'mid-autumn night's dream' in which 'a dolphin was mistaken for a torpedo' probably resulted from somebody's having imbibed too much.

It appeared France would not take any decisive step without the full backing of Great Britain, thus increasing the possibility that the "volunteers" issue would be laid before the non-intervention committee for a sub-committee to handle.

Another possible solution of the impasse would be for Great Britain and France to invite Germany into the talks. The Italian reply said Rome would not enter the discussions without Germany.

OBITUARY

JAMES STEVENSON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 12.—Friends at Hastings received the sad news of the death of Mr. James Stevenson at Belmont, Manitoba. The late Mr. Stevenson was born in this district in 1856, the son of Wm. Stevenson and Sarah Free. At the age of thirty-one years he went to Assiniboia, where he homesteaded a year, then to Winnipeg with Daniel A. Smith (later Lord Strathcona) on his farm at Silver Heights.

When Lord Strathcona sold to Mr. Streval the services of Mr. Stevenson were retained as foreman of the estate for some time. He then took a position with the Cowan Construction Co. and the Canadian White Co. which he held until railway construction ceased about 1931 when he retired in Winnipeg. It was here in Winnipeg he suffered a stroke and after several months in the hospital he went to the home of his brother, Dr. William Stevenson at Belmont, Manitoba, where loving car was given during the past two years of suffering.

The end came on Saturday, October 2nd. The remains were brought to the home of Mr. George F. Stevenson on Wednesday, October 6th, where funeral services were conducted on Thursday, October 7th, by the Rev. Mr. Harris of Havelock. Interment was made in the family plot at the Trent Valley Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. George Pickens, Edward McConnel, John Free, Raymond Free, Alfred Ford and James Goacher.

MRS. M. H. SKUCE

Word was received in Peterborough over the week-end of the death at her home in Redlands Calif., of Mrs. M. H. Skuce, formerly Miss Lena Stewart, a native of Otonabee Township and well-known to a number of residents of this city and district. Mrs. Skuce's death followed a lingering illness and was not altogether unexpected. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Noble Stewart, early settlers of Otonabee Township but had resided in California for some years. Besides her husband there are surviving three sisters and two brothers. Mrs. George Hubbard, Redlands, Calif.; Mrs. Irwin Hatherly, Millbrook; Mrs. George Letheur, Peterborough; Evans Stewart, Peterborough and Harry Stewart, Louisville, Ky. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot at Redlands, Calif., following a service on Monday.

MRS. HUGH SHANNON.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Oct. 12. — An old and very highly respected resident of Marmora Township passed away on Saturday, October 9, at 10 a.m. in the person of Mrs. Hugh Shannon. The deceased, who was in her 84th year had resided all her life in Marmora, and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tallon. She was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends for her neighborliness and kindly disposition. Besides her sorrowing husband she leaves to mourn her loss five daughter, Mrs. C. J. Munn, Timmins, Mrs. Denis McGrath, Marmora Township, Mrs. Hahold R. Keast, Copper Cliff, Mrs. Martin Skelly, Rochester, N.Y., Mrs. L. P. Hughes, Marmora Township, and one son Donald on the homestead. A son Lawlor predeceased her two years ago. She is also survived by twenty-two grandchildren. The deceased had been in failing health for four years, and her death was not unexpected.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held from her late residence on Tuesday morning at ten o'clock to Sacred Heart Church, where Solemn High Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father G. Martin. Interment was made in Sacred Heart Cemetery. The pall-bearers were: John Connors, Joseph Shannon, Dan Shannon, Charles Cook, John O'Neill, Bert Crawford.

MRS. MARY HUTCHINSON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Oct. 12.—Residents of Janetville were shocked on Thursday morning, October 7 when it was learned that Mrs. George Hutchison had passed peacefully away while she slept during the night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Deyell where she has resided since the death of her husband five years ago.

Mrs. Hutchison had enjoyed her usual good health but a few days previous to her death suffered a slight heart attack when Dr. White of Lindsay was called. She was not confined to bed and nothing serious was anticipated.

Mrs. Hutchison was formerly Miss Mary Ellen Armstrong daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Christie Armstrong and was born on her father's farm just west of the village 75 years ago.

The deceased has been totally blind for a number of years but this great affliction was born with Christian fortitude and one of her chief pleasures was the music and religious services on the radio.

Mrs. Hutchison was a member of the United Church and a faithful attendant. She was devoted to her home and family and was an indulgent grandmother. Her passing will be mourned by a host of friends and neighbours.

Left to cherish her memory are two daughter (Mossie), Mrs. Howard Lancaster of Kingston and (Cloris) Mrs. Charles Deyell, also three grandchildren, Russell, Carl and Helen Deyell, and one sister, Mrs. James Mayesmith of Lindsay. She was predeceased by four sisters, Mrs. Ben McGill of Janetville, Mrs. John Ingram of Toronto, Mrs. William Anderson of Peterborough and Miss Margaret Armstrong of Janetville, also three brothers James, Christie and John, all of Janetville.

The funeral was held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Deyell on Saturday afternoon, October 9 at 2.30 p.m. and was largely attended. The services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. M. A. Bury, assisted by Rev. W. H. V. Walker, pastor of the local Presbyterian Church. Two favorite hymns were used "Rock of Ages" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul". Rev. Mr. Walker read the 23rd Psalm and paid tribute to the life of the deceased.

The pall-bearers were old neighbours, Messrs. William Armstrong, Andrew McGill, John Burn, Robert McDowell, Robert Argue and William Hanna. The floral tributes were many and very beautiful.

Interment was made at Janetville United Church cemetery. Friends attended the funeral from Toronto, Peterborough, Reaboro and Lindsay.

JANETVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brackinbridge and son Arnold of Millbrook, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howe and were accompanied home by Mrs. Mary Hall and Mrs. Jack Perrin, who had been enjoying a week's vacation here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted McGill and daughters, Misses Dorothy and Beryl have moved to the farm of Mr. Allan McGill just south of the village. The villagers extend a hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. McGill and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bradburn and Mr. and Mrs. B. Hyland and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Gilson at Sonya on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Burn and sons John and Jim and Miss Margaret Purdon spuent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Quantrill of Elizabethville.

out neutral flags painted on the top probably caused the Japanese pilots to think they contained high-ranking Chinese officers.

Anti-Aircraft Busy.

While the Japanese army launched an aerial bombardment on the Chinese Chapei sector on the northern fringe of the International settlement, a spokesman said that, weather permitting, the long overdue Japanese push would get underway soon. The duel between the Japanese bombers and the Chinese anti-aircraft guns, newly emplaced in Chapei, re-exposed the foreign areas to heightened danger. The bombardment with its surprise attack from the Chinese defence guns started while the streets were jammed with crowds. The Japanese planes skirted the downtown areas with their deadly loads while the Chinese shells burst over the settlement.

With fighting between China and Japan entering its third month at Shanghai to-morrow, the Japanese spokesman claim the Japanese tactics of softening the Chinese lines with withering bombardments were achieving results and considerable numbers of Chinese soldiers were surrendering.

A Chinese spokesman announced a Japanese attempt to land large number of troops at Yanglichiao, five miles west of Liuho on the Yangtze river, ended in failure. It was obvious, the spokesman said, the Japanese were attempting to drive in from the rear of the Chinese lines but the Chinese were prepared to prevent future attempts.

While the Japanese naval spokesman was reciting a list of bombing raids, he was constantly interrupted by the blasts as the Japanese bombers rained explosives on Chapei. Among the major bombing he announced were military trains, railroad stations and arsenals over a wide area of Central and South China. A fleet of "24" Japanese planes bombed Nanking, the capital.

NEW IMPROVED PALMOLIVE HAS NEW MILDNESS, NEW LOVELY PERFUME, NEW HARDNESS—LASTS LONGER

"DONALD AND I USE Palmolive EVERY DAY..."

SAYS Lucia M. Dampsy, prominent child psychologist

"Palmolive is the perfect beauty treatment," Mrs. Dampsy adds. "The blending of Palm and Olive Oils makes the lather wonderfully cleansing and refreshing."

And so, like millions of women everywhere, Mrs. Dampsy agrees with Dr. Dafoe. Like the guardians of the lovely Dionne Quins, she has selected Palmolive exclusively for use in her home.

Mothers! Choose Palmolive Now

Why should your children use any soap less gentle, less soothing than the soap chosen for the Dionnes? Why not decide now, that only Palmolive, made with Olive Oil, will ever touch your children's tender skin!

And you too, who want to keep your complexion smooth and lovely through the years! Why not give your skin the beauty care that only Palmolive's careful blend of Olive and Palm Oils can give. Why not use safe, pure, gentle Palmolive for your own face and bath!

DR. DAFOE SAYS:

"At the time of the birth of the Dionne Quintuplets, and for sometime afterward, they were bathed in Olive Oil... When the time arrived for soap and water baths, we selected Palmolive Soap exclusively for daily use in bathing these famous babies."

Oxen For Plowing Match

PERCUS — A yoke of long-horned oxen, weighing about 3,125 pounds will draw an 86-year-old plough, under the direction of Lemuel Vanalckle, 83, at the 24th International Ploughing Match, which starts here today. No reins are needed as the oxen respond to spoken directions.

An Absolutely Honest Man

CHATHAM, Ont., Oct. 12.—Constable Steve Currie has found the absolutely honest man. A motorist appeared at police headquarters here and reported he had parked his automobile in a prohibited area. Asked to produce his parking ticket he said he had not received one. No fine was collected.

SONS OF ITALY FORM LODGE IN PETERBORO'

To stimulate their realization of citizenship, to uphold the government, the laws and institutions of Canada, and at the same time to contribute to Canadian life some larger measure of the spirit of their own race, were ideals enunciated as the objective of the recently organized lodge of the Sons of Italy at their inaugural dinner at the Empress Hotel Monday night.

To be absorbed into the population of Canada, to perform the duties and enjoy the rights of citizenship were mentioned as the ordinary and essential course, but, it was said, Italians could still retain a pride in the best traditions of the land of their origin, and strive to bring out the best in themselves, especially in the sphere of the spirit and intellect, in the ultimate desire of making a better contribution to the development of this country.

Frank Asta presided at the after dinner program, and among those present were Mayor Macdonald, Hon. G. N. Gordon, Dr. E. M. Orough, Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick and Ed. Hyland, and a group of members of the Order from Toronto and Brantford.

An impressive feature of the evening was its musical background. Francis Strano played a violin solo "The Maple Leaf Forever" accompanied by Mrs Edith Cremasco.

Maestro Moschetti of Florence and his wife, Signora Moschetti, formerly of Rome, played a piano duet "Settimino" by Beethoven, and their encore was Liszt's second Hungarian Rhapsody played with verve and vitality and a fine appreciation of its changing moods. The audience of men and women listened raptly to the Maestro and his wife who came to Canada three months ago and are planning a concert tour in the United States and Canada.

Grand Opera

Signora Sauro of Toronto sang an aria from Lucia de Lammermoor by Donezetti displaying excellent vocal equipment as a coloratura soprano, fluid tone and a dramatic gift that enhanced her singing. Her encore was described as a popular song, but Italian popular songs must be vastly different from the tin-pan alley product. Obviously it required the talent of a singer of Signora Sauro to sing it as charmingly as she did.

Empress banquet regulars would probably be surprised at an after dinner program in which Beethoven was the first offering and the Liszt Rhapsody was merely an encore, to say nothing of the grand opera selection.

In expressing his good wishes to the new lodge, Mayor Macdonald said, in part, "Signora Sauro told me she has been here thirty years. That makes her as good a Canadian as I am. Many of you have been born in Peterborough. I can understand that there are some things you would like to remember from the old land, and that is one reason why you have formed your society. I am glad to pay a tribute to the people of Peterborough who are of Italian descent, and to assure you that we have no better citizens. They are honest and industrious, and very few of them have ever given any trouble. They came here and worked and built homes and they have lived as good Canadian citizens."

Rev. Sauro said the applicants for membership in the Sons of Italy were required to declare—"I believe in the government of Canada and I promise to defend its laws and institutions. I believe in the great traditions of the land of my origin, and that the best contribution I can make to Canadian life is through those traditions that gave fame to Italy." We believe that Italy has given the world much of the best in music, painting, literature, in fact all the arts. Shelley, Browning and other British poets went to Italy to saturate themselves in its art to do something better in their turn for their own country. Wagner spent a considerable time in Italy to bring out what was best in him."

Revolutionized World

Hon. G. N. Gordon recalled that the great Italian inventor, Marconi, had received invaluable assistance from the people of Canada in giving radio to the world. In Great Britain and the United States companies owning the transatlantic cable services were an impediment to his progress, but Canada co-operated with Marconi in establishing the great system of wireless transmission which might be regarded as having revolutionized the world.

"When the ancestors of Mayor Macdonald and myself were living in caves and wearing skins the people of Italy had the finest civilization of that age. Roman law became the basis of our Canadian common law under which we are all living today. Our citizens of Italian origin come from a nation of Caesars. They have a heritage to be proud of. They left their own land just as the forefathers of Mayor Macdonald and mine did because there was not sufficient bread, and they have taken their place here as good Canadian citizens."

Frank Asta mentioned some of the great names in Italian history which stirred the self-respect of every man who traced his ancestry to that country. Some of them were Columbus, Amerigo Vespucci, Marco Polo; Michaelangelo, Raffaelle, Giotto, Leonardo da Vinci; Rossini, Bellini, Onchielli, Leoncavallo, Mascagni, Verdi; Dante, Manzoni, D'Annunzio, Leopardo; Garibaldi, Cavour, Pepe, Mazzini; modern singers such as Caruso, Martinelli, Nino Martini, Beonnelli; Tetrazzini, Lucrezia Bori; Rosa Ponselle; and Italian musicians ranked among the greatest of the world's orchestral conductors.

The only toast was to the King followed by a similar honor to King Victor Immanuel "especially for the older people," and the evening closed with the singing of "Giovinezzi" and "God Save the King." The choral singing was all in Italian, "Santa Lucia," "La Spagnola" and the hymn of the Order entitled "L'Inno Di Figli D'Italia" for which Maestro Moschetti recently wrote new music which was sung for the first time last night.

GEORGE F. BROWN

George F. Brown, formerly of the vaudeville and musical comedy stage, suffered the loss of one leg from a fracture and infection caused by an accident in one of his acts. Under that handicap he has struggled along on a lower plane and is still facing the world on the fall fair circuit.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, October 12

Very propitious are the planetary forces affecting this day. There will be much activity in all departments of life—business, finance, employment, trade and personal affairs. It is an excellent time to focus all the energies and faculties on the attainment of high goals. There is assurance of popular prestige and gratification in the realm of heart's desire.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year that should mark the achievements of the highest goals and the fondest hopes and wishes for progress, prosperity, prestige, pleasure, happiness and full contentment. It is a year in which all the forces and faculties should be focused and directed upon noble objectives.

A child born on this day may be equipped with all the forces and faculties to make for itself a place of renown. It may be proud, noble, benevolent and may attain power, prestige and happiness.

For Wednesday, October 13

Although there may be definite factors for stabilization of the affairs on this day, yet there are some astral menaces of perplexities, problems and undercurrent forces to call for deliberation and sound judgment. This also calls for guarded speech and care in writings. An elder is ready to help with wise counsel, but there may be sorrow or anxiety about an elderly person.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be given an opportunity this coming year for putting their affairs upon a definitely solid basis. And while there may be problems and perplexities, even elements of subtlety and duplicity to cope with, yet elders may be expected to stand by with wise counsel. Possessions or values of old interests should increase. There may be a sorrow, but in all matters guard the speech and writings.

A child born on this day may have certain solid and profound depths of character and mind, although it may be restive and peculiar, probably mystically inclined. It should be trained early to control its caustic tongue.

RUSSIAN THISTLE COVERS WIDE AREA OF DROUGHT LAND

John Carter, 33 Lansdowne Avenue, Peterborough, has returned from Western Canada, where he visited his sister, Mrs. William English, at Corning, in Southern Saskatchewan. Mr. Carter also visited in Brandon, Winnipeg and other western cities, spending a couple of weeks in Manitoba. He reports that the crops in Manitoba are very similar to crops in Ontario this year. The vegetable gardens also appeared to be good.

His sister resides in the heart of the drought area, and Mr. Carter states that the people of Southern Saskatchewan particularly have gone through some terrible times in the past seven years. Crops were sown this year as it appeared there would be favorable conditions. Through lack of rain the crops were burnt up. Many fields of wheat were only three or four inches high. The Russian Thistle then covered the country growing in solid masses a couple of feet high. Grasshoppers flew in from United States by the million and devoured everything but Russian Thistle. In some districts the Army Worm ate up the Russian Thistle. Dust storms were common all summer, with the appearance when approaching of a heavy rain storm. The people were quite disappointed when they did not receive the rain, but all that came was dust and gravel which wiped out the daylight. Automobiles would have to stop where they were when storms came up.

The last week in September was wet through practically all the drought areas and moisture has gone down about a foot in every district. A heavy snowstorm came on September 29, about six inches of snow falling where Mr. Carter was visiting. This snow melted and was followed by daily rains and cool weather, until a further snow storm on October 5. Farmers feel now that the drought has been broken and that there is a chance of a crop next year. It is almost impossible to grow crops unless there is rain in the fall to provide moisture for subsoil for crops in summer to offset heat.

RANGERS PARADED TO RIFLE RANGES

Prince of Wales' Rangers under command of Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Dewart, M.C., paraded one hundred strong on Thanksgiving Day to fire their musketry, Vickers Machine gun and revolver classifications at the rifle ranges on the old Norwood Road. Lieut. E. Falkner was in charge at the butts. Eighteen of the officers, N.C.O.'s and men carried home Thanksgiving turkeys as recognition of their good marksmanship in the day's competition shoots. Major James Turnbull, O.C. "C" Company took double honors. He won a turkey as high man in the special revolver shoot for officers and besides won the officers' sweepstakes. Lieut. Neil Gemmell was runner-up in the officers' contest. Among the N.C.O.'s and men who figured among the prize-winners, were included: Corporal McGill, Corporal Davidson, Bandsman Gallagher, and Private Leggett, all of H.Q. Company; C.-S.-M. Lockhart, "A" Company; C.-S.-M. Griffin, Sergt. Davis, Private Young, "B" Company; C.-S.-M. Westran, Q.-M.-S. Chapman, Sergt. Ridyard, Corp. Mason, "C" Company; C.-S.-M. McNabb, Sergt. Constable, Corp. Deyell and Private Hawkins.

RICHARD FOBERT

The death of Richard Fobert followed a lengthy period of declining health in St. Joseph's Hospital Monday morning. He was 75 years of age.

Born in Quebec, he was son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fobert. The greater part of his life was spent in this city. He was a member of the Sacred Heart Church. He made his home with his niece, Mrs. Blodgett, 556 Romaine street. Unmarried, he leaves no immediate survivors.

The funeral will be held Wednesday morning from the Duffus Funeral Parlors at 8.45 o'clock to the Sacred Heart Church for a service at 9 a.m. Interment will be made in St. Peter's Cemetery.

MRS. ELIZA WELLS

Succumbing to a lengthy illness, Mrs. Eliza Wells passed away Saturday. She was 82 years of age.

Born in Haliburton, she came to this city from Lindsay 20 years ago. One daughter, Mrs. Thomas Hill of Montreal, and a grandson, Maitland Wells of this city, survive.

The funeral was held Monday from the Lane and Eano Funeral Home, Rev. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's United Church officiating. Interment was made in the Zion cemetery.

MRS. FRANCES EYRES

In declining health of late, Mrs. Frances A. Eyres passed away at her home 168 Antrim street Saturday.

Widow of the late William Eyres, she was born in Cavan, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Coe. Thirty years ago she came to reside here from Cavan. A member of George Street United Church, she was active in the Missionary Society.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Staples at home and Mrs. Whitfield of Toronto.

The funeral was held Monday at 2.30 o'clock from the Comstock Funeral Home, Rev. M. C. Parr officiating. Interment was made in the St. John's Cemetery at Ida.

Vimy Painting

Depicting the scene at the Vimy Memorial, France, just at the time of the unveiling in the summer of 1936, the ABOVE painting by a well-known Ontario artist, Delimarion Thumb (In private life, Mrs. G. Rutherford) of Blenheim, Ontario, was one of the most striking at an exhibition of sixty-five pictures by the artist on view over the weekend in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. Rutherford was commissioned by the Alberta Provincial Council of the Canadian Legion to paint the unveiling ceremony, and travelled across to France with the veterans for that purpose.

Amateur Night
St. Alphonsus Lyceum.

A large crowd attended the Amateur Night—first of the season—in St. Alphonsus Lyceum on Friday evening. The Rev. Father P. J. Kelly acted as chairman, the judges for the various numbers being picked from the audience.

A good deal of talent was displayed in every selection. Mrs. Cremasco, who is totally blind, delighted the audience with her exquisite playing, and was justly awarded first prize. Little Lenore Gordon's clever dancing again won her applause, and Regina De Carlo showed much promise also.

Artists taking part were: Mrs. Cremasco, piano solo; Fred Montgomery and Tom Tobin, guitar and violin; Gwen and Helen Friendship, songs, "Violets," "Abide With Me"; Ruth Lanafield, Catherine Graham and Eileen Campbell, playlet; Bill Guerin, guitar solo, vocal solo; Jim Goselin, tap dance; Lillian Harris, song, dance; Regina DeCarlo, dance; Fred Montgomery, guitar solo, solo; Frank Strano, violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Cremasco at the piano; Lenore Gordon, dance and song; Margaret Cavaggia, recitation, "Columbus"; Fred Montgomery, guitar solo, vocal solo; Alberta Ryan, Leona Grisdale, Marian O'Connor, Rita Nolan, Lucy Rochetta, Doreen Schell, Teresa Caccavilla, song; Jack O'Dette, harmonia and piano; Marion Downer, piano solo.

The prizewinners and prizes awarded were: 1st, Mrs. Cremasco, roasting pan; 2nd, Francis Strano, lamp; 3rd, Marion Downer, platter; 4th, Lenore Gordon, dishes; 5th, Gwen and Helen Friendship, dress; 6th, Jim Goselin, sweater.

The next Amateur concert will be held on October 22.

Group E.W.M.S. George St.
Entertained by Mrs. Wildman.

Mrs. Scott Wildman entertained the members of Group E of the Women's Missionary Society, George Street United Church, for their October meeting.

Conducted by the leader, Mrs. J. H. Vance, the opening exercises included the Bible lesson given by Mrs. Cunningham, and prayer by Mrs. Morrow. The roll call was responded to with a verse on Thanksgiving.

An interesting talk was delivered by Mrs. Morton on the new study book. A solo by Miss Gladys Mills, "It May Not Be on the Mountain Top," was much enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess and the committee in charge.

Shower for Bride.

A delightful shower was held at the home of Mrs. Reader, Gladstone Avenue, by the girls of the Finishing Department of the Brinton Carpet Company in honor of a bride of the month, Miss Ruth Reader. Games were enjoyed and delicious refreshments served.

The guests included: The Misses Ruth Reader, Lulu Morley, Mary Parks, Barbara Headip, Lillian Glaum, Marion Lansfield, Marion Bartley, Madge McFarlane, Helen McFarlane, Marjorie Leether, Edith Hodson, Hazel Jones, Kay Hartwick, Eleanor Tubman, Dorothy Ridyard, Helen Close, Eleanor Gibson, Frances Rosenburg, Mrs. Parks. Those who were unable to be present, but who sent gifts included: Kay Aldred, Marjorie Hartwick, Barbara Farr, Lily McFarlane, Alma Stenton, Dorothy Pringle, Mrs. H. Wilson, Mrs. R. Dorrell, Mrs. W. Miller and Mrs. Adams.

Mrs. Mesley Addresses
W.M.S. Knox United.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S. of Knox United church was held in the church parlors, with the president, Mrs. A. E. Sanderson in charge.

The guest speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Mesley, who attended the Ontario summer school held at Whitby. A brief outline was given of the work carried on there, followed by a short talk on the study book, "A New Church Faces a New World," Dr. Jesse Arnup.

During the devotional period, in charge of Mrs. Lewis, who was also heard in a much enjoyed solo, passages of Scripture were given by Mrs. Thexton, and Mrs. J. McCurdy, with prayer by Mrs. J. J. Morrison. A paper on Thanksgiving was read by Miss L. Armstrong.

Nassau Tea
Successful Affair.

The ladies of the rural section, assisted by the Sunshine Circle of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid, held a most delightful and successful autumn tea and country store at the Orange Hall, Nassau, this past week.

The spacious hall was turned into a veritable bower of beauty with the profusion of cut flowers, and particularly attractive, was the platform with the numerous baskets and vases of autumn blooms. Calendulas arranged in a silver basket on a reflector, and tall candles of a paler shade in silver holders at opposite corners gave a most pleasing effect to the table covered with a cloth of Irish lace. The country store had a very attractive display of farm produce and bitter sweet.

The guests were received by Mrs. Frank Lockington assisted by Miss Lena Eakins. The general convenors were, Mrs. Kenneth Mahood for the tea, and Mrs. George Lockington for the country store. Mrs. Clarence Fairbairn and Mrs. Arthur Seal acted as treasurers.

Tea was poured by Mesdames R. Campbell, Edwin Bulmer, D. Campbell, W. Lander Ferguson. The ladies assisting were: Mesdames, Albert Bulmer, Elmer Campbell, Vernon Campbell, Donald Dickson, George Johnston, Kenneth Mahood and Miss Agnes Bell. Mrs. Clarence Mann and Mrs. A. C. Curtis were in charge of refreshments with Mrs. Stothard in charge of the tea. The country store was in the capable hands of Mrs. George Lockington and Mrs. Archie Bulmer. Mrs. W. A. Cochrane was in charge of transportation.

A short program added to the enjoyment of the afternoon. Little Shirley Fitzsimmons, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Adam Sands, sang and tap-danced. Joan Magee, Shirley King and Margaret Fleet each gave a piano solo.

Bound-Emerson.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 12.—A wedding of much local interest was that solemnized recently in Detroit, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emerson, McNichols Road, when their daughter, Louise Barbara, became the bride of Keith Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bound, of Redford Avenue, Detroit, and formerly of Havelock.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Hannah before the fireplace, which was prettily decorated with Autumn leaves.

The bride entered on the arm of her father to Tannhauser's Wedding March played by Miss Marjorie Bound, sister of the groom. The bride was charming in a gown of ivory satin and lace; she wore a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a shower of Talisman roses.

The bride was attended by Miss Millicent Emerson, who wore a blue lace frock, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and baby mums.

Mr. Robert Montgomery performed the duties of best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for about forty guests.

Mrs. Emerson wore a dress of blue crepe with a corsage of Autumn flowers, while Mrs. Bound wore brown crepe with a corsage of flowers.

The young couple left on a boat trip to Cleveland, the bride wearing rust wool crepe with tan accessories.

On their return they will reside at 8612 Chaffonte Avenue, Detroit.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD CONFERENCE

Eighty young people of Belleville, Havelock and this city gathered at the Bethany Tabernacle here on Monday for a sectional rally of the Christian and Missionary Alliance. Addresses by Rev. David Mason of Toronto and Victor Griffin, a missionary on leave from the African Congo, featured the occasion.

Rev. Mason urged his hearers to live up to their profession of Christianity in order that no reproach might come to it, speaking to the afternoon gathering. Interesting personal experiences in his mission work among the African natives were related by Mr. Griffin. He told of instances in which he used successfully the teaching of the Christian gospel to deliver natives from what appeared to be insanity but what was actually the product of a "demon obsession".

Dorothy Hooey, vice-president of the Peterborough group, presided over the rally. At supper, a reunion of those who attended the young peoples' camp at Kawartha Park over the Labor Day week-end was effected. Max Warne afforded a vocal solo and a group of singers among the Belleville delegation entertained.

Rev. W. McArthur, Tabernacle pastor, officiated at the evening service.

Y.W. Sports Events Keenly Contested

The Y.W.C.A. junior sports hour Saturday was closely contested by the school teams. In the shuttle relay race, Queen Alex won from Central, Prince of Wales won from St. Mary's, King George won from Queen Mary.

In the diving competition: Queen Alex., Joan Patterson, Phyllis Liddell; Convent St. Mary's, Grace Schiarrizza, Angelino De Carlo. Tied for third: Central, Doris Tremaine, Agnes Heal; King George, Ruth Harris, Loraine Wilshaw. Fourth: Prince of Wales, Loreen Bradley, Beulah Milburn. Fifth: Confederation, Delina Anderson, Jean Millard.

Gymn classes opened this week and all swimmers were invited to join one of the winter classes or clubs.

LUCKY OMEN

CHARLOTTETOWN—(CP). — Ira Douglas of the Plant and Vegetable Branch, Department of Agriculture, should be having lots of luck these days. At Hazelbrook, P.E.I., on business he found a stalk of alsike clover, bearing three, four and five leaves. Mr. Douglas transplanted the stalk in a pot to retain as a "curiosity."

From The Stage To Fall Fairs Bitter Measure Of Adversity To Veteran Trouper G. Brown

On Way Up The Vaudeville Ladder Brown Fell And Broke His Leg

From the musical comedy stage to sketchy spots in the fall fair circuit of this district has been fate's bitter measure of adversity to George F. Brown, father of Freddie Brown the little boy for whose maltreatment Alex Wislow was recently sentenced in Montreal to thirty years in prison.

"If you say anything about me, go easy on that case," Mr. Brown requested an Examiner reporter at Warkworth last Friday. "I trusted that fellow Wislow, and so did my wife, and since this thing happened I have remembered that I never felt quite sure of him. There was a doubt in my mind, but it was kind of vague, and there was nothing definite about it. Now I know we made a mistake and it has cost me quite a bit of money travelling between Toronto and Montreal and attending the trial of Wislow."

Like all troupers of the theatre and men in other avenues of public life, George Brown has a voluminous scrap book that traces old engagements throughout the United States and Canada from coast to coast. Those were his full years when he was tasting success which eventually broadened into featured billing as one of the co-stars "King and Brown" in the musical comedy "Broken Toys."

On his way up the vaudeville ladder Mr. Brown broke his left leg in a barrel jumping act, and infection resulted in its amputation at the knee. That handicap was the beginning of the end of his stage career. He had to struggle along harder than ever, and he still keeps going, but you can't revamp the idea of "Broken Toys." The pictures of stage scenes with chorus and featured players indicate that it was smart and bright, and the press reports confirm that impression.

People who saw Mr. Brown at Warkworth, and who may see him at Norwood and Roseneath would never surmise that this crippled man met his misfortune in big time vaudeville, and that his mutilation in the loss of a leg was the heavy price he paid to the profession he loved. Fate overlook him again a few weeks ago and hurt him deeply through the strange and necessarily veiled case in the Montreal courts in which his son was shown to have been the victim of a sadist.

"It drove me nearly crazy" Mr. Brown said, "but I've got to keep going and I came up here on this circuit in a handstand act that used to be part of one of my acts in vaudeville. Ira Busking of Saskatchewan who is also handicapped like myself is starting out in the same work, and I have hopes that we will be able to team up and develop a real act."

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

WON $20 PRIZE.

Andrew Puffer of Morganston won the $20 gate prize at the Warkworth Fair Friday.

INQUEST TONIGHT.

An inquest into the death of A. B. Cunningham who died at his home on October 1, one month after being injured in a street accident, was called for eight o'clock this (Tuesday) night at the police court chambers.

POW-WOW TONIGHT.

The Red Indians of the McColl Frontenac Oil Company have a special program for their pow-wow at the Empress hotel tonight. Executives from Montreal and Toronto will be present, an extensive line of winter accessories will be displayed, and a good time is promised.

OFFICIAL RETURNS TONIGHT.

Vincent Eastwood, returning officer for the riding of Peterborough, will begin the last stage of electoral duties tonight at 7 o'clock, compiling the vote as officially reported to him by the deputy returning officers when they completed the count and locked the ballot boxes Wednesday, October 6.

CATS AND DOGS.

A disease of epidemic proportions is sweeping through the cat population of Peterborough at present, Dr. Thomas Johnston, inspector for the Humane Society, reports. Dr. Johnston in the past few weeks has been kept very busy gathering in diseased cats and humanely destroying them. Dr. Johnston also reports a greater number than ever of dogs being hit by cars, many of them injured so badly they have to be electrocuted.

PUTTING ON NEW COACHES.

T. G. M. Jamieson, uptown ticket agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been advised that the company is removing the old-fashioned coaches on the Montreal to Toronto run on the train going east from here at 11.40 a.m., and the one going west at 4.50 p.m. The old coaches are being replaced by the most recent all-steel type of bucket-seat cars.

CARS DAMAGED.

Two cars were damaged in a sideswipe collision at Aylmer and Lake Streets shortly after nine o'clock on Monday evening, according to police report. George Millard, 584 Park Street North, was proceeding south on Aylmer Street, when he was reported to have sideswiped another car being driven off Lake Street by Thomas Snowden, Otonabee Township. The cars struck near the centre of the intersection. It was raining and the pavement was slippery at the time of the accident.

"ARE SIN, DISEASE AND DEATH REAL?"

"Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday. The golden text was "The law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death" (Romans 8:2). Selections from the Bible included the following from Deuteronomy 4 39. "Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook included the following from page 415, "Immortal Mind is the only cause; therefore disease is neither a cause nor an effect. Mind in every case is the eternal God, good. Sin, disease and death have no foundations in Truth."

With The Boy Scouts

After two weeks of abnormal activity we once more settle down. It is hoped all Scouters will get a little more co-operative Scouting into their troops.

The Scout movement, like any other organization, can only succeed where all are united in a common purpose.

Last Friday night all troops met in St. John's Parish Hall and received a pep talk from Dr. G. Murray Fraser, president of the local association, and afterwards were given cash boxes and sales tags in anticipation of the Apple Day effort.

One hundred Scouts and Cubs went on the street Saturday and found a ready response from a generous public. It was regretted the apples were not up to the samples, but as the Scout motto is to smile, and whistle under all difficulties, they went out and did a good job.

At St. James' Troop, Don Benson was accepted into the troop from St. George's Cub Pack Akela Mrs. Langhorne accompanied the boy, and introduced him to Scouter Leggitt.

The Scouters' Club will be meeting Thursday night in the Sacred Heart headquarters, at 8 p.m. Please phone 3067 Wednesday night to make sure.

This month is the month of registration. It is hoped that all troops will get their books in order and send in your registration early. Don't let Peterborough always be among the last to get their registrations in.

Also this is the month for the annual meeting of the local association, the election of officers, etc. All Scout Masters and Cub Leaders are members of the local association, also all troop committeemen. And those interested in the advancement of Scouting in Peterborough. All Scout officers are urged to attend and voice their desires for the benefit of true Scouting. The date will be known definitely later, but I think it is the last Wednesday in October.

Make your notes now and come prepared.

Yours in Good Scouting.—"The Skipper."

WM. BUDD MILLER DIES AT HIS HOME

Known among a wide circle of friends in this district, William Budd Miller died at his home, 423 Dublin street, Saturday, at the age of 45 years. He had been ill about three weeks.

He was born in Lindsay, son of the late Alex Miller and Ellen Edmunds and came to this city 34 years ago. For a number of years he travelled for Swift's, and later was identified with the J. K. Hughes firm. For the past year he has been the district representative of the Burlington Refineries.

Mr. Miller was a member of the Peterborough Lodge, A.F. & A.M., and was a member of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Laura Williams, a son and a daughter, Jack and Barbara, both at home; and three sisters, Mrs. Maude Herrington of Millbrook, and Mrs. James Cruikshanks and Mrs. Percy Blade, both of this city.

The funeral was held this afternoon. A private service at the home at 1.30 o'clock was followed by a public service at the Comstock Funeral Home, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe officiating. Interment was made in Little Lake Cemetery.

Local Collegians Show Too Much Class For Visitors In Rugby Opener Here

P.C.I. Seniors opened their C.O.S.S.A. schedule here on Saturday with a 24-0 victory over Oshawa before a large crowd of fans in Riverside Park. The locals had a 12-0 lead in the first frame and were in front 19-0 at the halfway mark, adding five points in the third. They showed too much class for the visitors and were easily the better team.

The homesters [illegible] up a lot of smart football for [illegible] early in the season, though they might have added to the score. With a big lead, the Garnet and Gray gang did some experimenting on plays instead of trying too hard to pile up the count. They outclassed Oshawa in all departments and looked at least as good as the 1936 P.C.I. senior team, and probably better.

The local line was strong throughout and the backfielders turned in some neat work. Curtin did the field kicking for the winners with Thornton kicking converts three times in as many attempts following touchdowns. Kelly was throwing some fine forward passes with Creighton and Clark taking several. Kelly, Creighton, Curtin and Clark were outstanding for the winners, while none of the losers showed a great deal.

Get Early Score

Within the first three minutes, P.C.I. had a major score when Creighton went over for a touchdown after big gains by Kelly and Clark. It was converted by Thornton. Before the quarter ended, P.C.I. marched down the gridiron again, aided by a 35-yard end run by Leether, to tally another try, Creighton bucked over for the count and Thornton converted it. In the second, a Kelly-Creighton forward pass clicked for 15 yards and, after two plunges, Kelly pushed over the line for a touchdown, which Thornton converted. Later, P.C.I. completed another forward, Kelly to Clark, and another one, Kelly to Creighton, to get within kicking distance. On Curtin's kick, Creighton rouged McBrien for a point. Two more local forward passes clicked, a Kelly-Ward one netting 20 yards and one from Kelly to Clark being good for 15. Oshawa clicked on one forward before halftime.

In the third, Creighton took a 20-yard forward heave from Kelly, and Clark made 10 on an end run, but it was lost on downs later. P.C.I. intercepted a forward and drove up the field to Oshawas' 10-yard strip, with Curtin then going over for a try. It was not converted on a forward pass. For the rest of the game, Oshawa tried desperately to score—and came within three yards of it once—and P.C.I. experimented around, with neither team doing any more scoring. Oshawa tried many forward passes, a few of them clicking.

The teams:

Oshawa: Flying wing, Reed; halves, Haines, McBrien, Krasustki; quarter, McDonald; snap, Chernuik; insides, Dean, Patterson; middles, Daniels, Gray; outsides, Prigley, Morrow; alternates, Evans, Isle, Anderson, Parks, Fetcheson, Shestowki.

PUNCH-DRUNKNESS.

A visit to any large gymnasium will reveal to the observer one of the graver evils of the boxing game. It lies in the punch-drunk fighters that are seen hanging around these flistic centres begging for a handout or trying to get a job as a human punching bag for one of the present or, at least, the current crop of flistic stars.

It is not difficult to separate them from the usual crowd of hangers-on. Flattened noses, cut eyebrows, shattered mouths, muscles battered down until they hang and are distorted from the many punches that have rained upon their faces will clearly show you the subjects of this piece. There is a peculiar emptiness about the way they look at you and as they walk they teeter from the heel to the toe in the peculiar way that is only common to these men.

WHITE SOX LEADS IN CHICAGO SERIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (A.P.).—Jimmy Dykes's White Sox came within a game of winning their fifteenth Chicago championship yesterday defeating the Cubs 6 to 4 at Comiskey Park before 11,575 spectators.

The victory gave the American Leaguers three wins to two for the National League representatives, giving the Sox a chance, through another triumph to-day, to take their fourth straight city baseball crown.

HASTINGS JUNIORS SCORE 9-4 VICTORY IN LACROSSE GAME

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 12.—Cool weather and an overcast sky for most of the afternoon were not any hindrance for the guest and field day held here Monday afternoon. A good crowd were in attendance for Hastings first field day of this type. The spectators with their heavy overcoats provided a striking contrast to the numerous athletes, most of whom were attired in shorts and gym jerseys.

Harold Stevens, better known as Frank Gilbert to his radio audience was the originator and chairman of the events. Prizes, well over the value of $300.000 were presented. Mr. Stevens must receive much credit for the manner in which the field day was arranged. This was the second sports day he has provided for Hastings citizens this past summer. The other members of the committee were: J. C. Wilson, A. J. McKenty, Lew Scriver, Nelson Scriver and T. A. Coughlan, official starter.

Those winning turkeys in a draw were: Claude Hoard, Dorothy Turner, Fred Richardson, Nelson Scriver and Lew (Stubby) Scriver, all of Hastings.

Outstanding Athlete

Feature events of the afternoon were a two-mile bicycle race, a three mile road race and a lacrosse match. Art Stinson of Peterborough was the outstanding athlete of the races in the boys' and men's class, winning two firsts and a second prize. Helen Coughland and Muriel Seabrooke, both of Hastings were best in the girl's races. A boxing match, between two local youths, slated to wind up the afternoon, failed to materialize. Fairman's High Hatters orchestra of Belleville provided the music for a largely attended dance in Lynch's Hall in the evening.

Bill Sherwin, a Hastings boy who was seriously handicapped by defective vision and condition, won the hearty applause of spectators when he came in third in the three mile road race event in a field of five. A collection was taken up and presented to the boy for his efforts, as no third prize had been arranged.

Prize Winners

Girl's 100 yard dash, three entries—1, Muriel Seabrooke; 2, Helen Coughlan; 3, Betty Spooner, all of Hastings.

Boys' 100 yard dash, five entries—1, A. Stinson, Peterborough; 2, Clayton Radford, Hastings; 3, A. Lobb, Hastings.

Girl's 200 yard dash, six entries—1, Muriel Seabrooke; 2, Helen Coughlan; 3, Marg. Wilkins, all of Hastings.

3 mile road race, five entries—First prize, a $35 wrist watch won by Arnold Lobb, Hastings; 2, H. Harnden; 3, Bill Sherwin, Hastings.

Hastings Wins 9-4.

Hastings juniors took a 9 to 4 decision from Peterborough Juniors in the lacrosse match to wind up the sports for the day. Peterborough showed lack of practice and were considerably outweighed by the Hastings boys. McKee opened the scoring when he got a goal from a side shot. Peterborough tied it up when McDougal sank one a minute and a half later. Richardson gave Hastings the lead again two minutes later only to have Bowen tie it up for Petes after two minutes. Radford scored on a rebound one minute later for Hastings and Preston made it 4 to 2 for Hastings just before the first period ended when he went through alone.

Play had just started in the second period when Bowen, a Peterough player was struck on the forehead by one of his own players and an artery was broken. He was rushed to the doctor's for attention. Todd for Peterborough was given a major penalty when he struck Richardson on the mouth, splitting both lips with his stich. Pike took Phillip's pass a minute and a half before the period ended to give Hastings a three goal lead. Between the second and third periods a spectator was knocked out by a wild shot by one of the boys practicing.

Baker gave Hastings a 6 to 2 lead when he scored after two minutes of play in the third and last period. Preston with his second goal of the game gave Hastings a five goal lead two minutes later. McDougal took Pammett's pass three minutes later to reduce Hastings' lead to four goals. Pike put Hastings five up once more when he scored at the eight minute mark. Pammett scored Peterborough's fourth and last goal with Phillips of Hastings in the penalty box. Baker made it 9 to 4 for Hastings when he scored again two minutes before the game ended.

Pammett, McDougal, Bowen and Todd were Peterborough's best while Preston, Richardson, Baker, Pike McKee went best for Hastings.

The teams:

Peterborough—Goal, Lefevre; defence, Todd and Fleming; rover, McDougal; centre, Dundas; wings, Vitarelli and Dorris; subs, King, Woodcock, Wildman, Bowen, Crauter, Caravaggie and Pammett.

Hastings—Goal, Montgomery; defence, G. Faux, B. McCarthy; rover, Baker; centre, McKee; wings, Preston and Richardson; subs, E. Faux, Boyle, Phillips, Radford, Pike, Turner, J. McCarthy R. Scriver, Coughlan, V. Scriver and Wilson.

Referee—R. Innis Norwood.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

WELL, THE P.C.I. teams got off to a nice start over the week-end both the juniors and the seniors winning their C.O.S.S.A. opening games here. And they drew a nice crowd to Riverside Park, despite chill damp weather. Coach Jackson's juniors copped a 6-0 nod over Oshawa in a nice battle. Nothing spectacular, and the usual opening-day fumbles, but an evenly-matched straight grid scrap. The locals might have been shy on experience but they more than made up for it on fighting spirit and hard tackling. They got a break in the third quarter when Scriver interpepted a forward pass and ran from midfield to the shadow of the goal posts before being grounded. With Dwyer then going over and Gillespie kicking the point. But they deserved the break the way they were playing. They ought to go along okay with more practise under their belts.

* * * * * *

COACH BAMFORTH'S senior Garnet and Gray gang were much too good for Oshawa in the second part of the double-header and hung up a 24-0 win. They really look better than the good '36 squad, though they missed some chances, too—probably experimenting, with a safe lead. Curtin and Creighton will help this outfit plenty, and Kelly and Gee Clark looked as good as ever. With Al Clark back in the lineup, the P.C.I.-ers will really hit their stride. They have a strong line, shiftly backfielders and a nice bunch of plays. Their forward passes were clicking well most of the time.

* * * * * *

CREIGHTON GOT the first two touchdowns, but the ball was advanced considerably by Kelly, Clark and Leether. Kelly got the next try and then Curtin went over, Thornton kicked three converts very nicely. There was a rouge, also. While we name these guys especially, there were some other good boys on that team, too. The team is husky, fast and quite resourceful—much like last year's smart squad, but probably better, after the footballers get more games and practises. They ought to cop their group all right, but will run into plenty of heavy opposition after that. We don't like to throw cold water on anyone, but just so the lads don't get too cocky, we might remind 'em that other good local teams have won their groups and then ran into a brick wall in the playdowns. But somehow we sort of expect this P.C.I. crew to really do something.

* * * * * *

ORFUNS COPPED a 12-0 win in Lindsay yesterday, the Blue Bombers being blown practically out of their chances for a group title this year. Neither side showed much the first half but went to town in a better second stanza. Opened up play more then and piled into each other hard. A flock of minor injuries on both sides, with Magee retiring with an injured shoulder. Our gang got six points on singles—kicks to deadline—and then a touchdown by Pulkinghorn in the fourth. Crowe got five points and Loucks the other two. These three guys, along with Giardino and Marsh, turned in a good game, and the rest went pretty fair, too. Were slow in their plays on the backfield in the first half and the line wobbled at times, but they had enough to win handily. Used a few neat forwards and nice running plays.

* * * * * *

LINDSAY HAVEN'T the class of the 1936 squad, while the locals are probably a little stronger than last year's gang. These outfits still like to hit each other hard and rub the odd elbow along the pan of a fallen gladiator. They play for keeps. Orfuns were too good for 'em yesterday, with a big edge in kicking, and easily earned the nod to stay on top of the group for the time being. The locals looked nice in their new uniforms, and they weren't afraid of dirtying them up. They play Cobourg here next Saturday, and the prize draw will be made at that time.

* * * * * *

KEEPING PACE with the Orfuns, the Speedy Spirits of Cobourg copped an 8-6 win at home yesterday over Toronto Eastsides, and now you can practically count out the Toronto team. If the big Lakeshore lads can pull out a victory here this weekend over the locals, ye Orfuns are on the spot—with the group leadership tied up tighter than a Pullman window. But if the Petes can knock 'em off again, the Liftlock City crew are practically in. Once again, Meikle's kicking featured for Cobourg, the big Toronto import booting all eight points, while Eastsides tallied a touchdown. We sincerely hope that both Toronto and Lindsay finish out their schedules, as Orfuns have not yet had a home game this season. Of course, both these squads still have an outside chance.

UP AT Nassau on the holiday, 21 motorbike riders took part in the hill climbing program, sponsored by the Kawartha Motorcycle Club and the local Lions Club. Rain cut down the crowd and we figure it was a financial failure. Riders were here from Ottawa, Kitchener, Toronto, Oshawa and Peterborough. There were a number of spills, one especially being a thriller—when Sam Carew's mount bucked him off and then ran away through the crowd, but no one was hurt. Winners in the different classes were: R. Gower of Toronto in 9 1-5 seconds, Len Dreckwaith of Kitchener in 10 seconds, and Sam Carew of Peterborough in 11 seconds flat. A good meet, at that.

* * * * * *

WINTER HAS practically come, now that the world's series in N'Yawk is ge-finished. Hubbell returned to form to win one game for the Giants on Saturday but the slugging Yanks came back on Sunday to wind it up in five games. El Goofy Gomez was the winning twirler, and the tilt was featured by three homers. Local ball players who took in the serial saw only the first two games. They lost interest then and gave the bright lights of Broadway a gander or two. They said ticket speculators were asking terrific prices before the serial opened but whittled their prices down in a heck of a hurry after the first fray. And so baseball reaches the end of its trail for another year, as hockey begins to look alive again.

P.C.I. GRIDDERS WIN EXHIBITION

On the play P.C.I. senior gridders sadly outclassed the heavier Pickering College rugby squad to win by 34-5 count, and with their tricky end runs and lateral passing seemed to have no trouble making yards when necessary. Strange to say, all scores were major counts, P.C.I. having six tries of which they converted four and the visitors scoring on one try in the last few minutes of the game.

Feature play of the day was a long run of about 85 yards to score Creighton carried the ball about 50 yards, passing to Curtin who completed the play. Kelly, Curtin, Leether and Creighton looked best for the P.C.I. McGibbon, Taylor and Strauss starred for Pickering, Taylor scoring the trys.

Line-ups:

Pickering College: Snap, Shanhouse; insides, Morrie, Tisdale; middles, Strauss, Robb; outsides, P. McGibbon, R. McGibbon; halves, Hall, Young; flying wing, Taylor; quarter, Morgan; subs, Wood, Storm, Moore, Lloyd, Kidd, Aiken, Charles.

MEIKLE FEATURES AS COBOURG WINS

COBOURG, Oct. 12 (C.P.).—Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts defeated Toronto Eastsides 8 to 6 in a closely fought rugby game yesterday. The game was featured by superb kicking by Meikle, star import on the Cobourg team, who kicked two placements and two singles.

Shields, Macklin and Smith of Toronto did good line work, and Rhodes was responsible for Toronto's touch. For Cobourg, Edwards, Henderson, and Cooper did effective work.

Cobourg's first score came early in the first quarter, when Meikle punted the ball for a point. Then Toronto grabbed a loose ball about five yards out of Cobourg's goal line, Rhodes carrying it over for a touchdown, which was not converted.

Cobourg — Brewster, snap; T. Young and Benson, insides; Pratt, and Bulger, middles; D. Young and Jacobs, outsides; Lucas, Quarter; Cooper, Edwards, Meikle and Henderson, halves; subs., Brown, Goody, Boyce, Ibey, Reymes, Jones, Mackie, Spooner, Kitchen and Johnstone.

Eastsides — Hardy, snap; Yurtes, and Peebles, insides; Shields and Macklin, middles; Burns and Moorehouse, outsides; Ellames, quarter; Smith, Rhodes, Sweeting and Borne, halves; subs., McClelland, Archibold, Edwards, Sims, T. McNeigh, I. McNeigh, Pellock, Hewlett, Murrin and Maxwell.

F. DYER'S BOWLING FEATURES SEASON

The two local cricket clubs have now completed their season's activities. The Peterborough Club, now in existence almost continually since 1850, played 15 matches, winning 8 and losing 7. Leading batsmen were J. Lawrence, 196 runs, average 16.25; E. Stewart (134) 14.87; F. Dyer 164, 10.93, and E. Smith (63), 10.5. In bowling, the captain, F. Dyer, took 76 wickets, average 6.21, and J. Lawrence 43, average 9.12.

The G. Whitaker Club, now in its fifth season, played 13 matches, winning 5, losing 7 and drawing 1. The best batting was shown by A. Hamilton, 195 runs, average 19.5. The successful bowlers were F. Dyer, 20 wickets, average 2.5; J. Wild (25), 5.6; G. Colbram (23), 12.66; F. Jefferson (23), 12.86, and A. Hamilton (10), 15.5.

The season's individual high score was 76 by A. Hamilton for Whitaker against the Peterborough Club, and the leading feature of the season was the fine, consistent bowling of the Peterborough captain, F. Dyer, who, in all matches, took 96 wickets at an average of 5.41.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES
By Alex Morrison

Number 21

Henry Picard by his recent record scores gave a perfect demonstration of the advantage of the right mental attitude toward the game.

In the tournament played over his home course at Hershey, Pa., there were many things to put him in the wrong mental state for anything like successful competition. But, it was about time and a good place for the slender stylist to do a job with himself mentally, and he did.

The Hershey course is a long and difficult par 73. It is a much tougher course than those the boys are accustomed to playing over, so that Henry's brilliant 65 for his second round is really something, to say nothing of turning in a total of 280, which is 12 strokes under par for the four rounds. He set out to show all concerned just what he could do when he really made up his mind to be successful.

This mental attitude carried by players of ordinary skill very often enables them to defeat opponents of superior skill. Think back over the matches you have lost to players whom you can beat most of the time. If you get right down to cases with yourself you'll find that you were not in form mentally.

Give more thought to the mental side of the game and avoid many mistakes.

Inclement Weather Keeps Crowd Down

A fair-sized crowd of spectators witnessed the motorcycle hill climbing program at Nassau yesterday, a good meeting being run off, though inclement weather kept down the crowd. There were frequent spills, and many thrills, on the 250-foot long hill. Halfway through the program, Sam Carew's machine upset on him and tore off as the crowd scattered wildly in all directions, no one being hurt. The event drew 21 entries from Ottawa, Kitchener, Toronto, Oshawa and Peterborough. It was sponsored jointly by the local Lions Club and the Kawartha Motorcycle Club, proceeds to go to the Lions Club boys' band. It was sanctioned by the A.C.U.

In the Class 1 events for Kawartha Club riders, Sam Carew was first in 11 seconds, John Coleman being next, and Orris Garside third. In Class 2, an open event, Len Dreckwaith of Toronto took first place in 10 seconds flat, followed by M. Benier of Toronto and Mont Granfield of Oshawa. In Class 3 for professional cyclists, R. Gower of Toronto went out in 9 1-5 seconds, with

TORONTO, Oct. 12 (C.P.). — If, two days of broadside firing the East's senior football teams reached the conclusion to-day they are in for it. One champion has been beaten, another has been tied, and the third, escaped with victory by a narrow margin. Not even the mighty Sarnia Imperials are safe.

The Imperial Army, 1936 Eastern champions, opened their Ontario Union schedule in Toronto yesterday by fighting furiously from behind—and for a time vainly in front—to get a 7-7 tie with Balmy Beach. The Army was outfought even disaster on Saturday as they started.

Not insignificant in a review of this deadlock are results of Balmy Beach's pre-schedule games. Alex. Ponton's men defeated Montreal Indians of the Big Four and a week later were humbled by University of Toronto. The judgment must be that Beaches didn't take the College team seriously enough.

In the annual Thanksgiving Day classic, played in a drizzle of rain, they were all seriousness. They scored a first-period touchdown after Ab Box had thrown a 55-yard forward pass to Eddie Thompson.

Ottawa Beaten 17-6.

Ottawa Roughriders struck quick disaster on Saturday as they started out in defence of their Big Four title. At Montreal the Roughriders were beaten 17-6 by Montreal Indians, who rode brilliantly to victory on Abe Ellowitz's kicking and passing, Johnny Ferraro's running and Tommy Burns' place-kicking and plunging.

In the other Big Four contest Toronto Argonauts scored by 17-16 over Hamilton Tigers. Punctuated by fumbles and long runs, the game produced more thrills than any other on the Eastern program.

University of Toronto turned back Queen's 9-3, largely because two Queen's place-kicks in the second half struck the goalposts. U. of T.'s place-kicks—three of them by Cam Gray—were good for nine points in the first half and the rallying Tricolor forces couldn't get back all the lost ground.

In the other Intercollegiate Union game, Western Mustangs downed McGill 7-2 at London when Claude Moore went over for the only touchdown in the third quarter.

CALGARY BRONKS DEFEAT WINNIPEG

CALGARY, Oct. 12 (C.P.). — Calgary Bronks, scoring a touchdown on a Winnipeg fumble, but having much the better of the play, yesterday trounced the formidable Blue Bombers 7-1 in a Western Interprovincial Football Union game and retained for Regina Roughriders a chance to reach the playoffs.

Each team has two games remaining. Bronks clinched a playoff berth ten days ago and a Winnipeg victory or a Regina defeat will put the Bombers in second position.

Bill Schoeneich of Kitchener next, and Percy Mann of Toronto third. The points' system was used in totalling on the year for the 1937 hill-climbing championship.

Orfuns Defeat Lindsay For 2nd Straight Win

Orfuns took their second straight O.R.F.U. triumph yesterday in Lindsay when they bombed the Blue Bombers by a 12-0 score before some 500 fans at the Collegiate campus. The win keeps the locals on top of their group and considerably cuts down Lindsay's chances of retaining their group championship. A number of Peterborough fans took in the contest.

It was a fair grid spectacle, played in a drizzle of rain. Both teams looked below form in the first half but opened up in the final two quarters to make it a good scrap. A number of forward passes were tried by the rival squads with Orfuns clicking on a couple of nice ones, and also gaining ground on several long runs. The winners earned their first six points on kicks to the deadline, while Pulkinghorn went over for a major count in the fourth, it being converted.

The score was 2-0 in the first frame and 8-0 for the visitors at halftime. Lindsay put on a hard drive in the third quarter but neither side could count. Magee retired in the first half with an injured shoulder and both teams suffered a bunch of minor injuries in the hard-hitting fray. Orfuns always looked better than their rivals, showing a strong line, shifty backfielders, a better assortment of plays and stronger booting. Crowe, Giardino, Loucks, Mitchell, Pulkinghorn and Marsh were all prominent in the locals' play. McKee, Campbell, Wakelin and Wilson were best for the losers.

Orfuns just failed on an early sleeper play and Lamb later got yards on an end run. Giardino intercepted a forward pass at Lindsay's 40-yard chalk and Crowe kicked to deadline. Orfuns marched back again within kicking distance and Crowe booted another point. Wakelin plunged for 15, and Kearns made a neat runback of a kick to centre. Orfuns gotyards again as the quarter finished. Crowe booted to deadline early in the second. Lindsay lost the pigskin on downs and Mitchell and Crowe carried it to Lindsay's 30-yard mark on plunges. Orfuns got yards again and then an attempted placement missed and was run out. They drove back later to the home 35-yard line and Crowe kicked to deadline. Giardino intercepted a Sougog forward and a Crowe-Marsh forward clicked for 10 yards. Kearns got five on a buck and Crowe kicked to deadline. A Crowe-Giardino forward was good for 10 as the half ended.

Archibald and Marsh combined on a good runback on Wilson's kick and Cameron grounded Campbell for a loss. Loucks made yards on a buck, with Pulkinghorn and then Giardino plunging to move the sticks. Loucks broke loose for 35 on an end run and he gained five more on a buck. But Orfuns were blocked one yard out and lost it. Lindsay started a march to midfield, gaining yards twice after Wakelin skirted left end to chalk up 20 yards. Wilson's kick was short and bucks by Loucks and Pulkinghorn, with Kearns' end run, took it to Lindsay's 30-yard strip at the whistle. Loucks kicked to deadline to start the final frame. Lindsay were forced to boot it as the local line held and Kearns ran it back 15 yards to their 40-yard mark. Loucks twice plunged for yards and Pulkinghorn got six. The latter then bucked over for a try, which Loucks converted. Marsh pulled down Wakelin after the latter got away for 12 yards and Lindsay lost it on downs. Mitchell blasted through centre for six and then got through for 20 yards on a nice run with the ball at midfield when the last whistle went.

The teams:

Orfuns: Flying wing, Marsh; halves, Crowe, Magee, Giardino; quarter, Archibald; snap, Hendren; insides, Sloan, Weir; middles, Begley, Pulkinghorn; outsides, Grosse, Cameron; alternates, E. Spencely, Prete, Ascott, Mitchell, Harle, F. Spencely, Kearns, Brondley, Loucks, Coughlin, Williams, Winslow.

Lindsay: Flying wing, Hodgson; halves, Campbell, Wakelin, Dunk; quarter, Lamb; snap, Graham; insides, Begley, Wilson; middles, McKee, Maunder; outsides, Grozelle, Blakely; alternates, Beal, Walton, Bailey, Dickerson, Wright, Barker, Pitts.

Referee, Armstrong; umpire, Chilcott; head linesman, Bacon.

Summary:

First Quarter

Orfuns 2—Crowe's kick to deadline.

Second Quarter

Orfuns 3—Crowe's kicks to deadline.

Third Quarter

No score.

Penalty—Cameron.

Fourth Quarter

Thus Ends The 1937 World Series

VETERAN TONY LAZZERI STAR OF '37 SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP). — The "you-never-can-tell" society were still in a huddle to-day in the wake of the world series, and decided baseball's post-season classic is still as unpredictable as ever.

After looking over the wreckage left by the Yankees in their 4-1 games' contest of their local rivals, the Giants, they pointed as evidence to these developments:

1—Tony Lazzeri only led both teams in batting with a .400 mark for the five games, and played flawlessly afield, a couple of weeks after announcing he was going to quit the game because he's too old.

2—The Yankees, supposed to be outclasses as a fielding team, played 1.000 bal on the defence for a new all-time record, while the National Leaguers committed nine errors.

Breaks Ruth's Record.

3—Babe Ruth's record of 29 runs batted in during 10 world series, supposed to have been safe for a long time, was wiped out of the books by his successor in swatland, Lou Gehrig, who drive in three this year for a six-series' mark of 35.

4—Pitchers Carl Hubbell, Cliff Melton, Hal Schumacher, et al, were pre-series selections to outdo their Yankee rivals. Lefty Gomez, Red Ruffing and Monte Pearson, and were going to cause no end of trouble to the American laropers. Yet, Hubbell was the only Giants flinger to last the full nine innings, while Gomez, with two victories, and Ruffing and Pearson with one each, stole the elbowing show from all but King Carl.

5—The Yankees were going to rely on their home-run punch to knock the ears off the Giants. Yet, only in the last game did they call on their four-base blows to bring victory.

Those items, along with the continued display of batting dynamite exploded by the Yankees, were the standout developments of a series that cracked attendance records for a five-game classic with 238,-142 fans turning out and contributing to a new high five-game "gate" of $965,994.

TORONTO CONSOLS WIN SOCCER TITLE

TORONTO, Oct. 12 (C.P.). — Champions of the National Soccer League, Toronto Consols prepared to-day to meet Falconbridge Falcons for the Eastern Canadian title and the Lord Atholstan Trophy.

Consols made certain of the National League crown here yesterday, defeating Montreal's Canadian National Scottish 3-2 in the second game of a two-game, goals-to-count series. The first game on Saturday ended in a 3-3 draw.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—Travis (Old Hoss) Jackson came out of that Jersey City nightmare with only four new grey hairs...Fans wonder why Atlanta crackers canned Eddie Moore, who won two pennants and finished second once in his three years as manager...Just what does a gee have to do to hold a job in that league?

An authoritative Boston source wires "You were slightly off key on Maranville today...He hasn't a chance to succeed McKechnie as manager of the Bees...Some years back he thumbed his nose at a coaching job here and Bob Quinn has never forgiven him...The Rabbit is down to low 'G' with Quinn. Donie Bush is the man on the inside track"...Thanks, mister.

Bill Terry didn't bother to walk across the hall to congratulate Joe McCarthy...Why? Well, he just didn't bother to...Gene Lawing, who, at 21, is president of both the North Carolina and Carolina leagues, is slated to succeed Dan W. Hill as boss of the Piedmont League if Hill becomes president of the Southern Association, as almost everyone down south believes he will ...Mike Jacobs, who rises to every occasion, served tea at the last business conference he had with Tommy Farr.

Burleigh Grimes likes to tell this one: Just before the season ended he received a letter from a Jewish fan recommending an Italian ball player..."And Burleigh," the fellow wrote, "when a Jew recommends a wop, he must be good, ain't it."

P.C.I. JUNIORS DEFEAT OSHAWA

Starting their C.O.S.S.A. schedule before a fair-sized crowd of fans at Riverside Park on Saturday, the P.C.I. juniors took a 6-0 win over Oshawa in a tight tilt. The locals got a touchdown, converted, in the third quarter for the only score of the game. It was a nice battle throughout with the teams playing straight football on even terms most of the way. There were the usual early-season fumbles and missed forward passes, but the youngsters turned in a neat effort. Oshawa appeared to have the more experienced squad, frequently using the return kick to advantage, but the battling spirit of the Garnet and Gray evened up matters.

Play was quite even in the first half, each side having a few fumbles but none of the amounting to anything. Oshawa pulled one 25-yard forward pass to lose it later on downs. Again the P.C.I. gang had the ball on Oshawa's 20-yard strip but their kick was run out. In the third heat, Scriver intercepted a forward pass at midfield and raced nearly 50 yards. Dwyer plunged over for a try, with Gillespie converting it. The home gang had an edge in the fourth but got no closer than the visitors' 20-yard line. There were no individual stars on either squad over the whole route. The teams:

P.C.I.: Flying wing, McPherson; halves, J. Gillespie, Millen, Scriver; quarter, Moldaver; snap, McMann; insides, Dwyer, Scott; middles, Douglas, Ainsley; outsides, Ferguson, C. Gillespie; alternates, Milburn, Graham, McWilliams, Prete, Elliott, Freeman, Gracie.

Referee, J. Kirkwood; umpire, W. Treen; head linesman, R. Clark.

PACKERS WIN SEMI-FINAL WHITE TROPHY

Canada Packers won the semi-final of the White trophy on Saturday afternoon from the C.C.F. by the score of four goals to two before a meagre attendance. The winners now meet the Canadian General in the final.

Packers Took the Lead.

G. Downer kicked off for C.P.C. and they straightaway made tracks for C.C.F. goal. C.P.C. could only field six men for the first few minutes against the C.C.F. ten. After sixteen minutes' play in which, up to this point, C.P.C. had dominated the play, C.C.F. couldn't seem to get going at all. G. Downer scored with a lightning drive along the ground to the left of Tarkington, from a pass by Harris. C.C.F. forwards were running into many offside traps set by N. Downer, many promising movements went to naught through his tactics. Buchan came on for C.P.C., then Rishea, who went in goal and Curtis went to outside right. W. Dinesen received the ball from Meyette and carried it to within the penalty area and shot a fast grounded at Rishea, who saved well. Then C.P.C. with Jones, Buchan and G. Downer participating in clever passing, carried the ball to the other end, where G. Downer's parting shot went over the bar. End to end play followed to the interval, with the score reading C.P.C. 1, C.C.F. 0.

Keen Tactics Prevailed.

After the breather, C.P.C. pressed; a free kick was awarded to them and Buchan taking it shot from just outside the dreaded area, and Tarkington saved a high shot. C.C.F. took a turn on the offensive and a pass out to the wing by Lawrence to W. Dinesen, who shot a fast low ball at Rishea, who turned it aside. Twenty minutes had passed when C.C.F. equalized through Lawrence, who scored with a ground shot, from a scrimmage in the Packers' goal mouth. Later C.P.C. through them, parted with the ball went ahead again. G. Downer ran through them, parted with the ball to Jones, who scored a clever goal from a difficult angle. Buchan next hit the crossbar with a terrific drive and dropped down to Cribbes, who shot past. A few minutes later G. Downer got his second goal from a shot close in. C.C.F. carried the ball towards the C.P. goal. Castle, who was a dangerous raider with his fast runs and crosses, was the main mover, crossed the sphere to Smelt, who in turn parted to W. Dinesen, the latter taking it in his stride and shot a powerful drive at Rishea, who got his hands on it but could'n't hold it; it was too hot. Next, a brilliant save by Tarkington from Jones' superb header. Lawrence, who went up on the forward line, was initiating many nice movements with W. Dinesen and Dyer and carrying the ball towards the C.P. goal, but N. Downer was a big stumbling block, as was his brother Art, who was tackling well. Near the end C.P. went further ahead, due to Curtis, who carried the ball down the wing, centred to G. Downer, who received the ball and drove a lightning shot into the left hand corner of the net, his third goal of the game. C.C.F. were not down-hearted. They fought till the last whistle and when it it sounded the score read C.P.C. 4, C.C.F. 2.

Considering the weakened teams of both sides, there was some good football played. With more experience and better condition, C.P.C. were a little the better team, with outstanding being: For C.P.C. Jones, three Downer brothers, Rishea. For C.P.C., Lawrence, Castle, W. Dinesen, Tarkington and Smelt.

Teams

C.P.C.—Risea, N. Downer, A. Downer, Buchan, F. Todd, Curtis, G. Downer, Cribbess, Harris, Jonsa.

Referee—W. Jones.

Linesmen—A. Pilling, T. Foster.

COAST LACROSSE ELEVEN TRIUMPHS

VANCOUVER, Oct. 12 (CP). — Orillia Terriers' hopes for a fourth successive Canadian senior lacrosse championship swung low today as New Westminster Salmonbellies, victors in the first two games, aimed to end the best-of-five Mann Cup series in three straight when the teams meet again in New Westminster tomorrow.

Salmonbellies, champions last in 1937, crushed Terriers 15-10 in the Vancouver Forum last night. With five former Orillians in their lineup, the coast team won even more impressively than in the first game at New Westminster Friday, when the score was 11-9.

Tied two-all after the first quarter, Terriers led 6-4 at half-time mainly through a pair of lightning goals by Hugh (Shipwreck) Kelly just before the interval.

Then Salmonbellies opened up. In less than three minutes of the second half the score was tied, and before Orillia scored again New Westminster had run in five successive goals. The third quarter left them leading 9-7.

Orillia battled back gamely, and before the 10-minute mark in the final quarter led 10-9. With five minutes left to play penalties blasted the champions' chances.

Bill Bain drew a two-minute penalty for tripping Jack Hughes. Before he returned Bill Wilson had scored twice and Bill Wilkes once, and Salmonbellies led 12-10. After Bain returned Pete Meehan scored again for the coast team.

Player Gets Paid For Losing Weight

DETROIT, Oct. 8 (CP).—Bucko McDonald from Sundridge, Ont., rejoined the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League yesterday and Manager Jack Adams did not recognize him—he was so thin.

The burly defenceman was punishing the scales to the extent of 215 pounds when the hockey season ended last April. Adams warned him he would lose $50 on his new contract for every pound he weighed over 196 at the beginning of the new training season.

Now a mere 185 pounds, Bucko suggests he be paid $50 for every pound under 196. "I worked like a slave all summer," he said. "I got a job in a mill at Sundridge, lifting lumber. They paid me for getting into condition. Pretty smart, huh?"

VETERAN SCULLER DIES IN 80TH YEAR

ORILLIA, Ont., Oct. 12 (CP). — World professional sculling champion for five years and winner of numerous lesser titles in the 20 years he took an active interest in rowing, Jacob Gill Gaudaur, 79, died at his home near here yesterday.

Confined to his bed in August, Jake Gaudaur was previously in excellent health, and operated his boat, and fishing livery beside the homestead on which he was born in 1858. Not far away were Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching, where he trained to win the races that were to place his name on Canada's sports honor list.

Gaudaur took up rowing when 17 years old, and at the time of his death two of his records remained intact. One was for four and a quarter miles over the British championship course from Putney to Mortlake, which he rowed in 21 minutes, 1 second, September 7, 1896. The other was for three miles with a turn in 19 minutes, 6 seconds, established June 9, 1893, at Austin, Texas.

Picturesque garages in Sweden are being modernized.

IN MEMORIAM

AUSTIN.—In memory of our Baby, Carole Anne, age eight months, who went to be with Jesus, October 10, 1936.

Somewhere among the cloudlets
Is our baby, sweet and dear;
Sent to us to love and cherish
In that short while she was here.
Those who knew her, can't forget
Her baby-smile and head of golden down;
But Jesus must have wanted
Another jewel for His crown.
Safe in the arms of Jesus.
—Remembered by her Mother and Daddy, and Grandparents Starr, and Auntie Jean.

LAUDER.—In loving memory of my dear Husband, Charles Lauder, who passed away on October 1, 1931.

Days of sadness still come o'er me,
Tears in silence often flow,
For memory keeps you ever near me
Though you died six years ago.
—Sadly missed by his Wife.

HILL. — In loving memory of Mrs. Ervin Hill, formerly Hazel Collins, who passed away October 10, 1935.

Deep in the heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame we shall keep it,
Because she was one of the best
Taken from earth so swiftly,
Plucked like a flower in bloom,
So young, so fair, so loving,
Yet called away so soon.
We think of you in silence
And your name we oft recall,
But there's nothing left to answer
But your picture on the wall.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Father, Brothers and Sister.

Remember When—

(By the Canadian Press.)

National Hockey League directors meeting at Montreal 13 years ago to-day admitted Boston Bruins, first United States' entry and Montreal Maroons into its ranks. At the time Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, and Montreal Canadians made up the circuit. Since then Hamilton has been dropped and New York Rangers and Americans, Chicago and Detroit added.

YOUNG HUNTER SHOT

LANGLEY PRAIRIE, B.C., Oct. 12 (C.P.). — Municipal police in this little Fraser Valley settlement are investigating the death of 15-year-old Arthur Morris in a hunting accident in the woods near here on Saturday. Police said two boys went into the woods armed with an old-fashioned shotgun in search of deer. Seeing a possible shot, Morris' companion was said to have grabbed the gun from Morris and the weapon accidentally discharged.

DEAD RECKONING

BY BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy, who has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting, graduated into homicide from the school of armchair murderers. At middle age, having made a fortunate marriage to Esther Ashwell, and possessing a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim felt happy and secure. Then Esther was run down by a truck. Weeks later, she was brought home, a physical wreck and a cripple for life, with only a hint of her former beauty left. Tim losses all interest in his wife because of her appearance. He suggests they hold their annual tennis party despite her condition.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 8.

The hesitating lie came easily to Tim's lips when he told Esther she would be playing tennis again in another year. He paused a moment, then added, with gentle insistence:

"Well, then we'll settle for Saturday on the tennis party, shall we?"

She made a gesture of resignation.

He sat down happily on the window seat, and took out a notebook and pencil.

"Well, then. . . . There's Harold and the Doughtys — our hardy perennials. And Cox—his wife's away, he must be a bit lonely. . . . And I think we ought to have someone a bit younger this year."

"What about Mr. Mower?" suggested Esther surprisingly.

Kennedy frowned.

"Mower. . . . I don't know about that. We hardly know him."

"The Doughtys like him. And we never did much about it, after he called. Of course, there wasn't the chance. . . . But I think we ought to invite him. His being a dentist — it would be ungracious not to do something. As if we looked on him as a rival."

"Rival!—what an idea." Kennedy considered for a moment, tapping his teeth with the pencil. Eventually he decided to concede Mower, for reasons of his own.

"Very well, dear, if you think we ought to. . . . Put him down. . . . It seems to me we're rather short of ladies."

"Why not Phyllis Grantley?"

"All right, down with her. . . . Perhaps she'll pair off with Mower. We must find somebody for Cox. . . . I have it, Mrs Shepherd."

Esther looked up quickly.

"The woman who's taken Maylink?"

"That's her."

"She's a widow, isn't she?"

"I believe so—I've no official information. But she was in the surgery the other day, and she seemed a nice person. I think you'd hit it off with her."

"Is she attractive?"

Kennedy laughed easily.

"I didn't notice particularly. Beautiful teeth; she looks after them properly. Tall woman. I think her hair's brown, but I didn't get the color of her eyes."

"Well—have her if you like, dear."

"Right . . . that's seven; just about enough." Kenneth closed the notebook and looked at his watch. "Ten to nine—I must be trotting. I'll ring 'em all up between whiles this morning."

When Tim Kennedy said that he had not noticed the color of Alma Shepherd's eyes, he was guilty of a falsehood. They were of a very vivid blue, almost cobalt, and quite impossibe to overlook. He had also noticed her warm, brown skin and full, rather dropping mouth, and her full, rich body, with its deliberate grace of movement. He thought she must have Spanish blood in her. She could not be more than 32—just the right age.

The lie about the eyes was not the only one he had told that morning—at least by implication. Up to last Thursday he had not thought about the tennis party at all. It was only during the weekend that it had occurred to him that the party was the simplest and most natural means of insuring further contact with Alma Shepherd.

It was necessary to act quickly. When she had come into the surgery on Thursday, telling him with her lazy smile how she had broken a tooth over an osso buco in a Soho restaurant a few weeks before, starting a slight but persistent ache, he had seen at once that it would be impossible to make the work last for more than two sittings. There was a small cavity in one of the bicuspids, a simple affair that he could have polished off in less than half an hour.

But because a careful inspection revealed no other trouble whatever—he was far too conscientious professionally to make work where there was no legitimate ground for it—he decided to give the job an extra session, applying cocaine and putting in a temporary filling at the first one. The second appointment was for today, Tuesday, and unless he could make one now, an opportunity of seeing her again might not recur.

He left his car at Bentwich's Garage and walked slowly down the High Street, nodding affably to half a dozen people on the pavement. It was five past nine—later than usual, but today he had no appointment till 9.30. He liked to reach his office early, to fiddle with his instruments, put everything in the meticulous order he loved. He was feeling a little nervous. Alma Shepherd was second on his list, at ten o'clock.

It was not customary to extend social invitations on a purely professional acquaintance — and so short a one at that. It was fortunate Esther had been so easy. But then, she had never been conventional in that way, though of late she had grown sharper, more possessive, almost jealous at times. . . . He wondered if Mrs Shepherd would think the invitation bad form. He did not believe she was that sort. She had been very friendly and natural with him, though they had not spoken a great deal.

He turned into his entrance by the florist's. Adams was polishing the banisters of the stairway. Adams slept at The Wilderness, but always cycled down to the office, where he had a small retreat on the back landing below, about half on hour before his master. He gave Kennedy a cheerful, if slightly too servile, good morning. He was a thin man of medium height, with dark hair, a heavily corrugated forehead, and a pursed mouth that seemed to bespeak perpetual

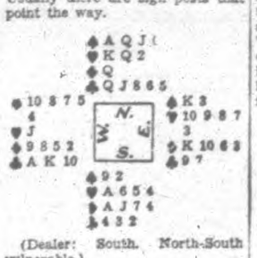
COUNTING YOUR TRICKS

IF A PLAYER will not take the trouble to count up the positive tricks in sight, and then look for the spots where others may possibly be procured, he can never consider himself an able manipulator of no trump contracts. There are those who select any old path out of several available, until after the hand has been played. Then, when they see how the contract could have been made, they frequently wonder how they could have calculated that in advance. Usually there are sign posts that point the way.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

A club by North on this deal, followed by 2-Hearts from South, 2-Spades from North, 2-No Trumps by South and 3-No Trumps by North, brought a lead of the diamond deuce from West, who did not like to offer any of the bid suits. Naturally the singleton queen went on it from the board and it was covered by East's king, the ace taking.

The declarer then kicked the hand away. He reckoned that, if hearts would break evenly, he could get four tricks there, plus two in diamonds and three in spades, if the finesse would work. Trying two heart rounds at once, he was sunk when the suit broke badly and the spade finesse failed.

The odds were heavily against what he tried, whereas the odds were in favor of the club suit working. An immediate club lead, after getting in, would have knocked out one club top, whereupon West would have removed the last diamond stopper. Then another club lead would have put West in again to cash two more diamonds, but that would have been all, as the game then would have been sure without any finesse.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY DOWN A HOLE

Miss Mouse twiddled her whiskers which was the same as when Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose. Then the animal lady school teacher, who was very stylish with her whiskers though not too proud of them, tapped her pencil on the desk.

"Oh, I hope she says we can go," thought Baby Bunty.

Uncle Wiggily had come to the Hollow Tree School to ask Miss Mouse to let him take the pupils on a nutting party to find Johnnie and Billie Bushytail.

"We shall vote on it," said Miss Mouse smiling prettily at Uncle Wiggily. "If more of my pupils decide they want to go nutting than vote they want to stay at their lessons, you shall have you party, Uncle Wiggily."

"I can guess which way the vote will go," said Mr. Longears, laughing.

He was right. Every paw or wing was raised to go on the party. Some of the animal pupils had paws, like Neddie and Beckie Stubtail, the bears, and others had wings like Lulu, Alice and Jimmie Wibblewobble, the ducks.

Off They Go.

"A nutting party it shall be!" squeaked Miss Mouse. "Lead on, Uncle Wiggily, if you please."

So Uncle Wiggily led Miss Mouse and the animal children from the Hollow Tree School to the woods.

"Do you think we shall find Johnnie and Billie?" asked Jingle, one of Uncle Wiggily's rabbit girls who was walking with Miss Mouse.

"Well, your father nearly always gets what he goes after," said Miss Mouse. "I think he will find the squirrel boys."

"I hope he finds some nuts, too," barked Jackie Bow Wow.

"You can't eat nuts," said Sammie Littletail, a rabbit.

"I can if they are cracked," barked Jackie. "I can crack peanuts myself in my mouth, but hickory nuts and walnuts are too hard."

"We'll get Johnnie and Billie to crack some nuts for us," said Peetie Bow Wow.

"Maybe the squirrel boys are lost and Unkie Wig can't find them," suggested Baby Bunty, the orphan rabbit.

"Oh you do think of the nicest things!" said Jangle, though she didn't exactly mean that. "Those squirrels are all right," she said.

Not in Sight.

Soon Uncle Wiggily led Miss Mouse and the others to the grove of nut trees. There were trees on which were growing beechnuts, chestnuts, hickory nuts, black walnuts and some hazlenut bushes.

"Well, here are plenty of nuts," said Uncle Wiggily, looking around the grove, "but I don't see the squirrel boys. They have been here, though."

"How can you tell?" asked Miss Mouse.

Uncle Wiggily pointed his pink nose at piles of each kind of nuts and said:

"Johnnie and Billie gathered these to take home. But why they left the nuts I can't guess."

"Maybe I can," said Baby Bunty. "Maybe they went down in that hole," and she pointed to a large hole in a hollow stump.

"Yes!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, "that's just what the squirrels did. They went down that hole. I can see their paw marks around it. But they didn't come up out of the hole."

"Oh, my goodness!" cried the orphan rabbit. "What shall we do?"

"I shall go down that hole and get them," bravely said Uncle Wiggily, and he did. But something happened.

You shall hear of it in the next story, which will be about Uncle Wiggily finding the squirrels. But please don't let the ice box catch cold or it can't go in swimming.

HOME ON WHEELS IS MUCH ADMIRED AS CAMP OUTFIT

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 12.—One of the slickest camping outfits ever seen in this district visited Lakefield this week, when Mr. and Mrs. Wolff and daughter, Katherine, of Cleveland, Ohio, spent the week-end and a part of the week on the banks of the Otonabee, in their "Covered Wagon" one of the best equipped and most comfortable trailers one could hope to dream about.

This home on wheels is drawn by a six-cylinder, 1936 Chrysler, which is specially equipped with an overdrive to take care of the extra weight of the trailer. An extra set of springs has been added to make riding with the trailer attached, more comfortable. The trailer is painted a dark taupe to match the paint job on the automobile which pulls it, and when seen on the road, measuring as it does about 60 feet from front of car to back of trailer, it certainly is a nice-looking outfit.

The trailer is finished inside in polished natural wood with enough cupboard space to carry everything one could use on an extended trip, and leave room besides for a sink, a kitchen cabinet, ice-box, bath room, and radio, besides the smallest of dining tables with built-in seats to be converted into a double bed by night, and a chesterfield which also does double duty as a bed.

"Nothing ever moves in the trailer," Mrs. Wolff told the Examiner. "The drawers are made to fit into a groove so they won't slide out when the outfit is in motion, and we carry eggs, milk and china, without a thought of their breaking or spilling."

When Mr. Wolff arrives at his destination he plugs the two hundred feet of electric cord which he carries, into the electric switch at a neighbor's home and has electric light. Most modern indirect lighting, too—and running [illegible] in the sink are connected with a twenty gallon [illegible] water which is enough [illegible] as long as they are at [illegible]

"Usually, when we get home we have to drain some water out of the tank," Mrs. Wolff continued.

"We forget we are driving with the trailer sometimes, and I have to holler at Mr. Wolff when he goes to pass a car to be sure and leave room for the trailer," Mrs. Wolff said. The trailer has covered worse roads than those between Lakefield and Curve Lake, and we have never had any trouble with it at all. We must have travelled 4,000 miles since May.

"In the hottest weather it is always cool inside," she concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolff are proprietors of a Rest Home in Cleveland, Ohio.

Endeavour I Is Welcomed Home

meditation. His manner was that of a certain type of regular non-commissioned officer or commissionaire,—deferent to the officer class, sharp with strangers of uncertain standing, relaxingly affable with his cronies.

He was a famous billiards and darts player at the Goose Quill, but did not seem to have any other interests outside his work. He was paid twenty-five shillings a week with board, and gave full value for it; for he did a certain amount of valeting and work about the house as well as making himself useful at the surgery.

Kennedy was not sure that he liked the man particularly. He had claimed to have saved Kennedy's life during the war. Kennedy had no color recollection of the episode, but did recall him as an officious little corporal. Thus, when Adams had accosted him on the street, he had given the fellow a chance—and had not regretted it.

Adams was inclined to drink too much, but he had never let that interfere with his work. Tim also suspected him of picking up occasional trifles, but he appeared to be scrupulously honest about money, though in fifteen years a good many opportunities must have come his way.

Kennedy addressed him pleasantly, "Lovely morning, Adams."

Adams, duster in hand, stiffened to a position of attention.

"Yes, sir. Real spring weather, sir."

Kennedy let himself into his front door, and changed his light gray jacket for a white linen one that was hanging in the hall. "What have we this morning?" he asked Adams, who had followed him in.

"Young Master Johnson at half past nine, sir. Mrs. Shepherd at ten. Mr. Ross at ten-fifteen. Then Mrs. Leeming at ten-thirty."

"Two hours' job that, eh?" He had entered the surgery, and was washing his hands in the basin behind the Chinese screen. He was disconcerted to find he had been so careless as to give Ross an appointment at just that time. He recalled the occasion—Ross had telephoned, and in a hurried searching through his book for an odd quarter of an hour he had noted the work, amounting to very little, which he had to do with Mrs. Shepherd, while unaccountably forgetting who she was. He picked one of the half-dozen spotless hand towels off the rail to the basin and came out into the room.

"Is that the lot, then?"

Kennedy nodded approvingly. With his more expensive patients he always engaged a separate anesthetist for extraction. It was the practice of better class London dentists, and it gave him a cachet. There were certain patients who could well afford the luxury, and liked the importance of it.

"Of Course. . . . I may be a little late for Mr. Ross—a quarter of an hour or so. Apologize to him, tell him I've a difficult case—the usual stuff. Also Mrs. Leeming, of course, if she's delayed."

"Yes, sir."

"Not that she's likely to be in a hurry. I'll have to give her a bad time, I'm afraid."

Adams features relaxed into a smile.

"Yes, sir."

THANKOFFERING SERVICE HELD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WESTWOOD, Oct. 12.—An Autumn thank-offering service of worship and the regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society took place on Wednesday afternoon, with fourteen members attending, at the home of Mrs. R. B. Lobb.

With the president, Mrs. E. W. Sargent, as leader, the thank-offering program was followed with Miss J. Davidson assisting in "Meditation" and Mrs. J. Hope leading in prayer. A reading by Mrs. D. N. Cameron and an appropriate hymn closed the devotional period.

A letter re the sectional rally, which is to be held in Westwood United Church on Friday, October 22, was read by the secretary, Miss Mary Cameron, and final arrangements were made for the entertainment of the guests.

Three very interesting readings from the study book were read by Mrs. J. Sargent, Mrs. J. Clysdale and Miss Jessie Davidson. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Lobb for her kind hospitality.

FIELD DAY TAKEN BY ORONO PUPILS FROM MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK, Oct. 12.—The annual Field Day Competition between the pupils of Millbrook and Orono Continuation Schools was held at the Agricultural Park, Millbrook, on Friday, October 8, morning and afternoon, with the visitors carrying off the honors [illegible] points.

Previous to the concluding feature of the day, a softball contest between two teams of boys, one from each school, the total score stood at 166 to 163 in favor of Millbrook. Winning the game added five points to Orono's score, leaving them at the top with 168. The bitter wind and low temperature that prevailed all day lessened the number of spectators, and led the girls' teams to cancel their softball contest.

Members of the Faculty of the two schools had the day's sports under their supervision, including, for Orono, Principal R. Roxborough, B.A.; S. R. Widdis, B.A.; and Miss M. E. Galloway, B.A.; and for the local school, Principal Miss Flora E. Morgan, B.A.; Miss D. H. Bannister, B.A., and Mr. Chas. J. Ireton, B.A.

Egg-Tossing Practice On Passing Car Costs Detroiters Visiting Rights

Chatham, Ont., Oct. 12.

FOUR DETROIT youths arrested Sunday in connection with an egg throwing incident which occurred on the second concession, Chatham township, were classed as "smart alecs" by Crown Attorney H. D. Smith, K.C., when in police court today, he gave his consent to their release on suspended sentence.

The young men, held on nominal charges of vagrancy, were Harold Raine, 16, Thomas Dowling, 22, William Kaiser, 18, and Paul Bailey, 17.

"I have given the names and addresses of these young men to the Canadian Immigration authorities, and it will be a long time before they can pay a visit to Canada," said Chief Low.

The quartet was arrested after eggs were allegedly thrown from a car in which they were riding, at another car.

"I'm why
DADDY SAYS HE MUST PLAN FOR THE FUTURE"

Isn't she the very best of reasons for making provision for the future?

Her father has decided to take an endowment policy with The Imperial Life to assure adequate funds for her education and other needs.

Of course this little lady is happy and carefree. But she is not half so pleased as her father. To him, that Imperial Life endowment policy for his daughter will be a continual source of the deepest satisfaction. He knows that whether he lives or not, funds will be available for his daughter when she needs them most.

In the complex world of today the average man on a salary finds it almost impossible to save money in the ordinary way. The easiest and by far the safest way to save is through an Imperial Life contract. Four men out of five who try to save in other ways do not keep up their saving schedule. But four out of five who adopt The Imperial Life method actually do save money as planned.

Look into the future. Take a long view of life. Then talk it over with an Imperial Life representative.

"FINANCIAL SECURITY THROUGH LIFE INSURANCE", by Paul Speicher, an international authority, is an interesting book which should be read by everyone who plans to provide financial security for himself and family. Your local Imperial Life representative will make a copy available to you without cost. 407

U.K. IS STEERING SHY OF ALBERTA BANK DISPUTE

Sidesteps All Efforts Of Social Credit Heads

LONDON, Oct. 13 (C.P. Cable).—The United Kingdom Government has no intention of being drawn into the dispute provoked as a result of the disallowance by the Canadian Government of three Acts concerning banking passed by the Alberta Legislature early in August.

Replying to a letter from the London Social Credit Secretariat representative in order to discuss the present position in Alberta, Malcolm MacDonald, Secretary of State for the Dominions, said the question at issue was a constitutional one relating to the respective powers of the Federal Parliament and the Provincial Legislature.

"In this question His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom have no locus standi and are not in a position to intervene," Mr. MacDonald wrote.

The exchange of correspondence was released to the press to-day by Major Clifford Douglas, head of the Social Credit movement. Commenting on the Dominions Secretary's opinion, Major Douglas remarked:

"Since it is a prime axiom of British legislation that there could be 'no law without a sanction,' Mr. MacDonald's pronouncement appears to involve a diplomatic repudiation of the British North America Act. Prime Minister Mackenzie King's action, therefore, would appear to be arbitrary and without legal justification."

NO SCHOOL GRANT CUTS TO BE MADE

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (CP)—Dr. Duncan McArthur, Ontario Deputy Minister of Education, today said no loss in provincial grants would be suffered by schools closed before the regular opening date because of the infantile paralysis epidemic.

Schools receive grants based on daily attendance, he explained.

The deputy minister also said nothing has yet been decided regarding possible changes in school curricula to compensate for the teaching time lost.

"The children are really eager to be back to school after being out so long that their eagerness for school work will likely make up for it," he said.

Plowing Match Has Horse Shortage

FERGUS, Ont., Oct. 13.—(CP). — Shortage of horses for the 24th International plowing match was threatened as 264 of Ontario's choicest ploymen and one ploy woman to-day registered entries in the various stubble events on the program.

In the three tractor classes today there were 88 entries and in the class open to those who had never won a prize at such a match before there were 54.

Competing for the Premier M. F. Hepburn trophy were 50 contestants.

Last Minute News Flashes

TORONTO. — Ontario's 1938 orange and blue license plates will not be changed, Premier Mitchell Hepburn said to-day. "They stay as is," he said. Complaints have been made by police in various cities that the visibility of the new plates is low.

TOKYO. — A Japanese Foreign Office spokesman to-day expressed regret at the "misfortune" which befell British Embassy automobiles in China yesterday when they were machine-gunned by Japanese planes between Shanghai and Nanking. He insisted, however, the cars had violated the regulations agreed upon by British and Japanese officials after the attack on the British Ambassador.

Reds Are Determined On United Front With C.C.F.--Buck

Make General Aim Unity of Working Class; Reaction Shaping Up Faster Than Democracy

TORONTO, Oct. 13—(CP)—The Communist Party of Canada is determined to work with the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation toward a unity of the working class whether the C.C.F. wants such a united front or not, Tim Buck, general secretary of the Communist Party said last night at the closing session of the Communist eighth national convention.

"The forces of reaction are still taking shape in Canada faster than the forces of democracy" Buck said. "The masses of people are turning in greater numbers away from the old capitalist parties."

He urged that the Communist party could fight for certain common objectives alongside the C.C.F. and trades unions, within the capitalist structure.

The Communists had already moved definitely along these lines in the recent provincial election, he said. Ewart Humphries, Communist candidate, had withdrawn in South York so not to oppose Dr. Luke Teskey, C.C.F. candidate. In the same way, Alderman Stewart Smith had refused to run against Arthur W. Roebuck in Toronto-Bellwoods riding.

CAMPBELL LIKELY TO RUN IN SUDBURY IF COOPER RESIGNS

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (C.P.)—Hon. Colin Campbell, Minister of Public Works in the Ontario Government, will become a candidate for the Sudbury seat if the Liberal executive of the riding consents to the resignation of James Cooper, member-elect for Sudbury. It was learned at the Parliament Buildings to-day.

Mr. Cooper had a large majority in the general election a week ago. He has indicated his willingness to retire to make way for the minister, defeated in Addington after resigning his Frontenac-Addington Federal seat.

Definite action cannot be taken for a while yet. Official certification of the Sudbury returns has not yet reached the chief election officer.

Agriculture Post Is Shaken Up

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (CP).—Complete re-organization of the Ontario Department of Agriculture is under way, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced today. J. B. Fairbairn, Deputy Minister, has been retired and has been succeeded by William B. Reeks, now in charge of the Government Experimental Farm at Ridgetown.

W. B. Somerset, commissioner of marketing, has also been retired and appointment of a successor, or consideration of whether the post is to be filled again, waits the attention of the Minister.

SUDBURY, Ont., Oct. 13 (C.P.).—Miss Ina H. McCauley (566 Dufferin Avenue), London, Ont., formerly of Belleville, is the sole benificiary in the will of her late brother, Dr. William Anderson McCauley, filed for probate in Sudbury Surrogate Court.

The estate totalled $695,901.

CHIEF PLAYS COWBOY

KINGSVILLE, Ont., Oct. 13 (C.P.). — Police Chief J. C. Babcock gave residents of Kingsville a brief rodeo display yesterday. He noticed a stray horse ambling through the streets and gave chase. After a mile run Chief Babcock lassoed the animal in proper Western style.

WINDSOR TRAVELS IN HITLER'S CAR

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—(AP). — The Duke of Windsor's motor trip to Crossinsee Castle, where future Nazi leaders are trained, was like a triumphal procession to-day.

In every hamlet and village crowds of natives stood cheering and shouting "heil" as he passed in Chancellor Hitler's new limousine, a glorified house-trailer, equipped with a bar, kitchen, telephone and other conveniences.

The Duke made use of the bar by inviting foreign correspondents, following in a motor bus, to have a drink with him.

After inspecting the castle at Stettin, the Duke took lunch with 500 Nazi officers charged with instruction of future leaders.

The Duchess, who has found the pace set by their German hosts too fatiguing, decided to remain in Berlin and visit Potsdam this afternoon.

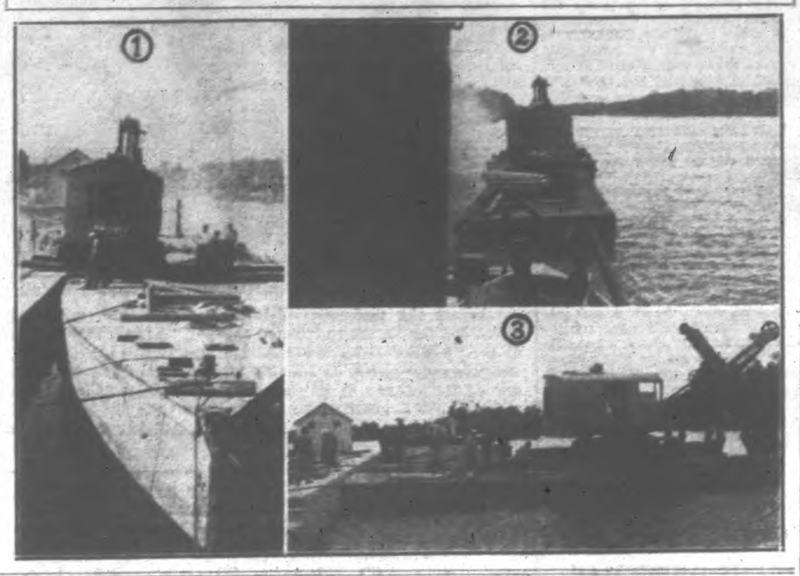
Faulkner Named Pension Chief

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—(CP).—Appointment of Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Belleville, former Minister of Health, as chariman of the Provincial Old Age Pensions Board and Mothers' Allowance Commission, was announced to-day by Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

Dr. Faulkner was defeated for re-election in Hastings West after having served one term in the Legislature. The appointment will be formally made by order-in-council to-day.

Finally Loaded

The 87,300-pound steam shovel, owned by the Johnson Construction company of Brantford has been for several weeks a cause of worry to its owners who have a large construction job on the Oregon Trail. Shipped to Lakefield by train the shovel could go no further as the bridges would not carry it to Burleigh Falls. A scow was secured but when the shovel was loaded the scow started to sink and it was only with great difficulty that the shovel was placed back on shore. A second and larger scow was secured and BELOW in (1) the shovel is being loaded; in (3) another view after loading and you see (2) the tug towing the shovel up stream.



Conant Of Oshawa Becomes New Attorney General

List Back to 14—Dewan Gets Agriculture; Campbell, Public Works; and Kirby, Health

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—(CP)—Ontario's ship of state started a new voyage today with a revamped crew but Premier Mitchell Hepburn still at the helm. A cabinet of 14 was ready for the administration of provincial affairs, oaths of office having been taken by eight new ministers last night.

Only a few hours before the swearing-in ceremony, with the whole Liberal ministry present in the dining room of Chorley Park, with Lieut.-Governor Dr. H. A. Bruce administering the oaths, did Mr. Hepburn complete his cabinet.

The ministry has been enlarged, two new portfolios, Public Works and Labor created, and places made at the executive council table for two ministers without portfolio.

The cabinet, in order of precedence:

Prime Minister, Provincial Treasurer and President of the Executive Council—Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn (Elgin).

Minister of Health—Hon. Harold Kirby (Toronto-Eglinton).

Minister of Labor — Hon. M. M. MacBride (Brantford).

Minister of Public Works — Hon. Colin Campbell.

Attorney-General — Hon. Gordon Conant (Ontario).

Minister of Municipal Affairs and Welfare — Hon. Eric Cross (Haldimand-Norfolk).

The new Cabinet Ministers are Kirby, Dewan, MacBride, Campbell, Conant, Cross, Houck and Gordon.

J. Albert Smith, member for Waterloo North and Mayor of Kitchener, was announced as the second Legislature member of the Hydro Commission.

Seat in North For Campbell.

Premier Hepburn is now considering opening a seat in Northern Ontario for Mr. Campbell, who was defeated in Addington after having resigned as Federal member for Frontenac-Addington.

ATTACK UPON CARS MAY STIR PROTEST BY THREE NATIONS

SHANGHAI, Oct. 13.—(AP). —A Chinese spokesman said to-day Japanese forces had lost more than 3,000 dead and wounded in an attempt to crash Chinese lines across Wentsaopang creek into Tazang, four miles north-west of the International Settlement.

The Japanese army used 15,000 men in its thrust. One Japanese flying column pushed ahead of the main body three miles to the outskirts of Tazang, where machine gun and hand grenade fire forced it to retire to the original position.

Tazang's capture by the Japanese might force the Chinese troops to withdraw from the hotly-contested Chapei sector in order to escape being flanked and surrounded from the west.

Despite fire from land, sea and air the Chinese clung to their lines on all other fronts in the Shanghai district. While Japanese planes resumed dropping bombs on Chapei a few yards outside the International Settlement boundary, the echo of their staccato machine-gunning of two British motor cars yesterday was creating more International phases.

Although no official statements were made it was learned the attack might have British, Italian and Russian repercussions since citizens of those nations were passengers in the automobiles.

Seven Passengers

The passengers were understood to be: Flight Lieutenant S. S. Murray, assistant British air attache; Capt. W. L. Shinn, British head of the China Navigation Company; M. Braham, British, formerly of the Chinese Railway Administrations; C. Marshall, British; Lieut. Francesco Rebezzi, of the Italian navy; M. Shahov, secretary to the Soviet military attache; and an unnamed Russian woman.

The Japanese planes attacked the foreign cars near Minghong, 16 miles from Shanghai, while they were en route from the Chinese capital at Nanking.

A Russian driver for the American-owned Bills Motor Co., D. E. Fittinghoff, said he was driving a flagless pilot car containing Rebezzi, Braham and a Chinese newspaperman a half a mile ahead of the other two cars and was not attacked. Fittinghoff and Shinn said they could not see how the Japanese could have mistaken the cars since Union Jacks were painted on top of the two attacked. Fittinghoff as-

100,000 CHINESE CAUGHT IN SWAMP

TIENTSIN, Oct. 13—(CP-Havas)—Two Japanese columns, the Japanese general staff claimed to-day, have surrounded 100,000 Chinese in the flooded lowlands of the Oxan swamps, midway between the Peiping-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow Railways

In an operation similar in some respects to that of Field Marshal Paul Von Hindenburg's smashing Great War victory over the Russian armies in the Masurian Lakes region of Eastern Prussia, officers said, five Chinese army divisions were isolated after a forced march of 250 miles by the Japanese column.

But, unlike the German forces of 1914, the Japanese have no heavy artillery to crush the Chinese and have decided to leave an opening in their trap to permit the Chinese to retreat to the southeast. It was explained the surrounded divisions probably would adhere to the Chinese custom of fighting to the last man and thus take heavy toll of Japanese if they attempted to bottle them up.

TWO MEN BEATEN

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—(CP).— Two men were beaten, one of them robbed, in widely scattered sections of the city last night.

George Moore, 56, was attacked by two or three men, who pulled a sack over his head and robbed him of $8 and a watch. He is in hospital with undetermined injuries. James Simpson, 42, was found in a dazed condition on a Pembroke street lawn, one eye closed and nose injured.

Claim Each Slump Started From Wall Street—Forced To Follow

By Rader Winget
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP) — The London security market today continued its recovery for the second day with various brokers saying the principal impetus for recent declines in markets on both sides of the Atlantic came from the American side.

London financial men said lack of confidence among American owners of United States securities as to the outlook of business caused the initial selling wave which gradually spread to other international markets.

They said British confidence in British business is still maintained, but lower Wall Street prices forced world markets down.

"Bear raids" in New York were not mentioned as a cause of the decline, but the brokers said many speculators jumped into the falling market to make money through short selling operations.

Most London financial quarters refused to believe the withdrawal of European money from Wall Street started the fall, but declared selling in Wall Street by European sources later added to the drop.

They said that much of the selling from Europe was ordered in Wall Street by operators doing business in Europe to escape U.S. regulations.

Closing prices were mixed with final quotations from a few cents to $2 above to below the previous close

What Happened

The best anaylsis of the situation follows these lines: Earlier this year the financial centres of London, Paris and Amsterdam sent money in great volume to the United States for investment because of the greater safety offered there. Later some of this money started returning home when the domestic situation looked better than the United States scene.

The volume of selling swelled when Wall street declined and signalled their money was endangered. About that time, commodity dealers in Amsterdam, London and other centres encountered rapidly falling prices which forced them to sell securities in London and New York to enable them to accumulate cash to tide them over the break.

French investors, for many months, have been rushing their money into New York and London to sidestep the declining value of the franc. Now the franc has reached at least a temporary resting place and French politics has not indicated a radical turn to the left so a

Spanish Prizes Still Good At McGill

Montreal, Oct. 13. (CP)

DESPITE the civil war tearing Spain apart, prizes offered by the Spanish Government for students at McGill University here are still open for competition, Prof. R. M. Sugars, Spanish Professor, said today.

The Spanish literature awards had their origin under the Monarchy, and were continued by the Republic, and then by the present Socialist Government.

OLD AGE PENSION PARLEY SET NOV. 2

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.—(CP)—A Dominion-Provincial Conference on old age pensions will be held in Ottawa, November 2, it was announced here today by Finance Minister Dunning. It will discuss amendments to the present act and general administrative problems with a view to securing uniformity and efficiency. The finance minister promised at the last session of parliament to call the conference before the end of the present year.

The Old Age Pension Act is administered by the provinces under agreements with the dominion. The dominion pays 75 per cent of the cost of pensions and the provinces the remainder plus administrative charges.

All provinces now participate in the plan. New Brunswick and Quebec were the last to pay pensions, the former from July 1, 1936 and the latter from August 1, 1936.

Tiger Claws Major Fatally On Hunt

JUBBULPORE, Central Provinces, India, Oct. 13.—(CP-Reuters).—Major G. H. B. Wood, 37, of the Royal Deccan Horse, died to-day of wounds received when he was mauled by a tiger.

Major Wood who was stationed at Saugor, Central Provinces, was attacked by the beast while on a shooting trip in the jungle 30 miles from Saugor. He was taken, badly hurt, to the British Military Hospital here and died of his injuries.

PEACE TO BE KEPT DEMANDS ACTION SAYS ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP).—President Roosevelt's renewed plea for active steps to preserve peace was interpreted by many observers to-day as designed to quiet criticism his policy of International co-operation might lead to war.

Declaring in his speech last night the mere refusal to recognize war in other parts of the world does not guarantee United States' "aloofness" from conflict, he said:

"In a world of mutual suspicions, peace must be affirmatively reached for. It cannot just be wished for. It cannot just be waited for."

Thus, the President prefaced a formal announcement of the United States' intention to participate in the forthcoming nine-power treaty conference on the Sino-Japanese conflict.

He added significantly, recalling his service as Wartime Assistant Secretary of the Navy:

"Remember that from 1913 to 1921, I was fairly close to world events and in that period, while I learned much of what to do, I also learned much of what not to do."

To many observers, this appeared to be an expression of an intention to pursue a moderate course in foreign affairs. Some members of Congress, peace organizations and others had expressed concern after Mr. Roosevelt's Chicago speech last week that his determination to co-operate with other nations in peace endeavors might embroil the United States in foreign entanglements.

Tweedsmuir Urges Tolerance In International Affairs

Canadian Institute Celebrates 10th Anniversary—Over 1,000 Members

MONTREAL, Oct. 13 (CP) — Knowledge and tolerance are requisite in approaching the international problems of today, Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general, said last night in addressing the Canadian Institute of International Affairs. He praised the aim of the institute—the diffusion of knowledge.

"Blind condemnation" was not the way to bring improved relations among nations. Tolerance with other forms of government should be part of every Democrat's creed. Canadians should recognize that, as a sovereign people, they must decide their own attitude toward world affairs and not take their position "docilely from Britain or from the United States or from anybody else."

More than 1,000 leading Canadian citizens are studying foreign affairs under the general auspices of the Canadian Institute, organized 10 years ago at a small gathering at the residence of the late Sir Robert Borden in Ottawa. Last night the institute celebrated its birthday with Lord Tweedsmuir as the chief speaker.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, also a speaker at the banquet, urged careful study and examination of international affairs before reaching or accepting interpretations that might be wrong.

Girl Shot In Bed Father Jailed

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (CP).—Fowles Gray, 64, was remanded to October 21 for mental examination when he appeared today before Magistrate S. A. Jones, charged with shooting with intent to maim. The charge follows the wounding of his 16-year-old daughter, Margaret, last night.

The girl, in a critical condition at St. Michael's Hospital, was allegedly shot while in bed. Police allege the father handled the rifle which caused the wound.

20 p.c. Increase In Army Budget Is Demanded In France

Defence Minister Proposes To Add 10,000 Men To Land Forces Alone

PARIS, Oct. 13 (A.P.). — Increase of nearly 20 per cent. in the French Army budget for 1938 was asked today by the Minister of National Defence, Edouard Daladier.

The minister, in a tentative combination of the ordinary and extraordinary budget submitted to Parliament for study, asked 12,900,000,000 francs (about $426,700,000) for next year, as compared with 10,900,000,000 francs (about $359,700,000) for 1937.

Nearly 10,000 men would be added to the land forces, which already number more than 650,000 in France and her colonies. This total includes mobile guards (militarized police).

The ordinary armaments budget, which will be covered by taxes, was listed as 7,373,000,000 francs (about $243,309,000). The extraordinary budget, which will be covered by borrowing amounts to 5,550,000,000 francs (about $183,150,000). This year, the ordinary budget was 6,-551,000,000 (about $216,161,000) and the extraordinary budget 4,413,000,000 (about $145,629,000).

Dead Mother 'Asleep' Tots Keep Playing

New York, Oct. 13 (AP)

THEIR mother was dead, but the five young Cahill children tonight thought she was "just asleep" so they romped in and out of the Bronx apartment for two days while she lay there.

An insurance man called at the apartment today to collect a payment from the woman, Mrs. Alice Cahill, 56, a widow.

"She's asleep," Bernard, 11, told him.

The agent suggested she be wakened. Bernard returned in a few seconds and said, "She won't wake up." A doctor said she had been dead at least forty-eight hours, apparently from natural causes.

COMMISSIONERS SWORN

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (C.P.).—Hon. W. L. Houck, Minister without portfolio in the new Ontario administration, and Mayor J. Albert Smith, M.L.A., Kitchener, were sworn in as members of the Ontario Hydro Commission by C. F. Bulmer, Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, to-day.

First meeting of the new Ontario Cabinet was held to-day.

Valera Hints Mystery Man Shaping To Run As New President

DUBLIN, Oct. 13. (AP)

PRESIDENT Eamon De Valera indicated today he was grooming a "mystery man" to run for president of the new Ireland contemplated in the constitution adopted last July. ... ...

The president apparently will not offer himself as a candidate. This construction was placed on a speech he delivered at a Fianna Fail party conference last night.

"We want a man who will be an honor to the country," Mr. De Valera said. "I know of such a man."

His cryptic statement left the public speculating on the identity of the dark horse candidate. Mr. De Valera, it was assumed, would continue in office as premier.

Quebec Towns Or Cities Not Obliged To Have Fire Departments

Gatineau Point Que., Oct. 13.

THE Quebec Municipal Code does not oblige towns and cities to operate fire departments, it was ruled today by Justice Errol McDougall. The Judge dismissed an action for $2,500 against the Municipality of Gatineau Point by Mrs. Noe Letang.

Mrs. Letang claimed her house b ned in February, 1936, because the Gatineau Point Fire Department was negligent.

Ghoul Demands $100 For Return Of Youth's Body

Open Streetsville Grave Creates Furore; Woman Makes Discovery 2 Days After Burial

STREETSVILLE, Ont., Oct. 13.—(CP)—Puzzled by the gruesome snatching of the body of Hayden Pope from its grave, police today had only the slim thread of a ransom note, left in an opened coffin, to work on. Streetsville is 20 miles west of Toronto.

The 660 dwellers, after discovery yesterday the grave was opened and the body of the 20-year-old youth removed from the casket, talked of little else today. The emptied coffin, say persons who investigated, contained a note to Pope's parents that "your boy will be returned on payment of $100 ransom."

Police, however, were unable to reconcile this demand with information the Pope family was far from wealthy. Parents of the boy could not be reached last night and were reported stricken by news of the affair.

Pope died last Thursday after a long illness and was buried Sunday. Suspicion something was amiss first came when Mrs. Robert Edwards visited the cemetery to look at flowers she had arranged at burial.

Mrs. Edwards, after noticing the open grave, became frightened and went immediately to her home. There she told of what she saw to a grocery boy, Earl Raine, 22, delivering at her house. In turn, the boy went for aid.

Search Is Started

His employer, D. A. Hewgill, and Thomas Doherty, hastened to the cemetery and after brief investigation called police, immediately started search for the ghoul with the aid of many villagers.

Hewgill, in telling of his investigation, said he could "see a note in the bottom" of the coffin. He said it appeared to be handwritten, but that he wasn't "sure." He and Doherty, an assistant of his, notified Reeve F. H. Foster of their finding.

An eyewitness to a later search of the coffin said the note Gill saw was a ransom demand. He said $100 was asked for return of the body.

Strict Check-Up

TORONTO, October 13—(C.P.)—Under strictly-enforced regulations, bodies used for anatomical study are obtained from but one source, Ontario authorities said to-day, commenting on the reported body-snatching at nearby Streetsville. Grave robbers would have no chance of disposing gainfully of a corpse.

Anatomical faculties in medical colleges of the province receive subjects through an inspectorate under government control. Each body received by an inspector must be accompanied by a registered certificate of death from a doctor and an undertaker's burial permit.

Such bodies as are used for study, authorities said, are from a group known as "unclaimed" and where there are no funds for burial. No money is paid for bodies. The only expenditure in the system is to cover the cost of transportation.

ANOTHER 50,000 ITALIANS CALLED

ROME, Oct. 13 (A.P.). — The Fascist militia has called for approximately 50,000 Blackshirt volunteers for East African service and in preparation for "special emergencies," a reliable source said to-day.

This activity is coincidental with the calling up of specialists in various conscript classes, and the despatch of several thousand additional troops to reinforce the Libyan garrison.

The 50,000 volunteers were reported being drawn from classes not immediately liable for conscript service, thus avoiding weakening the potential strength of the regular army.

Part of these volunteers would be sent to Ethiopia to replace garrison troops being repatriated. The rest would be quartered in barracks in Italy awaiting "special emergencies."

An official source said the call of specialists is a routine measure, with no bearing on the international situation.

Tot At Bobcaygeon Kicked By Cow

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BOBCAYGEON, Oct. 13. — A very nearly tragic accident occurred on the farm of Chester Dedney, near Bobcaygeon recently. Mr. Dedney took his small child with him while he milked the cows. The baby crawled away from his father, and under a young cow. He was badly kicked before his father was able to rescue him.

Mr. Dedney rushed the child to a doctor, where he was found to be badly bruised, and is under observation in case of possible internal injuries.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 193

UNDERPOPULATION DANGER TO EMPIRE BENNETT CLAIMS

HALIFAX, Oct. 13 (CP)—Co-operation and a greater sense of unity among British dominions are needed for the reservation of their security and traditions, believes Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, who visited New Zealand, Australia and South Africa last year.

The leader of the Conservative party in Canada bespoke his fears for the Dominions' safety last night before a banquet of fellow alumni of Dalhousie University. All the larger members of the British commonwealth are underpopulated, he said, and in that fact lies their insecurity.

"How long can we remain intact while some nations can hardly breathe, so congested are they with people?" he asked. "Only if we, as a united people, can co-operate together, co-ordinating our efforts, freely associated with each other and with the mother country, may we by continuous effort maintain our empire and the democracy we now enjoy.

"I came back from the other dominions with a profound conviction we must stand together with united effort to maintain these traditions," Mr. Bennett said. "They were handed down to us by our fathers." Are we worthy to maintain them?"

FARMER JAILED FOR BURNING BARN

WHITBY, Oct. 13.—Colin Johnson, farmer of Brock Township, pleaded guilty to a charge of arson in County Court Tuesday morning and was sentenced to twelve months at Guelph by Judge D. B. Coleman.

Samuel Johnson, a brother, pleaded not guilty, and when Crown Attorney Allin Annis stated there was no evidence to offer the charge was dismissed.

The charge of arson arose out of the burning of a barn on Colin Johnson's farm on the night of Oct. 21, 1933, for which the accused received $500 insurance money. Provincial Constable W. H. Clark stated that as the result of information received in June of this year, an investigation was instituted which revealed that the accused had used gasoline to cause the fire, and before doing so had moved some old machinery into the barn.

Col. R. I. Moore, K.C., pleaded for mercy, stating that full restitution had been made since the charge was laid, that the accused was more simple than criminal.

Campbellford Pair 25 Years Married

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 13.— On Friday evening last about seventy relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Free, Garry street, joined with them to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Free were married in Campbellford on Sept. 30th, 1912 by the Rev. G. A. Brown who was at the time minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. The evening was spent in dancing and cards, following which a dainty lunch was served. The highlight of the evening was when the bride of twenty-five years ago cut a beautiful wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. Free were the recipients of a number of lovely gifts in silver which were presented on behalf of the guests by Mrs. Clinton Heath, who in a few well-chosen words congratulated the couple and wished them many years of continued happiness. Mr. Free responded, thanking the guests for their generous gifts and with the singing of "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" the guests departed.

CAMPBELLFORD HOGS
(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 13—Hogs eased off a quarter to bring $9 f.o.b. on Tuesday. Shipping was heavy with five cars being loaded for Peterborough, while in the cattle sections no sales were reported.

CROP GROWING CONTROL IN U.S. TO BE RUSHED

Roosevelt Summons U.S. Congress Early

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (A.P.). — President Roosevelt, ordering a special session of the United States Congress on November 15, instituted a campaign to-day to enact by Christmas, if possible, the bulk of his legislative program sidetracked in the last session. Ordinarily Congress would not meet until January 3.

Administration officials expressed hope for swift Congressional approval of five measures outlined by the President last night in his 19th "Fireside Chat."

1—Crop production control to "build an all-weather farm program so that in the long run prices will be more stable."

2—Wage and hour standards to "make millions of our lowest-paid workers actual buyers of billions of dollars of industrial and farm products."

Flood Prevention.

4—Government reorganization to provide "twentieth century machinery" to make the "democratic process work more efficiently."

5—Stronger anti-trust laws in furtherance of "a low price policy which encourages the widest possible consumption."

The proposals foreshadowed bitter and perhaps prolonged controversy. The first four were left-overs from the session which ended in August, but the anti-monopoly recommendation was new.

Mr. Roosevelt characterized the program as one which the people need immediately to provide prosperity.

"The kind of prosperity we want," he said, "is the sound and permanent kind which is not built up temporarily at the expense of any section or group."

TRENT RIVER HAS ITS ANNIVERSARY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 13.—Anniversary and Thanksgiving services were held Sunday afternoon and evening conducted by Rev. Mr. Littleton of Vroomanton Circuit with a large congregation present at both services. Beautiful potted plants, cut flowers and pumpkins and evergreens adorned the front of the choir loft and pulpit desk. Mr. Wesley Wildman directed the augmented choir of 27 voices, most efficiently.

Rev. Mr. Littleton came with a message on Thanksgiving, taking his text at the afternoon service from the Book of Psalms, "Sing unto the Lord with Thanksgiving." The human heart, he said, instinctively gives thanks, to be grateful in human. Thanksgiving may be termed the sugar of life to the extent it sweetens life. A person who is ungrateful is always sour. There is a relationship between thankfulness and singing, a thankful spirit can be preserved. Thankfulness is to see the good in life—which is rooted in God. When we extend our thoughts back to the Creator it adds greatly to the spirit of thankfulness. Look at youth today, walking the streets and can't get a job. It is a tremendous struggle to live. Are we thankful enough? Live on the top of life to live successfully. Thanksgiving is a way of life. Man's life consisteth not in the abundance of what he possesseth, but in his being — strange that human hearts will not learn; we have to get inside of the influence of God. A Thanksgiving life issues in happiness and affects everything we touch. If we are truly thankful we can't get through life blundering on people's toes. In closing Mr. Littleton emphasized the fact to identify ourselves with God.

The numbers by the choir were "Rejoice Jehovah Reigns," "We Will Rejoice in the Lord." Mr. Max Warne of Havelock rendered two violin selections most acceptably with piano accompaniments played by Mr. Wesley Wildman.

Evening Service.

The prelude for the evening service was a violin solo by Mr. Max Warne, with piano accompaniment played by Mr. Wesley Wildman.

Rev. Mr. Littleton chose his text from Luke 19:41, with the sermon topic, "The Terror of Sin." The weeping of Jesus reveals the very tenderness of his heart. Today people do not think in terms of sin; a sense of sin is necessary to true religion. Who wants a troubled conscience? The tendency is to go on in our own sweet way. You can make a mistake in arithmetic but you don't make a mistake when it comes to your moral life. We are indifferent to the higher claims upon us. The terror of sin is not being found out. It's not the guilty ones who are behind the bars. Jesus had no pleasant time but He had an abiding peace. People who sin get a kick out of it; the innocent ones suffer. The terror of sin today is that we crucify our Lord afresh. We can't sin alone; we drag somebody else down with us.

The choir rendered "O Give Thanks unto the Lord" and "All Hail to Thee Immanuel." Mr. Max Warne gave a violin solo during offertory, with Mr. Wildman at the piano. A quartette, consisting of Messrs. Everard Chiles, B. McBurney, George Brooks and Wesley Wildman, sang "Just as I am."

The objective of the managing board was $200 for both services.

Rev. Dr. Smith of Pickering will conduct services Sunday afternoon, October 17.

Lion Cub Devoured – Only With Love

While the unconcerned-looking cub seems a fated mouthful for its sharp toothed mother, "Edna", the lioness at Sir Tyrwhitt Drake's Maidstone Zoo at Maidstone, Eng., the "old lady" is merely breaking up a wrestling match with one of the other off-spring, seen to the right of her huge maw. Experts would have you believe that it's a sign of affection when a mother-lion "mouthes" her cub in the above fashion.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange made a surprise comeback to-day following strength at Chicago, after being down the five-cent limit. Values closed 1⅜ to 1¼ cent lower, with October at $1.21⅝; November $1.21¼, December $1.17⅝ to ⅛, and May $1.16⅝ to ⅝.

Price fluctuations were erratic throughout the session with shaky stock markets having considerable influence on market action.

Liquidation was heavy the first part of the session, with selling credited to local and southern houses. The market ran into stock loss orders and this assisted the decline with prices crashing 4⅝ to 5 cents, May future leading the way.

SOUTH WARD READY FOR CAMPAIGN

One of the first groups to complete its organization for the Y.W.C.A. campaign is the South Ward of which Mrs. H. Paige Rowell is the commander. Mrs. Paige Rowell has been working most industriously in getting her group lined up for the campaign and has secured the co-operation of the most capable women as captains of the teams. They have succeeded in mustering together over 100 workers. The remaining ward commanders are setting up similar organizations and when they have completed their plans a force of 500 women will have been enlisted for the campaign.

The captains and the team members are meeting on various days this week for the purpose of receiving detailed instructions as to the method of canvass so that when solicitation for funds actually starts on October 22, following the opening dinner in Trinity Church on October 21, there will be a trained force of over 600 men and women to collect the citizens' contributions toward the renovation of the Y.W.C.A. buildings and the extension work at the institution.

The personnel of the South Ward organization is as follows (Mrs. H. Paige Rowell, commander):

Sub-Division 1—Captain, Mrs. Arthur Bellegham. Team: Mrs. A. E. Cauley, Mrs. Claude Elliott, Mrs. E. O. Frederick, Mrs. C. Graham, Mrs. Ivan T. Lillico, Mrs. A. R. Pearson, Mrs. C. M. Rishor, Mrs. J. L. P. Smith, Mrs. S. Zakos.

Sub-Division 2—Captain, Miss Violet David

Short Sketches Of Ontario's 8 New Cabinet Ministers

TORONTO, Oct. 13—(CP)—The re-organized Ontario Cabinet, sworn in last night at Toronto, includes eight new ministers. Following are sketches of the new members:

Hon. Eric W. Cross, K.C.
Minister of Municipal Affairs and Welfare.

At 32 Mr. Cross is the youngest Cabinet Minister in Ontario's history. He entered politics in 1931, unsuccessfully contesting a by-election for the Norfolk seat vacated by the death of Hon. John Martin, Conservative Minister of Agriculture. In May, 1935, he was appointed chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board and resigned shortly before last week's election. He won Haldimand-Norfolk for the Liberal party.

Hon. Colin A. Campbell
Minister of Public Works.

Mr. Campbell, 38 years old, is a Cabinet Minister without a seat in the Legislature. Since 1934 he had represented Frontenac-Addington in the House of Commons, but resigned to contest Addington in the Oct. 6 Provincial election. He was beaten, but a seat will be found for him. Graduate of Queen's University, Mr. Campbell is a mining engineer.

Hon. P. M. Dewan
Minister of Agriculture.

A Bachelor of the Science of Agriculture, Mr. Dewan was educated at University of Ottawa, St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S., and the Ontario Agricultural College. He was born at Osgoode, near Kemptville, Ont., 46 years ago. Resident of Woodstock, Mr. Dewan is manager of the Oxford Farmers' Co-operative Produce Co. Ltd. and served as alderman in Woodstock from 1931 to 1934. He first represented Oxford in the House in 1934, and was re-elected last week.

Hon. Harold J. Kirby
Minister of Health.

First Ontario Health Minister not a medical doctor. Mr. Kirby is a lawyer in Toronto. He also is director of a real estate firm. Forty-two years old, he was born at Maple, Ont., educated at North Toronto Collegiate and the Osgoode Hall Law School. From 1932 to 1934 he was an alderman and won Toronto Eglinton for the Liberal party in the 1934 general election, retaining his seat last week.

Hon. Gordon D. Conant.
Attorney-General.

A practising lawyer in Oshawa since 1912, Mr. Conant resigned as Crown Attorney to win Ontario constituency for the Hepburn government in last week's general election. He has never had a seat in the Legislature until now. But he was Reeve of Oshawa in 1914, Mayor in 1916 and 1917 and held many other municipal positions. Born of United Empire Loyalist stock, he lives on land granted by the Crown to his great grandfather. He is a graduate of University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall.

Hon. M. MacBride
Minister of Labor.

Brantford's eight-times Mayor, Mr. MacBride is the only Cabinet member who ran as other than a straight Liberal candidate in last week's election. He won Brantford as an Independent Liberal after sitting in three previous sessions as an Independent. Born at White Lake, Ont., and educated at Arnprior, Mr. MacBride was a printer on the old Ottawa Free Press. He also did some reporting.

Later he was assistant foreman of the composing room of the Winnipeg Free Press in 1906 and moved to Brantford in 1908 to establish a job-printing office. During the Ferguson Conservative regime in Ontario he held office as supervisor of traffic, a post created under the Department of Highways and later abolished.

Hon. W. L. Houck
Minister Without Portfolio.

Born at Buffalo, N.Y., and educated at Cornell University, Mr. Houck has lived on his farm near Niagara Falls, Ont., since 1911. His political life has been brief. He was a Liberal candidate in Niagara Falls in the 1934 general election, winning by a big majority. Last week he again won easily. He and his two brothers operate the famous Llenroc Farms on the Niagara Boulevard, breeding pedigreed Holsteins. He is 44 years old.

Hon. A. St. Clair Gordon
Minister Without Portfolio.

Mr. Gordon was first elected to the Legislature in the 1934 general election as a supporter of the Hepburn government. He is a son of the late D. A. Gordon who represented Kent in the House of Commons as a Liberal from 1904 to 1911. Resident of Wallaceburg, Mr. Gordon has long been interested in politics.

BEE IS ARRANGED BY APSLEY WOMEN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Oct. 13.—The monthly meeting of the Apsley W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. R. Tucker with fourteen members and six visitors being present. Two of the visitors joining the Institute at the close of the meeting.

The secretary read the monthly report. The roll call was answered to by contributions to Christmas cakes to be sold, to replenish the funds.

A bee was discussed and decided on, to prepare the Orange Hall for meetings and also to house the library which was donated by an old Apsley boy, Dr. H. B. Anderson, and also more being promised by him and Mr. G. K. Fraser, of Burleigh Falls, in the near future.

The bee to be held on Wednesday, October 20th. Mrs. Wellington Lean was appointed delegate to the Toronto convention. Mrs. N. Wilson as alternate.

After the business was concluded Mrs. F. Bullied took the chair for the program. Current events was given very ably by Mrs. Harry Reed, who also read a report of the unveiling of the memorial to Mrs. Hoodless the founder of the Women's Institutes.

A Thanksgiving reading by Mrs. Wellington Lean was greatly enjoyed. A paper on the beautification of the home and garden, by Miss Laura Ashenhurst and Mrs. W. G. Smith will give the current events for the November meeting. The meeting then closed with the singing of the National Anthem, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

At Aldred Mill, Loon Lake, James Rayment met with a painful accident a few days ago. While working on a barn roof it collapsed and in consequence he suffered a broken wrist and several bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rosborough, of Orono, and Miss Opal Rosborough of Macdonald Hall, Guelph, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Rosborough for Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bell and son Allan visited friends at Warsaw recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Cephas Heard visited Mrs. Heard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Graham, of Lakefield, Sunday. Mr. Graham is seriously ill.

Mrs. Ernest Mallood is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Boyce.

Mr. and Mrs. Yerex, of Toronto, spent Thanksgiving at the home of Mrs. Yerex's sister, Mrs. Elmer Milburn.

Three-Way Police Radio Looms

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(AP)—The forthcoming Havana conference on communications probably will result in the establishment of three-way police radio system, connecting Havana with Miami, Detroit with Windsor, Ont., and Albany, N.Y., with Montreal, Edward B. White of the Federal Communications Commission, told a police convention yesterday.

This set-up would mean the "beginning of international co-operation," he told the annual convention of the Association of Police Communication Officers.

They Want To Go Home

The Bishop of London, Right Rev. A. F. Winnington-Ingram, gave the Empire Migration Conference something to think about when he produced a letter sent to him by a former settler in Saskatoon. The conference in London had gathered for the purpose of planning how a great many more British families might be sent to Canada, and the letter from Saskatoon told what had happened to those coming out in 1928-29.

The Saskatoon writer, G. M. Mackken, president of the Women's Section of the British Empire Settlers of 1928-29, wrote to protest "against sending more immigrants out to Canada when there are hundreds of settlers here already demanding to be sent back to England." The letter from the western woman concluded with the suggestion: "Let Canada first put her house in order before inviting others to her shores."

That was probably not the sort of letter the Empire Migration Conference expected or desired to have placed before it. It would put somewhat of a damper on the high hope of having a large number from the Old Land pack up and start for Canada. And yet if the Conference desired to hear the truth it was contained in that letter.

There are undoubtedly a good many people in Saskatchewan today who wish they had never gone there, but Canada had nothing to do with creating the drought and dust conditions which has defeated the efforts of the settlers. For that reason the advice about "Canada putting her house in order before inviting others to her shores" lacks point. It is not a plain statement of fact. Canada has had a tremendous burden placed upon her by reason of having to provide relief and seed grain and supplies for thousands of families in the drought area. If there had been no general relief movement the people and their stock would most certainly have perished.

There is no injustice being done to this country by having all the facts about the drought area placed before the Migration Conference in London by one who has a knowledge of facts, but we fail entirely to see the reason for adding the rider about "Canada putting her house in order before inviting others to her shores." At the moment there has been no general invitation extended by this country.

Do Not Want New School

Lancaster County in Pennsylvania has a strange situation. There is a handsome new school house costing $125,000, and half the funds were supplied by the government under a work scheme. And there have been buses provided to take the children there and bring them home, as the building of the new school has meant the closing of a number of small one-room schools.

Everything seems to be fine except for the Amish people of whom there are a number in that section of Pennsylvania. A branch of the Mennonites, they object to the new school, and their object to the closing of the little schools. They object to debt and they claim debt has been contracted to build the new school which will teach their children "many things of the world which we consider unnecessary because they are not the things of God."

People who do not know the Amish folk might be inclined to regard them as a trifle cracked or as fanatics. But they are not. There are a number of these families in Waterloo county and a few in Perth, and they are essentially people of the land; they are good farmers, but they do not aspire to be anything else. They do not desire their children to be taught to the point where they will be "educated off the land" according to their own expression. Their method of clothing is simple; their tastes are the same and their wants are few. They are a thrifty, hard-working lot of people, and above all else they are honorable in their dealings and they pay their bills. Probably we might regard them as peculiar, but they cause no trouble. The officials in Lancaster county of Pennsylvania may know well enough how to deal with them, but our belief is they will have trouble enough persuading Amish parents to send their children to schools of which the parents do not approve. The first thing they will say is "they will educate my child off the land," and there they will stick.

Not So Smart

People who go about the country robbing stores are not as a rule as smart as they appear to think they are. It is not long ago since intruders broke into the store of Fowler and Pendrie at Millbrook. The amount of material removed was considerable; in fact they took more than they left. It seems they considered all that was necessary would be to get away from Millbrook and everything would be all right.

But things do not work out that way. Not a bit of it. The people who broke into the store seemed to have overlooked the fact that police and others would be constantly on the lookout for them. Two men have been arrested, and they were wearing some of the stolen clothing. Two trunks filled with more of the Millbrook clothing are said to have been found in their possession.

It is quite possible that when these men got away safely from Millbrook they were fairly certain their raid had been a success. They did not have sufficient mentality to tell them that wearing the clothing was advertising the fact that they were in possession of it, and trunks filled with more of it can hardly be well concealed when officers begin looking through the premises. It generally works out that way. A man who steals is not nearly as smart as he thinks he is, and the police who look for thieves are not as dull as the thieves seem to give them credit for being.

Guns Kill People

No one desires to tie a knot in the legitimate sport which any person may have, but there is sound enough reason for saying plainly that there are people going about with guns today in the duck hunting business who should never handle a weapon.

It may even be worse when the season opens for people to enter the woods with high powered rifles in search of deer.

The fact that a person may own a gun and some shells to put in it does not make him a hunter; it does not give him that sanity and bush sense which breeds caution.

The papers have been telling of cases where young lives and older ones have been sacrificed because the gun went off at the wrong time; because the trigger got caught when taking the weapon through a fence.

A man who is much in the bush and in the open spaces is more to be trusted with a gun than the man from the city or the town whose annual experience is probably confined to an occasional excursion to try his hand with a gun.

A gun is a death-dealing implement and it should be so regarded by those who have only a limited experience with it.

Picking Up Potatoes

One might well hesitate before printing the results of the competition in Presque Isle, Maine, for picking up potatoes. Robert Hallatt picked up 86 pecks in 15 minutes. When potatoes are sold in our district they generally come by the bag and there are six pecks in a bag. So it would mean that in 15 minutes Robert had picked up the equivalent of 14 1-3 bags, and that is only decimally removed from doing one bag per minute. One of the entrants, Charles Hitchcock, with only one arm, gathered 72 pecks in the 15 minutes of the contest. A Canadian farm girl from New Brunswick was also entered, and she gathered 57 pecks. And did it in 15 minutes.

The state of Maine is good potato country and probably the spuds were large in size and thick upon the ground as the contest started. But it would look rather futile for some genius to attempt selling machines to pick up potatoes when there are men around who can do the thing at the rate of almost one six-peck bag per minute.

How Music Is Born

Norman H. Moray who lives in Ashtabula, Ohio, is a composer. That is, he writes music, songs, and all such. Often enough we have wondered how such work was done. It is so different to taking a hammer and saw, some boards and nails and building a chicken house. There you have the visible and tangible things with which to work. But writing a bit of music is separate and apart from building chicken houses or nailing on or taking off screen doors.

Mr. Moray says he depends on inspiration. This way:

"I may be anywhere doing something—or nothing, when all of a sudden a tune pops into my head."

Just like that. Mr. Moray makes his living in this way, and if the popping process were to cease he would be in a bad way. But after listening to a number of tunes which have come into existence in recent years we are not positive that the popping process produces the best results. Something in the way of an eliminator or a bit of refining machinery is needed to give the best results if we are forced to rely on the popping business for our music.

Fine, But Not True

We admit this makes rather pleasant reading:

"The Canadian people never have countenanced violence in the conduct of their own affairs and they never will. Our political leaders have had their differences of opinion and that was to be expected, but physical violence is something which we have not used in our form of government."

That little clipping has been on the desk here for several days. It was part of an address delivered at some meeting of young people, and if true it would make a nice record. The trouble is it is not true. Probably we are learning more as we go along. When Upper and Lower Canada were united in 1841 this country had no settled capital. The united province had its parliament rians gather at Kingston, Montreal, Toronto, Quebec and finally Ottawa. In 1849 parliament was sitting in Montreal. Lord Elgin then being the Governor-General. One of the most contentious pieces of legislation introduced was the Rebellion Losses Bill. During the rebellion of 1837 and the disorders of 1838 much property had been destroyed, much by the rebels and a good deal by the British soldiers. The trouble came in determining the awards particularly in Lower Canada, the claim being that the rebels were going to be paid for losses which they themselves inflicted. One of the plain-spoken claims was that Louis Lafontaine was going to reward his fellow-countrymen for rebelling against the queen.

The opposition to the bill was bitter, but the Baldwin-Lafontaine government had sufficient majority to put it through, and Lord Elgin—although as an individual he might have opposed it—was determined responsible government should have its way in Canada. Late in April of 1849 when he went to the parliament buildings to give assent to the Rebellion Losses bill trouble started. Some of the Conservative members made for the door with hoots and groans. Outside had gathered a crowd and when Lord Elgin appeared he was pelted with rotten eggs. Later in the day the crowd again visited the parliament buildings where an evening session was on and smashed windows with rocks. Then they entered and drove out the members and in a short time the parliament buildings were in flames.

When Lord Elgin made a second appearance within a week he was pelted with stones; when ladies from his house ventured to attend church they were openly insulted. So it is not correct to claim that we have always been peaceful and wise in the manner of self government. Our parliament buildings were burned and a Governor-General was pelted with eggs and stones.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The electors have solved the question of just where the C.C.F. members should be seated in the Legislature.

Two trains collided at Clinton and the report says that no passengers were injured. That is a condition that rarely follows a collision on the highway.

The Y.W.C.A. campaign is enlisting the services of some six hundred citizens. With an army like that in the field it will be difficult for subscriptions to hide themselves anywhere.

Buffalo man, offered the choice of washing dishes to pay for a broken window in a restaurant or going to jail for 60 days, took the imprisonment. He was probably married.

Nearly 500,000 more folk are paying income tax in the United States this year than in 1934. That sounds like either better times or better methods of collection.

Burwash Industrial Farm reports bigger crops than usual but the statement is not clear as to whether this was caused by better weather or because more help was available.

Sudbury has adopted a curfew hour, requiring all children 16 years or under to be off the street at 9 o'clock at night. Will the parents be in to greet them when they get home?

Buffalo police have declared war on jay-walkers so that those who manage to miss getting hit by automobiles will find themselves dragged into police court. It is getting to be a tough world for the person who goes around on foot.

Toronto is to have three candidates in the coming mayoralty election. Former Mayor C. A. Maguire, who probably got all the running he wanted in the recent provincial campaign, will not be one of them.

The Duke of Windsor is to be invited to the White House during his American visit and is being wildly cheered by the people of Berlin where he is at present. He would trade it all, we imagine, however, for a round of applause from a London crowd.

TROUBLE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Uncle Eben's full of pride, there's lots of it within his hide, he'd like to strut I know; he'd like to get his chin up high, and lift his feet up nice and dry, instead of going so slow.

¶ He'd like to have his chest puffed out, but now and then he has the gout, in poise that puts a crimp; and on the days when gout is bad, why Eben gets about quite sad, and then he has to limp.

¶ For Uncle Eben's rather proud, when he goes out to face a crowd, he likes to look quite neat; the sorest touch he has to bear, is when the people stop and stare and look upon his feet.

¶ My Uncle buys shoes that are good, and pays as much as how he should, his foot is long and thin; he knows that when the buying's done, his troubled times have just begun, he has to break them in.

¶ For Uncle Eben's feet have corns, some large and tapered into horns, and he has bunions too; and he has callous on his soles, that hurts him like a heap of coals, of ingrown nails a few.

THE FOURTEEN training centres established by the British government to prepare the unemployed to take their places in the ranks of industrial workers are at the present time less than two-thirds full. Their accommodation will take care of 6,711 men but the men now receiving instruction number only 4,409, more than 2,300 short.

This is to be wondered at in view of the fact that these centres have already succeeded in placing over 50,000 men in good positions and last year alone 10,400—about 97 per cent. of those completing their course—were found jobs.

The training requires six months and the men entering the schools have the choice of twenty-five different trades including brick-laying, cabinet-making, carpentry, coach-building and trimming, fitting and turning, gas and hot-water fitting, glass tube bending and welding, hotel waiting, hair-dressing, metal spinning and polishing, machine operating, instrument making, plastering, electric oxygen welding, wood machining and sheet metal working.

Observers fear for the great swannery at Abbotsbury, Dorset, Eng.and. At present trained men, familiar with the habits of the swans over a large number of years, are watching the movement of the birds as they move out of the swannery toward their winter feeding ground behind Chesil Beach. Less than a mile away Royal Air Force bombing range is in operation and the experts are afraid that the bombing planes will frighten the swans away and ruin the swannery which is 1,000 years old.

London's Green Belt.

IN THE spring of 1935 a scheme to surround London with a green girdle to preserve open stretches of country at the outskirts of the metropolis was announced and since that time the Middlesex County council has expended over $5,000,000 in the purchase of land extending from the borders of Essex in the East to Denham, Bucks, in the West.

Population is increasing so rapidly in the county, at the rate of 50,000 a year that action was needed of the green belt scheme with its provisions for recreation and beautiful scenery was to be preserved. Between 1931 and 1936 more than 124,000 houses were erected and hundreds of factories built and the spread of housing and industry was so great that immediate action had to be taken.

Recently over 8,000 acres of unspoiled countryside in Middlesex have been added to the belt and as a result of the purchases that have been made an almost continuous barrier against further building has been provided along the Middlesex border.

Among the land recently purchased was the Grims Dyke estate of 116 acres, the home of the late Sir W. S. Gilbert of Gilbert and Sullivan fame, while another area of 600 acres has been bought from Trinity College, Cambridge.

Britain's savings have now mounted to a figure that breaks all records. The total invested in savings certificates, the post office, saving bank and in the trustees saving banks at the end of the year was approximately £1,378,400,000, an increase of £50,000,000 in a year. These figures are from the annual report just issued by the National Savings Committee.

Wonderful Sheep Dogs.

FOR THREE days recently the pick of the sheepdogs in the British Isles, three teams of twelve collies each from Wales, Scotland and England fought for supremacy at the Ely racecourse near Cardiff. The championship shield—the blue riband of the heather—was won by J. M. Wilson of Innerleithen Scotland with "Roy".

The tests were most exacting. For the final competition there were two out-runs of about 800 yards to bring together two flocks of ten sheep placed right and left of the course. The twenty sheep had then to be driven to the handler and thence for 200 yards through gates. Afterward the dogs had to separate marked sheep and drive them into a pen six feet square. The time limit was 30 minutes and the test involved more than two miles of hard running by the dogs.

Lord Austin, the British motor-car magnate who has been urging employers to give jobs to men over 45 years of age, was 34 himself before he obtained his first important position—to control the manufacture of a sheep-shearing concern. He went to Australia when young, served his apprenticeship in engineering in Melbourne and after returning to England started his own concern.

He takes his title, Lord Austin of Longbridge—from the place where he designed, built and produced his first motor-car. Today he employes 20,000 persons.

WOMEN AND CIGARETTE SMOKING

Editor Examiner:

Sir: The smoking of cigarettes by the women of today is becoming an established habit. No doubt in the past years women have been called upon to adjust themselves to many changes—styles of wearing apparel, and other changes that were new and more modern.

As the years have passed, no fault has been found with the many changes that have been introduced into the women's world, and no ill effects has ever come to those who have followed the extreme call to changing conditions. But the introduction of cigarette smoking among women and young girls has become very alarming. The development of this habit when once formed is hard to get away from, and will bring wreckage to womanhood and girlhood, and will lower their ideals of life. The finer feelings of many beautiful young women will be sacrificed by the influence of cigarette smoking and its association. In this day of progress and eightenment we would naturally expect to see women demodstrating how to reform abuses and how to make life more beautiful.

We think of the women of the pioneer days of this country who by their dignity of thought and action made such valuable contributions toward the building of a greater Canada. Will the women of today sacrifice their heritage and go down to the lower levels of thinking and indulge in an evil that will be injurious to their own bodies, and also one that will be transmitted to the coming generation?

NOT GOING TO ENGLAND

Editor Examiner:

Sir: The "Toronto Daily Star" Oct. 9, carries the following statement made by Randolf Churchill who is a friend and confidant of the Duke of Windsor and sees him frequently. "The Duke of Windsor will never again set foot on the soil of his native land, and further states this news is a shock to perhaps millions of Englishmen who were looking forward to the time when Windsor and his American wife would live and move among them again."

In "Work" a labor paper published in Washington, D.C. is this announcement. "At last David and Wally are coming to America. If they land in New York the big city will stage a welcome which will rival that given Lindbergh and all America will be kind to them. We're still a romance loving people. The formal announcement says the Duke hopes to pursue his study of housing and related subjects while in this country, apparently that has been disturbing his critics in England. He made such studies while he was king and emperor and that's one reason he got "in bad" with Tories of the Baldwin stripe. He will find plenty of material in this country because the story of what we haven't done in the way of slum clearance would fill a library."

Seemingly to David and his much adored Wally, London is not the only city nor yet is England the only country in the world. Yet it is quite believeable that the above resolution made by Windsor was more painful and created more worry and uneasiness at mind than the farewell to the English Throne.

Told To Quit—They Keep On Driving

Trouble to Keep Tab on Offenders; Only Sure Way to Take Off the Markers

(Ottawa Journal)

IN ONE DAY'S traffic court Magistrate Strike had before him a fair cross-section of those of Ottawa drivers who break the laws and get caught at it. One called by the Bench a "typically impatient" driver, who cuts in and out of traffic on Wellington street, for reckless driving was fined $10 and received a twenty-day suspension of his permit. Another driver was fined for making a "U" turn in a manner that blocked traffic—such turns should be banned—and another for the extremely common offence of making a left turn without giving a signal.

Rarest in the list was the case of a man prosecuted for driving his car while his driving permit was under suspension for an earlier violation of the traffic law. Here the fine was $25, and the offender's permit will be sent to Toronto for such action as the Department of Highways decides to take. The Magistrate said that courts orders must be obeyed, but in the matter of permit-suspensions there is a wide gulf between the official order and the individual's observance of it.

As The Journal has pointed out on other occasions, it is almost impossible to detect the violator of such an order if he keeps out of trouble during the period of suspension and does not thrust himself upon the notice of the constable who prosecuted him. Even if the offender scrupulously obeys the court very often other members of the same family are licensed to drive, and the punishment inflicted may be technical rather than practical.

The most effective weapon at the service of the authorities in the war on recklessness—except perhaps the jail sentence—is their right to take up the license plates from the vehicle used by the offending driver. That is a penalty a man cannot conceal from his associates. It is sharp and drastic. It is true the Department frequently orders the markers taken up, when it surveys the reports of traffic courts and the recommendations of magistrates, but the lack of publicity in such cases does much to relieve this departmental discipline of full effectiveness.

Duty To Defend Liberties of People

Western Paper Certain They Are Now Attacked; Alberta Moves a Challenge Not to be Ignored

(Edmonton Journal)

REAFFIRMATION by the government of Canada of the basic right of Canadian subjects to freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and a free press, and a frank statement of its intention to maintain at all times these fundamentals which form a part of the unwritten constitution of the dominion, would go a long way toward reassuring not only the people of Alberta but Canadians everywhere.

Announcement by Ottawa that prompt disallowance will be the fate of any provincial legislation infringing on these three rights of British subjects would allay the fear that has been aroused lately and would serve to clear the air for the future.

So taken for granted as a part of their British heritage are the liberties of speech, of assembly and of the press, that many Canadians and most Canadian governments have given them no more thought than they have to the air Canadians breathe. But certain recent events in Alberta and the appearance of related tendencies in one or two other provinces have shown that attempts at curtailing these liberties still are possible.

Because the constitutional right of British subjects to free expression of opinion is not set down in so many words in the British North America act is all the more reason for the federal government at this time to draw the attention of the people of Canada and of the several provinces to these fundamentals of democracy.

In many countries they are written into the national constitutions. That of the United States states explicitly that "congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

A reminder by the central government of the dominion that it has been, is and will be its policy to maintain at all times these fundamental British rights—freedom of speech, freedom of assembly and freedom of the press—is desirable at this time. They are no less a part of the constitution of Canada because they have not been written into the British North America act. And it is the plain duty of the government of Canada to defend them at all times and in all parts of the dominion.

STINGING REBUKE.

(H. M. Harrison, in Windsor Star)

FAILURE of Ontario Conservatives to decipher the signs of the times—the signs of the times being that not a single Tory victory has been scored in the last umpteen federal or provincial tries—gave rise to the election. And with the same results. Early this year Premier Hepburn was content to save the people of Ontario the expense of an election, but the opposition dared him bring one on. Came the Lewises, the Martins and the Frankensteens, and Mitch said, "Okay, we'll have an election. On that issue, and the general record of the Government." The people of Ontario rebuked the Lewises, the Martins and the Frankensteens—or, at least, their boosters, back-slappers and condoners—and at the same time approved the general record of the Government. It was a stinging rebuke, a rousing approval. Expensive, to be sure, but probably a good thing in that it cleared the air. Now the Lewises know where they stand—or sit down. Likewise the doubtless sincere but entirely too eager Conservatives. It's neither a C. I. O. year nor a Tory year.

MACHINE JAMMED.

(London Observer)

BLACKPOOL Football Club, at each home match, gives two free seats for the next home match to the holder of the program bearing a chosen number.

Yesterday, when the club played Leicester City at Blackpool, the directors chose 1,009 as the lucky number.

At the end of the game a man produced a program numbered 1,009 and was given the free seats. Then 800 other people turned up with programs which also bore the "lucky" number 1,009. To issue tickets to all of them would have cost the club about £250.

The congestion of applicants for free tickets became so great that the police had to be called, and the names and addresses of the 800 were taken.

The directors investigated and held a special meeting. At its close they issued a statement, explaining that the machine at the printers which registers the consecutive numbers on the programs had jammed at 1,000."

The directors hoped the public would consider this explanation satisfactory, also, in view of it that no further requests for free tickets would be forthcoming.

U. S. VIEW OF HEPBURN.

(Detroit Free Press)

ON THIS side of the border interest in the decisive victory of the Mitchell Hepburn Government at the Ontario polls centres on the fact that the Premier built his six-week election campaign almost exclusively on an anti-C. I. O. platform. . . .

Making it clear that he was in no sense an enemy of organized labor or of legitimate strike methods, Mr. Hepburn said flatly that there was no place "for paid labor propagandists and agitators from another country" in his province. He warned the visitors off the premises, so to speak. . . .

The emphatic way in which his Government has been returned to office constitutes an unmistakable announcement by the people of Ontario that they believe Canadian organized labor should run its own affairs without domination or interference from elsewhere, and that Mr. Lewis and his organization are not welcome.

"BAD FOR MORALS."

(Winnipeg Free Press)

A PSYCHOLOGIST in New York announces that swing music is "bad for morals." He watched a youth and maiden while they listened to classical music and then to swing. Under the influence of Bach and Beethoven they behaved with perfect propriety, but when the swing began to play they began to neck.

This psychologist is a bit late. Socrates says in Plato's "Republic" that the only music allowed in his perfect state will be music that has the rhythm of "a well-ordered life." The other kind, "the Lydian airs" which were the swing music of the day, is a temptation to the young, Socrates says. Socrates made that remark about 2,309 years ago, but nothing has been done about it yet.

CHURCH OWES MUCH TO BRAVE PIONEERS SPEAKER CLAIMS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 13.—A graphic description of the devotion of the Canadian pioneer to the church was given by Mrs. J. A. Porter at the October meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Lakefield United church, held in the Sunday School room on Tuesday afternoon, October 5. The theme of the meeting was "The church of the Living God."

Mrs. E. Orr presided during the devotional period. The eighty-fourth Psalm "How Amiable are They Tabernacles" was read in unison. Hymns and scripture readings were in keeping with the theme. The devotional leaflet read by Mrs. Orr dealt with man's instinct for worship. From earliest times, even in a primitive way, man worshipped a higher Power. St. Paul referred to the Christian Church as the "Body of Christ." May be find in God's House today the power which steadies and sustains us throughout the whole of life, she concluded.

A most appropriate and delightful solo was rendered by Mrs. Judson Hull, the title, "How Lovely Are They Dwellings, O Lord of Hosts." Mrs. Kelly played the accompaniment for the solo, while Mrs. Hopkins presided at the piano during the hymns.

The first chapter of the new study book "A New Church faces a new World" was given by Mrs. Porter. Beginning with the landing of the "Hector" in 1771, at Pictou, Nova Scotia, with early settlers from the Highlands of Scotland, a graphic picture was given of the devotion of the Canadian pioneer to the church.

"Much honor is due the saddle-bag preachers of Upper Canada for carrying the gospel to lonely out-of-the-way places, over trackless wilderness," Mrs. Porter said.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. W. W. Yale, president of the society, conducted the business session. It was decided that the society would hold a supper meeting with a round table conference at the sectional rally scheduled for the third week in October. Mrs. (Rev.) Steed of Toronto was chosen guest speaker for the thanksgiving meeting in November.

The singing of a hymn and the Mizpah Benediction brought the meeting to a close.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

The monument, erected near Chateau Thierry, commemorating the gallantry of the U.S. forces that stopped the German advance on Paris in July, 1918, was dedicated under the auspices of the American battle monuments commission, a contingent of the American Legion went to France to be present at the dedication ceremony.

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).

STRANGE career in petticoats of William H. Richeson, 26, who lived six years as the "wife" of a Brooklyn steamfitter, was ended today.

The slight dark-haired defendant, his plucked eyebrows lowered, listened shyly yesterday to court testimony he had posed as a woman for the last 10 years.

Probation Officer George Hockstra said the steamfitter, whom Richeson "married" at the Municipal Building, October 13, 1931, never had suspected anything wrong and was "all broken up over the discovery."

Hockstra said Richeson previously had worked four years as a waitress, chambermaid, hospital attendant and chorus girl.

The deception was revealed when he was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge and sent to the women's house of detention. Magistrate Sylvester Sabbatino sentenced Richeson to 90 days in the workhouse after Arnold T. Ginsberg, his attorney, pleading for leniency, explained:

"He gets a tremendous kick out of fooling people."

Toronto Schools All Re-open

TORONTO, Oct. 13 — (CP) — Toronto's 120,000 school children went to classes today for belated opening of the fall term as education authorities considered a four-months-old epidemic of infantile paralysis nearly over.

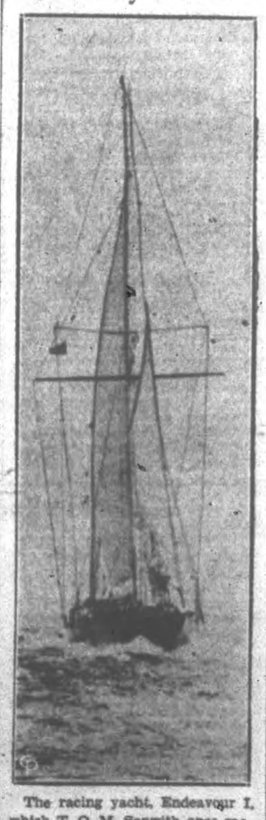
Scheduled to open Sept. 1, public and high schools were kept closed from week to week until today when doors opened to excited throngs of children, tired of a vacation six weeks too long. School authorities were unable to estimate immediately if opening-day attendance was normal.

Two weeks ago a Toronto newspapers started publishing lesson outlines for pupils in all grades. Selected teachers made up the suggested courses of study.

GIVEN REAL BONUS

BIRMINGHAM, England—(CP).—Six hundred workers in a glass factory who lined up for their pay envelopes recently, received a bonus of nine weeks' wages. The company has a profit-sharing fund.

On Way Home



The racing yacht, Endeavour I, which T. O. M. Sopwith once raced for the America's cup, is shown off Cowes' Roads as she neared Gosport, Eng., after her thrilling 14-day adventure at the mercy of Atlantic storms. The yacht broke her tow while en route from Newport, R.I., to England. Fears were openly expressed that the craft had foundered until she was sighted by a tanker off the coast of Ireland. Captain Ned Heard and his veteran crew were accorded a tremendous reception at Gosport.

ENJOYABLE TIME AT WEINER ROAST

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 12.—The convenors of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Young People's Society, Misses Edna Graham and Alice Cole and Messrs. Jim Moore and Philip Ford, were responsible for a very delightful evening held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beamish on Thursday evening.

After all had gathered at the home in Percy Township, the committee in charge sponsored some interesting games and contests. A vehicle contest was won by Rev. D. K. Perrie's group. The winning group received a box of candy and the losers provided impromptu speeches. A "Guess my girl" contest was won by Miss Daisy Graham's group. A short program included community singing, mouth organ selections by Mr. Roy Johnson and mandolin selection by Mr. Donald Beamish. The main feature of the evening's entertainment was the weiner roast, which were served hot with warm rolls, marshmallows and coffee.

Ere the twenty-two members departed for their homes Mr. Roy Johnson moved a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Beamish for their hospitality and to the committee who planned the very enjoyable time.

House Warming Held

Mr. and Mrs. James Beamish who have made their new home in Percy township were given a house warming on Friday evening, when the former's sister and brothers, nieces and nephews and a few intimate friends gathered at their home.

The evening was most pleasantly spent in games and round and square dancing with music provided by Messrs. Donald, Arthur and James Beamish and Philip Ford. Around midnight steaming hot weiners, rolls and coffee were served, before the guests left for their homes, each one wished Mr. and Mrs. Beamish the best of luck in their new home in Ontario, and thanked them for making them feel welcome.

MILLBROOK

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Needler, who have been abroad for the past fifteen months, chiefly in England and Scotland, are at present the guests of Mr. A. A. and Miss Etta Needler. Other guests at the home of Mr. and Miss Needler last week were Mrs. Charles Needler and her three daughters, Misses Janet Helen, and Alice, of Toronto.

Miss Francis Turner, B.A., of Toronto, was home for the Thanksgiving holiday week end with her parents, Dr. H. A. and Mrs. Turner.

Messrs. Lawrence Ingram, of Toronto, and Carmen Ingram, of London, were home for Thanksgiving with their mother and sister, Mrs. T. C. and Miss Vanita Ingram.

Dr. G. H. and Mrs. Needler, Mr. A. A. and Miss Etta Needler, and Miss Pearl Burnham spent Thanksgiving at Gore's Landing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Byam and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Martin, and two daughters, of Toronto, spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Byam.

NEWLYWED PAIRS HONORED BY GIFTS

PONTYPOOL, Oct. 12.—On Monday evening about three hundred friends and neighbors gathered in the Orange hall, Pontypool, when a presentation was made to Mr. and Mrs. Percy McMahon (nee Marjorie Culley.)

The evening was spent in dancing, music for round and square dancing was supplied by Percy Mantle, Wilfred Turin, Jack Galloway, Roy Porter, Jack Sisson, Mrs. Leonard Aldred and others.

During the evening the young couple were called to the platform when a very appropriate address was read by Mr. Alfred Higgs, and the presentation of a studio couch and arm chair was made. Mr. McMahon, on behalf of himself and his wife, made a very suitable reply.

The ladies had provided lunch which was then served with coffee. Dancing then continued until the early hours of morning.

Shower is Held

On Friday evening a large number of friends and neighbors gathered in the hall when a shower was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lunn (nee Arlene Gilbanks), who were married recently.

Dancing was the main attraction and music for round and square dancing was supplied by Hutchinson Bros., Percy Mantle, Bob Wright, Mrs. John Lunn and others.

An address was read by Miss Sara McClenn, and the young couple were presented with many useful and costly gifts.

Mr. Lunn, on behalf of his bride, thanked his friends most heartily and expressed the hope that all would visit them in their home. The gifts were then unwrapped, lunch was served and dancing continued.

Personals

Mrs. Robert Wheelans and son, Bobby, of Toronto, spent the holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kellett.

Miss Muriel Fiske and Mrs. Verdun Fiske, spent the holiday at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fiske.

Mrs. George Wright and daughter, Robinette, of Lindsay, visited with friends in Manvers last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Riding, of Oshawa, spent the week-end with Rev. Riding, Pontypool.

On Sunday, October 17th, a special anniversary service will be held in Manvers United church at 7 p.m. A special speaker and special music has been arranged for the service.

FAIRVIEW

The opening meeting of Fairview Women's Association was held last Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Wilbert Rosborough. There were a large number of members and friends present, about thirty in number. A quilt top was almost finished during the afternoon which will be used for missions. A delightful lunch was served by the committee in charge.

Miss Olive Day is attending the teachers' convention at Lindsay.

Mr. Clayton Pascoe of Saskatoon was a recent guest at the home of his cousin, Mr. Harold Lewis. Mr. Pascoe reports no crops at all in his section. All the feed they have is Russian thistle. He was sent east to buy feed for that dried-out area.

Shot In Stomach Lad 4, Dies

STRATFORD, Ont., Oct. 13.—(CP).—His abdomen pierced by a splintered small calibre rifle bullet, Meredith Gregory, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gregory, East Nissouri, died in the hospital here last night after an emergency operation. The lad was accidentally shot yesterday afternoon when he playfully ran against a .22 calibre rifle held by Charles Elso, 17, who works on Mr. Gregory's farm.

According to the story told Coroner Dr. Maxwell Fraser of Stratford, the boy was playing near a car owned by Lloyd Noll of Stratford, at the Gregory farm. Noll and Elson were going driving and Elson took his rifle along with him. The little lad, playfully bidding them goodbye, ran against the rifle and it discharged, sending the bullet into his stomach.

PICK MACCULLUM NEW MODERATOR

MONTREAL, Oct. 13—(CP).—Rev. W. B. MacCullum of St. Elmo Presbyterian Church, Maxville, Ont., was elected Moderator of Montreal and Ottawa Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Canada at opening sessions last night of the Synod's annual conference.

A native of Pictou County, N.S., the new moderator spent most of his life in the Glengarry Presbytery.

The retiring moderator, Rev. Dr. A. M. Gordon of Quebec, in his address, before withdrawing in favor of the new moderator, stressed the need of tolerance. He urged they "hold fast to their professions but respect the practices and beliefs of others."

Fashion Service

A "high-low" waistline wool dress . . . so youthful in style and practical for school or the office. The saucy pique schoolgirl collar and front buttoned closing give it a shirt frock look. It can have a slide fastener to zip it up the front, if you please. Plaid woollens and cashmere jersey are other effective mediums. A crinkle crepe or velvet for more dressy occasions is lovely in the soft tied vee neck version. This easy to follow pattern includes a step-by-step sewing instruction chart.

Style No. 2024 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15 17 and 19 years. Size 13 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

SMART CLOTHES FOR SPORTS

Tweed Suit, Matching Blanket is Clever, Three-Piece With Fur-Trimmed Topcoat and Contrasting Jacket Is Excellent

Blanket to match the tweed suit being shown for football fans, left; above, three-piece suit, coat and skirt of hairy wine woollen, checked jacket, coat collared in lynx.

By LISBETH

A MONTH or two ago, we were busily engaged in getting the young people off to college. Well, they are there now, and now it is our little job to see that they have just the right clothes to attend the big football games and all the attendant festivities.

When October winds start blowing, and sitting through the game is a chilly joy, even though enthusiasm may keep you warm to a certain extent, the girls can now wrap themselves up in blankets that exactly match their tweed suits or coats.

A large New York store was inspired with the idea of matching the robe to the suit. The suits, jackets, coats and capes they sell are woven especial for them in Edinburgh, Scotland, in patterns identical with their Scotch blankets bought over there.

Combinations Indescribable

Strange tapestry patterns in unusual, indescribable combinations of muted grayed greens, brown, blues, grays and dark reds are used. The models in which they have been developed are some of the most interesting from the recent Paris and London openings. They come from Schiaparelli, Peter Russel, La Chasse, and various other smart houses.

The jackets are short and exquisitely fitted with huge revers, loose hip-length box jackets, fitted coats and swagger coats, also square shouldered capes.

This same New York shop has suedes dyed in glowing colors to complement the tweeds to perfection. It is suggested that a tweed topper be worn with a suede skirt and vest. Whether worn alone or in combination, with the suedes, the tweeds make striking costumes in which any woman would attract attention.

Good for Country

They are just as useful for country wear for week-ends, and are amazingly warm, so that they can be worn in comfort all winter long. The tweed suit and matching blanket are shown at the left of our picture, in all their smartness.

Another suit that makes a woman feel decidedly superior, whether she be in town, country or school, is shown right. It is a three-piece, the coat and skirt, which may be worn with a separate blouse, is of a soft, hairy wine woollen. The separate jacket is checked. Take note of the way the jacket buttons right up to the throat. The fluffy collar is lynx.

Recent Bride and Groom Honored by Friends.

A recent bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Frizzelle, have been the guests of honor at a number of affairs since their marriage.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rummings, Aylmer street, when the young couple received many attractive gifts. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. On Friday evening last, Mrs. S. Harrison of Rubidge street entertained in honor of Mrs. Frizzelle, who was formerly Miss Alice Hatley. The bride received many lovely gifts from her friends. Refreshments served by the hostess closed an enjoyable evening. His associates of the Transportation Department of the C.G.E. presented the groom with an electric iron and a toaster on the occasion of his marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. William Madill Celebrate Golden Wedding.

At the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Madill, Toronto, on Monday afternoon and evening Mr. and Mrs. William Madill celebrated their golden wedding anniversary by a large reception. Many gift bouquets adorned the various rooms. Mrs. William Madill wore black cale, made on graceful lines, and a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. W. S. Madill chose black crepe with a lame jacket and pink roses. Mrs. R. B Gravlin and Mrs. Douglas Mitchell poured tea in the afternoon, and in the evening Mrs. James Madill and Mrs. Roy Morrow. The table was lovely, in an all-gold color scheme, a gold wedding cake and candles and yellow roses. The assistants were Miss Ruth Gravlin, Audrey Mitchell, Mrs. George W. Merson, Mrs. P. J. Paynter, Mrs. Ramond Cornish, and others. Mr. and Mrs. John Milmine, Florida, and Mrs. Thomas Mitchell, Montreal, were among the out-of-town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. William Madill were formerly Peterborough residents, Mr. Madill having been in the drug business here for over thirty-five years. They were prominent members of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, where Mr. Madill was at one time superintendent of the Sunday school and an elder in the church.

Tom Allen Addresses George Street Young People.

Fifty young people attended the regular meeting of George Street Young People's Union. The meeting was in charge of the Christian Citizenship Group, with Ken Brenton leading the opening sing-song.

Tom Allen, of the teaching staff of Prince of Wales' School, as guest speaker, gave a very interesting and descriptive talk on European countries he has visited. Mr. Allen spent six months on the Continent continuing his studies after leaving University. Customs of the people and their political lives were discussed by the speaker.

The worship service was conducted by the Misses Margaret Stanton, Isobel Skitch and Dorothy Smith. A cornet solo was given by David Wilson, accompanied at the piano by Miss Gwen Boorman.

Supper Gathering Y.P.U. of Knox Church.

A. B. Gates was the special speaker at the opening meeting of Knox Young People's Union on Tuesday evening. Taking the word "Prepare" as the theme of his address, the speaker delivered a talk of a most interesting and inspirational nature.

The meeting took the form of a supper gathering catered to by the Women's Association of Knox Church. Gordon Morrison, president of the Union, acted as chairman, with an attendance of over forty.

Entertainment was provided by a sing-song led by Orm Benson, games in charge of Don Charlton, and an intelligence contest conducted by William Wedlock. The Rev. V. E. Zufelt also briefly addressed the meeting.

St. John's W. A. Holds Regular Meeting.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church held their regular monthly meeting in the Parish House on Tuesday afternoon, presided over by Mrs. G. S. Cameron. The devotional period was conducted by the Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson.

An invitation was received from the Evening Branch to attend a lecture by Miss Foster on her work in the "Leper Colony of the Zuave mission in Africa." A good attendance was requested. The Dorcas convenor reported that the bale must be sent in February instead of April of next year. A rummage sale is to be held on October 21.

The annual Deanery meeting is to be held at Christ Church, Campbellford on October, 14, and will be attended by a number of delegates.

An introduction to the new study book of the year was read by Mrs. J. Cridland, and proved of great interest. At the close of the meeting tea was served by the refreshment committee.

Entrance certificates were presented to the graduating class of King George School at the October meeting of the Home and School Association held in the kindergarten room on Tuesday evening.

D. G. H. Melton, as representative of the Board of Education, spoke to the meeting. After congratulating the class, he addressed the parents, expressing the wish that more fathers would interest themselves in the general run of Home and School meetings.

E. L. Sackville, speaking on behalf of the parents, congratulated the graduating class on their progress, urging them to make the best of their lives in whatever circumstances they might find themselves. Inspector Wightman was introduced by the principal, Mr. Kerr, who occupied the chair. After congratulating the graduates, the Inspector stressed the importance of learning to think for themselves as they further progressed. Valedictory addresses were given by Margaret Langley and Stanley Winslow.

Mrs. Max Swanston, president of the King George Home and School Association, was in charge of the first part of the meeting. The roll call being taken, the banner for the month was won by Mr. Northey's room. The meeting was addressed by a speaker from the Y.W.C.A. concerning the coming campaign. Violin and piano selections, presented by the Misses Jean and Anna McLeod, were enjoyed during the program. Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Burgess and her committee.

It was announced that the November meeting will take the form of a recreation night and card party on Tuesday, November 9.

Mr. Kerr presented the certificates to the graduating class. They were: Shirley Butcher, Eugene Osborne, Alex. Clark, Muriel Woodcock, John Sackville, Reginald Moore, Margaret McKay, Viola Lee, Beryl Lee, Enid Smith, Mildred Hanwell, Ernest Hayes, Charles Rudd, Donald Robinson, Leslie Sage, Stanley Winslow, Marion Mackey, Jean McLeod, Edna Greer, Orma Daunoey, Dorothy Davey, Audrey Alton, Robert Adams, Leonard Barringer, Frank Adams, Barbara Bothwell, Margaret Langley.

Lawrence-Richardson.

TWEED, Oct. 12.—A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at 5.30, when Charlotte Jeanne, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Richardson of Tweed, was united in marriage to Harry Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawrence, Sr., of New Lowell, Ontario, at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. R. Nicholson, pastor of Tweed United Church, in the presence of relatives.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, was unattended. She was charmingly gowned in midnight blue velvet with matching hat and accessories. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and lillies of the valley. The ceremony was performed in the drawing room, attractively decorated with colored autumn leaves and flowers.

Perfect-Bull.

CENTRETON, Oct. 13.—A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Saturday when Doretta Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bull of Haldimand Township, near Centreton, became the bride of Arthur H. Perfect, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Perfect, Cobourg.

Canon P. J. Dykes of St. Peter's Anglican Church, Cobourg, officiated.

The bride was becomingly gowned in an attractive frock of blue moire with hat and accessories to match. Mrs. E. Meads, matron of honor, wore black crepe with matching accessories. Mr. E. Perfect, brother of the groom, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Perfect will reside in Cobourg.

Murphy-O'Reilly.

WARKWORTH, Oct. 13.—St. Jerome's Church, Warkworth, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Monday when Mary Anna, only daughter of Phillip O'Reilly, and the late Mrs. O'Reilly, became the bride of Basil Patrick Murphy, son of Patrick Murphy, of Lindsay and the late Mrs. Murphy.

The Rev. J. B. Ferguson celebrated the Nuptial Mass. Miss M. Gallagher presided at the organ, and the "Ave Maria" was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Ingram.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of wine chiffon velvet made on simple lines, a velvet turban with shoulder veil, and accessories of the same shade. She carried a bouquet of bronze 'mums.

Miss Catherine Convey, cousin of the bride, was her attendant. She wore a similarly made gown of blue chiffon velvet, matching hat and accessories. Her bouquet was also of bronze 'mums. Vincent Murphy acted as best man for his brother.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Phillip Convey. Mr. and Mrs. Basil Murphy left later by motor for Toronto, the bride choosing as her travelling costume a brown crepe dress, tweed coat and brown accessories.

When they return from their honeymoon the young couple will reside on the groom's farm near Lindsay.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was guest of honor at a number of showers given by friends.

STOP
BEFORE IT GETS WORSE

A FIREMAN will tell you big fires are little fires when they start. That's why they always hurry to put them out. Don't let your baby's little cold develop into a "big cold" or something worse. Be in a hurry to check it. Let Mrs. G——, of Winona, Ont., tell you how. "I have five healthy children and used Baby's Own Tablets for all of them. When I see a cold coming on, I give the tablets and in a day or so they are quite well again. I think there is nothing better."

Baby's Own Tablets are safe and sure in their action. They correct the cause of Baby's trouble. Yet they are utterly free from opiates or stupefying drugs. An analyst's report is given on each package.

Effective in clearing up teething troubles, constipation, simple fevers, diarrhoea, upset stomach, colic and summer complaint, irritability, simple croup and other of "baby's" ailments.

Your druggist will return your money if you are not satisfied with Baby's Own Tablets. Try them, 25 cents.

FLUSH KIDNEYS
STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

WHEN pain over kidneys or bladder irregularities keep you getting up at night; if you feel nervous, despondent, heed the warning. Read what Mrs. T. A. Berney of 595 Wellington St., W., Toronto, Ont., said: "My kidneys would be irregular in action and the too frequent passage of the secretions was very annoying, but Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets gave me great relief. In fact, 'Anuric' is the only thing I ever used that would relieve these symptoms." Buy at your neighborhood druggist now. Consult Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Choose now the best mode of life, and custom will soon render it the most agreeable. Day by day, and hour by hour try to acquire habits of talking sensibly, acting kindly, and thinking wisely—the last is quite as important as the other two. Your health, your happiness, your moral worth, will largely depend upon your thoughts, for these will determine the quality of your words and acts."

—A. W. Momerie.

Dear Friends:

Are you careless about your thoughts? Because whatever kind you allow to come into your mind and stay there will color in influence every act of your life. If you let yourself become accustomed to thoughts of failure, you'll fail.

If you are always thinking about sickness you'll be sick. If you keep thinking of the slights you have received, you will draw more towards you. So don't forget that "as a man thinketh, so he is."

But—it doesn't just work one way. You keep thinking you WILL be successful, and you will automatically do the things to bring it to you. keep thinking you will be well, and before you know it, your brain acts with your body to give you health.

Remember how often I have told you that thoughts put into words gain life? Why not try putting your thoughts to work for you, helping you to happiness. Why not, Dorthea Brande says, "Wake up and live"? Look at all that force you have lying within you unused, so try doing something about it.

Listen to yourself talk, and see if you talk more of depressing things, or fear of things, or hurtful things that may have come to you. Listen again, and find out if you talk loudly or raucously, coarsely or decently. If you don't sound pleasantly to yourself, how can it be nice for others to have to listen to you?

Take notice of your acts, and think if you would like others to act like that to you. If you don't like looking at yourself that closely, look at others, consider what you like or don't like about them, then cut your cloth according to your pattern for life.

Every day I go out, I see and hear things I would not like to do, and maybe someone sees and hears something from me they would not like to do either. But whatever you may see or hear from anyone else, your own thoughts will shape you for good or ill.

You know yourself that if something has made you happy, the thought of it makes everything brighter all around you. If something made you unhappy, everything looks drab and dusty, and it is all if the thoughts we have never been taught to control.

Looking back, I realize how often my thoughts have made me happy or unhappy. (I wish I had a new typewriter). How many times it would pay us to keep our thoughts to ourselves, when uttering them hurts someone and reacts back on ourselves.

How many times we hug our thoughts to ourselves for comfort against the world. And how many times they come back to torture us out of a clear sky as it were, and somewhere there must be a key to it all. The thoughts of others, the criticism, the irritation, the cruelty, never could pain us, unless they are put into words.

Just recently I told you of the importance of words, but you have to think these words first, so you can see how important it is that we should learn to think right, but who is there to teach us the right way?

"What exile from himself can flee
To zones, though more and more remote,
Still still pursues, where'er I be
The blight of life—the demon thought."
—(Byron).

Wishing you happy thoughts,
Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Facts and Fancies

Raisin Chocolate Cream Squares

One and one-half cups seedless raisins, one cup granulated sugar, one and one-half tablespoons corn syrup, one and one-half tablespoons butter, one-half cup milk, one one-ounce square chocolate, one-fourth teaspoon salt, on teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup fondant, one-half cup marshmallow creme. Rinse raisins, drain, and dry thoroughly on a towel. Combine sugar, corn syrup, butter and one-fourth cup milk and bring to a good boil, then add rest of milk gradually enough not to stop candy from boiling. When it will form a soft ball when tested in cold water (238 degrees F.) add chocolate and cook to a hard ball (245 degrees F.). Remove from fire, add salt, vanilla, fondant and marshmallow creme; beat fast and thoroughly. When well mixed add raisins and pour into greased pan. When cold cut into squares. A soft ball will hold together and can be formed into a soft mass or roll between the fingers. A hard ball will feel firm and hard between the fingers. Good for sending to college student.

SPORTSWEAR MUST BE SMART

Woman Who Loves Outdoor Activities Dresses as Smartly in Specially Designed Clothes as She Does for the Most Formal Function.

Time was when women wore their old clothes for active sports. Boy, what a far cry from the present era when every known sport has its special very smart clothes designed for comfort and chic.

To-day women can hardly go out for a walk without wearing especially designed garments. And it is well for us to check up on the latest in sportswear—those for active sports as distinguished from those for spectator sports—and keep abreast of the times, even if our clothes allowance is very modest.

Paris, for instance, stresses the importance of suede, and the girl on the left who is diligently practising her archery, shows how effective it can be. With her rough tweed skirt and imported wool sweater, with long sleeves, she wears this sleeveless suede jacket. Notice also her low-heeled shoes and half socks.

Jersey a Favorite.

One of the favorite winter sports is, of course, skiing. Already dealers have been selling their wears for winter-conscious women. Good news is broadcast in that last season's ski suit is classic and in good style again this year. Gabardine is the favorite material for ski suits. A plain suit with unusual accessories is the most economical thing for the woman of small income who likes to ski. Use your plain gabardine suit as a background on which to pose colorful cap, gloves, scarf, etc. and these, not being very expensive, can be changed occasionally.

Of course, if you like to spend plenty of money on your sports clothes you can go in for imported novelties—Swiss and Tyrolean, etc. They are gay and novel, and sometimes are made of odd materials, as, for instance, balloon material which is used for a ski jacket, with red and black check for the body of the garment. This is from Vienna.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, October 14

A particularly lively and eventful day is presaged from the prevailing palnetary influence. All pertaining to writings, contracts, publicity and promotion is under stimulation, and good news or new contracts may make sudden changes, removals or journeys necessary. Be wise in this and be wary of strangers. There may be anxious family reactions.

Those whose birthday it is will find themselves facing a lively and eventful year, in which hasty news may bring change, removal or travel, and will also renew lagging interest. Be careful in dealing with strangers and untried conditions. Appease the family in its disturbances.

A child born on this day may be versatile, brilliant and energetic, although erratic and restless. It may have speculative, sporting and roaming tendencies that may be reflected in a lively pen as a press correspondent.

FINDS VALUABLE QUILT

BOSTON—(CP)—In an old ironbound chest found in the eaves of her home, Miss Jean Ailing discovered a hand-blocked printed quilt, its three-inch blocks each containing a different design.

CORONATION GIFT

LONDON—(CP)—The Queen has accepted as a Coronation year gift from the diocese of British Honduras a beautiful set of lace needlework, the work of a 19-year-old girl.

CORDING FOR QUILTS

Instead of binding the ends of a silk patchwork quilt with flat tape, cover cable cord with celanese taffeta and cord the edges. This gives a nicer finish and also adds weight to the edges.

MEN LOVE
PEPPY GIRLS

IF you are happy and peppy and full of fun, men will take you places. If you are lively, they will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT, if you are cross and listless and always tired out, men won't be interested in you. Men don't like "quiet" girls. Men go to parties to enjoy themselves. They want girls along who are full of pep.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching middle age.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

DUCKING A REDOUBLE

SOMETIMES it is better to go down one more trick, doubled, than to leave a redoubled contract in if you feel sure you will be set two or more tricks. That is a good thing to bear in mind, either vulnerable or not vulnerable, if you have previously fooled your partner into thinking you have a hand much better than you actually possess. In such cases, it may be wise to bid still one higher after he has redoubled. If he should then redouble after you are doubled at the higher level, your only recourse is to get a new partner or else quit the consarned game.

After two passes made it his turn, South decided to open this deal against his vulnerable opponents with a semi-psychic call of 1-Spade. West overcalled with 2-Hearts and then North forced with 3-Spades. After East bid 4-Hearts and South 4-Spades, North felt that South's hand was of good substantial strength.

When West went to 4-Hearts, North doubled for penalties, but South could not stand this and went out into 5-Spades. West doubled this on general principles, whereupon North cheerfully redoubled.

Visualizing a set of at least two tricks redoubled, which would cost his side 600 points, South calculated that going down one more trick not doubled would be only 500 points. So he took out into 6-Spades, which West doubled. This time North got the hint and passed.

Lovely Eyes Must Have Proper Care

By GLADYS GLAD

In the famous harems of the east, women were forced to veil their faces, so that only their eyes were visible. As a consequence, these women of the Orient devoted much time to the cultivation of beautiful eyes. And they regarded kohol as their most important cosmetic, for this preparation helped to make their eyes appear large, dark and alluring.

Face veils are now being discarded in most oriental countries, but women still cling to their kohol pots, for they have learned the power that beautiful eyes can exert.

Personally, I don't think that's at all surprising. You know yourself that bright, lustrous eyes are definite beauty assets. The eyes, however, must be given faithful care if they are to retain their clearness and youthful sparkle. Such care takes but a few minutes of a woman's time, but her whole appearance profits greatly by it.

The surest way to brighten the eyes is to make your physical health perfect. It is youthful vitality that puts sparkle in the eyes. But cleanliness is also essential, for in this world of dirt and grime, it is well-nigh impossible to expect the eyes to retain their clarity without some assistance on your part. A large amount of dust and grime accumulate in the eyes each day. Some of the particles are so minute that they do not cause actual discomfort. They lodge themselves under the eyelids, and you may be totally unaware of their presence, but unless they are washed away, the eyes may become red, inflamed and bloodshot. Indeed, serious infections may result from a grain of dust that has become lodged in the eye.

Need Mild, Soothing Wash

An eyewash, to be safe and effective, must be mild and soothing to the eyes. The most commonly used of eyewashes is the boric acid solution. This is prepared simply by dissolving one teaspoon of boric acid in a glass of tepid, sterilized water. The best way to administer eyewash is with an eye cup which fits over the eye, although another method is merely to swab the eyes with cotton soaked with the solution.

Another eyewash that can safely be used is boiled water to which a bit of salt—just enough to make the water taste faintly salty—has been added.

In addition to proper cleansing, if the eyes are to look young and radiant, the tissues that surround them must be given sufficient nourishment. Strain, worry, fatigue, exposure and facial mannerisms all draw up the skin into a thousand wrinkles. A good lubricant, such as lanolin or a rich cold or nourishing cream, therefore, should be applied nightly.

With The Girl Guides

1st Company celebrated National Guide Day by attending church service at St. Andrew's. Monday being a holiday the usual meeting was cancelled, the few guides who came took First-Aid training and played games. Mary Waite was awarded 2nd Class.

PEACE TO BE KEPT DEMANDS ACTION SAYS ROOSEVELT

U.S. To Co-operate With All.

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that the conference of signatories of the Nine-Power Treaty, which recognizes China's territorial and administrative sovereignty, will seek a solution of the Far Eastern conflict "by agreement."

The United States Government, he said, proposes to co-operate with all the treaty signatories "including China and Japan," in its efforts to find the solution.

This was viewed by some informed persons as an indirect overture to Japan to join the conference, notwithstanding unofficial coolness displayed by Tokyo toward the meeting.

It was believed also to foreshadow a determined effort by the conference, whether Japan participates or not, to halt the conflict by the voluntary consent of both China and Japan before considering possible compulsory measures.

The President characterized American co-operation in the conference as "an example of one of the possible paths to follow in our search for means toward peace throughout the whole world."

He reiterated that "America hates war," and added:

"The development of civilization and of human welfare is based on the acceptance by individuals of certain fundamental decencies in their relations with each other. The development of peace in the world is dependent similarly on the acceptance by nations of certain fundamental decencies in their relations with each other.

"Ultimately, I hope each nation will accept the fact that violations of these rules of conduct are an injury to the well-being of all nations."

Inquest Held Into Death Of Amos B. Cunningham

Died From Pneumonia Which Resulted From Being Struck Down By Car

In accordance with medical evidence a jury sitting under Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith last night found that Amos B. Cunningham died from pneumonia at Nicholls Hospital on October 1, which developed as the result of being struck down by a motor car on George street on September 1 last. The finding exonerated Thomas Beatty, Dublin street, driver of the car involved from any blame in connection with the fatality.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., conducted the examination of the witnesses, while T. J. Carley, K.C., was present in the interests of the driver of the car.

Thomas Beatty, Dublin street, who operates a service station at Simcoe and Water street stated in evidence he was driving north on George street at a speed of about 20 miles an hour, when Mr. Cunningham suddenly appeared in front of the car at a point just north of the intersection of Brock street.

Was Crossing Street

Evidence indicated that Mr. Cunningham was crossing from the west side of George street and was running in a south-easterly direction when the car struck him.

"The minute I saw him I put on my brakes. He seemed to be right in front of the car. I don't know where he came from," declared the witness Beatty who said he stopped his car in its own length.

After evidence of identification had been given by George Cunningham, a son of the victim, Dr. H. M. Yelland testified that he attended Mr. Cunningham from the day of the accident until his death. The patient was unconscious on admittance to hospital, and in addition to a severe laceration over the left eye, he had a fractured right arm and bruising of the hip.

Dr. Yelland said he certified the cause of death as pneumonia. He said the pneumonia was contributed to by the injury and shock of the accident. The fractured arm was the severest of the injuries.

Dr. C. M. Scott who performed a post mortem examination said the main organ diseased was the base of the right lung. The right humerus was fractured across the middle with no attempt at healing after a month. He declared the cause of death was pneumonia.

Dr. R. F. Nott who was associated with Dr. Yelland on the case also described the injuries and gave pneumonia as the cause of death.

Walter Youmans, Lasswade, was walking north on the east side of George street, he said, when he saw a car going north strike Mr. Cunningham. Witness did not see the pedestrian before the car struck him. The car which was going "very slowly" at the time of the impact "stopped dead."

George Bullied also of Lasswade, who was with the last witness gave similar evidence. He stated he saw the pedestrian going through the air after the car struck him and declared that at about the same time Mr. Cunningham struck the pavement the car had come to a halt.

Heard Brakes Squeal

Mrs. Marian Vincent was sitting in her car on the east side of George street just south of the Brock street intersection. "I heard brakes squeal and looking up the street saw Mr. Beatty's car come to a very sudden stop north of Brock street. It stopped so suddenly that the rear end of the car raised off the ground," she said.

Miss Margaret Patoine was standing in the doorway of her father's furrier store when the accident occurred around 12.20 p.m. She said she saw Mr. Cunningham walking on a diagonal course from the west side of George street. There was a car coming south and Mr. Beatty's car was proceeding north. The driver going south blew his horn, the witness stated, and Mr. Cunningham appeared to get confused. He dashed to the centre of the road directly into the left front fender of Mr. Beatty's car. She did not know who the driver of the car was who blew his horn.

Miss Patoine declared that Mr. Beatty stopped his car immediately. Mr. Cunningham was knocked ahead of the car. He fell face down on the pavement about ten or twelve feet from the front of the car.

Summoned Doctor

Witness said she summoned Mr. McPherson from the neighboring store, and then telephoned for a doctor, the ambulance and the police. She estimated the speed of the Beatty car at 20-25 miles an hour, and said the impact occurred east of the centre line of the pavement.

Michael McCarthy who was walking north on the east side of George street estimated the speed of the Beatty car at 20-25 miles an hour. He heard the brakes being applied and looked up. The car made a very sudden stop.

Percy Gray was driving south on George street and was north of the point at which the accident occurred when he saw Mr. Cunningham come out south of two cars double-parked outside Coleman's paint store, and start to cross the road.

"Mr. Cunningham was walking in an easterly direction with his head down. He broke into a run and had gone about five steps when Beatty's car struck him," witness told the court. He estimated the speed of the car around 25 miles an hour.

Witness said he did not blow his horn, nor did he hear a horn blown. His own car was at a standstill when the accident occurred. Mr. Gray stated the sudden stop of the Beatty car threw Mr. Cunningham forward. He judged the car stopped within a distance of 5 feet and it indicated to him the car was under perfect control and that the brakes were in good order.

Jurors were: Joseph Maher, foreman; George Close, Joseph Bolton, William Garner, Thomas Miller, F. W. Panter, George Morency, John Gillespie, Michael O'Brien Harry Campbell, Matthew Allen and Joseph O'Dette.

LONDON BROKERS BLAME SLUMP

heavy repatriation of French funds is under way.

Each successive wave of international selling accelerated the homeward flow of money.

Gilt Edged Bonds Go

Some of the deepest drops in London were caused by selling from Amsterdam of even gilt-edged bonds which were dumped on the market for cash to be used in the wild scramble to meet commitments in falling commodities.

The widespread United States interests which came to London when federal restrictions were placed on Wall Street have been adding to the decline. Many of them have been selling and British market operators followed their lead on the theory they ought to know the United States market better than anyone else.

Market analysts also pointed out that seasoned speculators had contributed to the decline by turning their securities into cash so as to be in a better position to enter the market again when it hits bottom.

Two widely circulated, colorful reports indicated the extent of London's jitters. The first was that the Bank of England was taking steps to check the "Dutch bear syndicate" which has been demoralizing the market and reaping a fortune. The second was that trading in London would be placed on a strictly cash basis to throttle speculation. Informed circles branded both reports as untrue.

larged when plans for the enlargement of Ontario's tourist bureau are carried out. The work will then be under Mr. Nixon's department.

There were a few last-minute surprises in the Cabinet make-up, particularly in the allotment of portfolios and several members were not sure where they were going until yesterday. Decision to make Mr. Kirby Minister of Health, the first time a layman has held that post, was decided only yesterday morning. It had hitherto been intended to have Dr. Simpson in this place.

It was known Mr. Hepburn pressed Hon. T. B. McQuesten to become Attorney-General, but he preferred to stay in the Highways Department.

Resignations of Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Minister of Health, defeated for re-election in Peel and Hastings West respectively were received by Mr. Hepburn, as was the resignation of Hon. Charles Cox Port Arthur member, as Minister without portfolio.

Back to 1934 Standing.

Numerically the Cabinet is back to the strength it had before 1934, Premier George Henry having increased it to 14 by creating a Department of Public Welfare. Mr. Hepburn reduced it to 10 after the 1934 general election and in December, 1935, increased it to 11 by appointment of Mr. Cox.

Combining of portfolios created a heavy task for some of the ministers and during the election campaign, Mr. Hepburn announced it would be increased.

Mr. MacBride was not expecting Cabinet honors. He left Brantford for Ottawa on Monday and a message yesterday morning brought him hurriedly back to Toronto in time for the swearing in last night.

One of the first decisions of the Cabinet will be the date of a by-election for the seat to which Mr. Campbell will aspire. In the case of members of the Legislature, by-elections are not necessary if they are appointed to the Cabinet within three months of a general election.

nipeg Free Press, retiring president and chairman at the dinner, introduced the speakers and told something of the origin of the Institute. It was a product of the peace conference following the Great War when those gathered at Versailles as expert advisers decided to perpetuate the Association in an effort to maintain an intelligent and impartial study of world affairs.

Associated with the Canadian Institute was the Institute of Pacific Relations, the United States' Council on Foreign Relations, and the Royal Institute of England, "Chatham House," so-called because of its location in the former home of the Earl of Chatham.

In his brief address as a representative of Chatham House, Sir Campbell Stewart suggested that the name of the Canadian Institute be changed to "Borden House," in honor of the former Prime Minister in whose residence the organization came into being and who was its first president.

John Buchan, Mr. Dafoe said, was one of the original members of the Chatham House organization. Introducing the chief speaker, Mr. Dafoe said he now appeared as Governor-General of Canada, "under the alias of Lord Tweedsmuir."

In toasting the sister organizations Chief Justice Rowell expressed the belief that all members "heard or read with profound interest the Chicago speech of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"Every lover of peace and justice," he said, "must have rejoiced to hear the sentiments of the United States' President."

Walter H. Mallory, of New York, speaking for the Council on Foreign Relations, suggested the Canadian Institute and the Council on Foreign Relations collaborate in a study of International Affairs as they particularly affect the adjoining countries.

Treachery Among Ethiopians Helped In Italian Invasion

Dr. E. Ralph Hooper Of Red Cross Unit Tells Of African War Experiences

"Man for man, the Italians had no chance in the world of overwhelming the Ethiopians," Dr. E. Ralph Hooper of the Sudan Interior Mission, who had charge of No. 4 Ethiopian Red Cross unit during the Italian invasion, declared during his visit to the city last night. If it had not been for treachery among the Ethiopians themselves and for the air bombings and poison gas attacks of the Italians, Ethiopia might yet be unconquered, he said.

"These men can sleep on cold ground, travel under the greatest physical hardships and fight under conditions which would induce most other soldiers to surrender," he reported. "They are quick and alert in the mountains and had no fear of death, even the mechanical deaths resulting from the Italian machine-gun and tank attacks. Defenceless against the attacks of air bombs and poison gas, however, they were terrorized."

Illustrated Address.

Dr. Hooper, who entertained an audience at St. Paul's Church with a series of lantern slides, illustrative of his experiences in Ethiopia, said it was a matter of question whether Italy can keep Ethiopia conquered. "I do know these are a hard people to conquer. You can crush them but you cannot subdue them."

He spoke of recent reports that Italian garrisons have been massacred at Makale, Adowa and Auxumi. Italy has denied these reports but evidence of the fact that it is going to require a tremendous and costly effort by Italy to garrison the country safely one for all has been manifest in the recent despatch of further Italian units to Ethiopia, he said.

Italians have told the world that they are going to justify their conquest by bringing civilization to Ethiopia, Dr. Hooper continued, but apparently they have no intention of doing so on any extensive scale. The Italians plan to give them schools, but the schools will be for their own ends, he said. He stated Italy is also planning to take over military training in the country, again for its own purposes.

"The Italians believe these things will be ample compensation for the terrible toll they took in conquering Ethiopia."

Favor Italian Mission.

Dr. Hooper declared it is clearly the policy of Italy to expel all Protestant missionaries from the country in favor of Roman Catholicism. Even the Roman Catholic missionaries other than those of Italian origin are being put out of the country. All posts of the Sudan Interior Mission, supported and staffed entirely from Canada and the United States, have been closed with the exception of headquarters in Addis Ababa, he stated.

"We had been making great progress in Ethiopia," Dr. Hooper said. "We had converted many thousands to the Christian way of life. We found it easier to win souls in Ethiopia than here in Canada. They welcomed our teachings. But all that is through now that the Italians have taken over."

Dr. Hooper said he would not likely return to Ethiopia.

OBITUARY

JAMES JOHNSTON GOURLEY.

A resident of this city, James Johnston Gourley, died in Toronto today, following a short illness. He was 78 years of age.

Born in Arnprior, Ontario, he came to this city five years ago from Eganville. A harness-maker by trade, he had been in retirement for some years. He resided at 554 Albert Street. He was a member of Knox United Church.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Mary Jane Acton; two sons, G. A. Gourley of Port Limon, Costa Rica, and Dawson Gourley of this city; and two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Pierce of Peterborough and Mrs. E. G. Bailey of Piru, California.

The funeral will be held Friday at 2 p.m. from the Comstock Funeral Home to Little Lake Cemetery; Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt officiating.

MRS. ELIZABETH SZERA.

The death of Elizabeth Avia Wareham, widow of the late Robert E. Shera, occurred in this city at Tuesday midnight. She was 89 years of age and had been in failing health.

Born in Cornwall, England, she was daughter of the late William Wareham and Sarah Bazley. As a child of six years, she was brought to Canada and, with the exception of a short period in Cobourg, she spent the remainder of her years in this city. She was a member of George Street United Church.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. E. H. Bartlett and Mrs. Charles Thornton, both of this city; and four grandchildren, George Thornton, Mrs. W. G. Ovens, and William E. Bartlett, all of this city, and Robert Thornton of Orillia.

The funeral will be held on Friday at 2.30 o'clock from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Bartlett, 564 Aylmer Street, to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. M. C. Parr officiating.

MRS. ZACCHEUS BURNHAM

There passed away yesterday afternoon in the person of Mrs. Martha Stewart Burnham, one of the oldest residents of Peterborough and the last link of one of the early generations of the Burnham family which have been about Peterborough since its earliest days.

Mrs. Burnham was the daughter of Samuel Fowlis of Belfast, a son of Captain Adam Fowlis, a veteran of the Peninsular War, and Martha Stewart, a sister of the Honorable T. A. Stewart who settled in Auburn in 1822.

Her mother was Mary Ann Fitzgerald, a daughter of Thomas Fitzgerald, a pioneer of Smith township. Born in Brockport, N.Y. where she lived until she was 16 years of age, she came then to reside in Peterborough, later marrying Zaccheus Burnham, the eldest son of the Rev. Mark Burnham, M.A., of 'Engleburn,' Ashburnham. Mrs. Burnham was predeceased by her husband in 1913. Of this marriage were born three sons and two daughters, Mark S. Burnham of Otonabee, Thomas Henry Burnham who died in 1911, George C. Burnham of Toronto and Miss Florence M. Burnham and Mrs. Annie Stewart Nickels of this city.

By her friends, Mrs. Burnham will always be remembered as a gracious, dignified lady—a type of a generation that has all but passed away.

Quintuplet Finds Going Slow Wh en Sister Does Not Co-operate

Though Cecile Dionne seems to be finding it difficult to pull the wagon containing three of her sisters, there seems to be little discontent on the part of the lone quintuplet. The wagonful of chubby quints, Emilie, Annette and Marie seem a bit impatient at the snail pace and Yvonne apparently isn't helping Cecile very much.

THREE CARLOADS PRODUCE NEEDED FOR DROUGHT AREA

Within the next couple of weeks the people of Peterborough and district are asked to raise three freight car loads of produce for the relief of people in the drought stricken areas of the prairie provinces.

Stressing the urgency of the appeal, Alderman James Dutton as chairman and treasurer of the Western Relief Committee, told The Examiner that on behalf of over 300,000 people in the drought areas, the eastern provinces as well as British Columbia were being asked to donate to the fund in fullest measure.

He stated the local committee was looking to Peterborough and district to donate at least three freight car loads of produce. "The appeal is made to the entire community and all donations of produce such as potatoes, cabbages, beets, canned goods, preserved fruits and other articles of food and money will be gratefully accepted no matter how small each individual donation might be," he said.

The committee was of the opinion, Alderman Dutton announced that every person in employment should have some part in the effort and it was further hoped that school children would contribute canned goods and money through their schools and that service clubs would get whole-heartedly behind the appeal as they did on a former occasion.

With Alderman Dutton at its head the committee includes a full representation of the Protestant and Roman Catholic Churches of the city, also Mayor George A. Macdonald and the Rev. Canon J. Douglas Paterson as secretary.

Clothing Donations

Clothing donations are being taken care of by the various churches and already consignments have gone forward from the churches of the city and district.

To all who feel disposed to make cash donations to the fund, cheques may be made payable to James Dutton. Other cash donations will be accepted at The Examiner office.

Gifts of produce may be delivered to the Salvation Army Temple using the Simcoe street entrance. The Salvation Army have generously placed their facilities at the disposal of the committee for the receipt of the produce.

Load October 27

It was expected that the freight cars for Peterborough would be on the C.P.R. siding here ready for loading on October 27. They will be sent from here, freight free to the West as soon after that date as possible.

"It is hoped," Alderman Dutton said, "that citizens of Peterborough and district will avail themselves the opportunity of making generous contributions to the needs of their fellow Canadians in the stricken areas of the West."

Present indications are that more than one car of produce will be donated by the rural districts. Other communities in the district who are launching independent appeals, but who are otherwise working in fullest co-operation with the central committee here, are Norwood, Havelock, Douro, Bridgenorth, Cavan, Marmora, Keene, Hastings, Westwood and Ennismore.

SPRAINS HIS ANKLE.

James Bowen, Charlotte street barber, is confined to his home today as the result of a sprained ankle. The injury was sustained as Mr. Bowen was stepping from a car last Tuesday evening.

IS THERE NO JUSTICE?

Members of the Knights of Columbus are reflecting on the injustice of Fate. When their representatives went to Lindsay to sell tickets on the car which was drawn here Tuesday night, they were shooed out of town by Lindsay police in quick order. Nonetheless, it was a Lindsay ticket holder who won the vehicle when the draw was carried out.

VETERAN DRUGGIST.

William Rutherford of Nelson, British Columbia, is in Peterborough visiting his sister, Mrs. B. Shortly. Mr. Rutherford is one of the oldest druggists in the business today, starting his apprenticeship in Peterborough 59 years ago with T. D. Tully and later Ormond and Walsh. Before going to British Columbia Mr. Rutherford operated a store in Norwood for 12 years. Forty years ago he left for Nelson.

W.E.A. PLANS FOR STUDY.

A general meeting of the Workers' Educational Association will be held in the Collegiate Institute Monday, October 18, at 8 p.m. All members, former members and others who are contemplating joining the association for the coming season are invited to be present. It is expected that Drummond Wren, Toronto, general secretary, will be present and also the tutor for the winter's course of studies. The first class will be October 25, hence early registration is urged.

FROST BLIGHTS FOLIAGE

Frost has blighted the foliage of the catalpa trees in front of the C.G.E. office, the red glow of the salvias was snuffed out a few nights ago, and winds and rain are stripping the hardwoods of their brightly colored leaves. Winter is brushing away the summer scene before clamping down on the landscape.

ASSESSMENT APPEALS

Property owners are reminded that Friday October 15 is the last day for filing appeals against the assessments for 1938. The Court of Revision will meet Thursday at 4 p.m. to dispose of miscellaneous business that has accumulated since the last meeting in the Spring. Owing to the illness and death of the late W. P. Johnston the court has been inactive. He has been succeeded by Thos. C. Ephgrave, and the other members are John A. Harstone and Fred Finnie.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

The congregation of Wesley United Church is planning to observe its anniversary on Sunday next with services at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. The Curve Lake Indian choir will render special music at the morning service and the regular church choir, with Miss Mary Nicholls, organist, will be heard in the evening. Mr. Ken Stewart will preach at both services. The auditorium of the church is now in the hands of the decorator. The celebration is to be concluded on Tuesday evening when the ladies will serve a goose dinner, after which talent from the Orange Corner will present a program.

AT FLOWING MATCH.

For the next three weeks J. J. Duffus is booked up for a whole schedule of plowing matches. This week he is attending the provincial and international match near Fergus and after that he has a list of assignments as judge that will keep him busy until the first week of November. The death of James McLean of Richmond Hill several months ago removed one of the veteran judges and directors of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, causing more of the local judging work to be assumed by others. Mr. Duffus already has sixteen matches to dispose of.

SHOT TAME DUCKS.

A Cavan township farmer reports that on Thanksgiving Day a hunter shot eight of his ducks and one goose and left four other geese in the field badly wounded.

TWO FISHING PARTIES.

Fishing parties from Erie, Pa., and from Newark, N.J. passed through Peterborough this week en route for a final outing at the lake resorts of the district.

WINNER OF AUTOMOBILE.

C. W. Walton of Lindsay won the Columbus Club automobile. Mayor Macdonald drew the ticket Tuesday night. It had been sold by W. S. Bogue.

CHIMNEY FIRES.

With the open season on chimney fires again in effect, alarms for such blazes are again responsible for most of the daily mileage put on the trucks of the Fire Department. An overnight call to a chimney fire was received from the home of Bruce Menzies, 586 Chamberlain street. No damage was done.

DUCKS WERE SCARCE.

Duck hunting enthusiasts who tried their luck in the Stoney Lake region over the week-end report flights were few and far between and the flights also small in number of ducks. Duck hunting in the Rice Lake region was reported fair, however.

ALMOST DESERTED.

Stoney Lake is practically deserted by its summer colony, although there were many visitors over the Thanksgiving holiday. With the re-opening of the Queen City's schools on Tuesday, a number of Toronto families who had remained at their cottages throughout September finally closed their summer places and returned to the city.

PUTTING IN ANTI-FREEZE.

Garage men report the anti-freeze season is now open. First purchases of anti-freeze have been made within the past several days and a general rush is expected soon. Overnight temperatures have been below the freezing point several times during the last two weeks and many car owners have taken the precaution to drain their radiators in fear of freezing.

TO HAVE TREASURE HUNT.

Peterborough citizens who observe Y's Men and their lady companions rushing frantically about the city Thursday night need have no alarm for their sanity. The feature of the Y's Men's ladies' night program is to be a treasure hunt. The series of clues in the hunt will be hidden in many out-of-the-way spots in the city.

BUYS CLYDESDALE SIRE.

Verney Heath, Campbellford, has purchased from Staples and Hutchinson of Peterborough the Clydesdale sire "Sunny Brae Rock", a consistent winner at Toronto, Ottawa, Peterborough and Belleville exhibitions this year. An enthusiastic breeder of Percherons, Mr. Heath has decided also to breed Clydes and came to Peterborough for a proved sire.

CENTRE WARD HAS BEEN ORGANIZED FOR Y.W. DRIVE

The Y.W.C.A. renovation and extension fund campaign, in addition to the usual men's and women's special names committees, has also a men's division, which will solicit firms, industries, plant executives, merchants, stores, etc.

The residential prospects will be organized by wards and sub-polling divisions. Each of the five wards is in charge of a ward commander, with a team captain and ten or more workers for each of the sub-polling divisions.

Mrs. S. J. Graham is the commander for the Centre Ward. Assisted by five captains, Mrs. Graham's group has made excellent progress in the organization of her ward, and with the exception of completing one or two teams, has the necessary number of her workers, about fifty in all.

These teams are meeting at various intervals in campaign headquarters for the purpose of instruction as to the method of canvass, so that when the workers start out October 23rd, the day after the opening dinner to be held in Trinity Church the evening of October 22nd, the workers will go out well informed as to the aims and objects pertaining to the campaign.

Sub-Division 11—Captain, Mrs. C. S. Browne. Team: Mrs. J. Comstock, Miss Mayme Foote, Mrs. C. R. Hagerman, Miss M. V. Jory, Mrs. A. R. Kennedy, Mrs. Jacob Low, Mrs. Cecil

BACK ON JOB.

Fire Chief George Gimblett is back on the job after his annual vacation. He was pleased to find that no serious fire loss had occurred in the city during his absence.

READY FOR WINTER.

Peterborough's parks have been put in moth balls for the winter, the flower beds having been dug up and everything is now in readiness for the coming of the cold weather.

TO DISCUSS ROAD.

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directorate called for tonight matters of special importance with reference to the proposed Bethany-Port Perry Highway are to be discussed, according to announcement sent out to directors by Secretary-Manager James J. Dorris. It is hoped that A. L. Elliott, newly-elected member of the legislature will be present at the meeting.

STILL COMING.

Although the fishing season comes to an end on Friday ardent fishermen from across the border are still coming into the Peterborough district in a last effort to land a musky before the time limit expires. One dealer in fishing tackle told The Examiner to-day that he had sold a fishing license Monday to a Chicago man who when told there were only a few days left, remarked that was long enough for him.

Duck Hunter Finds Large Pickerel With Bass Wedged In Its Throat

Melville Woods of Fraserville and his brother-in-law, Constable Bruce McMurray, St. Catharine's Police Department, had an interesting experience while on a duck hunting trip on the Otonabee River.

The pair were returning home empty-handed when Woods sighted a duck. In an effort to get within range of it he left his companion and carefully picked his way through the rushes fringing the river bank. The duck took to the wing and got away.

Just as he was about to turn about to rejoin his companion, the disappointed duck hunter sighted a large pickerel floating downstream in the current. It was on the surface and appeared to be in difficulty. With a crooked twig hastily torn from a bush, the erstwhile hunter succeeded in hauling the pickerel ashore. It was almost dead. In its mouth, tightly wedged so that it could neither come up nor go down was a big bass, the gills firmly caught in the pickerel's mouth. Woods released the bass, which as soon as it was thrown back into the river, swam off, while he kept the pickerel. So large was the pickerel that it served for more than one meal for three or four people.

Cost Of Medical Attention Is Big Burden On Children's Aid

Capital Account of The Society Has Been Reduced To $1,200

Cost of medical attention for wards of the Children's Aid Society amounting to nearly $100 for the past month, led to prolonged discussion at the regular monthly meeting in the Council Chamber on Tuesday afternoon.

Though the Society is allowed a special half rate by its attending doctors, medical care from the 3rd of April last to the 3rd of September has amounted to $335, "Just 65 cents less than clothing for the same time," stated Superintendant John Edgar. It was revealed that previously when medical attention was given gratis, the cost for one entire year, which included only hospitalization, was only $161.26. Stating that he was not in sympathy with "trenchant criticism of the medical profession", Alderman James Dutton proposed that a conference be held with members of the medical and dental professions to secure more favorable consideration. The Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, Alderman Dutton and Mrs. J. Lawrence were appointed as a committee to act in the matter.

It was shown that the Society's capital account stands at only $1300. At one time it yielded an interest of $650 per annum. Year ending deficits have caused the shrinkage, Superintendant Edgar said. H. B. Cowan, Sr., remarking that part of the increased expenditure was caused by government regulations insisting "on this and that, for which I am not sure we have received sufficient benefit", moved that consideration be deferred till the annual meeting, and an analysis be made of financial statements over a number of years.

During his two years on the Board he "had never seen more than 10 or 12 members present at a meeting", stated Dr. R. F. Nott, when he brought a motion to the effect that if a member be absent for more than three consecutive meetings his place shall automatically be filled by another. Declaring that it might be impossible for members to attend, Alderman Dutton suggested that the statement should be "toned down". The motion was left over to the next meeting.

The heavy financial obligations over a numbes of years, should the Society undertake to make wards of four motherless Jewish children, led to heated discussion. Dr. Barr informed the meeting that the youngest child, a baby of five months, has been boarded out, but that as Jewish families here will not be able to care for the older children, the Jewish fraternal organizations want them boarded into Toronto Jewish homes. Denying that caution in the matter constituted in any way racial discrimination, and stating he would take such steps in any case, Alderman Dutton moved that a conference between relief officer Arthur Metheral and Superintendant Edgar be held before the Society undertake the increased burden. The cases will be reported on at the next meeting, and in the meantime the relief committee will see that no real hardship is suffered by the children

Alderman Dutton's analysis of the government's report on the activity of the Society will be heard at a special meeting of the whole Society to be held on the evening of October 21.

The Rambling REPORTERS

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

"Who is this man," Magistrate A. E. Gee queried when an individual called into court by Inspector James F. Reid stood before him, this morning.

"Percy Little, Your Worship," the officer replied.

Then as if having some misgiving about the individual's identity, he turned to him and asked, "You're the man who beat his wife aren't you?"

"No," was the reply. "I am Gordon Little, charged with speeding."

"It's just a little mistake," declared the Inspector, ushering the man out of court to await his turn.—R.

WANTED A MOUSE TRAP.

Armed with an air rifle, a certain King street resident whose wife had been frightened by a mouse recently kept watch beside a hole in the waiscotting where he thought the rodent might appear. Nor was he disappointed. When the mouse came out for a midnight frolic, the watcher with the gun drew a bead on it and pressed the trigger. Leaving the mouse stretched out on the floor apparently dead he climbed upstairs to bed. Next morning he boastfully told his wife that his marksmanship had rid her of the "wee beastie," but what was his surprise on going down to gather up the corpse to find the rodent had apparently recovered and had disappeared. Now he has decided to invest in a mouse trap.—R.

TOOK OFF COAT FIRST.

The hefty lady who stopped before the penny weigh scale in a George street doorway to-day wanted to be sure the weight of her clothing would not run up her poundage total any more than necessary. Stepping on the scale platform, she slyly shrugged herself out of her heavy fur overcoat and held it over her arm while she read the bad news.—C.P.K.

GIVEN SEVEN DAYS FOR STEALING HOSE

Arrested on Tuesday within a short time of his release from the county gaol on completion of a two months' term for vagrancy, Harry Woodruff, 33, Ottawa, appeared before Magistrate A. E. Gee this morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a pair of ladies' silk hose from the counter of a George street store.

"I was going to go home after coming out of gaol, but I got drunk instead. I'd like to be given a chance. I'd like to get home," the accused urged.

Sentencing the young man to 7 days and telling him he was getting off lightly at that, the Cadi counselled him to try and get a job and lead a decent, respectable life.

Wilbert Cross and Garnet Drain jointly charged with vagrancy, were remanded for one week on application of the Chief Constable.

Arthur O'Reilly who was stated to have crashed through a fence and to have wrecked his car in a field at the end of Wolfe street last night, obtained adjournment for one week on a drunk-driving charge. The accused, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, appeared in the dock with a piece of sticking plaster under his chin.

William Clifford appeared on adjournment to enter a plea of guilty to an intoxication charge. He was fined $10 and $2.75 costs.

For operating motor cars without chauffeur's or operator's permits, defendants were penalised as follows: Frederick Ross, $10 and $2.50 costs; Carman Outwater, $10 and $2.50 costs; and Clifford Woodcock, $10 and costs with a week's grace in which to pay his fine.

Chiropractic is a Science

Which devotes special attention to the human spine. The spine is the line shaft of the body and in its natural formation protects the spinal cord and nerves. But if a vertebrae becomes slightly deranged through the stress and strain of everyday life some nerve fibres will be constricted. The result is impaired function and finally disease in the tissues supplied by the constricted nerves.

OUR MANIPULATIVE TREATMENTS

are wonderfully effective in overcoming spinal derangements and in promoting a better nerve supply to weakened tissues. The fact that numbers of people are enjoying improved health after using spinal treatments is proof that Chiropractic is fulfilling its mission.

UKRANIAN CHOIR TO GIVE CONCERT

A week from Friday night of this week, Peterborough is to have the opportunity of hearing something unusual in the way of musical entertainment.

On that night, under auspices of the Men's Association of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, the Ukrainian People's Home Choir is to be heard in the Collegiate Auditorium.

There are about 350,000 Ukrainians in Canada. Most of this number live in the Prairie Provinces where their occupation is chiefly farming. In Ontario they number several tens of thousands, and form substantial groups in such cities as Fort William, Toronto, and Montreal.

The Ukrainians have many different organizations, but the greatest and most important of these are religious, cultural, and beneficial societies. In Toronto there are some fifteen organizations of various type. Of these the most important and best known to Anglo-Saxons is the Ukrainian People's Home.

This institution is quite prominent for its cultural and educational activities and is noted for its uncompromising stand towards all radical social movements.

The organization has rendered distinct service in furthering its national cause as well as maintaining its cultural ties with the Canadian nation by means of theatricals, exhibitions of Urkainian national art and through its choir.

Much has been written about the activities of this musical group which is to be heard here. So far the choir has been under three distinguished conductors: George Hasan, D. Burtnick, and P. Yundak.

Britain May Use Women War Pilots

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(CP). — Great Britain will probably use women fliers if there is another war, Lady Drummond Hay, noted aviatrix, said yesterday as she arrived for a lecture tour on "Personalities of Famous Men."

"The last time I renewed my flying license my entire history was taken," she said. "There is no doubt England intends to use women fliers, probably as dispatch carriers and on air transports."

No Direct Offer Made Johnson Regarding Rovers' Coach Job

Former Rangers' Defenceman After Any Worthwhile Chance In Hockey

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (CP)—Hockey's glamor man, Ivan (Ching) Johnson, erstwhile defenceman of New York Rangers, strode through Manhattan throngs today prepared, he announced, to snare any worthwhile opportunity in the puck-chasing business that crosses his path.

To a rendezvous with the press yesterday Johnson strode past baseball, football, boxing and rodeo fans suddenly made hockey conscious by the presence of New York's outstanding idol of the rink sport. Along Broadway, 49th Street and Eighth Avenue, the reaction to the smile of the giant veteran was enthusiastic. "Hello Chinaman," "Hi Toots," "Hey look! It's Johnson" and "Who are you with Ching, the Amerks? You can't leave us, remember."

Johnson said he came east after getting his release two weeks ago from Rangers to "shop around." He had not signed with New York Americans of the National League nor had he declined any coaching offers, he revealed.

Train At Stratford

His present plans call for a journey soon to Stratford, Ont., where he hopes, if nothing turns up in the meantime, to be allowed to train in the modern ice plant there. His brother, Wade, who caused a stir by coaching a Winnipeg junior team to near-championship heights last season, will have charge of the Stratford Midgets of the Ontario Hockey Association this season and Ching may lend a helping hand.

"If I can help the youngsters I will be only too glad to do so," Johnson said. "At the same time I hope to keep in shape so that if anything comes along I will be ready to step right into action. I think there is another season of hard playing left in my system, but I am also willing to coach if offered the chance."

He said it was true he had been offered the coaching position for Hershey of the United States Eastern Amateur League but that the bid came in mid-summer when he did not have his release from Rangers. All he knew about reports he could have the job of coaching Rovers, U.S.E.L., farm club of Rangers he said came from indirect sources. He had not declined the opportunity, he added, because no direct offer had been made him.

BELLEVILLE GRID TEAM BEATEN 11-6

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Oct. 13. — Marmora boys won from St. Mick's Belleville team 11-6 in rugby at Marmora on Monday afternoon. While the St. Mick's team is not yet in any regular league the boys have not forgotten the rugby spirit, and they arranged a game with Marmora.

In the first quarter the play was even throughout, neither team obtaining a point. In the second, Hart obtained a touchdown for Marmora, making the score 5-0 for the home team at the end of the first half.

The third quarter was the scene of speed and action and the players of both teams went into the play with all they had. The home team raised their score to 11-0 by a smart play by Leonard, who obtained a touch and Hart converted for a point. The last quarter was a lucky one for Belleville when a touchdown and a kick was obtained by that team. The final score was 11-6.

BOROTRA AGAIN

PARIS —(CP)— Jean Borotra, French veteran of the courts, is again entered for the covered court tennis championships being played this month at Queen's Club, London.

'Last Roundup' Sung At Funeral Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP).—They sang "The Last Roundup" in Madison Square Garden at midnight funeral services for Walter Cravens, 29-year-old cowboy from Butler, Okla., killed last Saturday at a rodeo performance in the same arena.

The casket containing the body that was trampled under the hooves of a steer was placed in the centre of the arena after last night's performance.

Three hundred and fifty cowboys and girls heard the Rev. Nathan A. Seagle, rector of St. Stephen's Church, read the Episcopalian service after all rodeo spectators had departed.

The body will be sent to Butler, Okla., where Cravens' mother and step-father have a ranch.

CENTRAL GAINS THIRD POSITION SCHOOL SOCCER

Central Public school went into third position in the league standing through their win over Queen Alexandra yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon on King Edward Park, by the score of two to none. In the early part of the game the Northenders were the better team, but failed to register; while Central forced the issue in the remaining five minutes. Lehman, Queen Alex. goalie, was brilliant.

League Standing.

	P	W	L	D	F	A	Pts
King Edward	4	3	0	1	15	1	7
Queen Alex.	4	2	1	1	3	5	5
Central	3	2	1	0	5	1	4
Pr. of Wales	3	2	1	0	8	5	4
Queen Mary	3	1	2	0	1	3	2
King George	4	0	4	0	2	13	0

Two points for a win and one for a draw.

Queen Alex. Pressed Continually.

The north-enders took advantage of the wind at their backs to compel Central boys to go on the defensive to keep the wing men—Gaskill and Kirn—off the scoring position, but they kept swinging the ball over to the centre to find Clark and Lee frustrating their attack. Queen Alex. centre battled out a keen tackle in mid-field to shoot at the Central goalie who had difficulty in clearing his charge. Occasionally the wing men of Central —Burns and Millen— would break along the wing to test the goalie with long drives that he gathered up with ease. Drummond saved a rattling drive from the foot of Lewis who accepted a timely pass from the right-winger. At this point, the Central boys concentrated in holding their goal intact against the aggressive forward line of Queen Alex., and in fact, Lewis failed to carry through to his objective whenever she was tackled closely. Half-time—No scoring.

Two Goals in Last Minutes.

On resuming, Queen Alex. attack had the edge on the winners as they bottled up the individual efforts of Central front line. Beautiful combination by Queen Alex. attack terminated in the custodian gathering up a long drive from the foot of Wellwood that just rolled over the goal line. But the Central boys came to life in the last ten minutes to find L. Lehman—Queen Alexandra goalie — holding them off the scoring list by his effective brilliancy in goal when Moorehead and Clark rattled line drives into goal. Eventually the Central centre man broke away fast when he beat Lewis in a tackle as the latter stopped dead to let his man complete his task by opening the scoring. The North-enders replied with a clever manoeuvre on the left wing. A succession of flag kicks resulted in one being costly after Woodgate had repulsed the shots repeatedly. Millen dribbled his way towards goal to hit the goalie with the ball but he met the re-bound to put the game into the second column. Central 2, Queen Alexander 0.

Queen Alexandra— L. Lehman, goal; H. Staunton and A. Woodgate, full-backs; E. Simmons, W. Lewis and B. Cocks, halves; J. Gaskill, M. Richardson, P. Wellwood, N. Harvey and R. Kirn forwards. Subs. E. McEwen and J. Stevenson.

Central—F. Drummond, goal; R. Clarke and G. Lee, full-backs; F. Kiff, N. Foster and F. Parsons, halves; W. Millen, D. Miller, S. Clarke, L. Batten and G. Burns, forwards.

Referee— Joe Gaskill and D. Buchan.

Clancy Signs To Coach Maroons

Nine months after his retirement as a player, Frank "King" Clancy, former Toronto Maple Leaf defenceman, is now signed as non-playing coach of Montreal Maroons. He will assist Tommy Gorman in the coaching of the Maroons, since Gorman's duties as manager will take up too much of his time. Clancy is seen here signing his contract with Gorman looking on.

JAPAN FEELS SECURE

TOKYO, Oct. 13. — (AP). — The newspaper Yomiuri said editorially to-day Japan's newly-won support from Germany and Italy in her invasion of China would be sufficient "if the worst comes to the worst."

Reviewing all possibilities, the paper said the United States and the League of Nations, "which have begun to dance to Great Britain's tune," might try financial and economic sanctions, "but Japan need not fear as its trade with Europe could continue through Germany and Italy.

Winners In Thanksgiving Day Races At Hastings

ARGONAUTS HAVE CHANCE FOR LEAD IN BIG '4' UNION

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (CP)—Unless Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Indians tie in their engagement Saturday, one of the two will move into a lead in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union. The result of their collision, then, becomes the week's prime happening on the eastern scene.

Both won their opening contests Saturday, Argos edging out victory over Hamilton Tigers and Indians pounding the champion Ottawa Rough Riders for a handy win. On the basis of the first firing, they're the clubs to beat.

Exhibition At Montreal

Montreal prepares in unusual fashion tonight for the important clash. The Indians will entertain St. Mary's College of Texas—not to be confused with the Galloping St. Mary's College Gaels of California —in an exhibition beneath floodlights.

The game will bring Montreal fans their first showing of American rules since the early '20's, when Syracuse University defeated McGill 13-0.

Tigers At Ottawa

In Saturday's other Big Four contest, Ottawa and Hamilton will be seeking an initial triumph at Ottawa. Young Orville Burke, Riders' passing star, likely will be out because of a badly bruised shoulder, while Tigers will have to go through most of this week's drills without Coach Mike Rodden, who collapsed during Saturday's game and is still in hospital.

University of Toronto and University of Western Ontario can run up winning streaks of two straight by taking this week's Intercollegiate battles. Varsity, winner over Queen's, plays McGill at Montreal, while Western, which defeated McGill, visits Queen's University at Kingston.

Balmy Beach, away to an amazing start through a tie with Sarnia Imperials at Toronto Monday, is expected to push to the front in the Ontario Union Saturday by downing Hamilton Panthers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(AP).—All America ballyhoo for Charley Brown, Nebraska centre, is originating in — of all places — Minneapolis. The Gophers (who saw plenty of Charley a couple of weeks back) say he is just what the doctor ordered.... Sad faced gent on the left is Cousin Egbert Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, who is about to begin the painful task of refunding $180,000 of series' reservations ....ouch!

Strain of winning two baseball titles in one week was a little too much for Col. Jake Ruppert.... He'll raise Joe McCarthy's salary (until it at least equals Bill Terry's $40,000 per), then hit for French Link, Ind., to get in shape for winter salary battles ith Messrs. Gehrig, DiMaggio, Ruffins, Gomez, et all.

Bob Quinn, president of Boston Bees, will find plenty of mail on his desk when he gets back from his vacation....Beantown fans are steamed up....What they want to know is if Cincinnati can afford to pay a smart old bird like Bill McKechnie $22,500....Why can't Boston....Believe you us, the pippul are speaking their minds up there.... Back in his vacation retreat, Mogul Quinn is trying to decide between Donie Bush and Tony Lazzeri. Another possibility is Gabby Hartnett, but the Bees might run into trouble getting him away from the Cubs.

Owing to Charlie's fine record this season, and his victory in the series, we'll bet the colonel will satisfy Ruffing's salary wants in quick order next spring.

FAVORITES LEAD AT LONG BRANCH

TORONTO, Oct. 13 (CP).—Close finishes by favorites was the order of the day at the Long Branch matinee Tuesday as Jockeys Sterling Young and Frank Vallee rode double winners on horses owned by H. R. Bain and Fred H. Schelke respectively.

Young rode Bain horses to victory in the third and fifth races, while Vallee brought Schelke's thoroughbreds home in the third and sixth races.

A masterful ride by Young brought victory to Bain's Worth Trying in the featured fifth race, a six-furlong claiming event for home-bred two and three-year-olds. Worth Trying won by a half-length margin over Heydona, who was brought up from last position by Jockey Herb Lindberg. Golden Silence was third.

Young's first win of the day was the third event, when he brought Lafitoff home ahead of Candy Feast and Damica.

Vallee accounted for the fourth and sixth events. The fourth went to King Bob over Chinsilla and Molasses Bill, while the sixth, top-priced race of the day, went to Miss Gormley over Belle Fille and Penrill. Miss Gormley paid $14.75 for $2.

Campbellford Net Stars Retain Cup

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 13. — Taking three of four events from the Orchard Club of Trenton on Thanksgiving day the Campbellford Tennis Club claimed the Graham Cup for the second successive year. Only four of the five scheduled events were played as Campbellford's entries for the second mixed doubles event were unable to attend. Of the events played the champions won all but the second men's doubles in two straight sets; leaving the victors two games up with one event not played.

Cliff Weston and Wilbert Kingston took the 1st men's doubles from E. N. Cook and L. Goulet 6-4, 6-4, while the second men's doubles went to T. Byrnes and B. Mainguy of Trenton who downed Ken. Kingston and Alex. Little in two sets 6-3, 6-2. The first mixed doubles gave Campbellford their second victory when Don Meyers and Jerene Malcolm defeated J. McCarthy and Peggy Johnson 6-4, 6-4. Miss J. Weston and Mrs. V. Weston gave the locals their third event winning from Eileen Filion and B. Milliken in a hard fought game by a score of 8-6, 9-7.

Boxing Czar Jacobs Plans Busy Season

Czar Michael Strauss Jacobs plans to cut down the relief roles with the busiest winter boxing program on record. Every fighter except Jack Doyle, the Irish thrush, is to get a chance.

Czar Michael really means business and it should be a great winter. But the only fights the public wants to see are Max Schmeling and Joe Louis, Ceferino Garcia and Barney Ross, Fred Steele and Fred Apostoli, and Peter Sarron vs. Henry Armstrong.

Czar Jacobs has made a great start as boxing's great monopolist. A man who keeps his ears to the ground, he realized his throne was about to topple because he held out on Schmeling. So he turned right around and gave Maxie his long-sought chance. Czar Michael will be the most surprised man in the business if Louis does trim Maxie in their return match.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

MICK MAGEE, captain and classy backfielder of the Orfuns, is out of action for the rest of the rugby season with a broken shoulder. We knew he had the shoulder injured Monday in Lindsay toward the end of the first quarter in the game against the Blue Bombers. He left the game at the end of the frame and did not return. We were informed last night that the shoulder was broken and he'd be on the shelf some six weeks or so. Not likely to be back on the gridiron this year. Magee is not only a swelegant grid star, but a first-rate lacrosser and a good puckist. Also good at gym acrobatics and in the water. An all-around athlete here for several years. Was one of the best of the gutted-stick wielders on the smart Auburns' team this past summer and just about the best of the Orfuns.

* * * * * * *

WE KNOW of no athlete in Peterborough as popular as Mick—and everyone will be sorry to hear of this unfortunate accident. It happened in a plunging scramble. Not only was the blond athlete popular with the puck, lacrosse and football fans, but his own teammates and rival players swore by him. Mick plays a hard-hitting but clean game all the time, giving everything he has with no dirty tactics and no alibis. The better type of athletic sportsman. The Orfuns will miss him plenty this season.

* * * * * * *

AND NOW the Orfuns are faced with the tough task of tackling the powerful Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg here on Saturday without Magee. And the Ghosts will be plenty tough. They beat Lindsay by a 17-0 score—as Orfuns won from Lindsay, 13-0—and knocked off Eastsides. Our gang went lucky enough to take a 7-6 nod over Cobourg in the opening game, and the husky re-inforced Lakeshore lads promise to beat the ears off the locals at Riverside this weekend. Orfuns' Club need the dough, not having had a home game yet—especially in view of Magee's injury, which they will pay off. May have to run a enefit game, too. Raffle draw will be Saturday but tickets are being sold yet and will be at the game. Said fracas costs but two bits, which is plenty cheap for the biggest grid game of the year. No fooling, it'll be a peach of a scrap. We hope the fans flock to it by the hundreds.

* * * * * * *

BY THE way, Meikle, the big Toronto import, has been lauded to the skies for kicking most of Cobourg's points to date. No doubt, he is a dandy booter. But we expect Don Crowe—decked out in new football boots—to hold his own here this Saturday. Don did some fine booting in Lindsay and two years ago was chosen ahead of Meikle on a tech school team in Toronto—it will be a kicking duel worth watching, we imagine.

* * * * * * *

LINDSAY POST scribe seems to think a 12-0 score is closer than clockhands at noon. He says Orfuns managed to win over the Bombed Blue Ones but didn't look too impressive, and just licked a squad that was minus two regulars. Admits Crowe outkicked Wilson and that our line was tougher than theirs, but states Orfuns showed their old weakness of stopping bucks but being sucked in for end drives. And pans our tacklers for letting Lindsayites gallop along on runbacks. To tell the truth, ye Orfuns—idle for two weeks—didn't click at their best sometimes, and they missed Magee after the first quarter, but they didn't have too much trouble knocking off the 1936 champs. At no time, since quite early last autumn, have the Turnbull toreadors felt Lindsay could lick 'em. They'll beat them by two touchdowns at least, right here.

CHURCH BASKETBALL League holds its annual meeting Friday eve at 7.45 in the "Y", when officers will be elected, teams entered, etc. Those interested are invited. The '36 loop was not as large as usual, the junior section falling down. Keen competition marked the juvenile and bantam divisions. Officers like to have four squads in each part. Officers at present include Past President Jim McClenaghan, Prexy Gordon Clegg, Vice President Vince Holmes, Secretary Don Charlton, and Convenor Gord Johnston. The latter is attending U. of T. now, so at least oneoffice will be changed. It is hoped that a big season lies ahead for the church cagers and if the entry is large enough by October 15th play may start the 16th, otherwise the schedules will open on Saturday, October 23rd.

* * * * * * *

ANNUAL MEETING of the C.O.B.L. is in Belleville next Saturday and delegates will attend from Peterborough, Kingston, Oshawa, Napanee and Belleville, besides President Max Swanston from here and R. A. Elliott of Deloro. We fully expect to see some changes in officers with the president and secretary likely retiring. Of course, either can retain office if he desires—both Messrs. Swanston and Thompson having served long and well in the Central League. If they do drop out, it looks like Art Casterton of Kingston as the next circuit head, with possibly George Ansley of Oshawa as vice-prexy. We have suggested Jim Dorris of Peterborough as secretary, and know of no other gent who would fill the office so capably. Aside from the election of officers and reports of the past season, it will be a quiet huddle.

OSHAWA WRITER sends back some notes from N'Yawk. He says: "New York manages to be interesting, even to those of us who have been as far afield as Harmony and Westmount. The more places you visit in one night the less you seem to remember. Seem to vaguely remember seeing such places as the Kit Kat Club, Jack Dempsey's Spot, Cotton Club, The Brass Rail and a host of others." Of the ball played, he writes: "These two-base hits on balls which land in front of the outfielders, spectacular individual plays by both infielders and outfielders, the uncanny control of the pitchers when three balls and no strikes is practically nothing to worry about—these all cannot help but impress one who has witnessed amateur ball all season. One of the most outstanding things is the way the Big Leaguers hit a ball. They really tag 'em." Yeah, even harder than Rowden, Mathews, et al.

FIFTH BOY ARRESTED

TORONTO, Oct. 13—(CP). — A fifth boy, described by police as a "perfect little gentleman in appearance," was arrested during the week-end on charges of housebreaking. He is alleged to be involved in offences with four juveniles arrested Oct. 3.

Police claim 12 stores and houses were broken into by the youthful members. They are alleged to have stolen $40 in cash, large quantities of tobacco, firecrackers, flashlights and soft drinks.

Organization Is The Secret Of Col. Ruppert's Success

New York Yankees' Farm System Now Excels That Of Cardinals

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP).—The big difference between the American and National Baseball League is a cherubic little man with untold millions of dollars—Colonel Jacob Ruppert.

It was the Colonel who first made baseball a big business proposition. When he and T. L. Huston bought the Yankees in 1915, the club never had won a pennant and the National League rode high. Since that day, the Yankees have won nine American League flags and topped them off with six World Series championships.

Organization is the Colonel's secret of success. He operates his ball club like he does his big brewery with perhaps the slickest front office man in baseball at the helm — Ed. Barrow, a Springfield, Ill., son who made good in the big city.

If you think it's just luck that brings the Babe Ruths, Lou Gehrigs, Joe DiMaggios and Lefty Gomezs to the Yankees, you're cloudy. Branch Rickey has a great spy system set up for St. Louis Cardinals, but the Colonel's beats it.

The Colonel's farmer in the dell is George M. Weiss, conductor of the Yankee farm system. George topped his year's work with Newark Bears, wonder club of the minors.

Cricket Notes

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cricket Club will be held to-morrow (Thursday) evening, October 14, at the Chamber of Commerce at 8 p.m.

Important business will arise as to the club's future prospects, and it is hoped that the players will make a special effort to be present, offer any suggestions or criticisms, and take up their share in club affairs. Any others not actually players are cordially invited, and the committee is also anxious to get in touch with any new players.

ODD ITEMS FROM A SPORT SCRAP BOOK

(By Bradley)

CARL HUBBELL

While Carl Hubbell has not displayed his customary effectiveness, and what might almost be called invincibility, this season, he has nevertheless been in there, day after day, week after week, throwing them up for the Giants with all the skill at his command, which is, as the opposing batters will testify, skill enough.

This constant use of his famed "screwball" has brought about an alteration in the appearance of the Giant ace's wrist, for as you know, in order to throw this particular type of ball "Hub" must give his wrist a severe wrench as he releases the ball.

An examination of the mass of bone and sinew that composes the wrist of his hurling hand is a revelation. The member, if such it may be called, is greatly distorted, and has attained, through this constant strain, a permanently arched effect.

SEABISCUIT LEADS FIELD AT JAMAICA

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP).—Seabiscuit, a 4-year-old son of Hard Tack, who was sold last year for only $7,500, became the king of money winners for the 1937 United States racing season yesterday.

By winning the twentieth continental handicap over 1 1-16 miles at Jamaica, Seabiscuit again proved he is easily the best of the older horses in training. In addition to that, he showed himself to be the most valuable to his owner, Charles S. Howard, by bringing his winnings to $152,780 since the first of the year.

Tuesday's easily won purse of $9,250 enabled the Western thoroughbred to pass Samuel Riddle's War Admiral, winner of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont stakes and a total of $144,620.

War Admiral injured himself in the Belmont and has not run since early this summer. The great Son of Man o' War is expected to return to the races soon, but has little chance to regain the lead from Seabiscuit now that all the richest 3-year-old stakes have been run.

WINNIPEG IS HOST TO 3 HOCKEY CLUBS

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13 (CP).—Three professional hockey clubs, New York Rangers of the National League and Philadelphia Ramblers and Cleveland Falcons of the International-American circuit, open training camps in Winnipeg Friday.

Manager Lester Patrick of Rangers, whose amateur school closed here Sunday, expects only two of his Ranger "originals" for the 1937 camp —Frank Boucher and Butch Keeling —while another club veteran, Murray Murdoch, will be with the Rambler farm team.

Bill Cook, star of many Ranger campaigns, is managing Cleveland with the possibility the club may win an N.H.L. franchise next season.

With the National Leaguers in camp, Patrick expects Davis Kerr, goal; Art Coulter, Ott Heller, Joe Cooper and Babe Pratt, defence; Phil Watson, Cecil Dillon, Lynn Patrick, Neil Colville, Mac Colville, Alec Shibicky, forwards.

Canadian Lacrosse Association Withdraws From Athletic Union

Annual Meeting At Vancouver Passes Startling Amendments

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13 (C.P.). — The Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association yesterday ended its affiliation with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and changes its own name.

At the annual meeting held here the lacrosse body deleted the word "amateur" from its name, to become the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

Lacrosse thus became the third amateur sport to break with the Dominion Athletic Union. Two years ago the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association decided to go its own way, and last year similar action was taken by the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association.

Professionals Defined.

The annual meeting further decided that:

Professionals be defined as persons deriving income from participation in lacrosse games "over and above legal allowance for broken time during actual operation of league schedules"—such legal allowance to be defined as the "personal loss resulting from enforced absence from regular employment."

Professionals in other sports may retain amateur status in lacrosse.

Professionals may be reinstated upon application and compliance with the C.L.A. definition of an amateur.

Professionals and amateurs may be permitted to play together on the same team.

No registered player may play lacrosse outside Canada without first securing permission from the C.L.A.. Players violating the rule will be debarred from future games under jurisdiction of the Dominion Association.

Junior Playoff Assured.

At business sessions on Monday the C.L.A. and the Ontario and British Columbia branches of the association agreed to assume proportionate financial obligation to guarantee the Canadian junior lacrosse playoffs for the Minto Cup this year.

Montreal and Orillia will play off to declare an Eastern finalist, while Burrard Olympics, coast champions, will play Elmwood Pats, Winnipeg, the winner to continue East for the finals.

Details of the series will be worked out by a special committee.

Remember When—

(By the Canadian Press.)

Harry Wills, who was never able to get Champion Jack Dempsey in the ring with him, took a terrific beating from Jack Sharkey before losing on a foul in the 13th round. The fight was staged at New York 11 years ago to-night and the negro was disqualified for use of the back-hand blow.

PETERBORO CLUB WON 8 MATCHES

The Peterborough Cricket Club played 15 matches, winning 8, losing 7. Matches won against Whitakers 2, Trinity College School 1, Lindsay 2, Grove School 2, Dentonia Park 1; matches lost to St. Edmund's 2, Oshawa 2, Dentonia Park 1, Kentish and Grove School 1. Batting and bowling averages are appended. The same two batsmen, J. Lawrence and Eric Stewart, headed the list in 1936. Stewart then scoring 134 runs, average 13.36, and Lawrence 173 runs, average 13.23.

The same two bowlers also headed the list last year, when Dyer had 71 wickets, average 5.71, and Lawrence 53 wickets, average 6.94.

The club annual meeting will be held at the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening, October 14, at 8 o'clock.

ALF PIKE TO PLAY WITH N.Y. ROVERS

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13 (CP). — Alf Pike, captain and centre of Winnipeg Monarchs, last year's Dominion junior hockey champions, has been added to the New York Rovers' squad, it was announced Tuesday by Lester Patrick.

Of fifteen players enlisted for Rover service in the Eastern United States Amateur League, this season, six are from Winnipeg. Albert Collings, high-scoring legi wing, is a veteran of last year's team. Other newcomers are Walter Cunningham, Jack Boyd, both forwards, Rudy Pilous and Bill Allum, defencemen.

After the Monarchs won the Memorial Cup in Toronto last winter, emblematic of Canadian junior hockey supremacy, Pike led them to a victory over Hershey Bears in an international tournament. Hersheys were champions of the Eastern United States Amateur League with which Rovers compete.

Coach Stresses Speed In Defensive Plays With Hints For Individuals

By LEW HAYMAN

Coach Toronto Argonauts Football Club

Individual Defensive Play.

Before taking up the execution of individual defensive line play, it might be a good idea to generalize on the proper objectives.

I am a staunch supporter of a fast charging line, believing that the best defence is to rush, hurry, or stop a play before it has a chance to get under way.

Therefore, the first objective of the lineman is to GET ACROSS THE LINE OF SCRIMMAGE (and I don't mean on the next play). He must do it instantly. He can't wait, look or drift.

As he goes through he should have thoughts of protection. At all times he is RESPONSIBLE FOR THE GROUND ON WHICH HE STANDS AND THAT WHICH IS DIRECTLY IN FRONT OF HIM. If he must retreat he should retrace his steps on the same ground over which he has advanced.

Once across the crimmage line, and having protected his territory, HE THEN GOES FOR THE BALL. By following this method he protects against reserves, cut-backs, and spins. If he drifts or chases decoys in his first movement then the offense will have large success with any reverse or cut-back.

By following the above mentioned tactics the lineman finally arrives at his ulterior objective which is the actual tackle. However, without those preliminary objectives he may never be in a position to make the tackle.

Insides.

Defensive insides should make it a general rule to play low. On 1st and 2nd down with large yardage to be gained they may play a bit higher and wider. However, when the offence is in scoring territory or whenever there is small yardage to be gained for a first down, they MUST play Low. Here are two other points:

1—An inside usually has two men working on him but never should he try to overpower both at the same time. He concentrates his physical attack on one man, and at the same time eludes the other.

2—Sometimes the offensive men are playing too high, at which time the inside might get through by diving between and below the charge of both men. However, make certain that you regain your feet instantly after the dive.

Middles.

The middle's chief opponent is the offensive outside whom he generally plays off. The position of the middle should vary slightly, depending often on the down and yards to go. He should use an assortment of defensive attacks, keeping the opponent worried as to how and when he is going to charge. Never go off your feet. If you are blocked out and the play goes inside of you, jam your opponent into the hole. Use your heads constantly. On passes, jam the outside momentarily as you rush the passer. Feint and fake your direction, never line up the same way twice in succession. Skill, agility, speed are essential to outstanding middles.

Outsides.

Coaches will play their defensive outsides in various positions, but I like mine to be close enough to be in on every play whether it be a pass, kick or run. He is a charging end most of the time although on individual occasions he may drift or wait.

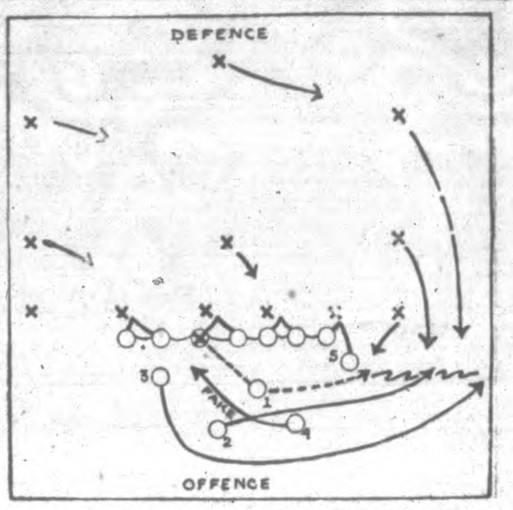
The outside's first duty is to protect the flank whenever possible, particularly on fake passes and fake kicks. On extension plays he usually goes for the ball carrier. In his charge he must cros sthe line of scrimmage straight ahead, and then go in, turning the play inside whenever possible. It is a good plan to co-operate with your secondary. When playing wide, have the secondary play in; when crashing from a close position have the secondary play further out. Follow every pay. NEVER cross behind your own line for a play on the other side. In such cases reverse sweeps would bring ruin to your defence.

In defending against most extension plays, one might be successful by having the outside take the ball carrier, the outside secondary the 2nd man, and the tertiary the 3rd, with the safety backing up the entire defensive play. The centre secondary and the opposite secondary and tertiary fold with the play, but always maintain a position against a reverse, or cut-back.

The effectiveness of all defensive individuals depends on:

1—Speed of charge.
2—Use of hands.
3—Assortment of individual tricks.

To-morrow: A Strategy Map.



A strong defence against an attempted extension play.

GOLF-FACTS NOT THEORIES

By Alex Morrison

NUMBER 23

Patience and the ability to keep attention centred on the right things are two things most golfers lack, or golfers lack most, if you will. Running out of these things, any player from the most expert to the first season enthusiast, is sure to find himself gathering high scores.

In the first place, to make the proper swing and put aside the countless distractions one must have the patience of Job. When it comes to keeping your attention on the right things about the swing and the shot being made, you are tackling a mighty big job. Even knowing the things it is right to think about in making a shot is not enough, you must be able to keep your attention centred on these things to the very limit of the average human's ability to concentrate on any one thing.

Obviously, the successful execution of a golf shot is not a trifling matter, but something which calls for all the perseverance one can show. Here is a simple way to cultivate the necessary patience and concentration—in every practice swing and shot, before you look up make a habit of counting one, two, three with you head in position and your eye on the spot where the ball rested.

CHELSEA MAKES FIND.

LONDON (CP).—Football experts believe Chelsea has uncovered a future star in young Jack Buchanan, shifty right-winger who was playing for a Glasgow junior club when signed by the Pensioners.

SENDS EIGHT STARS.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP). — Two track stars, two boxers and a team of four girl swimmers whose average age is under 15, will represent Rhodesia at the Empire Games in Australia.

DIED

BURNHAM, Martha Stewart Fowlis —At Peterborough, on October 12, 1937, Martha Stewart Fowlis Burnham, widow of the late Zaccheus Burnham, in her 94th year. Funeral from St. Lukes Church, at 2.30 p.m. October 14. Interment, Little Lake Cemetery.

GOURLEY, James Johnston. — At Mrs. Metcalfe's Nursing Home, Toronto, Wednesday, October 13, 1937, James Johnston Gourley, in his 79th year.

SHERA, Mrs. Elizabeth Avis. — In Peterborough, Tuesday, October 12, 1937, Elizabeth Avis Wareham, widow of the late Robert E. Shera, age 89 years. Funeral from the residence of her daughter, Mrs E. H. Bartlett, 564 Aylmer street, on Friday, October 15, at 2.30 p.m. Interment Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United Church conducting the services.

IN MEMORIAM

FERGUSON.—In loving memory of a dear Father, Donald Ferguson, who passed away October 13, 1936.

From our happy home and circle
God has taken one we loved.
He is gone, but not forgotten,
To a nobler rest above
No one knows how much we miss him,
None but aching hearts can tell.
Lost on earth but found in Heaven,
Jesus doeth all things well.

—Ever remembered by Sons and Daughters.

FERGUSON.—In loving memory of a dear Husband, Donald Ferguson, who passed away October 13, 1936.

Through the long lane of shadows
I am wandering alone;
But a hand is gently guiding me
Through the world unknown.
A voice keeps ever whispering,
"Be brave and be true,
At the end of the lane of shadows
I'll be waiting for you."

—Sadly missed by loving Wife.

FERGUSON —In loving memory of our dear Grandad, Mr. D. Ferguson, who passed to his rest one year ago, October 13, 1936.

Oh, how patient was his suffering,
When no hand could give him ease,
God, the Helper of the helpless,
Saw his grief and gave him ease.
We were not there to clasp his hand
And did not see him die,
We only knew he passed away,
And never said Good-bye.

—Always remembered by his loving Grandchildren.

DEAD RECKONING

BY

BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy, who has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting, graduated into homicide from the school of armchair murderers. At middle age, having made a fortunate marriage to Esther Askwell, and possessing a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim felt happy and secure. Then Esther was run down by a truck. Weeks later she was brought home, a physical wreck and a cripple for life, with only a hint of her former beauty left. Tim loses all interest in his wife because of her appearance. He suggests they hold their annual tennis party despite her condition. He looks forward to an appointment with Alma Shepherd, a widow and new client whom he has suggested to Esther they invite to the tennis party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 9.

Kennedy's eyes traveled round his surgery. He was well satisfied with what he saw. The walls, papered in an off white of dull finish, were restful to the eye and scrupulously clean. They were bare save for a couple of good prints, unobtrusively framed. There was not much furniture—a red mahogany table on which was set out some carved ivory of perfect workmanship, a mahogany roll-top desk with a swivel chair, the Chinese screen, black and gold, and of course the dentist's chair and apparatus. The lower pane of the window opposite this was fitted with a bit of German glass, stained in light colors, and on this a horned animal, unknown to zoology, disported itself. Patients were often unable to keep their eyes off this animal, were, in fact, hypnotized by it, and Kennedy was convinced that it often made his work a lot easier.

"I think a few flowers would be an improvement . . . I saw some beautiful daffodils downstairs. Step down and get a bunch, Adams, there's a good fellow. A couple of dozen, say."

"Yes, sir. Where will you have them, sir?"

"On the table. Use the blue vase from the hall—clean it out first."

Adams went downstairs, and Kennedy passed into the waiting room. Everything was in spotless order. The current numbers of Punch, The Spectator, The Sketch, The Illustrated London News, The Motor, London Opinion, and The Humorist, lay on the table, also the day's Times, Daily Mail, and Daily Mirror. Nothing else. He looked at The Times for a few minutes, and then refolded it carefully.

When he returned to the surgery the daffodils were already there. Adams had filled the blue vase with water, but he had bunched the flowers shockingly — he had no taste. Kennedy arranged them to his liking with a few deft, finicking touches.

Presently he heard the downstairs bell ring, and a few minutes later Adams ushered in Master Johnson, who had broken and loosened one of the canines in a rough-and-tumble the evening before. He was a stocky boy of eleven, with untidy flaxen hair and flabby, pink knees showing between his gray shorts and school stockings. Normally confident and aggressive, his face now showed apprehension mitigated by a blustering determination to give nothing away.

"Well, Bobby," said Kennedy, as he adjusted the chair. "This is an unexpected pleasure. How did it all happen?"

"We were just having a rag."

"Fighting, I suppose." Kennedy had never fought as a child, but he had forgotten this, and held a romantic belief that small boys passed the greater part of their spare time in combat. "Did you win?"

"Oh, nobody won. It was just a rag."

Kennedy in the meantime was examining the tooth. It was broken off raggedly halfway, and the remaining half so loose in its socket that there was no chance of it setting firm again. He tried to remove it with his fingers, but it was broken too low down for him to get a grip.

"Well, Bobby, this will have to come out. When you're a bit older I'll make you a splendid new one if you like."

Bobby was not interested. "Will it hurt?" he asked with an air of scientific detachment.

"Hardly at all. It's too loose already." He selected a pair of forceps. "Now . . . steady a moment. Just a little twinge."

Tears started to Master Johnson's eyes. He was, however, able to repress them instantly. The pain had been very slight and only momentary, but he was already magnifying it in retrospect, and felt very brave.

"Nothing in that, was there?" said Kennedy, rather tactlessly.

"Rather not. . . . I say, can I have the tooth?"

"Of course you can." Kennedy picked the broken base off his glass tray. The boy fiddled in his waistcoat pocket, eventually bringing to light the upper part. He fitted the two together, and contemplated the result with dreamy satisfaction.

"Looks topping, doesn't it"

A-1. Are you going to wear it on your watch chain?"

"Oh, no. I just thought I'd like to show it to the fellows."

Kennedy thought for a moment. He was feeling full of good nature, and he had twenty minutes with nothing to do—time to get nervous.

"I'll fix it up for you if you like—join the bits together."

"I say, that's frightfully decent of you."

"Get you off a bit more school, eh?"

"Yes—and it's Latin. I hate Latin. I didn't do my prep."

"You've got a good excuse."

"Old Meads doesn't listen to any excuses. He's a frightful swine."

Kennedy joined the tooth together with leisurely skill, filling a hole where a fragment was missing, and leveling it neatly with the drill.

"There—you won't know the difference. Don't play about with it for a while. It'll set quite hard."

"I say, that's absolutely topping. Thanks frightfully."

The child went off exultant, tooth in hand. It was then five to ten. But Kennedy had not long to wait before he heard the downstairs bell again. He went behind the screen, washed his hands once more, and slipped a cachou from a

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY FINDS THE SQUIRRELS.

The Lady Mouse Teacher of the Hollow Tree School, with Baby Bunty, the orphan rabbit, and all the other animal pupils who had come on Uncle Wiggily's nutting party anxiously watched Mr. Longears.

The rabbit gentleman had said he would go down the hole in the hollow stump to find Johnnie and Billie Bushytail. They had disappeared after gathering piles of chestnuts, hickory nuts, hazel nuts and walnuts to take home for the Winter.

"You'll come back, won't you, Unkie Wig?" asked Baby Bunty as Mr. Longears put one leg over the edge of the hole and got ready to step all the way into it.

"Why, of course I'll come back Bunty," promised the rabbit. "Wait here for me, please, Miss Mouse."

"Yes, we shall wait," said the school teacher.

In He Goes.

Down, down, down went Uncle Wiggily into the stump hole. Soon all that could be seen of him was the top of his tall silk hat. He had worn that on the nutting party, though it wasn't just the right thing to do. But no matter.

"It's just as if we were going down stairs in that hollow stump," said Jingle.

"So it is!" barked Peetie Bow Wow. "Come on, let's take a look down," he suggested to his brother. Puppy dogs are very curious.

"No! No! You had better not!" objected Miss Mouse. "You might fall down that stump hole."

"We couldn't fall down if there were stairs," said Jackie.

"Didn't you ever fall down stairs?" asked Jingle.

"Well — er — yes — that is —er I guess so," said Jackie.

"Pooh!" was all Jingle answered but Jackie didn't look so smart after that and Miss Mouse had no trouble keeping the animal children away from looking into the stump down which Uncle Wiggily had vanished. So they never really saw what happened to him.

"We must wait until he comes up again," said Miss Mouse.

"I hope he finds Johnnie and Billie," said Baby Bunty. "If the Bad Chaps have them—"

"Oh, for goodness' sakes, there you go again!" laughed Jingle.

Now I must tell you what happened to Uncle Wiggily.

The rabbit gentleman really went down inside the stump. He found what seemed to be stairs but which, really, were only notches cut in the soft inner wood of the old stump. But they were as good as stairs to go down and Uncle Wiggily went.

Tunnel.

When he reached the bottom he found himself in a sort of tunnel underground amid the roots of the old stump that stood where once had grown a fine large chestnut tree.

"Ha!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily to himself, "this is almost like Alice in Wonderland. Only this is a stump hole or squirrel hole instead of a rabbit hole. My it's quite a large underground place!

He could easily see for lightning bugs were perched on the tunnel walls or were flitting to and fro. Also Uncle Wibbily saw a large June Bug and of him he asked:

"Do you know where I can find Johnnie and Billie?"

"Straight ahead!" buzzed the June Bug. So Uncle Wiggily went straight ahead. He saw more lights and he heard jolly laughter and then, all of a sudden, he found the two squirrel boys laughing so hard their tails jiggled like dusting brushes.

All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily began to laugh. Up above Miss Mouse and her pupils heard him and they wondered what had happened. They soon learned, as shall you, in the next story. It will be about Uncle Wiggily's show.

And I hope the tea kettle will sing the coffee pot to sleep.

TIME FOR EMPIRE SETTLEMENT PLAN BRITISHERS CLAIM

LONDON, Oct. 13 (CP Cable). — Great schemes of Empire development were envisaged at today's sitting of the Empire Migration Conference. In the proper selection of migrants and in properly organized schemes of group settlement lay the way to success. But even those were not enough. Empire settlement must go hand in hand with Empire development.

Sir Henry Page Croft, M.P., envisaged the creation of a big corporation with government financial backing and credit to the tune of £100,000,000 to £500,000,000 ($495,500,000 to $2,477,500,000) behind it. The biggest men from the city—London's financial district—would be brought in to prepare great schemes for improving transport, including airports, railways, docks, canals and irrigation.

Sir John Wardlaw Milne, M.P., suggested the most satisfactory method of stimulating Empire migration would be by a government guaranteed Empire settlement loan under the Empire Settlement Board, including representatives of the Overseas Dominions and the principal charitable and other societies which had done valuable migration work previously.

A 50 Per Cent. Increase.

Sir Henry Page Croft had a word for overseas statesmen. "I would respectfully ask 'Why you do not aim at once to increase your population in every case by 50 per cent.'" Sir Henry asked. "Surely this is the only way to make your services of debt bearable and the only means of making your transport systems pay. Apart from all this it is the only path to immunity from aggression. The British Empire must either develop or decline. The hour has struck when the choice must be made."

Two Labor members of Parliament held differing views. C. G. Ammon considered it a mistake to imagine migration from the United Kingdom to the Dominions was not possible as long as there was unemployment in the Dominions. "Unemployment, both in the United Kingdom and in the Empire, is fostered by migration being held up," he said. Every new settler established overseas was a new customer.

Tom Smith, relating his experiences in an Empire tour, said he had not found responsible Canadian citizens who believed the time had come for a resumption of immigration. In Australia he found no enthusiasm for any big state-assisted migration scheme. While not hostile to sensible migration, Mr. Smith did not think the British and Dominions governments were ready for State-aided schemes.

NEW TALKING FILM HAS MOVING VOICES

If the screen figure spoke from the left of the picture, his voice came from the left side of the house. The answer of a figure on the opposite side of the screen came from the right side of the house. If the actor moved back from the front of the picture, his voice receded with his figure.

The new film uses a double sound track for the first time to produce the "stereophonic" sound and was announced as the first commercial film of its kind. These lifelike sound effects have been produced in laboratories for several years. Expense has kept them from being adopted by movies.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Dawson Rutherford entertained to a miscellaneous shower at her home in Bailleboro for her niece, Miss Alma Rutherford, of Peterborough, whose marriage took place on Saturday.

Two of our aged Liberals were enthusiastic in supporting the Hepburn administration. Mr. Andrew Meiklejohn, who is in his 90th year, was the first to record a vote for Mr. H. N. Carr, candidate for Northumberland. Mr. Thomas Donaldson, who is in his 89th year, voted in Cavan for J. N. Mercer of Durham. Both have been life-long Liberals.

INVESTIGATE FIRE

STRATFORD, Ont., Oct. 13—(CP) —Although a representative from the Fire Marshal's Department, Inspector Harding of Toronto, inspected the scene of the blaze which destroyed the barn of W. Angus Dickson, M.L.A.-elect, at Atwood on Friday night, no clue was revealed as to the cause of the fire.

Mr. Dickson stated to-day the probe by Inspector Harding and Provincial Constable J. M. Douglas did not result in anything being discovered which would indicate how the fire started.

Mr. Dickson has gone forward with plans to rebuild the barn.

After Deciding On Showdown

Leaving Whitehall Gardens, London, after the first cabinet meeting since the summer holidays, Premier Neville Chamberlain (LEFT), and his foreign secretary, Capt. Anthony Eden, wear thoughtful expressions. They had just conferred on the outspoken note sent jointly by England and France to Premier Mussolini demanding withdrawal of "volunteers" from Spain and threatening that failure to do so would result in France throwing open her frontier to permit the entrance of men and munitions to aid the Spanish Loyalists. Il Duce is reported as refusing to discuss withdrawal of volunteers from Spain, excepting on his own terms.

He came across the room to meet her in his usual rather courtly way. She allowed her gloved hand to rest in his for a couple of seconds.

"I'm not late, am I?" Her candid eyes met his with a very friendly look.

"Not a bit." He helped her off with her Burberry, and noted with interested speculation that she had dressed herself much more smartly than on Thursday. Serviceable country tweeds had given way to a coat and skirt of expert tailoring. She looked radiant, and even younger than he had thought before.

"Isn't it a perfect morning?" she said. "Don't you wish you could get out into it? . . . Oh, look, what exquisite daffodils!"

"My man brought them up from our garden," Kennedy lied easily. "But it's a good year for double daffodils—they're all over the place. I saw some in Bailey's downstairs as I came in, just as good as these."

"I'm sure they're not," said Mrs. Shepherd, holding the flowers to her face. "So beautifully fresh."

"The silly chap brought up too many," said Kennedy. "They're really too much for that vase. . . . I'd be very grateful if you'd take a few off my hands, Mrs. Shepherd."

"That is kind of you. I have to go up to London, but I could put three or four in the car. I do like a few flowers in a car—they humanize it."

London? Car? Kennedy was more and more impressed. He got her into the chair, and set to work. He soon drilled out the temporary filling, shaped the permanent one on his glass tray, then began packing. He worked slowly and with great care; he wanted to make a perfect job, and to spin it out as long as possible. In the meantime he talked easily, but not too volubly. The flowers had been a good idea. He spoke of his garden.

GIFTS PRESENTED TO RITA SMITH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CLARINA, Oct. 13. — The Women's Association of Carmel United Church met at the home of Miss Emily Drain, South Dummer, on Friday, October 8, and held their regular monthly meeting. The president, Mrs. W. Crowe, conducted the meeting as usual, after which a short program followed, consisting of readings and instrumental music. Mrs. John Drain then read the following address:

To Mrs. Drain and Family:

We the members of Carmel Church have oftimes enjoyed pleasant associations with you, and once more we are gathered in your home. We are always sorry to part with old friends, but hope we may meet from time to time throughout the course of life. We fully realise that we have lost worthy members who gave their services so generously and faithfully. Your girls' class, Emily, especially miss you very much from the corner and hope to still have the opportunity of continuing your friendship. It is our desire to present you both with some small gift in appreciation of your invaluable assistance in working with us and ask you to accept these small tokens of our sincerest regard for you both. May it often remind you of the happy associations we have enjoyed together. It is with deep regret we contemplate you have gone from our midst, but be assured we shall follow you with our prayers that God may abundantly bless you in your new home, and make you the blessing you have been to us.

Signed on behalf of Carmel Community.

Although taken completely by surprise, both made a suitable reply, thanking the Sunday School and Association for their kind remembrances, and then all joined in singing "For they are jolly good fellows."

A social hour was spent after which a delicious lunch was served to about forty by B Group.

DUCE, HITLER CALL ACES FROM CHINA

ROME, Oct. 13—(AP). — Reliable sources disclosed today Premier Mussolini had ordered Italian aviation experts aiding China to quit, as part of an understanding with Germany to support Japan in her invasion of China.

The order for the Italian mission to return home was said to have been issued after Mussolini's return from Germany where he conferred recently with Chancellor Hitler.

There are about 75 Italian aviation experts in China, headed by Col. Silvio Scaroni. With the German military mission, composed of about 100 retired Reichswehr officers, the Italians have been instrumental in building up the Chinese army now fighting Japan.

(Germany, Italy and Japan are linked in a pact to fight Communism. Japan has charged inroads of Communism in China is one of the reasons that made her campaign against the Chinese army necessary).

Hitler; these sources said, either has already done so or intends to recall the German military experts.

Three of the planes were shot down during dog-fights with Chinese aircraft over Nanking. The other two suffered destruction at the hands of enemy pursuit planes at Chin-Kiang.

POLICE RAIDERS FACED WITH GUN

TIMMINS, Ont., Oct. 13—(CP).— An 83-year-old man and his 63-year-niece were under arrest here today after a police raid on their house, during which the aged man allegedly resisted police with a revolver.

The man, Sam Lindsay, was charged with aggravated assault, while his niece, Mrs. Ann Knox, was charged with keeping liquor for sale.

Police went to the Lindsay house early Sunday morning on a report Raymond St. Jean of Timmins had been shot. Lights were still on, but were turned off when they knocked, police said. Two officers ordered the front door opened, but were refused. They broke it down. In the vestibule they met Mrs. Annie Stalkard who warned that Lindsay would shoot if they went inside, police claimed. Police crashed through the second door, then, into the house proper.

Provincial Constable Strickland and Timmins Constable Culhane said Lindsay walked toward them, revolver in hand, ordering them to keep out. They rushed him, knocked him over and grabbed for the gun, a stray bullet going into the floor.

St. Jean, reported shot, was found to have a wound in his forehead but not caused by a bullet.

2 GUNMEN SLAIN IN STREET BATTLE

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 13 (A.P.) — Agents of the United States Department of Justice killed the notorious Indiana gunman-gangster, Al Brady, and one of his mobsmen to-day in a gun-fight on Bangor's busiest downtown street.

A third gangster, superficially wounded, threw down his gun and surrendered. One agent was wounded.

The dead: Al Brady, 35, wanted for three slayings and several robberies, and Clarence Chaffer, Jr., a Brady mobsman.

The name of the wounded Federal Agent and the seriousness of his injuries were not made known. The gangsters, who long have terrorized the Midwest with their forays upon banks and their armed bravado against officers of the law, had been traced to Bangor by the Department of Justice agents, working with Indiana State Police.

Brady and his two companions went early to-day to a sports goods store to buy ammunition. The G-men—the exact number not immediately disclosed—stationed themselves on the opposite side of the street.

Fire on Sight.

When Brady, Shaffer, and Dalhover walked out of the store toward their car, the government men opened fire.

The gunmen sought cover, shipping out their pistols as they dodged behind posts and parked cars. They returned fire that for the most part was wild, for the G-men, carefully deployed, made poor targets.

Destruction of Brady and his men was not as simple as the killing of the more famous Indiana-born gangster, John Dillinger, who fell before G-men guns. The firing today went on for five minutes before Brady and Shaffer were dead.

In the killing of Brady, the Department of Justice ended a career which they charge included the murder of an Indianapolis police sergeant, Richard Rivers, an Indiana State policeman, Paul Minnehan, and Edward Linsey, a Piqua, O., grocery clerk.

SHE WAS X-RAYED 12 TIMES

Tried Electric Treatment for Rheumatism

To suffer for five years with pains in the back . . . to be X-rayed 12 times . . . to undergo electric treatment for three years . . . and then to find that Kruschen was what she really needed to get relief — that was this woman's experience:—

"Five years ago, I was taken ill with pains in my back. After three weeks in bed I was sent to hospital. At first spine trouble was suspected, but after 12 X-rays I was found to have serious lumbar rheumatism. For over three years, I was given electrical treatment three times a week. Last year, I tried Kruschen Salts, and it has done wonders. I have discontinued hospital treatment, and last winter, the first for five years, I was free from pain. My friends are amazed to see me so well." (Mrs.) E.P.

In a good many cases, rheumatism cannot resist the action of Kruschen Salts, which dissolve the painful crystals of uric acid—often the cause of those aches and pains—and assist the kidneys to eliminate this poison through the natural channels. advt.

PROVINCE DECIDES AGAINST REWARD FOR GHOUL

BRITAIN, FRANCE TO BLOCK ITALY OFF BALEARICS

Both May Send Fleet To Minorca Waters

LONDON, Oct. 14—(AP).—The British and French staffs began close collaboration to-day on steps both regard as necessary to counter Italian dominance of the Balearic Islands in the Mediterranean and Premier Mussolini's increasing reinforcement of Libya.

This menace to Anglo-French supremacy in the Mediterranean was regarded here as the most vital issue confronting London and Paris, in the face of a growing conviction the Non-Intervention Committee would fail to get action on withdrawal of Italian Blackshirts from Spain.

Whatever the results of the staff conferences, they foreshadowed possible early moves to concentrate British and French warships around Minorca, Lone Balaeic island held by the Valencia Government, and possible increase of British strength in Egypt and French strength in Tunis to offset Italy's two divisions in Libya.

Would Block Seizure

The massing of Anglo-French naval might at Minorca would have two "salutary effects," reliable sources said:

1.—It would prevent Italians seizing the island, and, by its presence, hamper Italian-inspired insurgent activities from the larger and more important island;

2.—Greece and Yugoslavia would be expected to support fully such Anglo-French action.

Such reassertions of Anglo-French determination in the Mediterranean also would make continued Italian intervention in Spain difficult, some sources thought.

Majorca, the largest of the Balearic Islands, is occupied by an Italian garrison and is used as a base by Italian warships.

France is afraid lest the Italian occupation be extended to Minorca, the easternmost of the Balearics. Such an occupation would be a threat to the sea route between Minorca and Sardinia, essential to France for rapid transport of troops from Northern Africa.

SHELLS KILL 100 CENTRE SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14. — (AP) — Shells crashed into the heart of Shanghai's International Settlement today, killing and wounding more than 100 Chinese civilians.

Japanese and Chinese forces resumed fighting for control of the approaches to the Orient's most important commercial city. Chinese planes attempted to raid the Japanese airfield in the Yangzepoo area and swirled along the fringes of the International Settlement.

Some 50 miles west of Shanghai an additional 75 Chinese civilians were killed when Japanese planes bombed a passenger train on the Soochow-Kashing railway.

One projectile of undetermined origin exploded in the Shaghai Foreign Settlement near the foreign Y.M.C.A., killing and wounding 35 Chinese civilians. Forty more were killed and injured when a street car was blown off the tracks near the barricades on the northern edge of the Settlement.

Police reported that at least half a dozen other shells, believed to be from Japanese anti-aircraft guns, fell in the Settlement. Ten persons were killed and wounded when one shall crashed into Avenue Road, one of Shanghai's main thoroughfares.

Shortage Of Guides Forces Cancelling 40 Moose Licenses

Light Snow Last Winter Saves Deer Herds; Good Hunting Promised in South Ontario

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(CP)—Large herds of deer and moose are promised the nimrods who launch the season tomorrow in Southern Ontario. Prospects for deer and moose are reported better than any year since 1926 because of last winter's light snow which permitted the animals to feed well.

The Northern Ontario season opened September 15 but hunting was poor in this area due to heavy snow fall which left deer and moose prey to wolf 'packs.' Ontario Game Department officials said the southern hunt, however, would prove successful and would draw a record number of United States hunters.

Under this year's rules non-residents must pay a $41 license fee and are compelled to hire a guide in hunting moose except in the Rainy River-Kenora district. Forty requests for licenses were cancelled today because there were no guides to accompany the hunting parties.

Native huntsmen in the Southern Ontario fields will be outnumbered this year by visitors, according to the game department.

REHOUSING PLANS SEEN MAINSPRING BRITISH RECOVERY

TORONTO, Oct. 14 (C.P.).—Great Britain's rehousing plans, fruitful of 3,000,000 new houses in the past five years, is the mainspring of the business revival that has brought the nation from depression's depths in the opinion of Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner to London.

Mr. Massey, a guest, with Mrs. Massey, to-day of Lieut.-Governor H. A. Bruce, said signs of emergence from the world depression were evident in Britain before starting of the gigantic rearmament program. The heavy industries were recovering before the military and naval program was under way though this later may have accelerated the rate of recovery.

The one thing past reform in Great Britain is the climate, said Mr. Massey.

"It is a perfect joy to be in Canada in the October sunshine," he said.

Popular Slogan.

"Extraordinary success" has met the "Canada calling" advertising campaign to promote the sale of Canadian goods in Great Britain, said Mr. Massey. The campaign has now covered 15 major centres, taking in 85 per cent of the population.

"'Canada Calling' is now as well known a slogan as many commercial ones on which 10 times the money has been expended," said Mr. Massey. People are asking for Canadian goods. One large fruit importer could not supply enough Canadian apples.

"There is a vitality about Britain to-day," said Mr. Massey.

"There is a willingness to experiment, to seek out new things and new ways. This feeling of youth reflects itself everywhere. It is perhaps not so apparent to the Englishman in England as it is to one from overseas."

2ND SNOW IN WEEK FALLS IN ONTARIO

TORONTO, Oct. 14 (CP).—For the second time this week wintry weather dropped a snow blanket over Ontario. Northern and western areas received the snow, while central and eastern sections were coated with frost.

Snow fell over St. Thomas, where 13 degrees of frost also was recorded. London district experienced a series of snowflurries. Three inches of snow fell last night, but when the sun peaked through the clouds to-day it disappeared.

Woodstock residents awoke to view a countryside white with frost after yesterday's snow flurries, which also appeared at Brantford and Galt and Stratford. A bright sun drove the Woodstock frost coating away, but the weather remained cold, the thermometers resting at 30.

Roofs were coated with snow at Galt, but as the sun's rays strengthened the snow melted and the mercury started to climb. Last night in the Galt district was the coldest so far this fall, with the mercury slipping to 27.

Temperatures at Kitchener dropped to 28 during the night, one degree above the lowest reading this fall. A brief snowfall occurred.

Thermometers dropped to 30 degrees in Sudbury district of the north, where snow also fell during the night. Snow fell lightly at North Bay.

Most Ghastly Crime I've Heard Of Says The Premier

Calls On New Attorney General For Action; Note to Press Reveals Spot Where Body Found

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(CP)— Attorney-General Gordon Conant today announced no reward would be offered by the Ontario government for information leading to apprehension of persons who removed the body of 20-year-old Hayden Pope from its Streetsville cemetery grave.

After conferring with General V. A. S. Williams, Provincial police commissioner, the Attorney-General said "a reward is neither necessary nor desirable at this time."

Premier Mitchell Hepburn said he would request Attorney General Gordon Conant to take every possible step in apprehending persons responsible for taking 20-year-old Hayden Pope's body from its Streetsville cemetery grave.

The Premier described the robbery as "the most ghastly crime I ever heard of."

Police Given Note.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(CP)—The Toronto Evening Telegram today turned over to Provincial Police a crudely-drawn note and map which described where the body stolen from a Streetsville grave Monday night could be found.

The note was dropped in the Telegram letter-box last night, several hours after school children found the stolen body of Hayden Pope but before news of the discovery had been published. It described the area near Streetsville where the body was dumped by those who unearthed it.

The body had been dumped in a ditch "as no good for ransom," the note said. Police were not certain whether the missive was delivered by the actual body-thieves or by practical jokers.

Children Find Body.

STREETSVILLE, Ont., Oct. 14.—(CP).— Parents of Hayden Pope prepared to-day for the second burial of their 20-year-old son as police pressed the search for the ghouls who took the body from its grave in Streetsville cemetery where it was buried last Sunday and left a ransome demand note in the casket.

The body was found by a group of children late yesterday, at the bottom of a deep ditch beside a crossroad near Churchville, eight miles north of this Halton county village of some 660 residents 20 miles west of Toronto. Its finding climaxed a day long search by police and Streetsville citizens.

Provincial police intensified their search for a suspect in the bizarre case after finding on a sideroad six miles from here a casing believed to be off Pope's casket. Farmers were questioned by officers who were particularly concerned whether any

LARGE DRUMS ARE BEING LASHED TO SIDES OF STEAMER

Efforts to float the steamer "Wauketa" high enough in the water to permit its admission into one of the Lift Lock basins seemed near success today. The ship's crew are busy lashing two 500-gallon and a number of smaller gasoline drums to sides of the vessel in the belief the bouyancy of the metal containers will do the trick.

Bound from Kingston to Stoney Lake for service with the Nephaline Company, the Wauketa has now been held up several weeks below the Lift Lock, unable to meet the Lift Lock maximum six-foot draught regulation. When it arrived, the vessel drew seven feet eight inches of water. Water, coal and cargo were removed but the draught still remain six inches over the maximum allowed. It was reported at noon today that, with several drums still to be attached, the Wauketa was within a couple of inches of the required draught.

Reduce Draught

The big tanks are being lashed to the side of the ship while partially flooded. It is planned the drums will reduce the draught well under six feet when filled with air.

The Lift Lock was closed to regular traffic for the season two weeks ago but it is understood the Locks are being left in operating order for passage of the Wauketa. The crew of the Wauketa are hopeful the passage can be made over the weekend.

Officer, Citizen Get Beaten Up

HAMILTON, Oct. 14 (CP) — A police officer and a citizen who tried to help him spent the night in the General Hospital after they were beaten by a group of men on a parking lot at Main and Catharine streets last night.

Constable Freeborn, going to his home in plainclothes was approached by George Couch and warned that several men were tampering with a car on the parking lot. The officer accompanied him to the scene where a group were gathered about a car, and demanded to know what they were doing. The men challenged the right of the constable to inquire, and he showed his badge. Then the men attacked him and Couch, smashing the officer's nose, and knocking him and Couch unconscious.

Ireland's Worn-Out Cows Feed Nazi Troops.

Problem Of Years Becomes Boom Business With Many Markets Calling

By Sean O'Cathain
(Canadian Press Correspondent.)

DUBLIN, Oct. 14.—(CP).—Problem of what to do with old, worn-out cows was solved to-day—thanks to an Irish Jew and the German government.

The problem pressed for years upon Free State farmers and the Agriculture Department. Throughout the country there were tens of thousands of animals on farms, long past their prime and unsaleable after great Britain's tariffs cut off the Scottish market.

Dr. Seamus Ryan, Minister for Agriculture, seeking a soution, lit upon the American slogan of the old joke: "Eat what we can and can what we can't."

To his rescue came Robert Briscoe, only Jewish member of the Free State Dail (parliament). With his own money and backed by a government subsidy he founded a company in Roscrea, County Tipperary, to round up the old cows, can the best of them for export and grind the rest of them into meat meal.

By broadcast, press and poster, farmers were urged to seel uneconomic animals for £2 (almost $10) each. Government buyers at various centres despatched them by special trains for Roscrea.

Italy First Market.

First market for the resultant tinned meat was Italy, whose troops in Ethiopia devoured huge quantities. Then came sanctions and that market ended.

Germany became interested. The Reich had a trade agreement with the Free State to take $4 of Irish goods for ever $6 the Free State spends on German goods and Chancellor Hitler's army now takes as much of the tinned meat as Briscoe's company can send it.

The business has grown big. Special trains rumbled into Roscrea's little station every day with consignments of old cows from all parts of the Free State.

Orders from the Spanish government at Valencia have had to be cut down.

Germany does not pay Briscoe's Company in Reichsmarks. Briscoe accepts payment in motor cars and has been made the sole agent for German cars in the Free State.

SEEK HOMES FOR 4,000

Johannesburg, South Africa, is seeking homes for 4,000 Europeans living in a suburb that is to be converted into a settlement for Indians.

Hunts With Arrows —And Bags Deer

Winnipeg, Oct. 14 (CP)

EVEN the Indians think they're goofy by two American hunters in Winnipeg today have been having a lot of fun by taking bows and arrows into Northern Ontario big game territory. Roy I. Case of Racine, Wis., who has been hunting in this fashion for seven seasons, bagged a deer this trip —at twenty-five yards.

LIBERAL PLURALITY IS SET AT 1,102

Alex L. Elliott, young Liberal candidate, was elected representative for Peterborough in the Ontario legislature, by a plurality of 1,102 votes over T. Percy Lancaster of Havelock, Conservative member of the Legislature since 1926, and William S. Johnson, C.C.F. candidate, official returns certify.

The statement of figures as received by Vincent Eastwood, returning officer for the electoral district of Peterborough from the D.R.O's of polling sub-divisions and officially checked and counted by him on October 12, gave the following revised totals.

Elliott (Liberal)	10,603
Johnson (C.C.F.)	1,849
Lancaster (Conservative)	9,501
Rejected ballots	149
Cancelled ballots	18
Declined ballots	14
Majority for Elliott	1,102

Earlier unrevised returns gave Mr. Elliott a plurality of 1,344 votes, but final official figures give him 242 votes less, and add 16 votes to the number of votes polled by Mr. Lancaster and takes 10 votes from Mr. Johnson by comparison with the original unofficial figures as received on election night.

FLYING IN LUXURY

Even a shower bath, with hot and cold running water, and a refrigerator are being built into a $300,000 flying yacht ordered here for Capt. George Whittell, San Francisco Peninsula millionaire.

A dining room lounge, bedrooms for four guests, a master suite, hot and cold running water and a radio are also in the plans.

LONDON AND PARIS GROW IMPATIENT ON SPANISH ISSUE

LONDON, Oct. 14 (CP Cable)— In Cloudy uncertainty, the non-intervention committee meets, probably Saturday, to make a supreme effort to obtain the withdrawal of volunteers from Spain. The outlook is not promising. "The present situation clearly cannot be expected to continue," was the statement in British circles today.

The committee has not met for two months. Its heated discussions of the British plan then led to an impasse.

The essence of the plan was to grant belligerent rights to General Franco when a substantial number of volunteers had been withdrawn from Spain.

That is still the British position. The Italians and Germans wanted Belligerent rights granted first. The Russians refused to grant Belligerent rights at all. So far as the information made public goes, there has since been no material change in these positions.

TWO WEEK LIMIT

PARIS, Oct. 14 (CP-Havas) — The French cabinet today approved the text of a note on the question of foreign volunteers in Spain which will be sent to London this afternoon.

It is reported to demand that a limit of not more than two weeks be set on the deliberations of the 27-power non-intervention committee, to which the volunteer question has been referred.

Ministers Unfit To Be Fathers, Generally, Adds Writer

Assertion Stirs Furore Among Society Of The Daughters Of Preachers

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP).—The Society of the Daughters of Preachers buzzed today with protests to a woman novelist's assertion that "ministers, generally speaking, are unfit" to be fathers.

"I feel my heritage is A-1," said Aleda Tarbill, who was reared in a Methodist parsonage.

Fanny de Rosset and Mrs. Ludlow Strong, daughters of an Episcopalian rector, said "statistics show the success of ministers' children."

The novelist, Mrs. Garett Holmes, whose book, 'The Preacher,' has just been published, drew fire from the preachers' daughters by telling the newly-formed society at its first luncheon:

"I think a great many people who read my book have an idea I cast reflections on ministers.

"I still say I don't think ministers are fit to be the parents of children, generally speaking."

She said later she showed in her book "where the children and wife of 'the preacher' did not benefit by his spirituality—because he was so pre-occupied with God he couldn't see the needs of his own family."

Mrs. Holmes asserted ministers' daughters are "handicapped from infancy by the sanctimonious atmosphere in a preacher's home."

Maxie Watkins, secretary of the Society of the Daughters of Preachers, and daughter of a late Methodist minister in North Carolina, said:

"I was surprised and shocked. My

Tories To Contest Campbell's Seat

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 14 (C.P.). —Conservatives of the riding of Frontenac-Addington, at an executive meeting last night, decided to contest the by-election caused by the resignation of Colin A. Campbell from the House of Commons to contest the provincial seat of Addington. The Conservatives will hold their convention at Enterprise on October 27. In the last general election Campbell defeated J. A. Pringle of Arden by 429 votes.

MORE FOR THE FARMS

HALIFAX, Oct. 14 (CP). — Farm settlement in Nova Scotia by selected British families to combat a decreasing proportion of population in comparison with other sections of Canada was suggested by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Dominion Conservative Party leader, in an address here last night.

Cameron Bay To Shed Its Name For That Of Port Radium

Thirty Inhabitants Stick To Site Despite Boom On At Eldorado Camp

OTTAWA, Oct. 14 (C.P.). — Capital of the Canadian North-West's new bonanza will have a new name next month, and Postmaster Vic Ingraham a new cancellation stamp to bang with his gnarled two-fingered right hand.

Cameron Bay, a settlement 1,400 air miles north of Edmonton on Great Bear Lake, will become Port Radium, renamed for the strange therapeutic metal that six years ago sent workmen and wealth to the rocky shores of a sub-Arctic inland sea. Post Office Department officials say the change probably will be effective November 1.

The new name will mean more to Cameron Bay's 30 inhabitants than it will to anyone else. Radium took them there, made some prosperous, sent others away broke, sent Vic Ingraham to Edmonton Hospital to have both feet and six fingers amputated.

Vic was skipper of the motor schooner Speed, working between Port Franklin and Cameron Bay, moving supplies and freight. Almost exactly four years ago the Speed wallowed through an Arctic hurricane on Great Bear Lake, then exploded and sank. Harry Jebb and Jimmy Potts died in the flames, Vic and four others stumbled overside with a rubber boat, and drifted.

WHEN an army pilot in the cockpit waves his hand it means but one thing to Private Frank Strozier—dangerous engine trouble.

So, when Major L. A. Dayton waved yesterday, Strozier parachuted to earth near here and was not missed until Dayton landed at Valparaiso, Fla. He telephoned to the army field here to find out what happened to his passenger. When Strozier explained, the Major told him why he waved:

"I was cold. I wanted you to close the cockpit, not empty it."

STANDS IN CANOE 2 HUNTERS DROWN

PORT FRANCES, Ont., Oct. 14 (CP)—A. M. Jorgeson, 37, of Chicago and Martin Jetter, 32, of Oak Park, Ill., drowned in Clearwater Lake, 45 miles north of here, last Tuesday, it was learned here to-day.

The two men set out on a duck hunting expedition in an 18-foot canoe along with Milton Westover of Emo, Ont., a guide. Jetter stood up in the centre of the canoe for a shot at a duck and the explosion of his gun caused him to topple back, upsetting the craft. The two hunters decided to try swimming to shore 50 yeards away. Westover continued to hang on to the canoe.

Jetters went down first while Jorgeson reached shore close enough to strike bottom and after standing for a few minutes toppled back into the water. Westover was rescued by a motor boat.

FIGHT DEPORTATION

DETROIT, Oct. 14 (C.P.).—Legal battle to prevent deportation of Baron Egon Karl von Mauchenheim, 25, and his 20-year-old wife Margaret, to Germany, will be carried to the United States Department of Labor, Frank J. Kinzinger, Detroit, attorney for the couple, said to-day. Unless the government intervenes, the couple will be deported on November 1.

The Baron and Baroness fled Germany to evade compulsory military conscription.

Rowe Busy Courting Wife Again Undecided On Leading Tories

Toronto, Oct. 14 (CP)

HON. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, is enjoying a brief holiday from politics. When he arrived here last night with his wife, Mr. Rowe said he "courted public favor for many years now and at present I am courting my wife again."

He was silent on whether he would continue as leader of the Conservative forces, defeated October 6 when Premier Mitchell Hepburn's Liberal government was returned. It was an important decision and Mr. Rowe said he would consider all factors involved before making any announcement.

$1 License Fee And Order To Bell Cats Sets Town On Council's "Ear"

Fair Lawn, N. J., Oct. 14 (CP)

PROTESTS flooded the Fair Lawn Borough Council today after passage of a 1,500-word ordinance requiring all cats to wear a bell and cat owners to pay a $1 license fee.

So vigorous were the protests the council said a public hearing would be held October 26, meanwhile announcing the proposal to bell cats was a measure to protect rabbits from the felines.

Other counts in the indictment against cats were: They ruin shrubbery, they howl at night, they litter garbage and they breed too fast.

Canada Awaits Call To Join Parley On Sino-Jap War

Turns Deaf Ear to Demands From Many Sides For Embargoes and Boycotts Against Japan

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—(CP)—The government today awaited word from Geneva calling a conference of signatories to the nine-power treaty guaranteeing China's territorial integrity, meanwhile turning a plugged ear to demands from various quarters for embargoes and boycotts against Japan as means of halting that country's invasion of China.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said after a cabinet meeting yesterday Canada would join other signatories to the pact in combined efforts to mediate the dispute between the two Oriental nations. This country will name representatives to the meeting as soon as its date and venue are announced, he added.

Canada is a signatory to the pact, concluded at Washington in 1922 at a conference at which the late Sir Robert Borden was this country's representative, as a Dominion of the British Commonwealth. Signatories are the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth Dominions, the United States, France, Italy, Japan, China, Belgium Portugal and the Netherlands.

At the end of the cabinet meeting Mr. Mackenzie King said: "The government, in common with others, have watched with deep concern the course of the present conflicts as well as its repercussions in many quarters.

Want No Hitches.

"Canada will endeavor to take part in a responsible and co-operative manner in the joint effort of conciliation which is to be made to deal with a very difficult situation. We are anxious that no developments should arise to prejudice or render more difficult the task of the meeting."

The Prime Minister said he hoped proposals from various quarters that governments take certain courses as a means of discouraging aggressor nations or otherwise halting the conflict would be delayed pending Nine-Power action. He said any attempt now to adopt individual attitudes might prejudice success of the conference.

LEARN 100 POEMS

DETROIT, Oct. 14—(CP).—Every schoolchild should be made to learn at least 100 poems by heart as some protection against the dullness of life in later years, said Padriac Colum, Irish poet and dramatist.

"No finer way of passing an hour of enforced idleness can be found than reciting to one's self some of the great classics," he said in an address here. "The time used in pacing a railroad station platform while waiting for a train can be made to seem as nothing in this manner."

MEAFORD DISTRICT HIT BY BLIZZARD CARS ARE STALLED

TORONTO, Oct. 14. — (CP).—Small fishing boats hurried to harbors on Georgian Bay and automobiles stalled awaiting the end of the first blizzard of winter as Western and Northern Ontario received a blanket of snow yesterday.

At Meaford, on Georgian Bay, snow covered the ground an inch deep as the blizzard raged for an hour. Fruit growers hurriedly organized to harvest apples before severe frosts ruined the crop.

The chill winds with the snow warned citizens Indian summer—what there was of it during a cold autumn, was just about over. Temperatures dipped to below the freezing mark in many centres and for a few hours thin ice covered some small ponds in isolated districts.

To Be Generally Cool.

Reports of light snow falls came from Western and Northern Ontario. And the weatherman forecast possible snow flurries for today and tomorrow in Central Ontario, with "cool" weather general over the Province.

It was more than cool in Galt yesterday. Temperatures there slipped to 'way below freezing. Snow flurries halted play in an Intermediate "B" Ontario Baseball Amateur Association playoff game, played in bitterly cold weather.

In London, temperatures during the day never rose above 53 after registering a low of 29 during the night. Snow fell three times during the day, but the flakes melted almost as soon as they touched the ground. Flurries also were reported from Woodstock, Kitchener, Brantford, Stratford and Hamilton.

Highest at Sault 39.

Snow fell intermittently throughout the day at Sault Ste. Marie in Northern Ontario. The highest temperature there yesterday was 39. Light flurries fell in the Sudbury district. Eastern Ontario also was none too warm. Ottawa reported a temperature of 36.

Meaford in the Georgian Bay area was the hardest hit district in the Province. Snow an inch deep fell as a blizzard raged for an hour last night. Motorists were forced to stop until the storm blew over as the fall was so heavy windshield wipers could not remove it.

Every apple picker in the Meaford district was given work as growers hastened to harvest the crop in fear of severe frosts. Temperatures fell almost to the freezing point in Meaford early last night.

PIONEER MISSIONARY DIES

VANCOUVER, Oct. 14—(CP). — Funeral services will be held here to-morrow for Miss Sarah Ann Kirby, pioneer Anglican missionary, who died here on Sunday. She was 90. A resident of Vancouver for the past 30 years, Miss Kirby at one time worked among the Mohawk Indians at Brantford, Ontario.

PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL

You would like to meet this little girl... just as we did. But we cannot divulge her name. For you see, her banking affairs are private; the details of her account jealously guarded as are those of all our customers. Sorry!

● One of our customers said recently, "Why don't you tell parents that the way to please their children is to let them open a savings account themselves? My little daughter aged six, came to her mother the other day, and said she wanted to go to the bank herself and open an account. Her mother, being wise, called up the Bank Manager, told him the story, and said that her small girl would be in to see him soon . . . Sure enough, in came the child, clutching a little purse. Signed her name four times (which she told her mother afterwards was foolish) and got her bank book. Did it all herself."

That young lady has the right idea. She regards the bank as HER bank. You can make it yours.

HOLSTEIN CLUB BIG FEATURE NORWOOD FAIR

Chilly Weather Affects Attendance at Fair

(By Staff Reporter.)

NORWOOD, October 14. — Both attendance and gate receipts at the Norwood Fair Wednesday dropped slightly below the average for recent years from the effect of weather that was too chilly for comfort in spite of bright sunshine that maintained the other usual aspects of October.

It was a large crowd, but the East Peterborough Agricultural Society is accustomed to crowds that generally reached into the thousands. The quality of the Fair seemed to be sustained in all its departments, especially in horses and cattle, grain, roots and fruits, and estimates indicated that the directors would likely show a credit balance as a reward for their work.

F. Everett Birdsall, president, mentioned to The Examiner that the oldest president of the Norwood Fair is Henry Humphries of Keene, now in his ninety-fourth year. He was president in 1880, fifty-seven years ago, and only twelve years after the fair was organized. The society's exhibition Wednesday was the 69th in unbroken succession. A special invitation was sent to Mr. Humphries, and he replied that he would like to see the Norwood Fair again if the weather was favorable. In turn he invited the young president to call on him at his Keene home. Chilly weather prevented Mr. Humphries from attending.

DRUNKEN DRIVER'S ERRATIC CONDUCT GETS HIM JAILED

COBOURG, Oct. 14. — Andrew Duggin of Percy township charted a strange course as he drove away from voting on Oct. 6 according to the story told by police in court Tuesday Andrew, they said, forgot to close the door of his car and as he bowled along it chooped a pedestrian off his feet and deposited him unceremoniously on the street.

A few miles farther, Duggin arrived in Warkworth where his second accident consisted of a collision with another car. A short distance and a sign bore a command to "stop." Duggin didn't and a broken sign constituted the third accident.

Andrew didn't stop for any of the accidents, complained Provincial Constable G. Campbell of Campbellford. The constable said that Duggin was out on one of his periodical sprees.'

"How long have you been drinking?" asked the magistrate.

"Ever since I was able to, I guess,' replied Duggin. Sequel was seven days in jail for Duggin on a charge of driving while drunk.

CONDITIONS UNCHANGED

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 14 (CP).—Condition of the four women injured in an accident three miles east of here yesterday, when Rev. Stanley Gartung of Morrisburg was killed, was reported at hospital today to be little changed.

Condition of Mrs. Gartung was the most serious. The other women are expected to recover.

No arrangements for an inquest have been made and will likely await the recovery of the women.

URGE SYSTEMATIC GIVING TO CHURCH AS CURE FOR ILLS

MONTREAL, Oct. 14 (CP)—Lay and clerical delegates to the Montreal and Ottawa synod of the Presbyterian Church in Canada turned their attention today to the task of assimilating suggestions and reports heard at the annual meeting which concluded here last night.

Prominent in their reflections was the message of the Rt. Rev. Hugh Munroe, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, who told members at the closing session of the problems concerning pastoral relations. "Pastoral relations are not what they should be, and one of the chief reasons is money," the church leader from New Glasgow, N.S., informed them.

Deploring the fact congregations sometimes ignore the guarantee of stipend to their ministers, he said people describe it as "dreadful" when nations default on guarantees, "but what is to be said when congregations do that sort of thing?" he questioned. The moderator also stressed the need of more young men in the theological colleges to fill the many pastoral vacancies. Continual changes also created vacancies and pastors should remind themselves of the Presbyterian ideal as to how a pastorate should be filled.

"When the ideal of shepherding and teaching is abandoned as well as permanent ministry, it is no longer the method of the Presbyterian church," he declared.

He urged prosperous churches to aid impoverished ones through the augmentation fund and thus eliminate major causes for pastoral friction.

The Rambling REPORTERS

PRODIGIOUS APPETITE.

Some of the girls who waited on the tables at the function held at Norwood last night in connection with the annual Fair, are probably still marveling at the monster appetites of some of the special policemen who did duty during the day. It was reported that one good-looking officer not only polished off a heaping plateful of steaming meat, vegetables, and gravy, but afterwards put away five hot biscuits and nine pieces of pumpkin pie.

OBITUARY

MRS. THEODORE THORNTON.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Thornton, wife of Theodore Thornton, was held on Wednesday from her late residence, 583 Harvey Street. The numerous floral tributes and large concourse of people present bore testimony to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Her pastor, Rev. M. C. Parr, spoke feelingly of the ministry of suffering that for fourteen long years had been born in Christian fortitude and patience. She had quietly and effectively preached many helpful sermons by her cheerful disposition, expressing her faith and confidence to a marked degree in God. If blue and discouraged it was a good place to go. One left feeling inspired and profited, and encouraged to go out and fight afresh the battle of life. The remarkable manner in which she was interested in all the affairs of church and community—even to exercising a generous and benevolent spirit in worthy causes of her church was amazing. Strong in her convictions of right and wrong, she taught many valuable lessons to those who through those years visited her. Through the tender care of the members of her family plus the physician's constant vigil to relieve the pains which would make its inroad upon health, she was able to enjoy life and be a shining light to others. With a heart full of gratitude and thanks to God for a life (though handicapped) and which was beautifully lived, her quiet and benign influence "achieving" for her a triumphant victory over suffering, has been and will continue to be not only a revelation but a mighty and profound inspiration to a working faith in God.

Sympathy is extended to members of the family in the loss of a devoted wife and loving mother.

PROVINCE DECIDES AGAINST REWARD

residents of the district had recently taken in as boarders former inmates of the Ontario Mental Hospital.

Police believe the body was stolen Monday night. The desecrated grave was discovered Tuesday, the casket pulled partly out of the hole, the coffin lid unscrewed and the body removed. Inside the casket was a note demanding $100 from Mr. and Mrs. Anson Pope for return of their son's body.

Autopsy Waited

The shocked parents at first were unable to believe, "that any one would do such a thing." The Pope family is not wealthy. The father is Streetsville's blacksmith and police were puzzled by the ransom demand. Hayden died last Thursday of an uncommon disease and the parents were awaiting the result of an autopsy to ascertain the cause of death.

Four Churchville children found the body on the way home from school yesterday. The crossroads is about a mile from the village. The four were Bernice South, 10 years old, her sister, eight-year-old Shirley, and James and Florence Moffatt.

Because of the depth of the ditch, police believed the body might have rested at the spot when it was found since shortly after its removal from the cemetery. There was no indication as to how it was brought to the cross-roads but because of its light weight it could easily have been carried. At the time of his death, Pope, wasted away by illness, weighed only 55 pounds.

The body was taken to an undertaking parlor here and examined officially by Coroner Dr. G. A. Montemurro. A foot-long narrow burn was found on the leg of trousers covering the corpse, but it did not extend to the flesh underneath. It had the appearance of having been extinguished hurriedly.

MINISTERS UNFIT TO BE FATHERS

father was perfectly grand. Of course, it got under my skin sometimes to have to watch my P's and Q's over little things to keep from being criticized, but anyway I was happy."

The Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reisner, who preceded Mrs. Holmes on the program, cited Louise Homer, singer, and Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist, as examples of "preachers' daughter who have always been proud of it."

Nurses Extinguish Fire At Residence

Quick work by two nurses who climbed to the roof and put fire extinguishers into play saved the Nurses' Residence at Nicholls Hospital from serious damage when flying sparks started a blaze on Wednesday. Damage was estimated to total between $50 and $100.

The flames were discovered by Nurse Muriel Baker and Nurse Eunice Hammond. They mounted to the roof and battled the flames, other nurses aiding by passing up extinguishers. The Fire Department arrived in short order and completed the job with chemicals and water.

A spark from a nearby chimney is believed to have caused the fire. Although joists under the roof were damaged, the interior of the building was unharmed.

MAY WRITE BOOK

LONDON—(CP) —On his return from a November trip to South America, Ramsay MacDonald may write a book, covering in particular the period from 1914. "I feel that for the sake of the accuracy of the story of our time, I must say something," he said.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Wheat prices moved erratically within a two-cent range on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day with the deferred months showing easiness in late trading. Values closed ¼ cent higher to ½ cent lower, with October at $1.21⅝, November $1.21, December $1.17¼, and May $1.16¼.

Prices held narrow gains for most of the session on good export buying estimated around 750,000 bushels.

In addition, good sales of United States wheat were reported. Mills offered support and some of this was in connection with domestic flour sales and covering of a small export business in flour.

Most Canadian wheat worked for export appeared to be for the United Kingdom, while United States wheat was booked to United Kingdom and the Continent.

NAZI WORKMEN TAKE TO EDWARD

BERLIN, Oct. 14—(CP).—German workmen at a Berlin machine plant yesterday ate luncheon with the Duke of Windsor, talked with him about wages and working conditions, and shouted "Heil Edward" when he left.

The Duke captured the workmen's affections by applauding heartily a reference of Robert Ley, leader of the German Labor Front, to Chancellor Hitler as the man to whom German workers owed their jobs.

Ley also drew cheers when he described the Duke as "a friend of the working man" during a welcoming address. The former King shook hands with many workmen, and asked them about their pay, hours and other conditions. He was especially friendly with Great War veterans.

The Duke ate the standard 22-cent lunch with 500 workers in the plant's mess hall.

The Duke and Duchess plan to sail for the United States on the German liner Bremen on November 6.

Duchess Talks Clothes.

The Duchess of Windsor questioned Nazi welfare administrators to-day on how charity clothes are made to fit the poor. She spent 45 minutes in the Nazi Welfare Society's clothing department.

With interest she felt the quality of the clothing distributed to the poor, asked about manufacturing costs and methods of distribution—but her first concern seemed to be that charity clothes must not only be of good quality but must fit.

To her query, "How do you make sure they fit?" a guide explained:

"We have a whole series of standard types made, which come close enough to fitting everybody."

Officials assured her at least six standard sizes are being manufactured in each garment, but added Nazi volunteer women in thousands of local headquarters saw to it that misfits are changed properly.

She was told that 36,000,000 marks ($14,400,000) were spent last year on clothes for the needy.

Fined For Defective Tires

Question: Can a person be prosecuted in court for driving a car with a defective tire?

Answer: Yes.

If you have any doubt about it, we refer you to a case which was heard before Magistrate James McKay in Hamilton. Traffic Officer Ed. Jess prosecuted Alex Liepic, Algie Ave., Long Branch, and in doing so said the majority of accidents on highways were caused by defective tires. We were under the impression they were caused by defective drivers, but it may be the traffic officers is right.

After hearing the case the magistrate imposed a fine of $10 and costs. If that prosecution could result in a fine at Hamilton the same thing could take place elsewhere, and there is nothing to indicate the decision was appealed.

Come to think of it we know of not many reasons why people should be permitted to use poor tires apart from the one which will say they cannot afford good ones. At best that is not a substantial reason because an accident on the highway is likely to involve two cars, and one of them may be equipped with good tires. When a driver goes out with a car with poor tires it is quite different to a man going for a walk where he has only himself to look after.

This paper is not urging that a round-up be made so that all drivers using poor or worn-out tires shall be brought to court and assessed $10 and costs. The money might better be spent on new tires. But it is no use blinking the fact that a definite start has been made, and that old or worn-out tires have caused one man to be arrested and fined. And the same thing can be done elsewhere.

So Why Lament?

The Toronto Telegram was inclined to do a little weeping in its editorial columns after the provincial election because more Conservatives had not been elected so there would be a strong and healthy Opposition party to "assure adequate consideration of public affairs."

That is a pretty good after-election wail, and we can remember something like that having been printed every time one party or the other had pretty well cleaned up on seats in the House. We are not impressed that it makes a great deal of difference. As long as party government is what it is then a government in power by a few seats is likely to do about the same as one which has a great margin of strength. A motion is just as thoroughly carried with a majority of one vote as it is with twenty or thirty thrown in for good measure.

It was evident enough that Ontario told Premier Hepburn to go ahead and run the business of Ontario, so what is the use of lamenting that there are not more Oppositionists? When Mitchell Hepburn and his followers go wrong the people who put him in will put him out. It has always happened that way.

Will He Have Much Left?

Evidence submitted in automobile cases seems to be much the same regardless of location. There was a case concluded in Sault Ste. Marie the other day. A young man waiting on the side of the street with his motorcycle had been struck by a car. As a result he was in the hospital for five and a half months.

The young man who was injured said the driver of the motor car was travelling about 30 miles an hour.

Another witness who saw the accident said the car "was travelling at a high rate of speed."

The driver of the car swore he was going "about 20 miles an hour."

And that is the sort of material out of which jurors are supposed to build proper and impartial verdicts.

The outcome of this case was peculiar. The amount asked for was $2,000. The young man injured was awarded $50 and his father was given $437.25 for out-of pocket expenses. But the jurors considered the young man 35 per cent. negligent, so there will be 35 per cent. taken from the awards, which will leave about $291 for the expenses of a patient in hospital for five and a-half months and a smashed motorcycle. By the time he finishes paying his legal costs it would be interesting to know how much actual cash he is ahead by having the case heard in court.

The Need Is Plain

There are plenty of people in the West who need help this year as they did in 1936 and before that, and the people of the East are going to provide it.

There are thousands of families where the outlook is bad. There are plenty of cases where people have contracted scurvy because they have had no fresh vegetables to eat. There are thousands of farms where the farm income has amounted to nothing at all and they need clothing and supplies for the winter. And winter in the prairie provinces is a hard enough problem even when well equipped for it.

There are some who can give the produce required from what they grow. They will do it gladly. There are others who grow nothing, but they can provide cash. This good work should not be allowed to lag and it should not be necessary to coax people into attending to such business. In Peterborough cheques can be made payable to James Dutton, or contributions can be left at the Examiner office.

An Old Story

Much has been said about getting Hydro Electric and its affairs out of politics. Truth is it has been talked about so long and by so many succeeding governments that we have ceased to take much stock in it. Hydro is in politics up to the neck and it will likely stay there because there is no known way by which the real owners can become assertive to the point of taking possession.

There was a picture of the new Hepburn cabinet printed in several papers, and included was "Hon. William Houck, Minister Without Portfolio and Hydro Commissioner." If that does not afford a direct tie-up between the Liberal cabinet and Hydro then we do not know the meaning of a tie-up.

There was some small reference made during the campaign to allowing the municipalities which own Hydro to name a member of the Commission, but we do not believe that will ever be done. The municipalities own the business; they are in debt over it, but they are not allowed to manage it. That has become one of the useful political issues for whichever party happens to come into power.

Algoma Falls Down Flat

We noticed in the Sault Ste. Marie Star of October 12 that the complete election returns for Algoma would not be available before October 16. The returning officer said so; he had been up the Algoma Central line to pick up 12 ballot boxes, but it would be the 16th before all the counting was attended to. And the voting took place on October 6, and most places we knew within a couple of hours or so what had taken place.

Probably Jim Curran in his Sault Star will explain it all away by saying there are long distances to be covered, and a degree of hardship encountered about which we know nothing at all. Truth is we believe the people up there are rather soft. We have read of some sort of society which has an annual field day, the chief event being flinging a great stone weighing 483 pounds a considerable distance. Then too we read in the Sault Star of a woman who had words with a police officer, and she concluded the argument by taking the officer by the scuff of the neck and the seat of the trousers and tossing him over the woodshed. Then another famous Algoma woman took a bucksaw and put a cut through a three-foot green log in 8 seconds. When she got settled to her day's work she had to have a man with a wheelbarrow taking away the sawdust so it would not interfere with her stroke.

A sort of supernatural race of people in Algoma. That is the impression we have received from reading the Sault Star. And yet when it comes to scampering about and herding the ballot boxes together in one place it cannot be accomplished until 10 days after the voting has taken place. The thing is clear as a pikestaff. When these Algoma folk have to face a stated case and achieve a definite object they become as flat as tea biscuits with the baking powder left out—or whatever it is they put in them to cause them to grow and be fluffy. If people in Algoma are as remarkable as they have been pictured they would have little trouble tossing ballot boxes across wide spaces. But it may be they rule themselves up in that country and are not particularly concerned about who is elected for the other parliament in Toronto.

We Have Our Own Problem

The Empire Migration Conference has been continuing in London. It is not merely a committee meeting which gathers after noon and is over before dark. It lasts today, tomorrow and so on. One thing is certain—the Conference feels the time is here for an early resumption of migration to the Dominions.

At one of the meetings there was a brick-layer from London, William Fraser, and he had with him pictures of his two young sons. He wanted to be an emigrant and his desire was to go to South Africa. He explained there were thousands of skilled craftsmen only waiting a chance. They did not want doles, merely a chance to go ahead and make an honest living, and their loyalty was unquestioned. It is recorded that Mr. Fraser was given quite a hand during his address and again upon its completion.

It is well to look at such a case according to plain facts rather than by the enthusiasm created for the moment by a worthy man pleading for a better chance. In order that Mr. Fraser might be employed in South Africa it would be necessary that some person or firm in that country would be engaged in building a number of houses or other buildings, otherwise there would be no bricks for him to lay, and it is just possible there may be men in most places in South Africa who can place in order all the bricks which need attending to. A general exodus of skilled men of the building trades might relieve the situation in London, but complicate it elsewhere.

The statement has been made that foreigners are more welcome in the Dominions than are residents of the Old Land. That is one thing which this paper does not believe. Nor are we at all certain that the raising of new central funds as suggested at the London Conference on Migration is the sure way to make a success of establishing families in a new country. It might be well for such a conference to consider that Canada has spent about $800,000,000 on relief, and that it is still costing us about $2,500,000 a week. Also that we have right now some 180,000 of our people on relief, and these are folk who should be working. They are not unemployables nor are they residents of the drought-area of Western Canada. The time will undoubtedly come when our country will again be able to tell the folk in the Old Land that there is room and opportunity here, but for the moment we are seriously concerned in trying to get our own people working again. That is something the London Conference on Migration should consider.

Cannot Read Or Write

When the Dominion Bureau of Statistics starts out in pursuit of a subject it keeps on until there is nothing left to pursue. It has been so with the last census of the Dominion taken in the year 1931. There have been three or four great volumes of statistics on that census, and the people who were then living in Canada have been sorted and resorted, stacked and classified. Large and impressive volumes all of them.

One can even find how many people in the Dominion can neither read nor write, how many can read and not write and how many can write and not read. Those who can neither read nor write are classified as follows:

Prince Edward Island	4,833
Nova Scotia	35,485
New Brunswick	40,902
Quebec	224,362
Ontario	155,628
Manitoba	48,204
Saskatchewan	65,456
Alberta	46,604
British Columbia	39,825

In the Yukon and Northwest Territories the number who cannot read or write runs higher than elsewhere in the country. The Yukon has a population of 3,869 and 1,026 of them can neither read nor write, and in the Northwest Territories with a population of 8,399 those who are listed in the class of illiterates show a total of 5,352.

There are in the Dominion 667,677 in the non-reading or writing class, but the figures may be subject to improvement, as the first age group given is that of from 5 to 9 years, and we take it that most in that age bracket would surely overcome the handicap which the Bureau of Statistics has fastened upon them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Up to the present John L. Lewis has made no move to secure a recount in the Ontario election.

Stratford has secured a nail company which formerly operated in Ayr. In other words the concern has apparently given Ayr the air.

Radio may be used to connect United States and Canadian police systems. Crooks will likely complain that that would be a combine in restraint of trade.

An American banker predicts a slow decline in business. In that case the next depression is likely to be here before we have scrapped the relief machinery used in the last one.

Newspaper comment says that Mr. Hepburn's new cabinet is better than his first one but we do not suppose that view is shared by Messrs. Marshall, Croll, Roebuck, Cox and Dr. Faulkner.

Toronto Star reproduced a paragraph from the Examiner and on it placed the heading "Read This and Groan." That heading was hardly necessary as for a long time our readers have been doing that very thing.

A COLD

(By A. R. K.)

¶ It came along at half-past nine, a little touch upon the spine, I thought it was a chill; I mind that I'd read in a book, and so at once I up and took, a large and powerful pill.

¶ Then I felt sore about the throat, as rough as hair on billy goat, nor did it go away; and so I got my squirter out, and mixed a dose both tall and stout, and I began to spray.

¶ My eyes were filled as though with tears, and I nursed strange and certain fears, my head felt rather flat; I poured concoctions in my nose, and turned thereon the garden hose, I would attend to that.

¶ I felt an aching in my back, as though the thing had sprung a crack, and it might bust in two; I put hotbricks inside the bed, and tied a towel around my head, that was the thing to do.

¶ But when I moved I felt an ache, as though some part of me might break, my chest felt rather tight; I'd put some goose grease on my hide, and it would penetrate inside, and soon I'd be all right.

¶ I try to battle with a cold, and slash upon it brave and bold, to drive it from my frame; I try all things I know to do, and some of them are old and new—it grips me just the same.

ALL SKIPPERS who ply into Hudson Strait know Navolia, the Eskimo pilot who guides ships through the winding and impressive entrance into Lake Harbor, the port often referred to as the capital of Baffin Island. Navolia is his only name for Eskimos do not bother with surnames.

For twenty years this sturdily-built native has been an outstanding pilot in that district and is famous from one end of Hudson Strait to the other among the Oquimuits, the natives living along those shores. Oquimuits means "people who live in a warm country" for the ice-infested Hudson Strait in the sub-Arctic is considered a warm country by those who live in the Arctic circle.

Even after he took the job of pilot, Navolia, who is now about 45, was the champion wrestler among the Oquimuits and repeatedly proved it in bouts at Lake Harbor. When he meets a ship to take her into port, Navolia comes in state accompanied by his three sons, their two wives and their children. When the ship appears the family go out in a whaleboat to meet it, Navolia and most of the family come aboard leaving two of the sons to navigate the whaler as it is towed alongside the ship.

Like most Eskimos he is not very adept in learning English and knows only a few words but he is able to give his orders to the wheelsman in the familiar terms of "port," "starboard" and "steady."

Her Favorite Song.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH has a gramophone of her own and her favorite record is one of veteran Sir Harry Lauder singing his old-time song hit "Oh, it's nice to get up in the morning." When Sir Harry was introduced to the Princess at Glamis Castle recently she told him bashfully that his song was her favorite and he was so pleased that when he started his new tour at Carlisle he made "Oh, it's nice to get up in the morning" a feature of the program.

According to a handbook recently issued by Sir Arthur Salusbury McNalty, the chief medical officer of the British Board of Education and the Ministry of Health an individual who is physically fit must be able to high kick his own height, high jump 4ft. 6 inches, broad jump 16 feet, hop skip and jump on the run 24 feet and run 100 yards in 12 seconds.

One of the youngest Foreign Secretaries in Europe is Col Josef Beck, of Poland who is a close personal friend of Britain's young Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden. Beck, who is 42 years of age was protege of the late Marshal Pilsudski, fought for Polish independence as a member of his Foreign Legion, helped him to establish his military dictatorship and was awarded by being made the Dictator's deputy. When the Marshal died in 1935 Beck was the only one of his front-rank henchmen to survive the ensuing political storm and he remains a personality to be reckoned with at home and abroad.

One Tree Orchard.

THE LARGEST "one tree orchard" in the world flourishes on the farm of Frank A. Good near Fredericton, N. B. Sixty varieties of apples and one pear were grown on this single tree this year as a result of grafting experiments. Good who served 25 years on the staff of the provincial normal school as instructor of nature study and elementary agriculture acquired the farm in 1923 and grafting shoots into the sawed-off branches of the parent tree he set out to beat the record of a United States horticulturist who had 25 varieties of apples grafted on one tree.

The New Brunswick expert achieved a record far ahead of the other for in 1933 his tree bore 80 varieties of apples. It suffered severely from the unusually cold winter of 1934, producing only fifteen kinds but in 1935 it yielded 35 and this year no fewer than 60 with a pear added.

Good is still increasing the number of grafts as well as trying to make other kinds of trees grow apples. At his farm a young apple tree is growing from the trunk of a hawthorne and in the normal school garden an apple branch grows from a mountain ash.

The "one tree orchard" includes varieties developed by New Brunswick's first orchardist Francis Peabody Sharp, born in 1823 who refuted the opinion that the province was unsuited to fruit growing.

Imports Amazon Fly.

TRINIDAD has launched an intensive campaign against the ravages of the sugar-cane moth borer—with the aid of the Amazon fly imported from British Guiana. Breeding and liberation of the imported parasite has been proceeding in Trinidad and as parasites are recovered from fields in which the first liberations were made a decided drop in the number of sugar-cane moth borers was noted.

According to a British paper all types of motor vehicles in use in Britain, except private cars are being inspected by War Office experts with a view to commandeering them in the event of war. Thirty-eight War Office officials, the article says are compiling a list of the vehicles available for transport.

May Kill Off All Our Wild Ducks

Last Breeding Area is James Bay District; And That Too Is Now Being Badly Raided

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

POT HUNTERS are invading the James Bay breeding grounds of the goose and duck, and the last refuge of these game birds is to be made a "sportsmen's paradise." That is unless the Ontario government steps in and does something about it. What should be done has been indicated pretty clearly by Jack Miner's work. He has banded birds for many years and his maps of their migrations show that James Bay is the greatest feeding ground of water fowl on the Continent. American sportsmen have become so alarmed at the decrease of these birds that they have been busy buying up swamp areas in western Canada to be set aside as feeding grounds. James Bay should be closed as a sanctuary for our waterfowl.

The James Bay area has been from time immemorial the refuge of water fowl. The word "Cree" originated in the old name of the James Bay Indians, "Kenishtenaw," which signifies "duck tribe." The word was originally spelled by the French in the 17th century "kilistones," but Bargan's dictionary brings it up to date and gives the meaning as "a kind of wild duck." The "swamp Crees" as they are now called, came from James Bay. There are other indications in Indian vocabulary which point to the popularity of that region as the dominant duck country.

A short time ago it was announced in the papers that an American syndicate had bought the Moosonee hotel built by the T. & N. O. Railway to exploit the duck resources of that region and there are items now appearing in the papers telling of well known people going up there for duck and goose shooting. This is one clipping from a Toronto paper:

"There is apparently one piece in Ontario where the gunner on public lands can enjoy wonderful waterfowl shooting. That is the vicinity of Moosonee, some 650 miles north of Toronto. There, on the wide tidal flats of shallow James Bay, hunters shoot ducks and geese from blinds.

The game consists mostly of Canada white geese, blue geese and black ducks — many of which nest in the neighborhood. Jack snipe are reported very plentiful in most seasons. Hunters engage guides at Moosonee and go down the river mostly in big freight motor canoes to camp on the shores of the bay. Tents are used, but they say that scows are better where wind and tide are apt to flood the flats."

Wild life is not plentiful enough to allow one of its great refuges to be exploited. James Bay's natural sanctuary should be protected. Jack Miner should raise his voice in time.

James Bay should be a duck refuge for all time. A half century ago every lake in Ontario north of Lake Simcoe saw literally thousands of wild ducks and geese. The writer has seen Cunningham's Bay on Lake Couchiching covered with clouds of them. Now there are a stray few there in the fall. The pot hunter has driven them to their last trenches in James Bay. Destroy them there and there will be none left even in Northern Ontario.

Might Let Farmers Name Minister

Should Be One With a Broad Interest; Loans Would Start More Men on Land

Rusticus in Stratford Beacon-Herald

FOR INSTANCE, that election held last week. There are many who are sure they can explain just why the results turned out just as they did. The ballots do not concern us at this time, but the head of the Department that most vitally concerns farmers must be picked, owing to the defeat of the former Minister of Agriculture. We wonder if farmers are ever consulted as to whom they would like to have at the head of this important branch of government. We know that they were not well pleased with the work of the last holder of that office. Surely among the many farmers elected on Oct. 6th there is one who can properly represent the diversified of Ontario's Agriculture.

We do not want a man whose sole interests lie in pure-bred stock, be it beef, dairy, hogs or horses. We do not want a man who is interested only in grain or fruit growing, but we do want a man who can keep the interests of all classes of farmers in mind. The Department of Agriculture is worthy of the best man obtainable.

Another feature of the same Department is the suspension of the Farm Development Board, with its loans to farmers, and prospective farmers. It is our contention that these loans should again be available to farmers and farmers' sons. The picture is this: There are many farms for sale at prices far below cost of the implements. In many cases the owners are men no longer young in years, and they saved to pay for these farms so that an independent old might be ensured. If they are forced to sell at prevailing prices of farm lands, there will be little left for that old age. Old age pensions may be the alternative.

On the other hand there are many young men and women anxious to secure a start of their own. They lack the necessary capital, and drift toward the city. No, they do not go on relief, because the farm-trained man can usually find some work, but they probably do take the place of someone who must depend upon relief. This conditin need not exist, and with the present capital requirements farming in Ontario should prove quite attractive again. Farm loans would certainly prove quite a boon to our people at this time, and ought to be a safe proposition from the investors' standpoint.

We are not asking for the expenditure of any great amount of money. Additional grants and bonuses "do not interest us in the least. The farmers of Ontario ask only to be given a square deal and a chance to solve their economic problems. They can do with sane leadership by a man who is familiar with their problems.

Why Not Wage Laws For the Farm?

Nothing Like That Has Been Attempted; Subsidies Do Not Reach the Workers

(Letter in Globe and Mail)

TO THE EDITOR of The Globe and Mail: In The Globe and Mail of Oct. 6, I see a cabled story in connection with the British Labor Conference at Bournemouth intimating that: (1) "Land workers should be guaranteed wages, conditions of employment, and other social conditions comparable to the best-paid artisans in the towns," and (2) "Delegates from the National Union of Agricultural Workers were insistent in their demand for better conditions for the land worker. E. G. Gooch, president, declared that up to last year £94,000,000 ($465,535,000) was spent in subsidies for cattle, wheat and beet sugar."

This leader finds the foregoing decidedly thought-provoking from the Canadian angle, for the reason that: (1) All the efforts at "minimum wage" legislation in this Dominion—so far as I am aware—apply only to urban workers and specifically include the words "except farm workers;" and (2) While $125,000,000 of the above-mentioned subsidy accrued to the growers of 215,000,000 bushels of United Kingdom wheat, it is likely that the next session of the Dominion Parliament will be able to announce that this country's wheat stabilization activities during the depression years, dealing with 1,850,000,000 bushels (1930-35 crops) have cost the public treasury about 10 per cent of that British wheat subsidy.

It is undoubtedly a fine achievement, Mr. Editor, but I'm inclined to think that the "treat" has been on the Canadian wheat farmer.

The disinclination to send the principle of "a minimum wage" beyond urban boundaries would seem to give some factual color to the assertion of an American columnist that "farming is a sweated industry."

Would we not all win if the farmer's cash revenues permitted the payment of "a minimum wage" to his workers? Now, otherwise can we expect young Canadians to deliberately choose careers "down on the farm?"

"FAIR DEAL."

TOLERANCE.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

WE COULD almost wish that the case of the young Woodstock preacher who is appealing against a magisterial verdict with costs of $24.75 because of the noise of his services, would come before Premier Hepburn's personal attention. It would be unfortunate should there occur in this province anything that can be interpreted as religious persecution. The preacher in this case may be a zealot and his following unduly exuberant, but we want no more of the discrimination of which old-time Methodists complained in this province less than a century ago and such as various churches now suffer from in Germany. We are reminded that John Bunyan wrote his sublime allegory, "The Pilgrim's Progress," while cruelly imprisoned in Bedford Jail, and that John Wesley suffered gross vicissitudes in carrying on his evangelism. The times now call for a large tolerance in these things, and not for a reversion to mediaevalism. We do not mention this matter as one for which the Premier is in any sense responsible, but as one in which we could hope one of his broad sympathies might find a text for some of his admired forthrightness.

A COWARDLY ACT.

(Brantford Expositor)

THE BILL introduced by Premier Aberhart into the recent session of the Legislature to repeal the Recall Act is undoubtedly one of the most cowardly pieces of legislation ever enacted in the Dominion of Canada. The Act was passed by the Social Credit Government in order that it might have the power to wield the big stick of compulsion over the members of the party if they attempted to oppose the legislation. It provided that the voters of any constituency by a two-thirds majority could bring about the resignation of their representative. A petition was circulated in Okotoks-High River, the Premier's constituency, to recall him and the Government answered by repealing the Act, so that the movement was frustrated.

HAPPINESS.

In the garden of pleasure I sought her,
On the mountain of fortune and fame,
In the darkness and thru troubled waters
But Happiness, there, never came.

She is dressed in a mantle of mercy,
Scatters blossoms of love, truth and light,
Drinking deep from the fountain of friendship
And her sleep is a dream of delight,

So I ask you, where think you I found her,
Asleep in my soul, all the time!
Now I wrap her in song for you darling
And my joy will be greater than thine.

Mrs. McClee.

A Bit of Nonsense

EMERGENCY.

A young surgeon received a telephone call from a colleague, who invited him to make a fourth at bridge.

"Going out, dear?" asked his wife, sympathetically.

"I'm afraid so," was the grave reply. "It's a very important case. There are three doctors there already."

MAKE $50 GRANT PASTOR'S SALARY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Fred Precious entertained the members of Centenary Women's Association, and a number of visitors at her country place, Rice Lake, near Harwood, on Thursday afternoon.

The president, Miss Jessie Sherwin, presided over a short business session.

During the opening exercises Miss Emma Sherwin read the scripture lesson. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted on motion of the secretary, Miss Teresa Dowler.

On motion it was decided to donate $50.00 towards the pastor's salary.

Miss Teresa Dowler took charge of the program period, and the following numbers were contributed, and were enjoyed by the large number in attendance. Mrs. D. Timlin read an article "Go and spend the Day", and Mrs. Walton Lean read "The Hills" of Rest." Miss Emma Sherwin contributed a story about neighbors, and Mrs. James Timlin read a short poem, "My Shelf of Doors."

Little Miss Audrey Scott sang a solo. Readings were also contributed by Mrs. M. Brown, Mrs. A. Tuck, and Miss Hilda Arthur and Mrs. Bruce Arthur read a poem, "The Cedar Chest." Misses Emma Sherwin and Teresa Dowler arranged interesting contests, and Mrs. L. W. Scott sang a solo.

An interesting talk on conditions in Western Canada, was given by Mrs. Leslie Tucker.

The closing prayer was offered by Rev. L. W. Scott.

The president, Miss Jessie Sherwin, and Mrs. M. Brown, poured tea and coffee, and assisting Mrs. Percious also, in seving, refreshments, were, Mrs. Irish, Mrs. C. Braithwaite, Mrs. James L. Timlin, Mrs. D. Timlin, Mrs. E. Thackeray, Mrs. M. Radley and Misses Emma Sherwin and Teresa Dowler.

The attendance number was 45 and the collection amounted to $4.00.

May Fill Important Posts

The long-expected retirement of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht as both Reichsbank president and minister of economy of the third reich has led to speculation over the men who will be named in his stead. At LEFT is State Secretary Walter Funk, formerly Adolf Hitler's personal economic adviser and now Reich press chief. Funk, it is thought, will get the economy portfolio. At the RIGHT, is Count Luis Schwerin von Krosigk, the German finance minister, who is advanced as the next possible Reichsbank president.

LINDSAY FARMER, HIRED MAN JAILED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Oct. 14. — The Fall Assizes opened at the Court House on Tuesday, His Honor Justice McEvoy presiding. There are four cases on the docket. Only one criminal case is to be dealt with. Hugh Wilson of Toronto faces this charge in connection with the death of another Toronto man, when the former's car took to the ditch and turned over west of the town during the summer. There are two divorce cases and one civil case.

With his employer, a farmer named Flynn, in jail for ten days on a drunk driving charge, Norman McGinnis was sentenced to nine days in jail on a charge of vagrancy. The accused, while under the influence, threatened to give Chief Lawlor "a kick on the kisser."

The sudden death took place in Janetville of Mrs. George Hutchison, a lady well known in the district. The deceased passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Deyell. She was in excellent health before retiring for the night, and her death was a great shock to her relatives and friends. She is survived by two daughters.

Mrs. W. A. Stinson of Janetville was painfully injured in an automobile accident, which might have been attended with more serious results. J. Lowes of Omemee, when rounding a corner near F. Porter's service station, failed to notice the Stinson car, and a sideswipe was the result. Mr. Stinson had two ribs fractured and also suffered from shock. His little daughter Helen sustained a bad cut in the head. Both cars were badly damaged.

Wilson Fegarry, a farm hand, and a son of a former Reeve of Port Perry, died suddenly this week at the farm of G. Cherrie, Scugog Island, from blood poisoning. The deceased sustained a cut in the hand and poisoning quickly developed.

New Study Book Described at W.M.S. Meeting.

The Women's Missionary Society of George Street United Church held their fall rally meeting in the church parlors with the president, Mrs. Morton, in the chair.

The new study book, "A New Church Faces A New World" by Jesse Arnupp, was introduced by Mrs. Brown. The landing of the "Hector" in 1771 at Picton, Nova Scotia, with early settlers from the highlands of Scotland, was most vividly described. The "saddle-bag" preachers with their great faith and undaunted courage in bringing the Gospel to the hearts and homes of the settlers, were portrayed. It was shown that they were a great factor in helping to make a fine type of men and women in Canada. Mrs. Brown was assisted by Mrs. Birch and Mrs. McGee in telling the story of those early days when church history was being made.

During the devotional period, Mrs. Airiss led in prayer and Mrs. Sandercock read the Scripture lesson, the theme for the day being, "The church of the Living God."

A splendid report was given by the president, Mrs. Morton of the summer school for leaders held at Whitby Ladies' College in August. The main thought presented by the president being that women missionary members should strive to become more consecrated, spending more time in study of the Bible, and missionary work, and put into daily practice the aims and objects of their Society.

Reference was made to the Thanksgiving meeting when the W.M.S. hope to have Mrs. Lovies as special speaker.

A beautiful banner won this year by the circle was on display in the parlors.

Are Married At Toronto

Of much local interest was the marriage of Miss Roxy Taylor Roche, Reg. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Roche of Engleburn Avenue, this city, to Dr. Louis V. Lang, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lang of Kitchener, Ontario. The wedding was quietly solemnized on Monday, October 11, by the Rev. Father Sharpe in Holy Rosary Church, Toronto. The young couple will reside in Kitchener.

Darling-Nicholls.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 14.—A pretty wedding was solemnized in Lakefield at twelve noon, on Tuesday, October 12, when Edith Nichols, second daughter of Mrs. Joseph Nichols of Lakefield and the late Mr. Nichols, was married to Mr. Roland Darling of Douro.

The ceremony, which was held at the home of the bride's mother was performed by Rev. W. B. Walker, pastor of Lakefield Baptist Church. Only immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present.

Miss Nichols, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Percy McIlmoyle, entered the living room to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Pearl Walker. The bride looked lovely in a dark blue velvet gown. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The couple were unattended. After the wedding service, a delicious luncheon was served.

During the afternoon, the bridal couple left for Rochester, where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride travelled in a wine dress with accessories to match.

On their return the couple will reside in Douro.

Wright-Raymer.

JANETVILLE, Oct. 14.—In the United Church Parsonage at Markham on Saturday afternoon, October 9, the marriage took place of Miss Mary Hazel Raymer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Raymer of Markham, to Mr. Orloe Wentford Wright of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wright, Janetville. The Rev. D. H. Woodhouse officiated.

The bride was becomingly gowned in navy blue triple sheer, with corsage of Talisman roses and lily of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Aileen Raymer, also in navy with corsage of roses.

Mr. Melvin Wright of Burketon, brother of the groom, was groomsman.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Raymer receiving in a gown of black velvet, assisted by Mrs. Wright, wearing black crepe.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright left on a motor trip to Ottawa, the bride travelling in a black coat trimmed with Persian lamb, small black hat and matching accessories. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

COLORED BATH TOWELS.

Although gaily colored bath towels and face cloths carry a "fast color" label, it is advisable to dry them in the shade since the bright rays of the sun often will cause them to fade.

Fashion Service

Give your wardrobe an unlimited look with these four new hats made at a low price. The pattern includes all four models. The berets achieve a dramatic sweep at exciting new angles. The side swooping profile models are amazingly becoming to everyone. The off-the-face model is devastating youthful. An alluring wispy veil will give it glamour for after 5 o'clock parties. These fetching little berets are made of soft felt, suede or velvet. Black, navy, brown, green and wine are the popular colors. An unstanding quill is a nice ornament. The jaunty little calot will be your favorite for sports and campus of suede, tweed, jersey, etc. Paris has also formalized this cap for your dinner suit by making it of panne velvet, gold metal fabrics and of sequins. Style No. 3160 is designed in one size only. For material requirements see pattern envelope.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Friday, October 15.

This may be another day of high tension and lively activities that should keep the forces and the mind alert. Employment especially will respond to these high vibrations of important planets. Nevertheless, there are definite dangers of distortion, scandal and litigation. Be cautious with all manner of writings. Seek promotion and favors from elders, superiors and persons who are financially responsible.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of advancement, honors and recognition from employers, superiors and persons of great power and authority. Seek such persons for co-operation, but shun all avenues of scandal, misconstruction and litigation, particularly in connection with writings and documents.

A child born on this day may be endowed for success and happiness in life and may be favored by employers, superiors and those in authority. But it should be trained while young in controlling a caustic tongue.

FACTS AND FANCIES
Jewelry Much Worn

Jewelry is very much in the limelight this season. Not only one modest string of pearls decorate milady's throat with her new black autumn dress, but four and five, and colored pearls are very smart in Paris right now.

Another revived fashion is the use of ruffles. You can see, in the more select shops and dressmaker establishments, occasional formal dresses made of thousands of yards of tiny ruffles; others with allover patterns of sequins and other bright trimmings.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

UNMASKING THE ENEMY

IF THE DECLARER'S bidding has given you and your partner an exact count on the length of two suits, it pays to look for a length-showing lead in one of the other two suits, rather than a strength-showing lead. If this enables your partner to know definitely how many you hold in that suit, he can look at his own hand and the dummy and thus know just how many cards the declarer has in it. By adding the declarer's known length in the suits he bid, you find how many he can possess in the fourth suit. Therefore his entire hand is unmasked, whereas you have given him very little information.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Here was a deal on which the ultimate declarer bid so as to give away a flock of information about his holding. He opened in the South with 1-Spade, North bid 1-No Trump, South 2-Hearts, North 2-No Trumps, South 3-Spades, showing he had five of those and only four hearts, and North took it to 4-Spades.

That identical bidding was recorded at two tables of a duplicate tournament. In one case West led the club jack, which won the trick, and followed with the 10, as he considered declarer's play of the 9 to the first trick to be a false-card. Declarer naturally ruffed the second club and proceeded to drop the trumps. As a consequence he made his contract, losing to only the three side aces.

At the other table, West realized his partner had a count of South's major suits, so led the fourth-best club 6 instead of the jack. Seeing all lower ones, East knew his partner had exactly four, hence the declarer one. This left the declarer three diamonds, so West had a singleton there. The diamond ace and another diamond then produced the ruffing trick which, with the later heart ace, set the contract.

What is the correct bidding of this deal?

Knitted Suits Liked By The Smartest Women

Intriguing Whether Made By Hand or Machinery

Courtesy Renee Hall.

By LI$SBETH

THE KNITTED suit is always interesting to modern women, whether they knit 'em themselves or buy them ready made. There is something about a knitted suit, don't you know!

Yarns never were more inspiring to the woman who likes to knit her own, and the same is true in the machine knitted suits and dresses, the smartest of which have the look of the handknit. A knitted suit should not be too obviously knitted, but have a fabric look to be at its best.

Two-piece dresses are pictured here. The one at the left is a jacket suit using the popular contrast idea between skirt and jacket. The skirt is slim with some animation in its hem, and the jacket has long close-fitting sleeves, four pockets and a zipper front closing and V-shaped neckline. It is made of Shetland floss and there is a tiny and becoming skull cap to match.

The other is a skirt and slipover sweater dress in rust, the skirt in a fan-rib stitch, and the slipover decorated with small orange and green motifs.

Left above, two-piece knitted suit and hat in Shetland floss, jacket having four pockets and zipper front closing right, rust colored knitted two-piece dress with blouse trimmed with tiny orange and green motifs.

Knitted dresses that are smart and popular at the present time are dotted knit one-piece dresses and jackets, and two-piece zephyr dresses and plaid jacket blouses. These are moderately priced and very serviceable as well as good looking.

More expensive but correspondingly smart frocks are shown which are imported from Austria, the home of many handsome hand-made garments. One shown has its jacket blouse knitted in a checkerboard pattern, and some have embroidered motifs with practically the same effects as the model shown.

Mixture tweed sweaters and skirts to match, the sweaters in twin sets, are darlings of the college set and the country lovers. Classic types of sweaters of Shetland and cashmere are always liked.

Quarrels Kept Up By Interference

By VIRGINIA LEE

INTERFERENCE by outsiders has broken up many a home. Well meaning friends and relatives who sympathize with a young wife or husband when the couple has had a difference of opinion have done more harm than can be estimated.

It is the wise young man and woman who make up their minds that if they are adult enough to be married they are old enough to settle their own differences without "running home to mama or papa," or asking friends to help them.

Only those involved in a fracas really know what it is about, and sometimes they are a bit vague. Suppose the next time we are appealed to to help settle a dispute between newlyweds we tell them very plainly to fix things up themselves. We would be doing them a good turn, even if they seem annoyed at our attitude at the time.

That is what I have just told a young wife who is separated from her husband and whose relatives seem inclined to give her too much advice. She loves her husband, she says, so I told her to go back to him and pay no attention to what anyone says.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"How foolish it is to try and cure by argument what time will cure so completely if left to itself. As I get older, the anxiety to prove myself right if I quarrel, dies out. I hold my time, and time vindicates me, if it is possible to vindicate me, or convicts me if I am wrong."

Mark Rutherford's "Deliverance."

Dear Friends:

And now an answer to "Perplexed." She tells me she seems to be always in an argument, and cannot understand the reason. Sometimes those around us do not fully understand us, and we crave so to be understood, but how can they, when we so infrequently understand ourselves?

Pretty hard for them, don't you think? None of us remain static every day, nor every year. We change as the seasons change, and it is well for us that we do, else there would be an eternal sameness and a withering monotony.

Somewhere in Shakespeare there is a sentence which runs like this. "My lord, methinks thou dost protest too much." So it is with too many arguments. We protest we are this or that, and assume we shall remain that way, then try to convince others of the same thing. Now, I love a friendly argument, it gives one fresh ideas. As a girl, when I wanted to know about a football game, (to which we as women were not supposed to go,) I used to start an argument that so and so should have won the game. All I knew was the score.

I also knew that if I came right out and asked to be told about the game, I would get very little real information. But in starting an argument, I got told the whole thing. (The wiles of women.)

So, it might be with you. You might be seeking something that only the one you argue with, could tell you. But if you have the information already, and are trying to convince someone else you are right, you might as well save your breath.

Humanity detests having something, no matter how right it is, being shoved down their throat. It raises up a spirit of antagonism so that they will argue to prove out of sheer annoyance.

And it could also be that they are trying much the same thing with you, so that you are the one who is annoyed. But—the longer I live, the more I agree with the quotation I have given you. If I am right, time will show me, and the same if I am wrong. And now for the many others who sent me letters, but asked for no special article, I thank you so much. It is hard for me to really tell you how much I appreciate them.

To the lady who told me I had made the passing of her Mother easier, thank God I was enabled to help, altho' all unknowing of it. To know that one who knew she was going to cross the great divide, yet asked that my column be read to her, and that it made it so much more comfortable, makes me proud and humble.

One thing many of you have which I don't, and that is knowledge of who I am. However if you wish to keep your identity secret it is alright. Some days when I see someone look at me with a half smile, I shall think, "maybe it is this one or that," and it will be a sort of a game between us.

And so, in conclusion I give you this, but I don't know the author.

If any little love of mine
May make a life the sweeter,
If any little care of mine
May make a friend's the fleeter,
If any lift of mine may ease
The burden of another,
God give me love and care and strength
To help a toiling brother.
Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Crooked Nose 98% Women

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — (AP). — Ninety-eight per cent. of all women have a crooked nose, said Emile F. Martin to-day—a nose that "lists" slightly either to right or left.

So, explained Martin, president of the New York State Hairdressers' Association, "an optical illusion" is required to make the feminine nose look straight.

The trick, he said, is to part the hair adeptly. If the nose veers to the right, have the part on the right by all means, sloping back to centre.

Handbags are gayer than ever. Schiaparelli, one of the most original of the Paris creators of dress, makes a black envelope bag latticed in silver and gilt chains.

Bankhead Lauded As Cleopatra

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Oct. 14 (C.P.). — Comments varied on Tallulah Bankhead's performance as Cleopatra in last night's premiere of Laurence River's production of Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra," but a packed house applauded the stage star enthusiastically.

The audience also was warm in its applause for Conway Tearle, who portrayed Antony, and for John Emery, Miss Bankhead's husband, cast as Octavius Caesar.

George W. White, in the Rochester Times-Union, termed the production "generally more than satisfactory and in places superb."

"Unfortunately," he wrote, "Shakespeare was never at his best in characterization of women. The performance of Tallulah Bankhead suffered more from this centuries-old handicap than from any other."

State Department In "Panic" When Message To Washington Told That Windsors Coming

Few People Will Ever Know Full Extent Of Official Turmoil In Washington

By J. CLAUDE ALLEN
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. — Few people will ever know the full extent of the official turmoil which was raised behind the scenes in the U.S. capital when the announcement came that the Duke and Duchess of Windsor were going to pay a visit to the United States "to study housing conditions."

Complications

Although it might seem at first glance that a visit from the Duke and Duchess of Windsor should be, at most, a great holiday for sightseers, newspapers and photographers, it really turns out to be much more than that. Such a visit brings with it a host of international complications which might conceivably give a new twist to current history and diplomatic alignments.

The state department, whose function it is to greet distinguished foreign visitors and to look after their welfare during their stay in the country, was completely distracted. Newspaper reporters who made inquiry at the state department were told that there was no comment to be made upon the coming visit of the Windsors.

Meanwhile frantic telegrams were sent to President Roosevelt who was, at the time, speeding toward Washington after completing his western tour. Secretary of State Cordell Hull held hurried conferences with his under secretaries and with his intimate advisers. Historical archivists were assigned to page through diplomatic records for some sort of a precedent to go by. It was found that never before had an ex-king chosen to visit the United States. There were almost no precedents to follow.

It Came on Sunday

Cable wires and transatlantic telephone calls were resorted to in efforts to contact high officials of Great Britain. Numerous attempts were made to reach members of the British embassy in Washington for information and advice. But the announcement of Edward's pending visit was received in Washington on a Sunday, and British diplomats here were week-ending elsewhere. To Britishers, a week-end is traditionally inviolable and is never broken into except for the most drastic emergencies. That only added fuel to the distraction of United States officials.

Their problem was manifold. It had ben previously understood in diplomatic quarters here that the British government was distinctly opposed to any intentions which Edward and Wally might have for a trip to America. Should the United States government flout the British government by extending an extravagant welcome to the "exiled" king? That was one of the problems confronting state department officials.

On the other hand, Edward was, until recently, the monarch of all the power of Britain. He still is the ranking member of British royalty. To slight him might be considered a democratic sneer. That was another alternative danger.

On Intimate Terms

At the present moment the United States is on the closest and most intimate diplomatic terms with Great Britain. Although no treaty of alliance has ever been signed or formally recognized, it is established fact in international circles that an Anglo - American "rapprochement" exists, binding the diplomatic policies of the two countries together.

When England speaks in world affairs, the voice of England always is considered to convey at least a whisper of the voice of America. Additionally, there is currently being negotiated a reciprocal trade agreement between Britain and the United States. It is a matter of deep concern to U.S. officials and economists that nothing should occur to endanger the chances of the trade agreement. Economically, Great Britain is one of America's best customers for cotton, heavy machinery, automobiles, and wheat.

Hence the state department was in a high dither. Here are some of the problems that must be faced:

1. Should the secretary of state take part in welcoming formalities?

2. Should an official entertainment be given the Duke and Duchess at the White House?

Wally's Standing

3. What social standing should be given to the Duchess of Windsor, the former Wally Simpson of Baltimore? This, itself, is the problem vexing point of prostration.

4. Shoud "Wally" be addressed as official hostesses in Washington to a "Your Royal Highness"?

5. Will courtesies shown Edward and Wally here be construed as a slap at former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin?

There are a host of other questions and problems which formed the basis for discussions lasting far, far into the morning of the day after the first startling announcement.

But, evidently, all the problems will be smoothed out, for word comes from London that Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador at Washington, has obtained "favorable reaction" from the White House, the duke is said to have promised the British government not to make any speeches, and his entourage, duly passed upon by the British, will contain five or six persons. The U. S. labor department also will provide an observer to guide the duke around the industrial areas he desires to see.

PUTS POINTED QUERY

CALAIS, France—(CP). — "Must Calais seek salvation in a return to England?" queried the mayor of the French seaport recently. He is worried about the town's economic difficulties, the machine-made lace industry being nearly dead as a result of tariffs.

Duke And Duchess Plan To Visit United States

Announcing that he wished to visit the United States in order to study the housing problem the Duke of Windsor threw official Washington into a near "panic". Such a visit it is feared would bring about a host of international problems and complications such as at present Washington does not want to have cast upon her shoulders.

BUSY TERM FACES BRITISH MEMBERS

LONDON, Oct. 14—(CP).—In the quiet of Government Departments along Whitehall, experts are working on legislation for the coming session of Parliament.

It promises to be a session of much legislation, with sharp reactions to the growing burden of armaments and chaos of international affairs. It will be the first session to be opened by King George VI. in state. Scarcely more than a year ago, Parliament was opened by Edward VIII. Within a few weeks, the same Parliament had passed a special Act of Abdication, Edward VIII. became the Duke of Windsor.

The two Houses meet formally a week from Thursday, and after a debate on the Far East will be prorogued. In this, Westminster custom differs from Ottawa. At Ottawa, when business is completed, Parliament is prorogued. At Westminster, Parliament is kept technically in session throughout the summer recess. It is adjourned, not prorogued. If emergency arises, the Speaker can call members of the British House together without necessity of a new session and formality of Speech from the Throne and debate on the Address.

GIRL 16 IS WOUNDED

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(CP).—Margaret Gray, 16, is in hospital today, her condition considered grave, while her crippled father, Charles Gray, 64, is charged with wounding her. A bullet of a .32 calibre rifle piereced her kidney and police said she was shot in the back last night as she sat on the edge of a bed talking to her mother.

The girl, an older sister and Mrs. Gray were in an upstairs room when the shooting occurred.

SHANTY SHORE

Messrs. Herbert, James and John Heffernan of Rochester, N.Y., spent the weekend at 2 Inn.

Miss Jeane Nelson spent the week-end at the Nelson cottage returning to Toronto accompanied by Misses Miriam and Isobel Nelson.

Messrs. Harry Taylor of Peterborough, G. S. Taylor, John Drummond and Robert Nelson are spending some time at the Nelson Drummond cottage.

Mrs. Robert Nelson has gone to visit friends in Shanavon and Oxbow, Sask.

BURIED BY GRAVEL

GALT, Ont., Oct. 14—(CP).—Only a few lacerations were suffered by Alvin Weber of Wallenstein when he was buried in a gravel pit slide. Tons of gravel slid over him. He was dug out by fellow workers.

Mrs. Hugh Renwick of Keene visited Marian Nelson on Saturday.

Miss Agnes Cameron has returned to her home in Toronto.

Mr. Waterbury of Oshawa visited Mr. and Mrs. John Darrow on Sunday.

SEDORE MURDER CASE OPENS NOV. 1

NAPANEE, Ont., Oct. 14—(CP)—The first murder case to be heard in this county since 1931 will be conducted at the Lennox and Addington Fall Assizes which open here November 1 before Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland. Robert Woodman, 23-year-old North County laborer, is charged with the murder of Aubrey Sedore, 29-year-old trapper of the Flinton district. Woodman has been in the county jail here since his arrest last May.

Findings of the preliminary hearings here in June before Magistrate E. J. Butler resulted in Woodman being ordered put on his defence in a higher court. About 30 witnesses testified for the Crown.

Discovery which led to Woodman's arrest was made by neighbors attracted to a smouldering bush fire by smoke. On investigation charred human bones were found among the embers. Subsequent findings included further parts of a human body buried at the edge of a nearby swamp.

Evidence showed Woodman had different articles which were identified as belonging to Sedore.

CENTRETON

Mr. and Mrs. W. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. William Blow and Mrs. S. Smith of Port Hope called on Mr. and Mrs. F. Etcher on Sunday

Guests at the home of Mrs. Eliza McBride on Sunday were Mrs. Dillion and Miss Mae Dillion, Mr. Allen MacDonald and Mr. Billy Tamont of Toronto.

Mrs. Fred Blogett and son Lorne and Mrs. Grandy Nichols, Cobourg spent Sunday with Mrs. D. Blogett and other relatives.

Mr. Joe Burns is in Cobourg General Hospital where he had an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Ada Tripp of Cobourg has been visiting her sister, Mrs. John Walton.

Mr. W. G. Davey and daughter Sheila of Toronto and Mr. Tom Davey of Calgary were in the village on Wednesday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. M. Burns on Friday, a daughter.

Mr. H. Breswertick of Warkworth and Mrs. A. Murphy of Fenella were in the village on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Birney were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Davey and family, Baltimore.

Mr. Stuart Haines has gone to Smithfield to reside with his brother.

Mr. F. Richardson of Toronto spent the week-end and holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McAuley.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Etcher, Miss M. Fleming and John Baxter spent Friday afternoon in Cobourg and called on Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Flint and Dooreen and Mrs. William Flint.

The first snow of the season was seen here Thursday when the ground was covered, followed by frost the next morning. Ice a half inch thick was seen on water troughs.

Mr. and Mrs. C. MacGregor and Vernon and Carol spent the week-end and Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. T. Coleman, Toronto.

Mrs. D. Blogett and Miss Hazel Blogett spent part of Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blogett.

The W.M.S. had charge of the service at the United Church on Sunday morning, the president, Mrs. J. R. McBride, presiding. Mrs. S. McBride and Mrs. A. Coffey read chapters in the study book. Several members read other questions. Mrs. James McKenzie gave a reading. Mrs. R. Curtis sang a solo. Mr. Bromwich intends to take the service next Sunday.

Miss Dietrich subbed Adolf Hitler last year when, after he had invited German artists to return to Germany and make pictures, she announced that on her next trip to Europe she would not visit Nazi land.

NEW MINISTERS TAKE THREE OATHS

TORONTO, Oct. 14—(CP). — A man takes three oaths when he becomes a Cabinet Minister in Ontario and the eight new Provincial Ministers took theirs last night. The oaths administered by the Lieutenant-Governor, are the oaths of allegiance, of office and of members of the Executive Council, the latter binding them to secrecy.

The last oath reads in part: You will keep close and secret all such matters as shall be treated, debated and resolved in the Executive Council.....and yet if any matter so perforce treated and debated in any such Executive Council shall touch any particular person sworn of the same Council upon any such matter as shall in any wise concern his loyalty to the King's Majesty, you will in no wise open the same, but keep it secret from any person, until the King's Majesty's pleasure be known in that behalf.

HERE'S THE SECRET OF SERVING GOOD COFFEE

● Carnation in coffee adds flavour and a rich colour. On cereals or fruit, Carnation takes the place of cream deliciously and economically. In all cooking where milk is used, Carnation adds richness, because Carnation itself is twice as rich as ordinary milk; smoothness, because every drop of Carnation has its share of butterfat.
All the food value of the best cows' milk is in Carnation, making it a splendid food for babies. In addition, it is more digestible and has extra "sunshine" vitamin D. Carnation is the evaporated milk the Dionne Quintuplets use.

HUNDREDS ATTEND HOLY NAME RALLY AT DOURO CHURCH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOURO, Oct. 14. — The annual Holy Name rally for the central portion of Peterborough Diocese was held on Sunday afternoon in Douro. Large numbers of members were present from Peterborough, Lindsay, Kinmount, Norwood, Downeyville, Ennismore, Norwood, etc. The parade, led by some two hundred Douro men, carrying their banner, marched from east of the cemetery to the front of the church, where they stood as a guard of honor to allow the visiting societies to enter first.

Rev. J. V. McAuley of Campbellford, director of the society, directed the congregational singing and read the renewal of the pledge which the society takes to honor and revere the Holy Name of God.

Rev. J. J. Garvey of Lakefield preached a powerful sermon using the text, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with thy whole heart," Luke 10, 27. Father Garvey made a plea for Christian brotherhood. One cannot pretend to love God Whom one does not see if one does not love one's neighbor whom one does see. Love of one's neighbor would prevent the social injustices and abuses of our times.

The use of a microphone and loud speaker carried the sermon and services plainly to a large overflow crowd in a tent adjacent to the church. His Excellency Bishop O'Connor spoke briefly, telling his hearers they had a duty to be up and doing to help build human society based on social justice and the love of God.

Visiting clergy were Monsignor McColl and Rev. C. McCarney, Lindsay, Rev. V. McFadden, Downeyville, Father Gilloqly, Ennismore, Fatner McCarthy, Norwood, Father J. V. McAuley, Campbellford, Father Butler and Father Kay, Kinmount, Rev. J. J. O'Brien and Rev. C. Maloney, Rev. Dr. Masterson, Fathers Kelly, Grant, Begley, Walsh, and Rev. Dean O'Sullivan, Peterborough, Fathers Garvey and Malone of Lakefield. His Excellency gave Solemn Benediction with Rev. J. J. O'Brien deacon and Rev. P. Kelly, sub-deacon.

Fisherman's Paradise—But It's For Indians Only

With the annual salmon run going full blast, millions of the silver fish jumping the falls of the mighty Columbia River to reach the spawning grounds, this stretch of river at Celilo, Ore., is a veritable fisherman's paradise—but only Indians may fish here. The noble red men were granted exclusive rights here in a treaty with Uncle Sam, and they come from all over the northwest to stock up their larders for winter with succulent salmon. Here you see some of the Indian fishermen reaping the silver harvest.

Alderville Marks Centennial Tribute Paid Elder Case

Beloved Missionary Founded Village Over One Hundred Years Ago

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Oct. 14.—Elder William Case, the man who was responsible for bringing to Alderville, over one hundred years ago, the Mississaga tribe of Indians from Grape Island, in the Bay of Quinte, was on October 10 and 11 paid reverent homage and tribute.

The occasion was the Alderville centennial. It will be eighty-two years on October 19 since Elder Case passed on to his reward.

Speaking at two special services in Alderville Church on Sunday, Rev. Dr. F. Stevenson of Toronto presented an historical outline of the life of Elder Case. He was an American who was sent by the United States as a missionary to Canada in 1805. He carried on pioneer missionary work from Montreal to Detroit, and became deeply interested in the Six Nations Indians, meeting them continually, and making efforts towards their welfare. From 1816 until 1820 he was presiding elder of a district reaching from Kingston to Montreal. He was then appointed presiding elder of Upper Canada and held this office until and including 1824.

The First Conference.

When the first Canadian conference was held in 1824, Elder Case was chosen secretary, and presiding elder of the Bay of Quinte Conference branch.

Approximately one hundred and seven years ago, Elder Case founded Alderville.

In describing Elder Case's work among the Indians, Dr. Stevenson compared it to the period when the Western trend of civilization and religion swept across Europe by the conquering Romans, who later civilized and converted the Britons.

The morning lesson, Psalm 103, was chosen by Dr. Stevenson, as this was the psalm from which Elder Case chose a text when he preached a sermon at the London conference in 1865.

Pageant Presented.

Following the evening service a pageant, "The Progress of the Church" was presented. In the foreground was a model of Alderville Church complete in every detail, from frame structure to belfry, steeple and weather vane. On the weather was the date 1937. The model is 3' 4" long, 2' 7" wide, and 3' 6" high, and was built by Clifford Smoke and Everett Simpson.

The cast of the characters: The Herald or trumpeter, Bobbie Marsden; Spirit of the Years, J. Loukes; the Holy Word, Billy Marsden; Spirit of Tithing, Charlotte Marsden; the Cross, Marjorie Marsden; Progress, Lawson Chase; Joy, Vera Marsden; Humility, Mrs. Alfred Simpson; Athletics, Clifford Smoke; Loyalty, Thomas Marsden; Missions, Everett Simpson; Spirit of the Church, Norma Beaver.

During the presentation, Mrs. L. W. Scott, Roseneath, sang two numbers called for in the presentation, "Joy Bells" and "Lead on O King Eternal."

The local choir under the direction of Mrs. Norman Marsden led in the service of song at both services. Two anthems, "In the Highway of His Love" and "God is Love," were sung at the morning service. During the evening service the anthems rendered were: "Christ has redeemed me," and "Sing Praises to God."

During the afternoon a memorial service was held at the grave of Elder Case, in Alderville Cemetery. The service was conducted by Rev. L. W. Scott.

Later a short service was held at the Cenotaph, when Robert Marsden, oldest native resident, placed a wreath on the Cenotaph.

On Sunday afternoon, during the Sunday School hour, Mrs. F. Stevenson and Mr. H. Lander addressed the school.

A program of sports began at 10 a.m. on Monday, with a game of baseball, followed by races, a parade and other sports.

Harvest Dinner

The centennial celebrations wound up on Monday night with a harvest dinner, followed by a concert.

Special features on the program included, first a historical sketch of Alderville's ancestry compiled by Miss Charlotte Crowe. It contained also legends of the first Indian corn and other vegetables were cultivated.

The item of most importance told of Rev. John Sunday's trip to England, where he was presented to the late Queen Victoria. The Queen asked Mr. Sunday if there was a church on the reserve, and when he replied in the affirmative, she presented a silver communion cup to Mr. Sunday to be used in the church. This cup was on exhibition on Sunday and Monday.

John Loukes who read the paper, added items of interest. He said the Mississaga tribe of Indians were a branch of the Chippewas, who were members of the great Algonquin tribe. He said Mississaga means in the Indian language, the coming together of many waters.

Alderville, he said, was named for Rev. Robert Alder, an Englishman who visited the reserve in its early days.

Mr. Loukes, commenting on the characteristics of the Indian as compared to his white brother, spoke of the Indian's sense of humor and, the absolute lack of worry in his disposition, also with the banishment of superstition, as he became fully civilized. Mr. Loukes told also of the pagan Indians idea of creation.

Lamp Presented

Another interesting item was the presentation of a lamp by W. A. Macklin to the reserve. The lamp, Mr. Macklin explained was formerly owned by Elder Case, and following his death, it was purchased at a sale of Mr. Case's household effects by the late James Macklin, grandfather of the donor. The lamp is of brass, a square base, tall stand, and the bowl is oval in shape.

Mr. H. Lander brought greetings from the Hiawatha Indians.

Mrs. DeLany of Cobourg, who rendered valuable assistance in many ways, spoke briefly telling of the interest aroused in Cobourg regarding the centennial celebration.

Chief Norman Marsden expressed his appreciation for all assistance received and to all those who helped to make the centennial a success.

Rev. L. W. Scott, who presided, spoke of the many letters received from former pastors, and regretted that time forbade the reading of these letters.

Master Bobbie Marsden, son of the Chief, brought down the house with his rendering of "I'm not so young as I used to be." Bobbie was appropriately dressed for the part. This song, by the way, was one that Bobbie's maternal grandfather, the late "Professor" Peter Crowe, often sang during the time he was leader of the Alderville singing troupe.

An Indian camp fire scene was presented, complete with tepee, kettle, and Indian headdress. Songs in the Indian tongue were sung by those presenting the scene.

Mrs. J. Bigwin and Lorne Simpson played a piano duet; Rena Simpson contributed a recitation; Miss Charlotte Marsden, the Chief's daughter, dressed in Indian costume, sang "Ramona". The costume, very lovely heavily beaded, complete with headdress and moccasins is the property of Mrs. Irene Brant of Deseronto. Earlier in the day Miss Marsden, riding a white horse in the procession, wore this same costume.

During the program several numbers were contributed by the local orchestra.

Dr. Stevenson spoke briefly during the evening, congratulating the Indians on their success and ability.

Cobourg's Gift

Another feature of the celebration was the presentation to the centennial by the town council of Cobourg of a large three tiered cake. This cake was sold in small pieces, the sale realizing $11.85.

A gloom was cast over the celebration owing to an accident suffered by one of their prominent citizens. On Saturday evening previous to the celebration, Miss Charlotte Crowe, an aged lady was struck by a car, and at present lies in Cobourg General Hospital in a serious condition. To make it more tragic the driver of the car was Rev. L. W. Scott, and Miss Crowe had been rendering him valuable assistance in organizing and arranging for the celebration. The accident, regarded as purely accidental, occuring just when and how it did, made it most difficult for Mr. Scott to carry on with the services and ceremonies. Special prayer was offered for Miss Crowe by Dr. F. Stevenson during the entertainment on Monday evening.

England expects a flying crase.

resentative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and is regarded as a junior branch of the Fair which will graduate young men to provide directors in the years to come. Fifteen boys displayed their Holstein calves Wednesday, after many months of feeding and grooming them, and the awards by Robt. M. Holtby of Port Perry and E. A. Summers of Bowmanville were as follows:—1, Arthur Drummond, Otonabee; 2, Irvine McIntosh, North Monaghan; 3, Gordon Stalker, Smith; 4, Elwood Eason, Indian River; 5, Ray Hope, Indian River; 6, Keith Manley, Otonabee; 7, Alan Davis, Otonabee; 8, James Moore, Smith; 9, Bert Fife, Indian River; 10, Richard Coughlin, Asphodel; 11, Alan Drummond, Otonabee; 12, Douglas Armstrong, Indian River; 13, Archie Elmhirst, Indian River; 14, James Hope, Keene; 15, Frank Fife, Indian River.

In the yearling class, comprised of calves which were first exhibited by the boys a year ago, the awards were—1, Douglas Armstrong; 2, James Moore; 3, Frank Fife; 4, Alan Drummond; 5, Alan Davis; 6, Bert Fife.

Some Of The Exhibitors

The display of grain was exceptionally good, including the products of the farms of Adam Humphries and Sons of Asphodel; J. M. Carl, Stirling; W. S. Shaw, Corbyville; Edgar Clarke, Norwood, and others. J. M. Lowes of Peterborough was prominent among the exhibitors of potatoes, as were also Ralph Cuthbertson of Norwood, and Adam Humphries.

G. B. Bickle of Bowmanville stood out among the winners in the fruit section, and others were Mr. Lowes, Gordon Thompson, and W. S. Shaw.

J. J. Brethour of Lakefield, Thos. Heath, Campbellford, C. H. Cuthbertson, Norwood and George Brooks of Trent River supplied most of the cheese exhibits. The livestock classes were well filled.

The midway was much the same as usual; the horse races provided several thrills that seem to stand out at Norwood Fair; races and field athletics were an innovation for the children and older boys.

Horse Full Of Run

An incident that was off the record occurred in the running of the first race of the 2.22 class in which Eddie Jones was thrown off his gig, when its wheel locked with one of Jim Sutherland's, and Mr. Jones' horse "Ginger Direct," with its lines loose, circled the track nine times before it was halted on the tenth. The Hastings hotelman's horse ran about four miles in that jaunt without breaking its pace and wound up the day with second money.

In another minor accident on the track Harry Ingles of Norwood suffered a sprained ankle in an upset and had to be carried to the sidelines for first aid.

2.22 Class

Weston Grattan, J. Sutherland	1	2	1
Ginger Direct, Ed. Jones	3	1	2
Ideal Patchen, L. Hess	2	3	3

2.18 Class

Molly Grattan, G. H. Caldwell	2	1	1
Miss Senator Patch, Van Alstyne	1	2	3
Irene Peter, R. McQuaig, Havelock	4	3	2

OBITUARY

THOMAS HENDERSON.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 14. — The funeral of Thomas Henderson, who passed away at the residence of his niece, Mrs. Norman Alexander, Roslin, Ont., on Friday, October 8, took place on Monday afternoon, October 11, from the residence of his nephew, William Henderson, Lime Lake, Ont., to Lime Lake United Church, where an impressive service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Mercer of Roblin United Church.

The funeral was held under the auspices of Lime Lake L.O.L., No. 11113, and the following officers of the Lodge took part in the service: Master, William Busby; Director of Ceremonies, Hugh Tyner; Chaplain, Charles McConnell; Deputy Ministers, Thomas Wicklam.

Interment was made in Bunker Hill Cemetery.

MRS. HUGH SHANNON.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 14.—An old and very highly respected resident of the Township of Marmora passed away on Saturday, October 9, at 10 a.m., in the person of Mrs. Hugh Shannon. The deceased, who was in her 84th year, had resided all her life in Marmora, and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tallion. She was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends.

Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her loss, five daughters, Mrs. C. J. Munn, Timmins, Mrs. Denis McGrath, Township of Marmora, Mrs. Harold R. Keast, Copper Cliff, Mrs. Martin Skelly, Rochester, N.Y., Mrs. L. P. Hughes, Marmora Township; and one son Donald, on the homestead.

A son Lawlor predeceased her two years ago. She is also survived by twenty-two grandchildren. The deceased had been in failing health for some time, and her death was not unexpected.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held from her late residence on Tuesday morning, at ten o'clock, to Sacred Heart Church, where Solemn High Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father G. Martin. Interment was made in Sacred Heart Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were John Connors, Joseph Shannon, Dan Shannon, Charles Cook, John O'Neill, and Bert Crawford.

Neck Broken Woman Bears Child

Her head fixed in a harness, Mrs. Myrtle Arrington (inset) of Woodbridge, Va., is shown resting comfortably in Alexandria Hospital, Alexandria, Va. The nurse is pictured with the healthy, 9-pound daughter, to which Mrs. Arrington gave birth less than a week after her neck had been broken in an auto accident.

CAMERON BAY WILL SHED NAME

made shore, walked 100 miles in six days to Cameron Bay, and sent airplanes to find their comrades. Pilots spotted the drifters, rescued them, and took Vic to hospital suffering from burns and frostbite. They had been without food for 17 days.

When Vic recovered he went back down north," as they say in the Mackenzie district, took the postmaster's job at the booming miners' town with its elaborate plans for streets, boulevards, and real estate development.

Those were expansive days when old-timers smelled a boom and rushed to open the Lakeside Inn with the most northerly truck garden on the continent, grown in boxes of earth, the Paris Laundry which delivered by air, the Radium Cafe and Gardiner's Cafe. Then came the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to keep order and the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals to maintain communication with the outside. The Royal Canadian Air Force established a fuel and oil cache and did some survey work.

Boulevard Lacks Homes

The Lakeside Inn was closed this summer when Lord Tweedsmuir and his touring party arrived at Cameron Bay. Business was poor at the Radium Cafe. No fine houses lined Labine Boulevard, named after Gilbert Labine, discoverer of the pitchblende deposits from which radium and silver are taken.

Most of the district population now lives at Eldorado mining camp. Cameron Bay inhabitants don't say so but they may be a little envious of their neighbors, seven miles to the west, living in steam-heated bunk houses with electric light, running water and shower baths.

But Cameron Bay remains the capital till next month. It has a better natural air harbor than Eldorado. Signals station and police quarters are established there. And the post office that serves the entire district stays with a new name and Vic Ingraham to run it.

URGE SYSTEMATIC GIVING TO CHURCH

Manchoukuo, told the synod "The time is ripe for Christianity in Manchuria," and recommended greater interest in foreign missions.

Carefully avoiding discussion of political entanglements, he gave many illustrations of the Christian movements rapid strides in the Orient during recent years.

Report of the budget committee, introduced earlier by Rev. Dr. Norman McLeod of Brockville, Ont., drew attention to the lessening prospects of large donations and need of systematic giving by average church members.

"The church can no longer rely on large gifts because of the increased demands of governments through income taxes and succession duties," he told the meeting. "And the Presbyterian church must depend on average members for steady well-ordered giving."

Accumulated deficit was placed at $192,000. Failure to meet financial requirements was due to lack of systematic giving.

"There is money for everything but the cause of the church," Dr. McLeod told them, and yet "only one cent a day from all members would mean more than the synod required."

Objections to a motion asking approval of the year's $90,000 budget allocation on grounds it was unreasonable when they had failed to meet the amount by $18,000 in the past year were voted down. The motion passed and the majority expressed determination to overcome the deficit.

ORATORICAL CONTEST

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 14. — The annual oratorical contest for the pupils of the Campbellford Public and Separate Schools will be held in the High School auditorium on Friday, October 22nd. Teachers are already preparing the entries from the various classes for this event, the winner of which will have a chance at the district finals to be held in Warkworth. A fee of five cents per person is being charged to defray the expenses. Contestants will be admitted free.

LONDON—(CP).—With 350 varieties of foodstuffs available in tins, it is believed the British canning industry has reached a stage of organization where it could combat a food blockade in event of war.

Aged Couple Rides To Polling Booth

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 14. — In response to Hastings' bid for fame with an aged voter going to the polls on election day, Campbellford can go one better with two residents — a happily married couple 91 and 89 years of age who both take their politics seriously enough to exercise their franchise. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Moir, Centre street, had no desire to be driven to the polling booth but on the insistance of party representatives who called for them on election day were convinced that they should ride. Both are physically active, Mr. Moir being 91 years old and Mrs. Moir 89 and they hope to vote again.

Nearly 17,000 schools in Germany are equipped to show motion pictures.

SPONSOR TAG DAY FOR BLIND RELIEF

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 14— A tag day to aid the blind people in this district is to be held on October 30th it was reported from a committee meeting held in the Clerk's Office on Tuesday evening. Following an address by A. W. Sparks of Belleville which outlined the various phases of the Institute's work in aiding blind Canadians a committee was formed to which Mayor F. F. Long was elected chairman; Mrs. F. H. MacMillan secretary; and Mrs. W. W. Rutherford, treasurer.

To aid in raising funds A. Rapport manager of the local theatre very kindly offered to donate the proceeds of a special benefit program to be held in the theatre on October 20. It was suggested that Mr. Sparks who is the representative for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind address a few remarks to the audience during this program which is to include the feature picture "Ramona".

In conclusion Mr. Sparks told the committee that they were one of the most responsive groups he had yet had the pleasure of meeting and expressed the hope that the general public would be equally as co-operative in this cause. Others who attended were Mrs. D. N. O'Keefe, Miss Hazel Thomas, Mrs. R. C. Ramsden, Mr. H. N. Carr, M.L.A., Mr. A. Rapport, and Mr. S. A. Maguire.

Campaign To Block Highway Construction Waged

Lindsay Interests Bitterly Opposed Connecting Road

Campaign Was Intensified With Approach Of Recent Election, W. M. Bowes Charges

Definite word that the route of the highway from Port Perry to Peterborough will follow through Bethany and Cavan to connect with Highway 28 just north of Fraserville, not at Scott's Corners as previously announced, was given the executive of the Chamber of Commerce by newly-elected Provincial member Alex. L. Elliott at a meeting last night. The Chamber officials endorsed the progress which has been made by the Central Ontario Highway Association and promised continued support in regard to the remainder of the project, completion of the link from Port Perry to Yonge street.

A story of bitter opposition by a Lindsay group close to the ear of the Government to any project which meant a feeder highway from the Port Perry and Bethany area into Peterborough was hinted in the discussions at the meeting. A campaign to have the Department of Highways avoid the immediate Peterborough area in any of the construction programs of the near future was waged relentlessly by Lindsay interests throughout recent weeks, W. M. Bowes of Port Perry, a prime mover in the Central Ontario Highways Association, hinted. The campaign was intensified with the approach of the recent election, he indicated.

Strengthen Hand

The meeting which included the attendance of Mr. Elliott and Mayor Macdonald, is understood to have been called partly in the interest of familiarizing Mr. Elliott with the through road project and also to strengthen the Association's hand in pressing for the through No. 7 highway from Peterborough to Orangeville by assurance of continued support from the Peterborough Chamber. Alderman James Dutton, long active for the project reviewed the fight for the connecting roads. He told of the final break with the Lindsay interests when Lindsay let it be clearly understood it was interested only in a north and south highway from Newcastle to Lindsay, not the highway east from Port Perry to Peterborough.

Mr. Bowes said his entire campaign for the through No. 7 highway paralleling No. 2 was in the interest of the Province as a whole as well as the municipalities immediately concerned. He urged that it is time the people of Ontario got away from the Indian plan of choosing all their highway routes to lead to the "Great Water", Lake Ontario.

Pay For Itself

He urged the Chamber to continue its support of the project of the through highway even though Peterborough has got what immediately concerns it, the link from Port Perry to Peterborough. A route from Peterborough through to Yonge street north would cost between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 and would pay for itself in 10 years, he said.

Mr. Bowes suggested that Mr. Elliott get to work in co-operation with the other members of neighboring municipalities and seek an immediate start on the Port Perry-Peterborough link. A preliminary grant might be obtained this Fall or next Spring to provide work for unemployment and the first session of the Legislature awaited for the larger appropriation necessary he said.

George S. Henry Wins In York East

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(CP).—Re-election of George S. Henry as Conservative member in the Ontario Legislature for York East was officially announced early to-day. The former Conservative Premier's nearest opponent in the Oct. 6 Ontario election was the Liberal candidate, H. J. W. McConnell. Other candidates were John M. Dempster, Independent, and Art Williams, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation representative.

HON. SIMON TOLMIE VETERAN B.C. TORY DIES AT AGE OF 70

VICTORIA, Oct. 14 (C.P.). — Hon. Simon Fraser Tolmie, former Premier of British Columbia, Minister of Agriculture in two Federal Cabinets, and five times a member of the House of Commons, died last night. He died at the family residence at Cloverdale, just outside Victoria.

He was Premier of British Columbia from 1928 to 1935 after he was practically drafted by the Provincial Conservative Party to forsake Ottawa where he was Dominion organizer for the party. Dr. Tolmie's Government was overthrown by Liberals under the present Premier, Hon. T. D. Patullo. The veteran politician resigned shortly afterwards as Provincial Conservative Leader, but returned to public life last year, winning a House of Commons seat in a Victoria by-election.

Father Island Member.

Dr. Tolmie was born in Victoria on January 5, 1867, the son of Dr. William Fraser Tolmie and Jane Wark Tolmie. His father was member of the Legislative Assembly of the colony of Vancouver Island before it merged with the mainland to form the present Province of British Columbia.

Educated in Victoria Elementary and High Schools he went to Toronto where he attended the Ontario Veterinary College.

On his return he became British Columbia Inspector of Animals at a salary of $7 weekly. His work with live stock soon won respect of his associates and he became Inspector of Animals for the Dominion Government.

He entered politics in 1917 when elected to the House of Commons in the late Sir Robert Borden's "conscription" campaign. When Sir Robert resigned from leadership of his Unionist government in 1920, Dr. Tolmie was named minister of agriculture by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

The Meighen government was defeated in 1921 but Dr. Tolmie was again named to the agriculture cabinet post when Mr. Meighen returned to power for a few months in 1926.

Organizer In 1923

Dr. Tolmie had become Dominion Conservative organizer in 1923, a position he resumed on defeat of the Meighen government in 1926 but was practically drafted by the British Columbia party soon after.

His reorganization in British Columbia was successful and his party won 35 of the 48 provincial seats in 1928.

He was defeated in 1933 when he went to the polls with a Unionist government that the Liberals refused to join and suffered personal defeat in the sole reverse of his political career.

He retired to the family farm at Cloverdale but when the Victoria federal seat was left vacant in 1935 by death of D. B. Blunket, Dr. Tolmie was called to contest it for the Conservatives. He was successful in a three-corner fight.

The bluff doctor learned to make himself at home in any situation during his public life but in January 1937, he told friends he "could have died with embarrassment" when he slipped into the vacant seat of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett opposition leader, after he was introduced to the house.

"The trouble was I didn't notice whose seat it was," he said, then added with a twinkle as he looked down over his 260-odd pounds: "But I guess I filled the seat all right."

Two sons and two daughters survive.

Holstein Calf Club Big Event At Norwood Fair

The four officials (1) in the judges' pagoda in charge of the horse races at Norwood Fair on Wednesday were LEFT to RIGHT, in front, Fred Slade, starter, and himself president of the Roseneath Fair for the last 13 years or thereabouts; his only worry this week is for favorable weather Friday; Albert Juby of Hood & Cumming, Peterborough and Dr. Donald Munroe, Warsaw, judges; and A. Innes of Norwood, starter. Uncertainties like elections and horse races apparently have an attraction for both Mr. Juby and Dr. Munroe. Norwood Fair day usually finds them in this same place, but a week ago Wednesday the doctor's political entry Alex Elliott, won by a comfortable margin, but "Ab" Juby has spen a lot of brighter days for he wagered on Earl Rowe and lost, and paid off by hauling Jimmy Conway in a buggy around the main street. Some of the young members of the Holstein Calf Club (2) lined up with the calves that were entered at last year's Fair and were assembled Wednesday as yearlings. The boy on the right nearest the camera is Douglas Armstrong and behind him is Jim Moore. Arthur Drummond (3) winner of first prize in the Boys' Holstein Calf Club competition. A year ago he was last in the same competition, and he didn't relish it after nearly a year's work. He joined the Club that is directed by A. D. Runions when it was re-organized this year, after telling his father, William Drummond of Otonabee, that he wanted a better calf. —Examiner Staff Photo.

WELL KNOWN HERE.

Orville Rouiston of the Detroit Red Wings, who has been spending the summer at Stoney Lake and on several occasions visited the Peterborough Golf and Country Club for a round of golf, reported for practice to the Detroit team yesterday and showed no ill effects from the broken leg sustained last season.

WANT RINK MADE.

If the city authorities have not yet considered the question of converting the lacrosse stadium into a public rink for the winter, their attention will likely be called to it in the near future as local sporting promoters plan to put a request to that effect before the council. They point out the arena would make a splendid cushion for school and other minor hockey.

GEORGE FIFE'S WIT.

When "Ginger Direct," owned and driven by Eddie Jones of Hastings, turned an approximate mile race into a marathon of nearly ten laps of the track, George Fife, of Indian River, remarked to the group around him—"He's like Hepburn. He thinks he ought to run all the time." That was the story they were telling illustrating Mr. Fife's widely known wit, and possibly reflecting his politics.

MINOR TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS.

Four minor traffic accidents in various parts of the city were reported to city police during Wednesday. William Arnott, R.R. 2, Peterborough, was driving his truck away from the curb outside the Clinic on Charlotte Street when he was involved in collision with another motor vehicle driven by Joseph Stephenson, Newcastle. Richard Lees, 514 Gilmour Street, suffered damage to the right rear fender of his car in a similar accident on George Street. John Legrow, 450 George Street South, driving a transport truck on McDonnel street stopped on the centre of the road to make a left turn when he was run into from the rear by a motor car driven by a Mr. Spinks. The radiator of the Spinks' car was damaged. W. Gordon Hall, 88 London Street, was driving his car north on Water Street near Murray Street as children were coming from Central School, when Marjorie Newell, 346 London Street, darted from the curb from the rear of a parked car and fell in the pathway of his car. Mr. Hall halted his car before it struck the child and summoned a doctor. The child was not injured.

In addition to the address the Kiwanians will be entertained by tap dancing by a group of girls from the Y.W.C.A.

Fish All Cleaned And Ready For Pan Regain Instincts Jump Back Into Lake

A fish story to put a period to the season which officially closes on Friday. No affidavit certifies to its veracity, but according to report it was related by Jim Gravestock. A shadow of doubt is cast upon it by the fact that Mr. Gravestock has been residing for a considerable time in the town of fall fair fables since he removed from Peterborough to Lindsay, and may be inclined to stretch a point or two of truth for desired effect.

At any rate Wallace Harvey, Alex. Weddell, and Mr. Gravestock had caught a mess of trout back in the wilds somewhere, and when the fish were cleaned by the guide, and laid out on a board several feet from the water's edge, their fighting instinct remained in what was left of them. They should have been inanimate, for they were beheaded and on their way to the frying pan, but when the guide's back was turned they started jumping in the direction of the lake and three of them actually reached the water, but without their fins and tails they were easily recaptured by the guide and hauled back to shore again.

Probably Jim Gravestock still thinks he is in Lindsay when he tells that yarn, and although they might believe anything he tells the folks up around the Game and Fisheries Department in Toronto, it strains the bound of credibility when it is recounted in Peterborough, even if the names of Alex. Weddell and Wallace Harvey are tacked on to it to give it grace.

Working Man Contributes $3.00 In Aid Of The Western Relief Fund

Walking into the office of James Dutton, chairman and treasurer of the Western Relief Committee, a workingman who wished to remain anonymous donated the sum of three dollars, which he said represented a dollar contribution from each member of his family. "It is an example that might be followed by every person in employment," Alderman Dutton believed.

The man who made such a ready response to the district-wide appeal that has been launched on behalf of people in the drought-stricken areas of Western Canada, which has as the objective the despatch of three freight car loads of produce by October 27, was not an over prosperous-looking individual, judging by his appearance. It was doubtless because of this fact and the probability that he too knew what suffering and want readdy mean that his response was so ready and ungrudging.

Judging by the response to a similar appeal last year, it is confidently anticipated by the committee that Peterborough and district will do its full share with other communities throughout Eastern Canada and British Columbia to alleviate the urgent need of over 300,000 fellow Canadians in the drought-stricken areas.

The central committee here is representative of the civic government, as well as churches of the various religious denominations, including the Jewish people of Peterborough represented by Rabbi A. Fine who was present at the organization meeting.

CHIEF OF STAFF COMMENDS CADETS

Official commendation of Canada's Department of National Defence has been accorded the Peterborough Collegiate Cadet Corps for its annual inspection showing this summer. A letter containing congratulations expressed on behalf of the Chief of the General Staff was read to the cadet body in the Collegiate assembly hall this week.

Signed by P. M. Orbinski, major for the Chief of the General Staff, the communication forwarded to Captain H. A. Craig, D. C. M., cadet instructor at the Collegiate, through Military District No. 3 headquarters at Kingston, contained the following paragraph:

"With reference to the annual inspection report submitted in respect of the marginally mentioned cadet corps; it is noted with much satisfaction that this unit attained a very high standard of efficiency at the annual inspection, 1937, and I am directed to ask that the congratulations of the Staff at National Defence Headquarters may be conveyed to the Corps authorities, the instructor and cadets on their excellent showing."

SCHOOLS DEFY WAR

TORONTO, Oct. 14 (CP).—War in China has failed to halt opening of Christian schools there although several opened behind schedule, the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Church of Canada reported today. The board reported Yenching University at Peiping opened a few days late but without interference. Cheeloo University at Tainan advised the board the city was 'quiet' and that school opening was planned.

Whistling Postman Advised Customers

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 14.—(AP).—The "whistling postman" of Annisquam village, James T. Morrow, 67, died yesterday.

Morrow, who retired two years ago, won considerable fame for his custom of appraising his "customers" of the nature of their mail as he approached their homes. A letter from the south brought "Dixie" and on the first of the month a batch of bills brought a few bars from Chopin's funeral march.

JUDGMENT GIVEN TO HAROLD SPINKS

Judgment was delivered in favor of the plaintiff, Harold Spinks, on Wednesday by His Honor Judge Sheldon Smoke, for $350.00 damages caused to him for negligence as a result of the non-repair of the road in the Townships of Belmont and Methuen.

The claim was cut down by one-half by reason of the fact that Judge Smoke found that the plaintiff was negligent in driving a motor truck of deective construction.

Mr. Spinks recovered costs on the county court scale against the townships.

The trial lasted nearly our and one-half days.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for the plaintiff, Spinks; and F. D. Kerr, K.C., and E. F. Borbridge for the defendant townships.

Gold shipped from South Africa in a recent week was valued at $9,205,000.

Few Young Men Have A Desire To Be Public School Teachers

Only 13 Are Registered At The Peterborough Normal School This Year

A tendency of young men to go into business rather than the teaching profession may be responsible for the fact the number of men enroled for the Peterborough Normal course decreased from 19 in 1936 to 13 this year, Dr. J. A. Bannister, principal, commented today. He pointed out, however, the decrease is an apparent reversal of the trend of recent years and may have no significance.

Normal school centres elsewhere in the province also report fewer male registrations this year and attribute the decrease to the improvement in business conditions and the resulant increase in business opportunities. It has also been noted that college registrations have showed a gain this Fall.

Dr. Bannister stated 13 men and 71 women make up the Normal school roll this year. Last year the enrolment was 19 men and 62 women. The proportion of male registrations against female registrations this year is not a record low, he said. Up to this year, the proportion had apparently been increasing.

Ennismore Farmer Suffers Fire Loss

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ENNISMORE, Oct. 14. — James Harrington of Harrington Island Ennismore Township, suffered a severe loss from fire on Wednesday when his barn and other outbuildings, together with some livestock and machinery, were destroyed by fire. Mr. Harrington and his hired help were threshing at the time, and succeeded only in saving one wagon and the binder, while a bucket brigade was quickly formed by neighbors to save the main residence and the hen-house. The cause of the fire is unknown, and the loss is estimated at $4,000.

BOARD CRITICIZED BY LINDSAY MAYOR FOR POOR PROGRAM

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Oct. 14.—Strong criticism of the directorate of Lindsay Central Fair was voiced by Mayor Dr. Logan at Tuesday night's council meeting for its failure to provide advertised entertainment on Citizen's Day at the annual show. The midway was not set up and in operation on the declared half holiday. His Worship pointed out that if the Fair Board was not ready to entertain the citizens at the Fair because the midway was not set up an announcement should have been made. It was not pleasant, the Mayor declared, for the citizens to pay their way and have nothing ready for them. "My feeling in the matter," the Mayor declared, "is that if there is a recurrence, we will have no half holiday during the Fair."

Gets Divorce

At Tuesday's sittings of the Fall Assizes a decree nisi was granted in an uncontested divorce case. Mrs. Cora Kirkwood was the complainant and Edward C. Kirkwood, the defendant. Custody of the two children aged 16 and 17 years, was given the mother.

Wants Data Presented

The Affiliated Railwaymen's Organization of Lindsay, has petitioned the town council to present data and statistics to the Royal Commission on Transportation problems. The petition had to do with the allocation of the revenue derived from users of the highway system. The council has subscribed to the sentiments contained in the petition.

Gets Year Sentence

Col. R. I. Moore, K.C., of Lindsay, was counsel for Colin Johnston, of Brock Township, who received a twelve months' sentence on the charge of arson, having been found guilty of setting fire to his barn in order to secure the insurance. The Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company, of Lindsay, paid the $500 claim.

A Manslaughter Charge

John Hugh Watson, of Lindsay, pleaded not guilty at the Fall Assizes to the charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Roland Benson Wood, also of Toronto, who was fatally injured on the Lindsay Oakwood Highway on June 14, while a passenger in the car of the accused. The Crown alleges that the car was driven at a terrific rate of speed. Medical testimony was heard at yesterday's sittings of the court. Dr. Gorman, who attended the deceased stated he gave forth a strong odor of liquor. Mrs. Kerr, another occupant of the car, was intoxicated. Dr. Phipps, the family physician of the deceased, stated the deceased suffered from high blood pressure, but his heart was good as were his lungs.

Laying New Siding

Owing to the great increase in shipments of wood, lumber, logs, cattle, etc., from the northland, the C.N.R. is laying a new siding at Haliburton. Extra room for loading cars is also necessary and the new siding will run along the shore of Head Lake.

The Standard Chemical plant at Donald which has been idle for some time, has again resumed operations. The large plant will give employment to many men. Hundreds of cords of wood have been placed in the plant yards for use in the manufacture of their products.

NEW PAVEMENT IS OPEN FOR TRAFFIC, SHOULDERS BAD

The entire seven miles of new pavement on No. 7 highway east of the Locks Bridge was open to traffic today with the removal by the Law Construction Company of the earth from the south half of the strip from the bridge to Downer's Corners.

The company moved their equipment to the east end of the long stretch they had to pave early in June and began the reducing of grades and other extensive preliminary work. They began pouring concrete July 20 and finished the actual paving in three months, striding with seven league boots along the south half of the road which was done last.

Shoulder Not Filled.

If motorists stay on the pavement driving is as safe as it will ever be, but miles of shoulder on both sides have to be added to the job, and with that condition there is a remaining element of danger for the reckless driver. Ditching and work on the shoulders will likely continue until the cold weather settles down to winter occupation. The company have hopes of winding up the contract this year if circumstances are favorable.

PAIR PLEAD GUILTY IN MILLBROOK CASE

COBOURG, Oct. 14. — Carl Checkitt and Thomas Whiteman, two Toronto men who were arrested in Toronto on October 7 for Provincial Police at Cobourg, pleaded guilty in Police Court to breaking into a store at Millbrook on September 28, when about $800 worth of clothing was stolen. They were remanded until October 19. The robbery was investigated by Provincial Constable A. L. Mennie, Cobourg.

Arthur W. Milburn Dies In Germany

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—It was announced today that Arthur W. Milburn, president of the Borden Company, had died Monday at Baden Baden, Germany, of pneumonia.

Mr. Milburn, who was elected president of the Borden Company in 1917, was born at Haverstraw, N.Y., in 1874. He joined Borden's in 1894 after three years with the Ansonia Clock Company. He became the Borden treasurer in 1907, and a director in 1911.

He is survived by Mrs. Milburn, one son Arthur, M.A., a New York broker, and two daughters, Miss Francis J. Milburn of New York and Mrs. A. B. Connelly of New Canaan, Conn.

MOTORING PARTY SEES BLACK BEAR

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Oct. 14.—A large black bear ambled across the road up near the mines when Mr. Drain with his wife and others were motoring up. The bear paid no attention to the car but disappeared in the bush.

ROSENEATH W.M.S. HAS GOOD RALLY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Oct. 14. — Mrs. K. Harvie was hostess on Tuesday afternoon when the regular meeting of the W.M.S. was held in her home. The president, Mrs. L. W. Scott, presided. During the business session Mrs. R. Crego, supply secretary, reported the bale valued at $98.80, had been packed and forwarded to the Presbyterial supply secretary. It was decided on motion that Mrs. C. W. Varcoe, corresponding secretary, secure information regarding a speaker for the thankoffering service.

The president introduced the new study book, "A New Church Faces a New World," and presented the first chapter. She spoke briefly of the author, Dr. Jesse Arnup. The chapter tells the story of the fusion of the pioneer churches, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Congregational, resulting in the present United Church.

Mrs. R. Crego and Mrs. A. Nill read stories of the establishment of the first Presbyterian and Methodist missions in Canada, and Mrs. Scott told of the early church in British Columbia.

The Scripture lesson, Ephesians 2, 19-22, was read by Mrs. L. Turner, and the devotional leaflet, "Church of the Living God," was read by Mrs. K. Harvie.

The hostess served refreshments following the closing exercises.

Mrs. A. Halstead will be hostess for the November meeting and Mrs. R. Crego will present the second chapter of the study book.

BUYING BOYCOTT SENDS MEAT DOWN

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Housewives who waged an undeclared "strike" against prices they believed exorbitant to-day gained from their neighborhood butchers a promise that meat costs — for months a strain on the family pocketbook — were due for a 10 per cent drop within a week.

"Prices on all but the choicest cuts of beef will fall," G. W. Kaiser, Secretary of the Retail Meat Dealers Association, representing 2,000 butchers in Chicago and Cook County, said in his announcement. "Pork prices already have fallen, and others will follow suit within a few days. Pork loins have dropped from 31 cents a pound a week ago to 23 cents to-day, an eight-cent saving, which the butcher already has begun to pass on to his customers.

Prime beef cuts will continue at skyscraper levels, he said, because last summer's scarcity still exists.

So effective had the unofficial "housewives' strike" become that when one family purchasing agent went to her regular butcher shop for "a couple of pork chops" the butcher frankly said it was his "first pork chop sale in days," simply because "women just won't buy anything but soup meat and hamburger with prices so high."

Ukrainian Held Unfit For Trial In Wife-Child Murder

Maintain Silence From Time Of Arrest Despite Knowledge Of English

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 13.—(CP)—Efrom Lesuk, charged with murdering his wife and two-day-old son, to-day was found incapable of standing trial at the Fall Assizes of Dufferin county.

A petit jury, after 25 minutes' deliberation, found Lesuk was not in condition to face trial for the slayings.

Lesuk, Ukrainian, was alleged to have killed his wife, Annie, and their infant son July 23 at their Mulmur township farm home. Throughout his imprisonment and during his court appearances he clung to silence.

When questioned by an interpreter yesterday, Lesuk refused to reply as to whether he agreed to W. W. McKeown, Toronto, acting as his counsel. The prisoner remained motionless. The defence introduced an insanity plea and it was placed in the hands of the petit jury.

Mr. Justice Ainslee Greene, after hearing the jury's verdict to-day told Lesuk he would be held in custody pending orders of Lieutenant-Governor Herbert Bruce, who will assign the prisoner to a mental institution.

Dr. J. Howitt of the Ontario Hospital, Toronto, testified a personality such as Lesuk's was more readily subject to insanity than a stronger and different character. The doctor declared Lesuk was in no condition to conduct a defence or go on trial.

Carries Out Requests.

First witness during to-day's hearing, Dr. L. S. Stewart, Hamilton, said when he examined Lesuk on September 20 and October 8 he showed an emotional reaction to the interpreter's questions, but refused to talk.

"He understands English, because he carried out all my requests," said the doctor. "Until Lusek speaks it is impossible to ascertain whether he is actually sane or insane, but it is my opinion that he is insane at the present time."

Mr. Justice Greene asked witness if he thought the prisoner could be shamming. The doctor replied it was quite improbable.

W. C. Barber, jail governor, and E. Bradley, a guard, expressed the opinion Lesuk understood English perfectly because he responded promptly to all requests.

After the guard's evidence Mr. Justice Greene instructed the jury they must be unanimous in their verdict on the man's mental state. The jury retired and brought in their verdict at one o'clock.

Slated For Senate

HON. J. C. ELLIOTT
postmaster-general of Canada, who is slated for appointment to the Senate to fill the vacancy created by the death some months ago of Senator H. C. THREE POLICEMEN VICTIMS OF GANG

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 14 (AP).—Captain Frank Foley of the Bangor police said today James Dalhover, wounded survivor of the G-men's ambush of the dread Al Brady gang, had confessed the band had slain three policemen.

Captain Foley said he heard the prisoner, during an all-night questioning, admit to agents of the United States Government the gang had killed Richard Rivers, an Indianapolis police sergeant; Paul Minneman, an Indiana State trooper, and a Freeport, Ohio, policeman named Conn.

Dalhover, his skull creased by a bullet, surrendered after a squad of Federal sleuths shot and killed Al Brady, John Dillinger's "successor," and the gang's youthful "trigger-man," Clarence Lee Shaffer, 21, yesterday in a dramatic gun battle on a Bangor street.

Foley said the captured gunman also accused Brady of "knocking off" a grocery clerk but said he did not know the victim's name or where the slaying occurred. G-men, however, have charged the gang with the death of Edward Lindsay, a Piqua, O., grocery clerk.

Convicts Bury Fellow Prisoner After Break

These squad buddies dug his grave when Roy Thornton, 28, incorrigible Texas bad man serving a 50-year term for robbery and burglary was killed as he attempted to lead 27 of the state's toughest criminals in a break from the Eastham State prison farm near Huntsville, Tex. The convicts had worked in the fields with Thornton.

Would Rather Have Had Five Spot Than Buggy Ride, Had To Take Former

The antiquarian department of Hood and Cummings motor sales and garage has been deprived of an interesting if not valuable specimen, to wit the buggy in which Ab Juby, Ford sales specialist, drew Jimmy Conway of Slim Priedly's repair crew for a ride around town the other evening to settle an election bet.

Once upon a time this outmoded chariot was regarded as ultra smart and stream-lined, and still solid and presentable, it has served in recent times as a contrast in vehicular styles and speeds. During the election it fell one day under the eye of Mr. Juby, who it seems actually owned it, being a snappy driver in season and out. And that, as it turned out, was an epochal moment in the fortunes of the once highly favored light and airy rubber-tired runabout or democrat, or whatever they used to call those topless carriages designed for snugness when two persons went driving. It was a politically gusty occasion, with Mr. Conway and Mr. Juby discussing the probable outcome of the electioneering, and while the facts are not in the record presumably Mr. Conway suggested Mitch Hepburn was likely to remain the tenant of Queen's Park.

Good Conservative that he is, Mr. Juby, like many another of his party, could see nothing but a new government with Earl Rowe at the helm, and Mr. Hepburn flattened out and obequatulated for all time. And in that conviction Mr. Juby, betrayed by the buggy into a flight of expansiveness, offered to bet Mr. Conway that Mr. Rowe would be elected to power, the penalty to the loser being a ride around town for the winner in the light chariot. The option was payment of five dollars.

Well, Mr. Juby paid his bet last Friday evening with great eclat, his friends lining up a siren and long string of cars, following Mr. Conway on the driver's seat and Mr. Juby between the shafts.

"Pay him the five dollars," no chance. I never even thought of it. Say, I'd have pulled him up to Apsley and back rather than hand him over the money," said Mr. Juby, his tone indicating a rankling that finally burst upon the innocent runabout. A chap named McIntosh who deals in horses and buggies happened along in Mr. Juby's hangover of resentment, McIntosh probably being a psychologist of parts, and suggested a bid on the buggy. It was snapped up at once, and although Albert will likely wager on Conservative candidates when the next election comes along, there will be no chance of his ardor leading him between the shafts again. Next time, of course, the results will be different. The Juby party will be reanimated, but for all of that, if bets are to be made Ab will stick to cigars for the pay-off.

As for Mr. Conway, it is suspected that he was deeply disappointed in not getting the five spot.

"Albert certainly is a good sport," he remarked, magnanimously as becomes the victor, and as for the buggy, it was gone this morning with Mr. Juby's memories.

Execution Of 5,000 Prisoners Starts

HENDAYE, On the Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 14—(AP).—Execution of 5,000 insurgent prisoners held in Asturian prisons has "already begun," General Franco charged to-day in telegrams to Great Britain, France, the League of Nations, and the International Red Cross.

The insurgent leaders headquarters said the statement was made in reply to a message from the Asturian high command, in charge of the defence of Gijon, asserting the defenders could not be held responsible for the safety of insurgent hostages if Franco's planes bombarded towns in which the government prisons are located.

Frost Is Winner By 339 Majority

LINDSAY, Oct. 14.—The official majority for L. M. Frost, K.C., Conservative, over William Newman, Liberal, in the election of October 6 for Victoria riding is 339, A. J. Campbell, Returning Officer, stated yesterday. The official count was: Frost 9,372, Newman 9,033.

PRESTON STRIKE ENDS WITH RAISE

PRESTON, Ont., Oct. 14 (CP).—Strike at the Canadian Buffalo Sled Company plant was settled this morning when the workers returned to their jobs. The men who went on strike last Friday appeared at the plant at seven o'clock.

A representative of the Department of Labor arrived in Preston late yesterday and brought the parties together. Until the Labor Department official's arrival no attempt was made toward settlement.

After a conference last night an agreement was signed. While terms were not revealed it was understood the men would receive a slight increase over the five per cent. wage advance previously offered by the company. It was also expected terms would include time and a quarter for overtime.

BENNETT URGES SIMPLER METHOD TO AMEND BNA ACT

HALIFAX, Oct. 14. — (CP) — A simpler method of amending Canada's constitution, the British North American Act, was urged by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader in the House of Commons, in an address to a Halifax service club.

"The time has come when this, the oldest of the Dominions, should have the power to amend its own constitution," he said, pointing out the constitutions of Australia and South Africa contained provisions enabling the people of those countries to change them.

(Amendments to the British North America Act, an act of the imperial parliament, are now obtained upon a joint address of the Canadian Houses of Commons and the senate being present to the king.)

Central authority in the Dominion, which, the Dominion Conservative party leader maintained, fathers of confederation had intended to be strong had been weakened by decisions of the Privy Council on constitutional cases.

One Thing Clear

"Alberta has asserted she is a sovereign state without regard to central authority," he pointed out. "It is clear if we are to have a Dominion of Canada we cannot have nine sovereign states.

The opposition leader contended the Dominion should have authority on all issues which affect the national well being.

He added: "I believe that the Alberta matter will be settled satisfactorily by the people themselves, for, after all, they must settle upon the type of institution they desire."

Ghouls Steal Youth's Body From Grave

Forty-eight hours after he had been buried, the body of Hayden Pope, 20-year-old Streetsville, Ont., youth, was stolen from its grave and a note left in the empty casket demanding $100 before the body would be returned. The gruesome discovery was made by a friend who went to the grave to plant some flowers. Apparently dug up during the night, the ghouls removed the body from the casket leaving only a handprinted note in the empty coffin. The body was found by a group of children late Wednesday, at the bottom of a deep ditch beside a crossroads near Churchville, eight miles north of Streetsville. Mr. Pope, Streetsville blacksmith, and his wife, parents of the dead youth, are shown in the upper photographs, while the empty grave and a deputy policeofficer are shown in the lower photograph.

COMMIT FARMER IN WIFE-MURDER

McLENNAN, Alta., Oct. 14—(CP).—Charged with the murder of his wife, Alma, Edward Gougeon, farmer of this district, 20 miles north-west of Edmonton, was convicted yesterday by Magistrate W. M. Stewart to stand trial at the next assizes in Peace River, probably in November.

Rosie Gougeon, 14-year-old daughter of the couple, told of seeing her father beating her mother over the head with the butt of a revolver in their home. A few minutes later, she said, he obtained a rifle and shot the woman several times.

Her father, Rosie swore, frequently had accused her mother of consorting with other men, which charges the woman had denied.

DELEGATES NAMED A.Y.P.A. MEETING

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 14. — Christ Church A.Y.P.A. made arrangements to send delegates to the Dominion Conference in St. Catharines at their weekly meeting held in the Parish Hall on Monday. The president, Miss Vera Wood, presided, and the meeting was opened with a prayer by the Rev. T. H. Floyd. Following the business portion of the meeting, a program was presented which included a vocal solo by Miss May Bell, accompanied by Mrs. J. O. Benor; recitation by Miss Vera Wood; a description of the French rules of etiquette by Earl Wood. The program concluded with a number of slight of hand tricks by Chris. Newman.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14 (C.P.). — Appointment of T. (Tommy) Shields as sport sedifor of the Ottawa Citizen was announced last night. Shields, assistant editor for the past 10 years, succeeds Edward Baker, who died last week in New York.

Duchess Of Windsor's Old Bath Tub Gets Well Sat In "For Luck"

Baltimore, Oct. 14. (AP) MAYBE it works and maybe not, but Mrs. W. W. Matthews said most of the visitors to the Duchess of Windsor's former home here sit in the bathtub for luck.

Mrs. Matthews, "hostess" at the little house on Biddle street, explained an English woman started the practice shortly after the house opened as a museum.

"She said it was good luck to sit in the tubs of famous women," Mrs. Matthews related. "She said she had sat in lots of famous tubs all over Europe—Cleopatra's and Marie Antoinette's. She was determined to get into the tub and she did."

Mrs. Matthews said she doesn't know whether to believe all that about the tub, but her visitors do.

"Nine out of 10 of them get into it," she said, "men, women and children. Then they get me to take their pictures. One bride and groom got in, hugged, and handed me the camera."

Charge 3,000 Korean Wreck Victims Were Massacred By Soviet

Tokyo, Oct. 14 (AP). THE Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported today in a dispatch from Hsinking, capital of Manchoukuo, that the Korean Association of Suifenho on the Siberian border had charged that 3,000 Koreans who were killed and wounded in a "so-called train wreck" were massacred by the Soviet.

The message to the Korean Association at Hsinking, Domei said, accused the Soviet of transporting the Koreans to the interior of Siberia because of their pro-Japanese feeling and massacring them en route by purposely wrecking their trains.

OTTAWA STUDIES 3 ALBERTA ACTS

OTTAWA Oct. 14 (CP).—Legal Experts of the justice department today studied three unsigned Alberta government acts while the government awaited receipt of Alberta's brief for the measures and representations by other parties against them.

The acts dealing with publication of news, taxation of banks and control of banking, were passed at a special session of the Alberta legislature and handed to Lieutenant Governor Bowen for his signature. Mr. Bowen referred them to the governor general in council for advice and reserved assent.

Yesterday Prime Minister Mackenzie King said he had advised the Alberta government and others interested in the legislation that any representations they wished to make to the Dominion Government regarding them should be made in writing. He had heard already that the Alberta government would send a brief and that representations would come from daily and weekly newspaper associations.

Almost at the same time the prime minister was telling a press conference he had asked for written submissions of the acts, Premier Aberhart of Alberta announced in Edmonton his administration's brief was being mailed.

List Of Officers Is Nominated

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WESTWOOD, October 14. — The monthly meeting of the A.Y.P.A. of St. Michael's, Westwood, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Elmhurst, on the evening of Tuesday, October 5. The vice-president, Miss Edith Bray being in the chair.

The secretary announced that there was a profit from the weiner roast, which was held under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. last month. Nominations were then made for offices in the association for the new year. Election will be held at the next meeting.

The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in games and music. Refreshments were served, and the meeting broke up with the singing of Auld Lang Syne after a hearty vote of thanks had been tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Elmhurst for their kind hospitality. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, November 2.

TWEED WOMAN DRAWS $200 FINE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 14. — Charged on two counts of breaches of the Excise Act, Mrs. Evelyn Lajoie, Tweed, appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in County Police Court at Northbrook recently, and was convicted of selling illicit liquor and also of being found in possession of illicit liquor. The minimum fine of $100 and costs, was imposed on each count, and paid.

The case was brought into court by the R.C.M.P., who prosecuted both cases.

Travelling at a high rate of speed on No. 37 Highway over the holiday, the occupants of an automobile bearing an American license plate, had a narrow escape. It appears that as the driver left the paved section of the highway in the vicinity of Northbrook, they travelled on to the gravel section of the highway at such a speed that the driver was unable to control the car, which skidded across the road, jumped the ditch, tore up a section of fence, and landed upside down in a field.

Fortunately the occupants of the car were not injured; nor was the motor vehicle damaged greatly.

The average maximum temperature for the month of September at Tweed was 71 degrees, being 2 degrees below the 1936 average of 73 degrees. The average minimum temperature of 46 degrees for the month was also 2 degrees below the 1936 average of 48 degrees.

A total precipitation of 3.02 inches was recorded for the month, being .17 inches above the monthly average of 2.85 inches, but was 1.47 inches below the 1936 total of 4.49 inches. The heaviest precipitation occurred on the 11th, with 2.04 inches, and precipitation was recorded on 13 days of the month.

The highest temperature of 92 degrees was recorded on the 2nd, the lowest temperature of 32 degrees on the 27th.

John Johnston—80, is missing from his home at Hartington, about 25 miles north of Kingston, in the County of Frontenac. GUARANTEE ASKED FOR JUNIOR GAME LACROSSE SERIES

VANCOUVER, Oct. 14 — (CP). — With constitutional changes effected and arrangements made for a national junior championship series, the Canadian Lacrosse Association was ready to-day to adjourn its annual meeting.

Slate of executive officers was re-elected yesterday with Michael Kelley of Toronto returned for a third term as president.

Major action was Tuesday's severance of ties binding the Association to the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and decision to delete the word "amateur" from the Association's name.

Decision was taken yesterday to limit overtime in senior national finals to two five-minute periods instead of the present half-hour. Transfers from one association branch to another may be made only with permission of the branch that player wishes to leave. Junior players take senior status after five senior games.

The meeting decided the British Columbia junior champions, Vancouver Bluebirds, would play Elmwood Pats in Winnipeg on October 22 in a sudden-death game if the Manitoba titleholders put up a $300 guarantee.

If no guarantee is forthcoming the game will be an exhibition and the Bluebirds will continue to Orillia to play the Eastern champions in a best-of-five series opening there on October 26. The first four games will be played in Orillia, with a fifth, if necessary, in Toronto on November 3.

TRENTON FLIERS SCORE VICTORY

KINGSTON, Oct. 14. — Fumbles proved costly to the Kingston Garrison when they took a 22-8 drubbing from the Trenton R.C.A.F. Fliers at the Richardson Stadium here Wednesday afternoon in an O.R.F.U. intermediate fixture.

The Garrison opened the scoring early in the first quarter when Stevens kicked for a single, but were unable to hold their slim lead when Gibson, kicking half for the Fliers, put across three singles for as many points. In the second period, Gibson again booted a long one for a point, and the Garrison retaliated with their second single.

The Fliers went to town in the second half with Lecompte getting two touchdowns and Fee one, which was not converted. Gibson again kicked long punts for an additional three points. After dribbling the ball the length of the field on a fumble, Gleason carried it across the Flier line for a major score with Ostrander passing to Stevens for the convert.

R.C.A.F. Fliers—Snap, Bothwell; insides, Beatty and Barber; middles, Jamieson and Davis; outsides, Fee and Cessford; flying wing, Spruston; quarter, Spencer; halves, Whiteman, Lecompte and Gibson; subs., Burns, Tittley, Sweatman, Hadden, Smith, Hewston, Haggarty, Fincham, Drake, Birchall, Shaw, Hawkins.

KING GEORGE FALLS TO SOUTHEND TEAM

King Edward Public School soccer team annexed another two points to their total, on Wednesday afternoon, when they defeated King George School team by the score of 10 to nothing. The league leaders were working to perfection in all combination plays.

Inexperience Costly

Right from the kick-off, King Edward forwards tore right in to get a counter through the lack of checking outside the goal area to give Langley the opening that the goalie had no chance to save. Five minutes later, Foster, King Edward, converted from a free kick outside the penalty area. The East City forwards responded with break-aways that the defense failed to hold to shoot weakly past. A scoring splurge took place thereafter because the King Edward boys' combination was clicking to perfection that was backed up by superb half-back play. Murduff and Leether registering to make the count read: King Edward 6, King George 0.

A Decisive Win.

On resuming, the south-end boys were surprised when the King George forwards carried the play into their territory to bring out the defensive tactics of the full backs that was well night perfect. Although Laing and Powell, King George, broke away along the wing time and again to harass the full-backs, H. Clyde took up the centre-half position to hold the dangerous attack in mid-field and responding with raids upon the goal. On the full-back division, Ralph had the better of the tackles to outplay the opposing forward with his first time punting and interception of dangerous crosses into goal. Five minutes to go, King Edward pressed continuously to register four counters. King Edward 10, King George 0.

King George—R. Caines, goal; H. Clyde and D. Ralph, full-backs; K. Ferguson, H. Withers and F. Mason, halves; J. Laing, D. Withers, G. Patterson, R. Hendry and G. Clyde, forwards. Sub—G. Powell.

King Edward—W. Curtis, goal; L. Shea and D. Dalliday, full-backs; A. McMaster, T. Foster and W. Anderson, halves; R. Leether, C. Murduff, K. Langton, J. Weaver and D. Jamieson, forwards. Sub—H. Foster.

Referee—D. Buchan.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

HAD A talk yesterday with Max Swanston, president of the Central Ontario Baseball League and an O.B.A.A. executive member. Max has headed the C.O.B.L. for the past five years, succeeding R. E. Colling of Belleville. For the past two years, Mr. Swanston has tried to retire from this office but other clubs in the loop—generally led by Oshawa and Belleville—have refused to hear of it. As a hard-working, unbiased and experienced prexy, the local gent has no superiors. Each year he goes back unanimously. But yesterday, Max stated he was definitely through this term. Would not permit his name to stand at the annual loop meeting in Belleville next Saturday. Hasn't the time for the job now, and also feels that no one person should stay in one office too long. Says this is final.

* * * * *

WE WILL be sorry to see Max retire, but know that he will continue his interest in the game he used to star in, and will always lend a helping hand. Max gave no club a break over the other and was as well liked in Kingston, Napanee, Belleville and Oshawa as in Peterborough. A sure way for a club to get an umpire they didn't want was to kick to the prexy about that umpire—he was sent right back! Umps, players and the press could always depend on him for an even break. Yeah, a good guy.

* * * * *

AS FOR the C.O.B.L. offices for 1938, Mr. Swanston said Art Casterton of Kingston, now vice-prexy, should go in okay and be a good president. He hoped George Ansley of Oshawa would run for the vice-presidency, as he'd get it easy enough. And he felt that if Newt Thompson long-time competent secretary-treasurer of the circuit, really insisted on dropping out this time, the league would make no mistake in putting Jim Dorris of this city in that chair. "I think Jim Dorris would make an ideal secretary for the league," said Max, "as he has the experience and the facilities—that is, if Newt drops out. Like myself, I understand Newt is tied up now with his work and feels he hasn't the time to devote to handling league affairs." Four or five gees from here will attend the meeting.

* * * * *

AND NOW the lacrossers have broken with the badgers—the C.A.L.A. withdrawing from the A.A.U. of C., and even calling themselves the Canadian Lacrosse Association. Leaving the word "amateur" right out of it. They permit pros and amateurs on the same teams and allow amateurs to be paid for lost time at work. The hockey and cage bodies had previously broken from the fold, and baseball keeps getting further and further away from it. We all know amateurs get dough sometimes, so let's be honest about it.

* * * * *

DOWN IN the Norwood arena this Saturday, three Cornwall teams are slated for a lacrosse tournament for the bantam, midget and juvenile championships of Ontario. According to an announcement coming from Cornwall where the lacrosse squads in these classes are about the only ones in the Province so sponsored, the minors going under the colors of the Q.C.O.T. Boys' Club—whatever those initials indicate. The teams are called the Champlains, Eagles and Strathconas. This is all we know of it, just this bare statement coming from the eastern centre.

* * * * *

A RECORD crowd of grid fans is expected at Riverside Park this Saturday after lunch at three bells when Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts tangle with Peterborough Orfuns in an O.R.F.U. fixture. It'll be the rugby classic of the year all right. The locals' chances aren't any too bright; but they hope to retain their group leadership by nudging out a nod. It'll be a hard-hitting battle between two good outfits with but a few points separating the winner from the loser likely by that. Judging from what the Rapid Wraiths did to Lindsay and Eastsides—and lost by one unlucky point to our gang—the large Lakeshore lads are really lading it out this fall. They're good, but so are the local huskies.

* * * * *

IF WE recall rightly there isn't much difference in weight between these squads, with Cobourg having a little edge. Crowe and Meikle should feature in a dandy kicking duel. Just who will replace Mick Magee in Orfuns' backfield is a question yet; Mick will be missed plenty. Local fans will be seeing Orfuns for the first time in action this year, and there are several newcomers, gees like Loicks, Begley, Giardino, Prete, Winslow and Harle. We have a good team and haven't lost a home game since early last fall but this Saturday's joust will be the toughest the Orfuns have had in Riverside Park in a couple of years. It'll be nip-and-tuck with capital letters. The raffle draw will be made at this game, and regardless of the weather, we expect the turnstiles to click off a merry tune all afternoon. If you like football, don't pass this one up.

CITY 5-PIN Bowling League opens tonight at the K. of C. Alleys, Grants playing the Barbers and Grafton's meeting Bowlrites at seven, with Lucky Seven tangling with C.G.E. and Swarts meeting Dean's at 8.30 o'clock. The Gimblett circuit is organized now for another big winter and some merry pin-toppling can be expected when these good teams go after the gelt. In no league around town is the rivalry so keen as in the city 5-pin loop.

DESE, DEM and dose: Trenton Fliers beat Kingston Garrisons, 22-8, in a grid O.R.F.U. intermediate tilt yesterday . . . . Ingersoll rubbed Oshawa out of the O.B.A.A. intermediate "B" semi-finals, 5 to 3, Wednesday . . . . P.C.I. field day was slated for today at the Exhibition Grounds . . . . Kawartha Motorcycle Club meets tonight at 8.30 at 227 Hunter St. for distribution of prizes and to make plans for an Oshawa meet . . . . Don't worry about no puck imports here this year—both O.H.A. teams will have several new faces . . . . Guess the Eastsides will transfer their home rugby game Sat'day to Lindsay—meaning four tilts in a row in Scugogville . . . . Scribes there seem to feel the Bombers won a moral victory Monday over Orfuns; okay, let 'em have it . . . . P.C.I.-ers play in Bowmanville this Sat'day in a twin bill . . . . Church Cage Loop meeting is tomorrow eve at 7.45 in the "Y" . . . . Wish we had an assignment to get a fish story in Miami.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (A.P.). — Calling all printers: Come on out, boys—Mlle. Jadwiga Jedrzej (help, help) owska, the Polish tennis star, sailed for home last night. . . . Joe McCarthy is tickled pink over his new contract, and why not. . . . He'll get $105,000, a comfortable fortune, for managing the Yanks for the next three years.

This week's feedbox special: Indiana to trim Illinois. . . . The Hoosiers haven't done it since 1903, and the almanac says Saturday is the day. Take it or leave it.

Tommy Henrich, Yank outfield recruit, made more dough last season than any other rookie ever cleaned up in his first year. . . . The Yanks paid Tommy $20,000 for signing a contract. . . . He drew down $6,500 in salary, and topped that off with about $6,000 in World Series gravy. . . . For five months' work that ain't exactly hay, now is it?

Frankie Carideo, Mississippi State backfield coach, refuses to ride on planes on scouting trips. . . . Hasn't been off the ground since Knute Rockne (then Frankie's coach) lost his life in an air crash some years back.

Major league clubs eyeing Gabby Hartnett can forget about it. . . . Gabby will be the next manager of the Cubs. . . . They may even make Cholly Grimm a vice-president or something and slip Gabby in next season.

Championship of the South-Eastern Conference will be unofficially determined when Alabama and Tennessee clash at Knoxville, Saturday. . . . Most of the Yanks and Giants will put their World Series swag into annuities. . . . When General John J. Phelan, New York boxing boss, wed the other day, Jimmy Johnston, long a thorn in the General's side, wired: "This is one match even the Johnstons can find no fault with." . . . Joe Jacobs, the fight manager, who paid $350 for his new set of store teeth, still has to park 'em in his pocket when he eats.

Max Carey, one of the numerous ex-Dodger managers, now is a big shot on the Florida Boxing Commission. . . . Is Casey Stengel apartment hunting in Kansas City? . . . Don't fall over dead if Mike Jacobs and Jimmy Johnston hook up one of these days. . . . Jacobs not only feels the hustling Johnston would make a swell guy in the organization, but it also is one way for the astute Mr. Jacobs to get his hands on Bob Pastor.

President Ford Frick has been besieged by telegrams from all over the country demanding to know what happened to the National League in the World Series.

MOTORCYCLE CLUB ENDS BUSY SEASON

Kawartha Motorcycle Club is winding up its first season's business at a general meeting of members tonight (Thursday) at 8.30 at 227 Hunter Street. All should attend. Besides an outline of the past season which will be presented, the distribution of club prizes will be made, and plans discussed for the last dirt track meet of the season, being held on Saturday in Oshawa. Those wanting to enter should send in their names tonight.

Prizes to local members at the hill-climbing events in Nassau on Thanksgiving Day were donated by the following merchants: Sandy's Cigar Store, Pete Gosselin, Sugar Bowl, Harry Zacks, Board and Huffman, Fashion-Craft, Selkirk's, Borland's Drug Store, T. H. Ruth and Son, Curtis' Service Station and Shell Oil Company.

WEMBLEY EXTENDS

LONDON—(CP)—Wembley sports centre which accommodated 3,000,000 fans at a variety of games last year has purchased the Palace of Arts, built in 1923 for the Empire Exhibition adjoining the huge stadium. It will be used for squash and badminton championships.

OSHAWA THROUGH IN 'B' BASEBALL

GALT, Ont. 14 (CP).—In bitter cold weather, with snow flurries halting play at one time, Ingersoll defeated Oshawa 5 to 2 in the third game of the Intermediate "B" Ontario Baseball Amateur Association semi-finals Wednesday. The winners meet Caledonia in the finals.

There were three stars in Ingersoll's victory — Ralph Williams, pitcher; Bill Jordan, for his all-round fielding at short, and Beemer, whose spectacular catch in the seventh, with the bases loaded, retired the side.

Ralph Williams, the winning pitcher, aided his own cause with two hits and drove in three of the Ingersoll runs. Wills, who started on the mound for Oshawa, connected for the game's longest drive, which was a three-bagger.

ORILLIANS SWAMPED 21-6.

ORILLIA, Oct. 14 (CP)—Pickering College swamped Orillia Collegiate 21-6 here Wednesday in an exhibition junior football game. With a touchdown each quarter, the team from Newmarket featured steamroller tactics on the line and outclassed the Orillia squad which made several costly fumbles. Boorer scored Orillia's only touchdown in the final quarter.

PITCHING OR HITTING

Once again the coming world series resolves itself into a test of which is the better in a short series, hitting or pitching?

This is one of the most controversial points in baseball and has been the basis of many arguments in the famed "hot stove league." This year, the New York Yankees will supply the powerful hitting, and while they haven't, perhaps reached the same point of perfection that the great team of last year did, they are more than a formidable opponent for the majority of clubs.

The New York Giants will uphold the pitching end of the argument, and with Hubbell as their mainstay, and Melton as a proficient helper, they may be hard to top.

So once again we watch with interest the series, not only to see who will emerge the winner, but to note whether sock triumphs over skill, or vice versa.

CHISOX TRIUMPH IN CITY SERIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (AP).—John Henderson Whitehead, the problem child of the White Sox, hurled the American League to another victory Wednesday as the Southsiders conquered the National League Cubs 6-1 for their fourth consecutive Chicago championship.

Whitehead, who has been disciplined for overlooking training rules, had his little troubles, but was at his best when the going was toughest.

He allowed nine hits, fanned three and did not issue a pass. The triumph was Whitehead's second of the series. Curt Davis, who split the Cub pitching with Tex Carleton, was the loser.

Two Americans Pilot U.S. Hockey Clubs

DETROIT, Oct. 14 (CP)—When Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings clash this winter they will be managed by the only two United States citizens in charge of National Hockey League clubs.

Jack Adams of the Red Wings came from Napanee, Ont., but he received his final United States citizenship papers last summer and has made his home in Detroit. Bill Stewart, new manager of the Black Hawks and a major league baseball umpire, is a Boston product.

CHITTY COMING HOME.

LONDON.—(CP).— Eric Chitty, the Toronto member of West Ham, winners of the National League motorcycle-racing championship, will visit relatives in Montreal and Toronto before sailing for Sydney, Australia, to take part in a tournament there.

Famous Orillia Terriers Lose Mann Cup In Three Straight

New Westminster Salmonbellies Beat Easterners 19-12 In Third

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 14 (CP).—Champions of Canadian lacrosse the past three years, Orillia Terriers were smothered under a barrage of New Westminster goals last night as Salmonbellies scored a 19-12 victory to wrest the Mann Cup from Terriers in three straight games.

Salmonbellies, victors 11-9 and 18-10 in the first two games, uncovered a great scoring burst in the first three periods last night and staved off a gallant Orillia rally to win the championship they held last in 1927.

The coast team, featuring five former Orillia players, led 6-2 at the end of the first quarter, 10-3 at half-time and 14-4 after three-quarters. The final session was hectic with Terriers outscoring the Salmonbellies 8-5 but unable to overcome the big lead.

Bill Wilson and Hank Munro, both former Terriers, led the Westminster scoring parade with six and five goals respectively. Bill Wilkes and Ed Downey had three and two goals and Pete Anthony, fifth of the erstwhile Orillians, played a magnificent game in goal.

Other Salmonbelly markers came from Pete Meehan, Red Fraser and Ken Fetherston. Don Willson scored three for Orillia and Joe Cheevers two, singles going to Ernie Curran, George Showden, Pipe Bain, Arnold Smith, Butch Boetiger, Wandy Walsh and Vern Steggall.

CUP FINAL VENUE MAY BE CHANGED

LONDON, Oct. 14 (C.P.). — Rival promoters are bidding for the Football Association Cup final of 1938. A 21-year agreement with Wembley Stadium authorities runs out in seven years.

Alterations at Wembley, where thousands were turned away last year, would cost the English Football Association $300,000. On the other hand, Brigadier-General A. C. Critchley, Alberta-born sportsman, has submitted an offer to extend the White City to accommodate 150,000 persons if the F.A. will consider having the game played there. Wembley now holds 93,000 persons.

TEXANS BEATEN IN EXHIBITION WITH MONTREAL

TORONTO, Oct. 14 (CP).—No one ever makes excuses for Toronto's battling Balmy Beach Club, but if the Beachers fail to spill Sarnia Imperials in this year's Ontario Rugby Football Union race—as the Toronto team has failed for several years—supporters can feel justified in pointing out a few bad breaks.

Coach Alex. Ponton risked losses through injuries when he gave the club a severe pre-schedule series of exhibitions and Balmy Beach came through that grind unscathed. But practices have brought injury after injury, leaving the team badly crippled.

Eisenhardt Breaks Arm.

Tommy Eisenhardt is the latest casualty. Just when the Beach was heartened by a convincing tie with Sarnia Monday, the veteran lineman suffered a broken arm that will keep him out for the season, along with Halfback Sammy Sward and Lineman Bobby Reed.

Eisenhardt's loss doesn't impair chances of giving Hamilton Panthers a thorough drubbing Saturday when the O.R.F.U. schedule is resumed. It does handicap Balmy Beach seriously for future meetings with Sarnia. However—and those Dominion champion Imperials are tough enough for a team at full strength.

Elsewhere along the eastern front, coaches had more encouragement today. Only at the University of Western Ontario, where it was reported Quarterback Alf Hurley probably would not be able to play against Queen's Saturday, was a really sour note sounded.

Texans Beaten 31-16.

Mohtreal Indians were beaten 31-16 by St. Mary's College of San Antonio, Texas, in a floodlight exhibition at Montreal. In defeat, though, the Indians showed remarkable passing strength and there probably would have been a considerably different story if the game had not been under United States rules.

Employing running interference to advantage, the Rattlers baffled Montreal's tacklers, and Indians' running plays rarely got by the St. Mary's secondary defence because of lack of the same sort of interference.

Possible Players For Canada's Davis Cup Team

Canada will re-enter Davis Cup competition in 1938, R. N. Watt, centre, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis association announced. Canada has failed to compete in the international matches since 1934, but with the United States now holding the coveted cup, tennis players in the Dominion will have a better chance to prepare themselves before the zone matches commence, due to the challenge round being held in the United States. Also the absence of the U. S. from elimination rounds will leave Canada stacked up against teams nearer her own class. No definite word has been given as to which players will make up the team, but Toronto's, Ross Wilson, LEFT; Bobby Murray, of Montreal, No. 1 player, top RIGHT, and Doug Cameron, lower RIGHT, from Vancouver, are all possible players to be nominated.

Roller Skates Aid To Hockey, Says Ex-Player Joe Primeau

Former Ice Star Found Sidewalk Good Practice Ground In Youth

TORONTO, Oct. 14 (CP).—Take a tip, kids, from Joe Primeau. If you want to be a hockey star, he says, it doesn't hurt much to do a lot of roller-skating in the summer.

Primeau, in case it isn't remembered, retired from professional hockey a year ago, thereby breaking up that famed front rank of Toronto Maple Leafs—the original "kid line."

When a youngster of 10, living in British Columbia, Primeau said there wasn't always enough winter to get in much ice skating "so I used to roller skate all summer long."

"Say, I must have used up a half-dozen pairs of skates one summer. It exercises the same muscles and I think it does you good if you want to play hockey," said Primeau.

Today, at 31, the man who made plays for that high-scoring combination of Primeau—Charlie Conacher-Harvey Jackson, says he has "no regrets" for quitting although it's a game he "loves." He hasn't any ideas, though, of stepping into harness again.

Leafs and Primeau went separate ways when hockey demanded more time than the dark-haired centreman could afford away from his cement block business. Joe's a family man, with three children, so business won.

Asked if Connie Smythe, manager of Leafs, or either of his former forward mates, ever asked about his returning to the National Hockey League wars, Primeau said Conacher was the only one to remark on it and "then only jokingly."

"Smythe and I haven't talked hockey since I quit last year," said Joe. "But once when I was talking to Charlie he said 'you know, Joe, you were nuts to quit the game'."

Apart from his regular job, soon after he retired from hockey, Primeau wrote a sports column for a while in a daily paper here. "The darn thing used to keep me up all hours of the morning," he said. "But that wasn't what burned me up. It was when people used to ask who was 'ghosting' my column for me."

Primeau predicted a great 1937-38 season for Conacher, the 210-pound wingman who broke his wrist soon after last season's start and never got going afterwards. He said Conacher "has more natural ability than anybody I ever saw."

Bradman Squelches Optimistic Aussie

MELBOURNE, Oct. 14 (CP-Reuters).—When Dr. A. Robertson, member of the Australian cricket board of control expressed doubt if England would ever again produce a team capable of winning the "Ashes" he started something.

Cricketers throughout the country expressed surprise and a number declared Australia would be well advised to adopt a more humble attitude lest her representatives fail to hurdle the next test series to be played in England in 1938.

Don Bradman, who led Australia to victory against G. O. Allen's team last season, referred to Dr. Robertson's remark as "rubbish." It was unwise, he said, to enthuse over a temporary and hazardous supremacy. "England will win the ashes again and Australian cricket will be better for it," he added.

W. M. Woodfull, former Australian captain, said "England was within an ace of victory last season. Our position is far from unassailable."

Remember When—

(By the Canadian Press.)

Joe McCarthy, sleek-haired player of the old school, was appointed manager of New York Yankees six years ago to-day, succeeding Bob Shawkey. With Chicago Cubs five years, the man who never played major league baseball, has piloted the New Yorkers to two world championships — 1932 and 1936.

Football Fundamentals

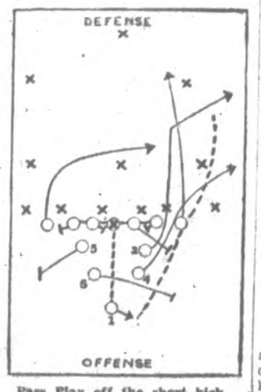
Two Pass Plays Outlined Made Off Kick Formation

By LEW HAYMAN
Coach, Toronto Argonauts Football Club

PASS PLAYS FROM:
1. A SHORT KICK FORMATION
2. REGULAR KICK FORMATION

Every team should have a short kick formation from which to quick kick, pass, run and buck. This formation is used as one of your regular offensive weapons, not as an ordinary third down kick formation.

In to-day's article I have outlined two pass plays off both kick formations that you should be fairly successful with, particularly if the passer has the ability to select open receivers. The No. 1 pass is off the short kick; No. 2 pass is off the regular kick formation.



Pass Play off the short kick formation.

Pass No. 1 floods the right zone, making it a very difficult assignment for the defenders to cover each man in that area. It is an optional pass placing the onus on the passer, to select any open receiver.

The end split as they do on all plays from a short kick formation.

Blocking:

No. 5 back blocks defensive left outside.

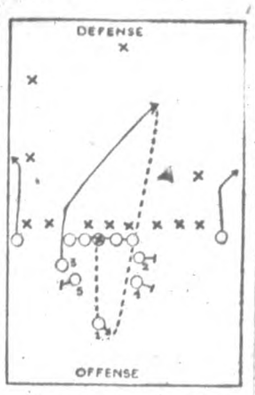
No. 3 back blocks defensive right outside.



Pass play off regular kick formation.

Pass No. 2 is set up to be used against an 8-2-2 defence, which is commonly played against third down kicks.

The offence lines up and acts as if it is to be an ordinary kick. Left outside dashes straight down the field and breaks out as he comes to the secondary. Right outside does the same on the other side. No. 3 back moves directly between the two secondaries and then slightly oblique, taking the pass from the supposed kicker.

Should the defensive secondaries fail to pick up the offensive outsides, pass must be thrown to either one of them. The blockers maintain their positions blocking the most dangerous men as they come through.

To-morrow—Individual defensive play.

Detroit Wings Steal Hawks' Thunder 4 U.S. Amateurs Tryout With Redmen

DETROIT, Oct. 14 (CP).—Major Frederic MacLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, announced last winter United States-born hockey players were just as good as Canadian puckmen. He intended to have a complete American-born Hawk roster this season. To judge by four amateurs now trying out with the Detroit Red Wings, he has missed several good chances to carry out his intention.

The four are Frank Brimsek, 22, goalkeeper from Eveleth, Minn.; Jack Snell, 21, right wing, Minneapolis, Minn.; Bill Duncan, 21, Minneapolis, centre, and Jimmy Baudino, centre with Detroit Holzbaugh of the Michigan-Ontario Hockey League last winter.

"Every one of them is a major league prospect within two or three years," Manager Jack Adams told James Norris, Jr., son of the Red Wings' owner. "How do you suppose the Major would like to have those boys?"

"The Major would give his right eye," James, Jr., said.

APPROVES DATES FOR TEST GAMES

SYDNEY, Oct. 14 (CP-Reuters).—England and Australia resume battles for the mythical "Ashes" on English cricket fields next year. Five test matches will be played, and dates and places for the tilts, submitted by the Marylebone Cricket Club, have been approved by the Australian Cricket Board of Control.

Australia holds cricket supremacy by virtue of its triumph in the series played in the Commonwealth last winter. The Aussies won three matches to two, giving them a total of 56 victories to 54 for the Mother Country since the first test was played in 1876. Twenty-nine contests have been drawn.

The opening test in 1938 will be played at Trent Bridge, Nottingham, June 10. Lords, famous London home of the M.C.C. will be the venue of the second tilt, June 24. Other matches are scheduled for Manchester, July 8, and Leeds, July 22 with the final encounter at the Oval, London, August 20.

The Australian team is due to arrive in England April 21. Enroute the team will play a one-day match against Ceylon. W. H. Jeanes, native of Nottinghamshire, was appointed manager of the team. He managed the Australian end of the M.C.C.'s recent tours and has acquired a wide reputation as an efficient organizer.

Sixteen players, as on the 1934 tour, will form the Australian team which will be picked January 27, 1938, after the match between New South Wales and Victoria at Sydney.

The Australian Board of Control has re-appointed D. G. Bradman (South Australia), E. A. Dwyer (New South Wales) and K. O. E. Johnson (New South Wales) selectors.

Ghosts And Orfuns Here Saturday

The Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg play the local Orfuns here this Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in Riverside Park. It will be the locals' first home game of the season, and should be the best O.R.F.U. tilt to be seen here this year. These teams clashed in Cobourg three weeks ago and the Orfuns were lucky to grab a 7-6 victory. Since then, Cobourg have defeated Lindsay—by a bigger score than Orfuns did—and knocked off the strong Toronto Eastsides' squad. They threaten to plaster the Peterborough players plenty right here. Cobourg this year have a husky bunch of battlers, with plenty of fight and experience. They have two smart imports from Toronto in Jacobs, outside wing, and Meikle, ace kicking backfielder. The latter has made nearly all their points to date.

Orfuns will be handicapped by the loss of Magee, but will present a scrappy squad that should make it a hard fight from start to finish. It will be anybody's game, and a record grid crowd is expected to see the two best teams in the group clash. A win for Orfuns will about clinch 'em the title, but a loss will give Cobourg a tie with them. The raffle draw for prizes will be made at this game.

SIGNS 3-YEAR CONTRACT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (A.P.).—Joe McCarthy to-day signed a three-year contract to manage the world's champion New York Yankees at a salary of $35,000 per year, Edward G. Barrow, general manager of the club announced.

The salary is the same McCarthy received under the terms of his last contract, for two years, which he signed in July, 1935.

BERESFORD PICKS ENGLISH OARSMEN

LONDON, Oct. 14 (C.P.). — A sculler and an eight will represent England at the British Empire Games at Sydney, Australia, in February. The team will leave on December 4.

The Amateur Rowing Association has assigned the veteran, Jack Beresford, the task of choosing an all-star English eight. Formerly the eight which won the Grand Challenge Trophy at Henley was chosen to represent England. P. H. Jackson, twice English amateur champion, will be the sculler.

Those approached for the eight include: T. D. Boyland, E. G. Howitt, R. Hambridge, M. P. Lee, all of London; D. G. Kingsford, G. Lewis, M. P. Lonnon, D. Burnford, H. W. Mason, all of Cambridge University; J. D. Sturnrock, Oxford University; A. P. Brown, R. Harman, J. Burrough of the Thames Club, and G. Wells, Pembroke College.

Three possible coxswains are W. D. Winkworth, D. Rose, and J. Dearlove.

JOINS SWINTON CLUB.

SWINTON, England. — (CP).—Trevor Jenkins, 22-year-old Torquay and Devon left-wing three-quarter, has signed as professional for Swinton of the English Rugby League.

MARRIED

MARTIN—READER.—The wedding was quietly solemnized on Saturday, October 9, by the Rev. C. C. Boyter, pastor of Park Street Baptist Church, of Ruth Reader and Frederick Martin. Attendants were Florence Martin and George Masters. Supper was served at the Mayfair Cafe.

ENGAGEMENTS

The engagement is announced of Olive Ina May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. MacDonald, Oakwood, Ontario, to Orville Keith, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Roseborough, Gilmour street, Peterborough. The marriage to take place the latter part of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Daley of Sault Ste. Marie announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Marie Georgianna, to Daniel Joseph Kennedy, son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Dan Kennedy of Ennismore. The marriage will take place in Sault Ste. Marie in December.

DIED

GOURLEY James Johnston — On Wednesday, October 13, James Johnston Gourley, father of Dawson Gourley and Mrs. J. W. Pierce. Funeral from Comstock's Funeral Home on Friday, October 15, at 2 p.m., to Little Lake Cemetery; Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox Church officiating. Ottawa papers please copy.

IN MEMORIAM

MILLER. — In loving remembrance of our dear Mother, Florence Alberta Miller, who passed away October 14, 1935.

Beside your grave we often stand
With heart both crushed and sore;
But in the gloom, the sweet words come:
"Not lost, but gone before."
God knows how much we miss you,
He counts the tears we shed;
And whispers, "She only sleeps,
Your loved one is not dead."
So we will be brave, dear Mother,
And pray to God each day,
And when he calls us home to you,
Your smile will guide the way
—Sadly missed by Evelyn, Kenneth, and R. J.

BROWN.—In fond and loving memory of our darling Robert, who died October 10, and was buried three years ago to-day.

Often times our hearts do wander,
To a grave not far away,
Where we laid our darling Robert,
Just three years ago to-day.
—Lovingly remembered by Mother, Daddy and Brothers.

DEAD RECKONING

BY

BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST

Tim Kennedy, who has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting, graduated into homicide from the school of armchair murderers. At middle age, having made a fortunate marriage to Esther Ashwell, and possessing a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim felt happy and secure. Then Esther was run down by a truck. Weeks later she was brought home, a physical wreck and a cripple for life, with only a hint of her former beauty left. Tim loses all interest in his wife because of her appearance. He suggests they hold their annual tennis party despite her condition. He looks forward to an appointment with Alma Shepherd, a widow and new client whom he has suggested to Esther they invite to the tennis party. At his office Tim arranges special flowers for Mrs. Shepherd's benefit as she arrives.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 10.

In an interval when she was able to speak, Alma Shepherd sighed, as she sat in Kennedy's dental chair.

"I envy you your flowers," she said. "I've only got a tiny garden at Maybank—half an acre. It doesn't give much scope."

"One can get a lot of fun out of a small garden."

"But not much variety. . . . You know, I think I've passed your place. It's in the forest, isn't it—off the Bradstock road?"

This was coming half-way to meet him with a vengeance.

"That's right. You go down that steep lane turning off to the left at the top of the ridge opposite Gates' farm. It's a perfectly beastly lane, steep and narrow and winding. Our house, The Wilderness is to the left, about three-quarters of a mile down— there are two big stone pillars where a gate was once."

"Yes, I've passed it. It looked a lovely place."

"You must come and see it one day. . . . Are you a tennis player Mrs. Shepherd?"

"Yes, I love tennis. Though I haven't played seriously for several years now."

"We're having a little tennis party on Saturday afternoon, about half past two. Just a few friends. I would very much like you to meet my wife. Would you care to come along, if you've nothing else on hand?"

Perfectly easy and unforced. . . . Nevertheless, he awaited her reply with some trepidation.

"I'd love to. . . . Oh, but I'm afraid I can't." Her face clouded over. "I promised to take Phyllis Grantley for a run into Westbourne."

"That's too bad. But perhaps we can fix it. We know Phyllis—we were going to ask her too. I can ring her up—that is, if you'd really like to come?"

"Oh, I would. After all, we can go into Westbourne any day."

"Righto. . . . Now, Mrs. Shepherd, bite gently on that."

She obeyed, smiling.

"All right?" he asked.

Perfect."

"Sure?"

"Absolutely."

"I thought it would be. . . . Perhaps I'd better just take a looke at the rest. . . . You know, Mrs. Shepherd, you are as near having a perfect set of teeth as anyone I've ever seen. You must look after them very well."

"They've never given me any trouble. Do you know, Mr. Kennedy, you're the first dentist I've been to since I was a child?"

"Is that really so? You're very lucky to have kept out of our clutches . . . And there now, I can't find a possible excuse for keeping you in mine. There's not a blemish."

He helped her out of the chair. "I'll ring Phyllis now, if you don't mind waiting a moment."

"Won't it be keeping you back?"

"Not a bit of it." He went to the desk, and took up the telephone. "Hello. Nice six, please. . . . Is that the rectory? . . . Oh, hello, Mr. Grantley. Tim Kennedy speaking. Is Phyllis about the house? Good, I'll wait. . . . Hello, Phyllis. Look, will you come up for our annual on Saturday? . . . No, wait, I know all about that. Mrs. Shepherd is here in my surgery, and I've asked her to come too. She says she'd love to. Is she a truthful lady? . . . Well, that's fixed then. . . . No, my dear, that's quite all right. It was Esther's own suggestion. She wants to make as few changes as possible. You understand. Right, then . . . goodbye."

He put up the receiver, and turned smilingly to Mrs. Shepherd. "That's settled, then."

"Splendid! Thanks most awfully—it's really kind of you."

"It's a great pleasure. There'll be about half a dozen of us. . . . My wife can't play just yet, I'm afraid. She had a bad accident last year."

"Yes, I heard. I'm so sorry."

Tragedy exacted the tribute of a moment's pause.

"She'll be very happy to meet you, though," said Kennedy.

"And I her." Mrs. Shepherd held out her hand. "Well, many thanks again."

"You're forgetting your daffodils." Kennedy took half a dozen of the choicest blooms from the vase. "I expect these will be a bit long for the vase in you car," he added. "If you wait just a moment I'll trim them up."

He took a pair of scissors, held the flowers together, and with delicate precision snipped about four inches off the stalks. "That's better," he said.

"You are thoughtful."

He smiled deprecatingly. "Not at all. . . . I hope you have a nice day in town."

"It's nothing exciting—just shopping. . . . Well—till Saturday."

"Till Saturday."

He saw her into Adams' care in the hall, then returned to the surgery, a warm glow of satisfaction within him.

In the small hours of Saturday morning Esther had one of her nightmares. She was in a narrow lane, across which a great tree was on the point of falling. There were people about, and they cried out to her in warning. She heard the cries, she knew the tree was about to fall upon her, but she could not see it. She had to run, but blindly, she did not know where to run. There was an obstacle in her way.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SHOW.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Johnnie Bushytail.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed his squirrel brother Billie.

Well might they all laugh for something very funny was going on underground in the old hollow stump and tunnel down which Mr. Longears had climbed to find the missing squirrel boys.

"Well," said Mr. Longears, wiping tears from his eyes, "this is a funny thing to happen on my nutting picnic." Uncle Wiggily wasn't trying he had just laughed so hard that he had squeezed some tears out of his eyes by mistake.

"Are you on a nutting picnic?" asked Billie.

"That's what I started on," said the rabbit gentleman, beginning to laugh again, "but it has such a funny ending! Ha! Ha!"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Billie and Johnnie.

"Why did you come on a nutting picnic as we did?" asked Billie.

Heard Noises

Then Uncle Wiggily explained how, going to the Hollow Tree

"This is a funny thing!"

School to tell Miss Mouse the squirrels wouldn't be there because of going to gather nuts for Winter, he had suggested that Miss Mouse and the animal pupils come to the woods to look for Johnnie and Billie.

"So we came and when we couldn't find you I decided you were down in this hollow stump, just as you are," said Mr. Longears.

"Yes," said Billie. "We heard queer noises down here so we climbed down to see what was making them."

"And when we found out," went on Johnnie, "it was so jolly and funny we had to stay. So we forgot about climbing up out of the stump to take home the nuts we had gathered."

"Yes, it's the funniest show I have ever seen!" chuckled Mr. Longears. "Excuse me while I laugh again," and he did right heartily.

"But where is Miss Mouse?" asked Johnnie after a while.

"Oh, I left her and the animal children up top," said Mr. Longears nodding toward where he had entered the stump from above. "They are waiting for me."

An Idea.

"It's too bad they can't see this show," said Johnnie.

"Yes," agreed Uncle Wiggily, "it is. Ha! But I have a thought!" he suddenly exclaimed. "Perhaps we can take the show up so Miss Mouse and the animal boys and girls can see it."

"Of course we can!" chattered Johnnie.

"I'll ask one of the June Bugs when he finishes his act of walking on the tight rope," offered Billie.

"That will be great!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "This place is hardly large enough to bring down Miss Mouse and all the pupils. If we could only put on the show up above it would be fine."

"Why, of course we can do that," said the tight rope walking June Bug. "Nothing easier! Ho, my friends!" he called. "We're going to do a show for Uncle Wiggily up above. Finish your acts and get ready to crawl up the hollow stump."

"Bum! Bum! Bum!" cried the jolly June Bugs.

What had happened was that the squirrels had discovered a place under ground where the June Bug circus performers trained to get ready for next Summer. Then Uncle Wiggily had found it and now we shall see what happens next.

And if the chair legs don't try to walk on the clothes line for a tight rope, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's circus.

SALLY'S SALLIES

Optimists cast their bread on the waters and expect it to come back as toast.

For getting oil or grease out of clothing, lay the stain over blotting paper and sponge with gasoline, benzine or carbon tetrachloride. To prevent grease from spreading on silks, circle with French chalk or fuller's earth.

HARVEST SERVICE HELD AT HASTINGS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 14.—St. George's Anglican church was beautiful with autumn fruits, leaves, grains and flowers on Thanksgiving Sunday for the Harvest Home Service when the Venerable Archdeacon Simpson of Millbrook was the special speaker in the morning.

A good congregation was assembled when the processional hymn, "Come Ye Thankful People, Come" opened the beautiful service, followed by the "Te Deum" as a special act of Thanksgiving. Other hymns used were "Now Thank We all our God" and "Lord of Heaven and Earth and Ocean" as a recessional hymn.

"Praise to the Lord" was rendered by the choir with Miss Plant, the organist, presiding.

Archdeacon Simpson chose his text from Psalm 1, 19, "The Heaven's declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth His handiwork".

IT LOOKS LIKE RAIN!

She had to move it, she had to move it.....The nurse, who slept in the adjoining dressing room with the door open, found her crouched at the foot of the bed, which she had managed to move a yard out of its true alignment.

She had bruised her hands a little, but otherwise done herself no hurt. Sitting on the edge of the bed after breakfast, which he had taken upstairs, Tim was inclined to take the matter lightly.

"It was that Welsh rabbit," he said. "You've got to be careful what you eat at night."

Esther herself, though on edge a little more than usual, had the vaguest memory of her terror. She had been awakened only to fall at once into a child's sleep, lasting well into the morning. She knew, too, that she was inclined to eat rather imprudently in the evenings. She found these days that she only began to feel her real self as the day failed: until then she could only peck at her food.

"But it can't be good my sleeping alone, Tim," she said, "if I'm liable to do things like that."

"Well, we can put a small bed in your room and let the nurse sleep there. Then she'll be right on the spot."

Esther's face slouded. "I don't want to sleep with her. She's a silly girl; she'd only irritate me and make me worse."

He ignored the pleading in her eyes.

"Well, let's change her. Or, if you like, get a special night nurse—someone you can really like."

She made an impatient gesture. "Nurses....I don't want a nurse any longer, Tim. It only reminds me....Listen, Tim, you can do the dressing to my arm; it's only twice a week now. Can't we get rid of the girl?"

He shook his head, pursing his lips into a smile.

"We'll think about it, dear. Perhaps soon. I don't think it would be wise just yet....Now Esther, lie back and take it easy. I don't want you to get up until just before lunch. You've got to be fit for the party."

"The party....Have we got to have them, Tim?"

He answered her deprecatingly. "Well, dear, yes. I think we have. Do you want me to ring them up and tell them not to come, because you've had a bad dream?" His smile took any sting from the words.

"I suppose we must. I don't know how I'm going to face it though."

He considered a moment.

"I don't think you need stay down too long. You can make your excuses after tea—they'll understand. I can look after them all right."

The nurse bustled in.

"You bad man," she said. "You know this room is out of bounds for you at this time. Get along with you!"

Kennedy smiled sweetly at her, and withdrew.

$105 DOOR RECEIPTS AT ANNUAL SUPPER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 14.—Ideal weather favored the largest attended fowl supper for some time, at the United church, Thanksgiving night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. Supper was served from 6 to 8 o'clock in the spacious dining hall, with white covers, beautiful cut flowers adorned the tables. The Ladies of Trent River congregation are renowned for their home cooking which spoke for itself in the many tempting viands served at the tables. Fowl and cold meat were in abundance together with potatoes, vegtables, salads, jellies and various kinds of luscious pies.

Over ninety sat down to the first tables which were refilled three times. Two hundred and sixty-four tickets were sold.

After supper the following program was held in the church auditorium, with Rev. S. A. Kemp as chairman. Opening Hymn, Chairman's address, reading, Mrs. Bruce Grills of Campbellford; community singing led by Mr. Wesley Wildman, with Mr. Alex. Baptie at the piano; address by Rev. Mr. Littlewood of Vroomanton, who conducted Thanksgiving services Sunday; piano Duet "Boys of the Nation" by Alex. Elliott and Wesley Wildman, who responded to a hearty encore by playing "Guard Mount"; reading "Miss Dorothy Entertains the Minister", Miss Ila Wood; trombone solo, Wesley Wildman with Alex. Baptie at the piano; God Save the King. The door receipts amounted to $105., together with the receipts of the offering Sunday of $92.75, making a grand total of $197.75.

Pay Ten Cents To Hold $1,000,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14 (CP)—"Step right up, ladies and gents! Grab hold of this million dollars! Feel it, hold it in your hands for only one dime—the 10th part of a dollar!"

That's the kind of concession a group of San Franciscans wants to operate at the 1938 Golden Gate International Exposition. It proposes cashing in on the fact few persons have seen $1,000,000, and the hope that enough would pay a dime to boast they had.

ARAB TERRORISTS RENEW PALESTINE OUTRAGES

ANGLO-FRENCH CONCESSIONS END FOR DUCE

Showdown Drafted Upon Spanish Issue

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(AP).—Great Britain and France, said to be determined to make no more major concessions of Italy, planned today for a showdown with Premier Mussolini on question of withdrawing his troops from Spain.

The climax of 15 months of effort to confine the civil war to Spain will come when the nine-nation sub-committee of the London non-intervention committee meets to-morrow in an attempt to agree on a plan to remove thousands of foreigners fighting in Spain.

France's patience with Mussolini's delaying tactics were at an end. British officials were more reserved but London and Paris were said to have agreed to speedy countermeasures to restore "the balance in Spain" if the sub-committee's deliberations prove fruitless.

An indication Great Britain was determined either to make effective the non-intervention agreement or take measures to counteract Italy's activity in Spain came from the Times, on which concluded a long editorial with the assertion:

"The open abuse of the whole policy (of non-intervention) cannot continue and a great responsibility will rest upon any power that fails to co-operate wholeheartedly for a speedy agreement.'

N.B. MINERS WILL FIGHT TO FINISH

MINTO, N.B., Oct. 15.—(CP). — Ready for a "fight to the last ditch," miners of the New Brunswick coal field to-day went into the third day of their strike for union recognition with their C.I.O. affiliation standing out as the walkout's chief issue.

Operators of the 11 collieries tied up by the strike of 1,200 men refused to meet the union-sought concessions; and one of the largest operators charged that granting them would deliver the mines into the control of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The United Mine Workers of America, John L. Lewis' own union, wants recognition in the Minto field and the right to have the company collect for it union dues from the men's pay envelopes, under the "check-off" system. It wants, too, improvement in "indescribable" living conditions among the miners.

Denouncing the check-off, A. D. Taylor, manager of a company running one of the largest mines, said last night it meant sending 60 cents out of each man's pay each month to the "parent organization, the Committee for Industrial Organization." The C.I.O. would "run the Minto mines if the check-off and the closed shop go into effect."

From U.M.W. district headquarters in Glace Bay, N.S., District President D. W. Morrison hit back with the declaration that Minto miners lived now under conditions that "beggared description." Pay sheets he had seen, he said, showed some men had not drawn a cent of pay in over two years because of "company deductions."

PASTOR IS JAILED ON SEX CHARGES

CENTRALIA, Ill., Oct. 15 (AP).—State's Attorney Ward Holt said today the Rev. J. K. Aichele, deposed superintendent of the Hudelson Orphans' Home, had agreed to plead guilty to one of six charges of immoral sex relations with girl wards.

Holt announced he would confer with Circuit Judge William B. Wright at Salem Saturday on whether to call a special session of the grand jury to hear the six charges against the clergyman. There are five charges of immoral acts and one of rape.

Mr. Aichele, held in the Marion County Jail in default of $18,000 bonds, was arrested Tuesday after Holt and Police Sergt. O. T. Bounds had questioned nine girls from the Home, a Baptist-supported institution.

The board of trustees of the Home yesterday discharged the pastor and appealed to its supporters to withhold "adverse judgment."

'Battle of The Cows' In East York Leaks Out In Full

Nice Fat Liberal Mama Cow With Quints No Match For Tory Masterpiece, "The Widow"

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—(CP)—A life-size imitation cow on the verandah of Frank Talbot's home in suburban East York is an aftermath of the October 6 Ontario election.

The story of the cow, named "The Widow" starts with the Ontario election of 1934 when Liberals under Mitchell Hepburn defeated the Conservative government of George S. Henry, Mr. Talbot explained today. "I make paper mache things, and the Liberals got me to make them a terrible skinny cow that said: 'Henry has milked me dry.' It did real well around East York.

"So this election the Liberals came back to me good and early, and ordered a lean cow to show what Ontario was like when Hepburn took over and also a fat cow with quints to be Ontario after he fixed things up.

"The five calves were all labelled something, you understand. One represented reduction in Hydro rates, and another — well, I forget what they were, but it was a healthy-looking cow anyway, and the calves all meant something, 'Mickey' McConnell (Liberal candidate) used the display in East York.

Widow The Winner.

"But that's not telling you about the widow. R. M. Leslie—he organized for Henry in East York—came along and ordered a kind of mournful cow, life size, in black and white. The Conservatives had the idea of calling her 'the widow,' and she was to have a sign saying: 'Don't trust Hepburn, he shot my husband'—the bull, you know.

"I don't know what happened — may be they found out the Liberals had a bigger cow display—but Leslie came back and asked me if I couldn't turn 'the widow into a bull. Turn it into a bull.' I told Leslie that would be as much work as making a whole new one. Why would they want a bull anyway?"

So Mr. Talbot still has 'the widow' on the verandah of his home. He's wondering what "Leslie'll do with her." But he isn't worrying very much. He was paid for his work, "paid dandy," he says, and even though he did vote Liberal at the last election it wasn't because the Liberals gave him the biggest order, he added. But without Mr. Talbot's support, Henry was re-elected this year with a vote of 11,260 compared with 11,051 for McConnell.

DISPUTE MAY SHUT FORD'S KANSAS CITY PLANT FOR GOOD

DETROIT, Oct. 15 (AP)—Executives of the Ford Motor Company, voicing annoyance at "intolerable" labor dispute circumstances, weighed their next move today after a plain-spoken threat to close the Kansas City plant permanently.

A decision in the clouded controversy, in which the company charged Kansas city police "refused protection" to any Ford official lacking a union pass, hung on the outcome of a conference with officials of the heretofore picketed plant.

Upon sumoning the plant manager and superintendent to the Ford office in Dearborn yesterday, Harry H. Bennett, personnel director, said "I do not think there is anything to do but close the plant. But that is up to the company."

Pickets of the United Automobile Workers Union were withdrawn from the plant last night.

When the pickets first appeared Monday, the plant's 3,000 employees, idle during change-over to 1938 production, were advised to find work elsewhere because the reopening was indefinite.

Union leaders charged this was a lockout. Bennett said the dispute, in which he declared the company wanted "no part," lay between "the Committee for Industrial Organization and other other union." The latter was identified at Kansas City as the newly-formed Independent Ford Employees' Union.

Million In Stock At Kansas Show

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 15 (AP). — Blooded livestock valued at $1,000,000 milled about 10 acres of pens here today, groomed like champion athletes for the opening Saturday of the American Royal Livestock and Horse Show.

Premiere animal event of the fall season, the 39th annual show will last eight days. More than 5,000 head of cattle, horses, mules, sheep and hogs have been entered by exhibitors. Prize money totals $65,000.

To 10,000 members of the future farmers the show's high-spot will be the announcement Tuesday of the farm boy chosen star farmer.

Winner of the title, and a prize of $500, has been picked from among leaders in State contests by a committee in Washington.

Two Missing Boys Feared Drowned

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Oct. 15 (CP)—Organized search for two 14-year-old boys, missing since last Monday, was underway today. Fear is expressed they were drowned.

The boys, Neil Stinson and Theodore Rose, Fort Frances, left for Grassy Narrows, 18 miles south of here last Monday. Searchers found a couple of paddles believed to have been part of their outfit on the lake shore. Their boat was a frail homemade affair. They carried no blankets and had provisions for only one day.

Body Found In Ditch

Forty-eight hours after it had been stolen from a cemetery at Streetsville, Ont., the body of Hayden Pope, 20-year-old son of the local blacksmith, was found crumpled in a ditch five miles north of the cemetery. The discovery has been termed "a strange coincidence" by authorities. The children who discovered the body, Bernice South, 10; Margaret MacDonald, 19; Florence Moffatt, 9; Shirley South, 9, and Jimmy Moffatt, 6, are shown pointing to the shallow ditch, while at the LEFT a newspaper reporter examines the concrete vault.

REVENUE FIGURES REPORTED HIGHER IN ALL DIVISIONS

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—(CP).—Taxation and export figures released here to-day by the National Revenue Department showed increases all along the line. Revenue was higher and trade on the increase for the six-month period ended Sept. 30.

Total collections from customs and excise in the six months were $159,872,478, an increase of $31,394,092.

The income tax netted $95,462,320, an increase of $15,802,749.

Canadian exports totalled $567,272,780, compared with $465,777,313 last year. The figures indicated exports would exceed the billion-dollar mark by the end of March, the 12th month of the fiscal year.

In the six-month period, customs duties totalled $47,495,845; excise taxes, $84,471,961; excise duties, $27,513,617. The net increase for the taxes was $31,394,092.

Newsprint has superseded wheat as Canada's number one export. Last year, in the six-months' period, wheat stood first with a value of $109,766,902 and newsprint second with $52,069,099. This year, newsprint increased to $64,563,413 while wheat slipped to $59,879,803.

Reflecting armament races in various parts of the world, exports of copper and nickel increased this year, copper standing third on the list at $29,963,016 and nickel fourth at $29,363,918.

Canada's fifth export was planks and boards at $24,980,442. The sixth was meats at $21,381,456, seventh, wood pulp, $21,311,726; eighth automobiles, $15,025,763; ninth fish, $12,715,935 and tenth, wheat flour, $11770,020.

JURORS DISAGREE SO JUDGE ACQUITS

CORNWALL, Ont., Oct. 15 (CP)—Joseph St. Amour, Ottawa, was freed to-day by Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland after a jury acquitted him on a manslaughter charge. The jury disagreed on a criminal negligence charge.

The charges arose out of the deaths of Glenn Summers of Winchester and two other persons at Winchester last April when a truck driven by St. Amour collided with three automobiles in a funeral procession.

When the jury reported last night the judge reserved final disposition of the case until today when he announced he had decided to set St. Amour at liberty. At the same time he said: "If the Crown sees fit to lay a further charge I think it is in the power of the Crown to do so."

Officer Starves To Death In Quebec Cavern.

Note To Sister Gives Details Of Hermit-Soldier's Last Pathetic Two Months

RIMOUSKI, Que., Oct. 15—(CP).—Damp and murky, a rock-cut cave near Bic village holds secret the details of the slow death of a war officer who made the lonely cavern his home. Two sentences set down on a scrap of paper and addressed to his sister in Montreal revealed at a coroner's inquest last night the hermit-soldier's death by hunger and exposure.

The few shakily written words recorded the illness of Captain J. Edouard Goulet of Quebec City as he waited vainly for aid. They were to "Dear sister"—Mrs. Joseph Pannetton of Montreal. Beginning, the letter told of a hunting expedition in the nearby woods, then switched to:

"I am so ill and I can't go out for help or food. I have given a little money to two young boys who passed by here to get me some food, but they failed to return and I haven't seen them since."

Finally scribbling on the back of the sealed envelope "To those who may find my body," Goulet regretted that he had not had the ministrations of a priest before he died.

Villagers saw Goulet apparently asleep in the cave Sunday and passed by. His body was found yesterday by a man named Beaulieu. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of "found dead from hunger."

Goulet rarely was seen by Bic residents during the two months he lived in the cave a mile away. His wasted body told of days of hunger, but in the pockets of his trousers was money that would have bought food and medicine.

Canadian Whisky Popular In U.S.

Ottawa, Oct. 15 (CP)

INCREASE of more than 500,000 gallons in the export of Canadian whiskey to the United States during the first nine months of the current calendar year was indicated in figures issued by Revenue Minister J. L. Ilsley here today. Exports up to the end of September totalled 3,460,910 gallons, compared with 2,907,153 gallons for the same period a year ago.

BURGLAR ESCAPES

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 15 (CP).—A quick-thinking burglar escaped today through the use of a sweater he had obtained from a wool shop. Sergeant John Watson, alone in the patrol car, chased the man but lost him in the dash.

The officer noted a man who aroused his suspicions. He pulled up the car, opened the door and was about to question the man when the latter reached under his overcoat, pulled out a sweater and flung it in Sergeant Watson's face.

Easy on Homework Teachers Warned

TORONTO, Oct. 15 (CP) — Teachers in Toronto schools were warned by Dr. Gordon H. Jackson, Medical Health Officer, today not to strain their pupils with homework this month.

"For the remainder of this month pupils should not be urged to apply themselves to lessons or homework to the point of fatigue," he said, "since fatigue is a contributing factor is contracting illness."

Toronto schools opened last Tuesday after repeated postponements because of the infantile paralysis epidemic.

Two British Officers Shot In Ambush Near Bethlehem

Trains Dynamited, Fired On; 'Phone Lines Cut; New Outbreak Likely To Bring Martial Law

JERUSALEM, Oct. 15—(AP)—Two British constables were shot to death today in a skirmish with a large band of armed Arabs near Bethlehem.

Before dawn authorities learned of the concentration of a body of men on the main road to Bethlehem near Solomon's pool and sent four carloads of police to the scene.

The officers were equipped with Lewis guns and searchlights. Rifle fire from both sides of the ancient highway greeted them.

The Arabs lay behind protecting boulders on the hillsides and the police were exposed to their cross-fire under the moonlight. The band, however, took flight after the first exchange.

British soldiers deployed throughout terrorized Palestine today to halt new and widespread outbreaks of guerilla warfare and introduction of martial law was considered likely.

The terrorists, apparently carefully organized, struck last night with dynamite, bullets and bombs. They dynamited a passenger train, fired on a troop train, sniped at buses and slashed telephone lines.

Police said the outbreak was led by Arabs and directed at Jews and the British authorities in retaliation for the expulsion of Arab leaders.

Four Arabs were killed and 12 Jews wounded despite the fact that the attacks were apparently directed against Jews.

Two of the Arabs attacking the passenger train were killed by the exploding mine and another Arab was killed by his own bomb. Snipers shot and killed the fourth, a passenger on a Jewish bus.

Two Weeks of Quiet.

The country had been quiet for two weeks following the exiling of members of the Arab Higher Committee. Apparently, however, the Terrorists were only biding their time to strike throughout the Holy Land when the signal was given. The signal seemed to come when the Government yesterday announced banishment of the remaining Higher Council members.

The guerrilla tactics of the Arabs who remain in small groups ambushing roads and sabotaging communications, made the authorities' task most difficult.

Much of the Arab population, with its leaders out of the way, was believed to be weary of the strife, however, and impressed by the Government's determined firmness.

The Jewish population, although panicky, was confident the Government would act vigorously and nip the outbreak at the start. The streets were deserted last night because of the imposition of a curfew.

TEACHERS ADVISED DROP OLD SYSTEMS PUT HEALTH FIRST

WHITBY, Ont., Oct. 15 (C.P.).—A break with traditional methods of education, whereby the student was at the mercy of a relentless timetable filled with subjects that barely stirred the imagination was advocated by Thornton Mustard of the Ontario Department of Education. He addressed more than 200 teachers and principals of Public Schools.

Health came first in the school curriculum of to-day, said the speaker. "The whole school systems were closed rather than jeopardise the health of pupils recently," said Mr. Mustard.

In the new education the speaker stated that health, English, social studies, natural studies, music, art, and dancing were of primary importance, arithmetic beyond the simplest calculations were of little use to the pupil when he became an adult.

"The day of regulation as far as school teachers are concerned is over. It is now suggestions," said the speaker, adding that the Department was "determined that the program of studies should never become static. We are not preparing young children to live after they leave school, but while in school. Teachers are there to guide and direct, not to drive information into heads...

Education was created for children, not children for education, he held.

Propaganda Tour For Windsor?

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—(AP).—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., globe trotting writer, said here yesterday the Duke of Windsor has signed up as a representative of a commercial firm and in that capacity will start a world tour shortly after Christmas.

"His work naturally will be of a propaganda nature and is in keeping with his plans for world peace," said Vanderbilt, now visiting in Southern California.

"The Duke holds to the theory that undernourishment and ill-housing conditions are the cause of most internal strife. 'Wherever you find nearly intolerable living conditions you will find internal strife,' he once said to me."

WOLVES KILLING LONSDALE STOCK

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 15.—Small packs of wolves that roam the district in the immediate vicinity of Lonsdale have been reported active during the past few weeks. The animals, which are reported to be of the grey wolf type, have been known to attack flocks of sheep and small calves, killing a few within the past week. Over the weekend, Mr. D. J. McHenry, Lonsdale, collected his third wolf bounty within the past year for destroying a wolf.

Joseph Doyle and John Brennan, Third Concession of Tyendinaga farmers, both report the loss of small sheep and yearling calves, the result of night attacks upon their herds by wolves. William Callaghan, another Tyendinaga farmer, reported he saw a large pack of at least ten wolves devouring the carcass of a dead cow, in what is generally referred to as the Lonsdale Woods, last week.

Ordinarily, the packs of wolves

Bigamists 2 Wives Plead Leniency

Hull Que., Oct. 15 (CP)

THOMAS H. Fearnley, 35, of Toronto, was sentenced today in Magistrate's Court to six months in jail for bigamy after both his "wives" pleaded for leniency on the grounds he was "kindly and lovable."

Fearnley went through a form of marriage with Miss Violet Hoag of Ottawa, despite the fact he had a wife and children living at Islington, Ont. Both women pleaded for leniency in letters addressed to the Court.

Fifteen End Up In Jail And Two In Hospital—But It Was All In Fun

HALIFAX, Oct. 15 (C.P.). — Residents of Halifax looked reminiscently out over the harbor at the mothership New Sevilla and her brood of seven whalers to-day, and admitted they had underestimated the robustness of whaling crews. A city that had thought it knew all about the ways of seafaring men decided it was wrong.

Not that the 300 whalers who came ashore last night were really bad; it was just that they simply had to celebrate pay night and their first excursion ashore after more than four months of ship-life in Arctic waters.

Fifteen of the 300 ended up in jail—and most Halifax folk were of the opinion the police had been amazingly good-natured at that. Two whalers were in hospital to-day and that also wasn't such a bad record.

Of course, it was all in fun. Even when two whalers tangled in a second-storey cafe and crashed through a window to the street 20 feet below, it was still in fun. One went to hospital, the other disappeared in a gathering crowd.

One invader was found clinging somewhat dazedly to the piling of a wharf after he had taken an impromptu ducking because he hadn't stopped when the wharf did; another leaned against—and through—a plate-glass window on Halifax's main thoroughfare.

Gallows Ordered For Officer Who Shot His Prisoner

Thought Victim Had Cruel Face—Used Gun When He Refused To Confess

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 15.—(CP Cable).—Constable Fonseca Edwards of Jamaica's rural police was in jail to-day awaiting hanging for the murder of 20-year-old Melbourne Coke after one of the most dramatic trials in the history of this British West Indies Island ended yesterday with his conviction.

Edwards had arrested Coke, the prosecution charged, and instead of taking him to a police station, took him to his apartment. There, the constable shot him when he refused to admit he was a thief.

Coke was detained, the Crown said, without grounds for suspicion, but merely because Edwards claimed his looks were against him and because, the constable said, he had a "cruel face." The officer insisted Coke was a thief, but the latter protested he was only a traveller in search of work.

Other evidence against Edwards was to the effect he had beaten apartment. Once in the constable's room, Coke was ordered to kneel and pray and confess to stealing. As Coke prayed, Edwards fired two shots over his head and then, when he still refused to confess, shot him in the neck.

Then, the Crown claims, Edwards placed a knife beside Coke and told other officers he had fired in self-defense. The youth lived several hours after being shot.

Science Explains Bathtub Solos

London, Oct. 15 (CP)

SCIENCE has explained away man's superiority over woman as a bathroom singer. Sir James Jeans goes into the subject in his new book "Science and Music."

A room of small dimensions like a bathroom, he says, will make any note below middle C "go on echoing round, and a bass or tenor voice will resound in all its richness, since its harmonies are only filtered out to a slight degree. But this is not true of a soprano. Hence the peculiarly male pleasure of singing in the bathroom."

Reserve List Of 750 Ontario Nurses Signing Up For War Or Disaster

Toronto, Oct. 15 (CP)

A RESERVE register of 750 Ontario nurses able and willing to serve in war or disasters is being enlisted, Miss Edna Moore, of the Ontario Department of Health last night told the alumnae of Toronto General Hospital.

A list of nurses available in such emergency had been maintained for some time but the quota of 750 set by a committee of the Nurses Association and the Red Cross Society was far from reached, she said. Regulations had been drafted by both bodies and approved by the Department of National Defence.

When a nurse enrolled, she was not compelled to serve, Miss Moore explained, and she would not be conscripted in case of war though she would be expected to respond if at all possible.

Premonition Of Lawrence's Death Felt By Lady Tweedsmuir

Morrisburg, Ont., Oct 15 (CP)

LORD Tweedsmuir last night told the Morrisburg Canadian Club he had known "only one man of genius as a soldier," Lawrence of Arabia.

The Governor General declared Lawrence, a personal friend whom he had known from undergraduate days, had invented a new plan of war, that of hitting the nerve centre of the enemy, a system that would be used should, "God forbid," another war occur.

The Governor General said Lady Tweedsmuir had a strange premonition of Lawrence's death. The eccentric "Aircraftsman Shaw" had visited their home one night. After he left Lady Tweedsmuir said: "He is looking at the world as the Lord would look at it, with charity and understanding. Any man who does that cannot live long in this world."

Within two weeks Lawrence was dead.

CHINESE FLING JAP LINES BACK, HONGKEW AREA

Reach Within Block Of Japanese Consulate

SHANGHAI, Oct. 15 (AP).—Fighting progressed today in the Chapei and Hongkew sectors, where Chinese were making a counter thrust to stave off the long expected Japanese attack along the 26-mile front northwest of Shanghai.

Three Japanese civilians were killed and three wounded, a Japanese spokesman announced, during Chinese shelling of Hongkew, the Japanese-occupied sector of the international settlement. One of the dead was Tomokato Iwakura, correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Hochi, and younger brother of Prince Iwakura.

One shell struck the famous Astor House Hotel, now occupied by Japanese refugees, and another hit the Seventh Day Advent Hospital on Range Road, the spokesman said. There were no injuries and but minor damage to the two important structures.

Chinese artillery and infantry attacks were carried out against Japanese positions on the Chapei front, a Chinese spokesman said, to determine the actual strength of Japanese troops manning that sector.

Almost Reach Consulate

After two hours of fighting through the streets of Hongkew, Chinese obtained the required information. As a result, the spokesman said, Chinese forces were confident of holding the sector.

A tour of the battle area showed Japanese barricades badly manned while Chinese possessed scores of alleyways and lanes formerly held by Japanese.

Chinese raids which extended to within a block of the Japanese consulate threw Japanese civilians in

Barn Is Destroyed Smith Township

BRIDGENORTH, Oct. 15. — The barn on the farm of Will Mann, about one mile north of here on the Bridgenorth-Lakefield road, was destroyed by fire this morning shortly before seven o'clock. Mr. Mann had earlier completed his chores and had gone to a neighbors to attend a threshing when, in looking across the fields towards his own farm, he saw that his barn was on fire.

In a very short time the entire building which was 60 feet by 100 feet was completely destroyed along with the seasons entire crop.

The Mann barn is the second one to burn in this district within the past three days, as the barn on the farm of James Harrington in Ennismore was burned on Wednesday.

A barn on the same site was destroyed by fire 20 years ago. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Contestants are permitted to shape their first two furrows by hand; after that skill must decide the issue. One of the few women competitors was 20-year-old Miss Maisie Nicklin, or Arris, Ont., shown in action during the tractor competition.

GHOUL'S CAPTURE PREDICTED SOON, BODY IS REBURIED

STREETSVILLE, Ont., Oct. 15.—(CP).—An early "break" was expected by provincial police to-day as investigation continues into the circumstances surrounding the stealing of the body of Haydon Pope from its day-old grave and the subsequent finding of the corpse in a ditch seven miles from Streetsville.

An arrest to-day or to-morrow was predicted by police who indicated they were probing the movements of a resident of this county village 20 miles south-west of Toronto on the night the body was believed stolen, last Monday. Pope, 20, died last Thursday and was buried Sunday. The desecrated grave was discovered Tuesday.

Pope's 55-pound body—the young man had wasted away during his fatal illness—was found by children in a roadside ditch Wednesday. It was buried for a second time yesterday, in a self-sealing concrete and asphalt casket. A large crowd watched the casket being lowered into the grave without ceremony.

Under police study was a scrawled note left in the casket after the grave robbery. It demanded $100 for return of the body. The possibility the paper on which the note was written came from Brampton telegraph office was being investigated.

Lending interest to the gruesome case was a crudely-drawn note and map, describing the spot where the body could be found was turned over to police by a Toronto news paper. The note was dropped into the paper's letter box before the bodys recovery was made public and declared it was dumped in the ditch "as no good for ransom."

TEXTILE PROBE OPENS IN QUEBEC

QUEBEC, Oct. 15 (C.P.)—The Fair Wage Board set up by the Provincial Government opened an investigation on Thursday into wages in the Province's textile industry, which was crippled for nearly four weeks last summer by a strike of 10,000 workers from six mills.

The strike was settled by promise of Premier Maurice Duplessis to have the Fair Wage Board study wages and recommend wage scales which would then be put into effect throughout the Province.

Striking textile workers were assured when they returned to their jobs that any new wage scales set following the inquiry would be made retroactive to the date they returned to the mills.

First phase of the Board's sitting yesterday was a discussion with textile company representatives and workers' delegates of hte general principles involved. Sitting with Judge Roy on the Board were C. H. Chesaley, George Cromp, and Omer Langlois, all of Montreal, and Thomas Aubrey, Three Rivers.

HOG PRICES DROP, CATTLE HOLD OWN IN WEEKLY SALES

TORONTO, Oct. 15 (C.P.). — Except for a drop of 25 cents on butcher cows and a 50-cent decline on fed calves, cattle prices held steady on the Toronto live stock market this week, Dominion Live Stock Branch reported. Hogs eased 50 cents and lost 25 to 50 cents, but calves weer firmer and sheep held steady.

The cattle run was lighter than in the preceding week, but holdover of 1,000 head was about the same. Receipts include 3,000 head from the West. Packers were in the market for choice weighty steers, paying $8 to $9.60 cwt, with tops touching $10. Common to medium butche: cattle moved slowly at $3.50 to $5.50 with top steers and heifers between $6 and $6.50.

Best fed calves were $11, mediums ranging down to $7.50. Butcher cows sold at $2.75 to $4.25, and light Western cows at $4.50. Canners and cutters were steady at $2 to $2.50. Light butcher bulls brought $4.25, while bolognas and heavies ranged $2.25 to $3.75.

Stocker trade was fairly active, but several hundred undesirable kinds were unsold. Good feeders traded at $5.25 to $6.15, and ordinary store cattle from $3.50 to $5.00 cwt. Tested top milkers and springers brought $65 to $70.

Many Westerners.

Calves advanced 50 cents cwt. under improved export inquiry. Choice vealers sold at $9.50 to $10, with a few top up to $10.50. Heavy Western calves were plentiful, selling from $7.50 for fats down to $4 for stockers. A few grass calves went at $4.00 cwt.

Off-truck bacon hogs closed at $9, with packers talking still lower prices. Sows were quoted at $5 to $6.50 cwt.

Sheep and lamb receipts included 830 from the West. Good and wether lambs weer priced at $8 off cars and $7.75 off truck. Bucks sold at $1 cwt. discount, and culls at $6 to $6.50. Some Western feeding lambs, averaging 65 pounds, brought $7 cwt. and Western breeding ewes went at $5 to $7 each. Market sheep ranged from $1.50 to $4.50 cwt.

DR. JOHN COBURN SPECIAL PREACHER FOR ANNIVERSARY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 16. — "The Church of the living God" was Dr. John Coburn's topic, when he addressed the congregation of Lakefield United church on the occasion of their Anniversary services which were held on Sunday.

At the eleven o'clock service Dr. Coburn, of Toronto, told a large audience that Christ is the head of the church while members of that organization represent different members of a body. Just as hands and feet, etc., are necessary to a healthy body, so each member has a definite part to play in the life of the church. Injury done to one member injures the whole body, and the most vital members—those upon which the life of the body depends—are not visible.

In the evening, Dr. Coburn addressed a second large audience, his topic this time being "Canada for Christ." He outlined political, social and economic reforms which he believes will have to come before Canada will be truly Christian; and stressed particularly his opposition to small villages having a large number of churches while whole communities out west have no church of any denomination. "You who have always lived where there is a church can have no conception of the lack that is felt in a community where there is no church and no religious service of any kind."

During both services the choir rendered delightful music suitable to the Thanksgiving season. An abundance of Autumn flowers decorated the church.

Anniversary Dinner

On Monday evening, the Women's Association served a delicious hot dinner from 5 to 8 in the Sunday School room.

At 8 p.m. the choir, assisted by local and outside talent, presented a musical program of high quality. Rev. G. F. Kelly, pastor of the church, acted as chairman, and after delivering the chairman's address called upon the following numbers: Piano duet, Helen Kelly and Lois Yale; reading, Lillian Calberry; Solo, Mueretta Hull; violin solo, Nancy Sprigg; solo, George Coleman; reading, Mrs. T. W. Chaplin; duet, Mrs. J. R. Hull and Mr. G. F. Kelly; address, Rev. Creighton; solo, Mrs. MacMillan; male quartette, Messrs. Ed. Hill, Alf. Higgins, W. W. Yale, and C. Bullock; solo, Mr. Coleman (a request number, "The Road to Mandalay); solo, Mrs. Wm. Millage; God Save the King.

The numbers were well received by the audience, the artists responding to encores in many cases.

Proceeds from the entertainment were gratifying.

HIT WALKING HIGHWAY

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 11 (CP).—Struck by a car while walking along the highway east of here last night, Robert Hanna, 25, Regina, was treated at hospital for cuts and bruises about the shoulders, arms and legs.

Hanna was struck by a car driven by H. R. McGregor, Toronto, who said he was blined by headlights of another car.

Building construction and employment in Belgium are decreasing.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Strength in outside markets and good export business in North American wheat with United States varieties predominating accounted for firmness in wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Values closed 2⅛ to 2¼ cents higher with October at $1.24⅛, November, $1.23¼, December, $1.19⅛, and May $1.18⅛.

Trade was active early in the session but operations thinned in the last half when prices reacted from the top levels of 2⅜ to 2¼ cents advanced with weakness in stock markets exerting an influence. Export business in Canadian wheat was not more than 250,000 bushels.

It was estimated about 1,000,000 bushels of United States hard winter were worked overnight, giving strength to Chicago. Liverpool closed 1⅝d to 1½d higher and Buenos Aires at noon was ¾ to ⅞c higher.

Had Monster Tape Worm

Harry Manning was 8 years old when this photo was taken. Harry was over 12 lbs. underweight. A tape worm measuring over 9½ ft long was expelled from his system after using Mulvaney's Tape Worm Remedy writes Mrs. Fred Manning of Kitchener, Ont. Only a few weeks ago little Harry was brought to our office by his mother on the advice of a city father. The little fellow was thin and pale and nervous. Malnutrition and profound anemia are among the many symptoms indicating worm trouble. That weary, half-sick feeling may be the sign that you have worms. Other worms are just as bad. Read about them.

OTHER TYPES OF WORMS.

People will also have round worms, whip worms, awl tail grubs, spike worms, pin worms, thread worms and even lizards. Only too often children as well as adults are given soda, magnesia, cod liver oils, salts, pain pills, laxatives, pile remedies, bed-wetting, remedies, etc., when their true need is a worm remedy. Mulvaney's "MOTHER'S FRIEND", this remedy expels these different types of worms, it is also a laxative and it is very soothing for the nerves, cools fevers and tones the entire system. That means that it is bound to do good in many ways, even if worms are not your trouble. Every one should take a worm remedy just as a precaution. It is impossible to prevent worms, as the invisible eggs gain access to the intestines through leafy vegetables, fruits, meats, fish and impure drinking water. Flies also carry these tiny eggs. They are also an pets. Don't wait for the more serious symptoms. Make sure that worms are not your trouble. Go to your family druggist and purchase a bottle of Mulvaney's "MOTHER'S FRIEND." Take according to directions and if you have worm trouble you will see them as they pass out into the exterior. Mother's Friend is available at over 1,000 Ontario druggists. Don't ask for an ordinary worm medicine. Get the best! Insist upon Mulvaney's Mother's Friend, the remedy made by the famous tape-worm specialists.

FAIRMOUNT W.M.S. PLAN FOR RALLY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FAIRMOUNT, Oct. 15.—The regular meeting of the Fairmount W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Sanderson on October 6, at 2.30 p.m. with fourteen members and three visitors present.

The meeting was opened with the hymn, "What a Friend we have in Jesus." Mrs. R. M. Hoolon lead in prayer and Mrs. R. F. McIndoo read a Thanksgiving Scripture lesson from Psalms. The roll call was answered with a verse on Thanksgiving and the minutes read.

Mrs. B. C. Hanbidge read a letter of appreciation from Miss Helen Moore, also a letter from the Bonneville Hospital acknowledging the donation which had been sent by Fairmount for the upkeep of a cot and also that the tablet had been placed.

It was decided to have a thankoffering service the second Sunday in November and the guest speaker to be Rev. Mr. Coon of Peterborough, if available. Mrs. R. F. McIndoo, Mrs. H. M. McBain, and Mrs. H. Ball will be a committee to look after lunch for the Sectional Rally, October 20.

Mrs. R. K. Earle gave an introduction of the New Study Book, "A new Church faces a New World". Miss E. McIndoo read an article, "The Story of Thanksgiving." Mrs. R. K. Earle rendered a lovely solo, "Have you have been in the garden with Jesus," and Mrs. H. Bain gave a Thanksgiving poem.

The meeting was closed by singing "I love to tell the Story.". Lunch was then served, the hostess for the occasion being Mrs. R. N. McIndoo and Mrs. R. K. Earle.

Radio Crooner And His Bride

Romantic rumors from California links the names of Gloria Youngblood, screen actress, and Crooner Rudy Vallee, and hint at wedding bells in the background. The celebrated crooner and orchestra leader denies the romance, claiming that Miss Youngblood is a charming person and a very good friend—but nothing more. However, here is Rudy visiting Gloria on the set of her latest picure.

REV. C. D. DANIEL GUEST SPEAKER

ASTURIAN LEADERS FLEE INTO FRANCE

LORIENT, France, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Governor of the Spanish province of Asturias was among a shipload of refugees which arrived here to-day. The refugees had fled from the Insurgent Army advancing on Gijon, Asturian port on the Bay of Biscay.

The Governor's flight was interpreted in political circles meaning the Valencia forces had abandoned all hope of saving the last territory of the Republican Government in North-west Spain.

These circles felt the surrender of Gijon might be imminent.

Also among the 50 passengers who embarked at Avilles, near Gijon, were the president of the Asturian Court of Appeals and other men prominent in the government administration of Asturias.

Why Not Do It?

Just why those who are in places of authority at Toronto should take the ground that the 1938 auto markers have to remain as they are is hard to fathom. One might come to the conclusion that it would be considered a sign of weakness to openly admit that the job had been botched and then apply the remedy by supplying new markers which would have in them the maximum amount of visibility.

A yellow or light orange background with plain well-rounded figures and letters in black is what the province needs in the way of markers. Those whose business it is to study the extent of visibility in contrasting colors will agree on that combination.

The plant for making them is all in existence, and it is prison labor which does the work. We are certain the government would do a welcome day's work if it would candidly admit it had made a mistake in design and was willing to remedy the defect at once.

We Hope He Remains

One unofficial report from Toronto says it is possible that Col., the Hon. Herbert A. Bruce, R.A.M.C., M.D., F.R.C.S., would remain as Lieutenant-Governor of the province if his term were extended by the Federal Government, and in that event the Hepburn Government would not make effective its previous threat to cut off all apppropriations for the upkeep of Government House. If there is a degree of fact in the story it means Dr. Bruce may remain just where he is.

We hope it works out that way. There are not many men who want the position because it is too expensive. There are few people fitted for the post by tradition or background, and Dr. Bruce has succeeded in bringing the position of Lieutenant-Governor out to the point where it touched and reached the lives of a good many people. When the Examiner was officially opened in September of 1936 the Lieutenant-Governor was present as master of ceremonies, and never did any institution or community have a more delightful or interesting guest for a day. He was interested in everything and in every person he met and he has been doing the same thing pretty much all over the province. The Examiner knows it is expressing a wide-felt wish when it says it hopes Dr. Bruce will remain where he is.

Of Low Mentality

A few days ago there was a funeral at Streetsville for the interment of the remains of Hayden Pope, who died in his twentieth year. A day or so after it was discovered that the body had been removed from the grave, and a note demanding $100 payment for its return was left in its place. The ransom was not paid as the relatives are poor enough folk and there were no instructions telling to whom to pay the money. More recently children coming from school found the body in a ditch. It had probably been placed there because it was considered too dangerous to try and collect the ransom money.

Toronto announces there will be no reward offered by the provincial government for the arrest of the ghoul who so callously invaded what we consider as sacred and private preserves, and the decision is probably wise enough. It is doubtful if the offering of money would increase the efforts which police will apply to such a case. The guilty party does not give evidence of having possessed any particular cunning if he were looking for monetary gain. His methods and field of operation both point to low mentality and extreme stupidity and these characteristics make his capture more certain.

We sincerely hope such a person will be taken into custody, and we have no hesitation in expressing the hope that the liberty of the guilty individual will then be permanently curtailed. Such an individual should not be allowed any degree of freedom to come and go and do what he likes. He has shown no hesitation in doing what the world regards as an unthinkable thing and future actions would have behind them no better reasoning than that which led to the invasion of a grave and the dumping of a body in a ditch. The owner of a mind capable of planning such actions should not be running at large.

It Is Important Now

There was a time when the Labor Department of the Ontario Government was not regarded seriously because there was not sufficient for it to do. It attended to enforcing regulations; it had inspectors going about the country looking at safety devices in shops and factories and so on, but there was not much in it which seemed to stamp it as ranking among the most important work of a provincial government. The provincial treasurer came more into the public gaze, so did the Attorney-General or the Minister of Education.

But there has been a change and the naming of Morrison M. McBride of Brantford to the post of Minister of Labor means he has an appointment which is going to be well toward the front in public thought. The change has been more rapid than gradual, and the speed with which strikes are called today has put the Labor Department on the well-known spot. It is expected to act and act at once. It is supposed to step in and take care of the fine old negotiations and understandings which used to take place between an employer and those whom he had engaged. The new school of labor organization which has as part of its technique the strike-at-once has made it necessary to bring the Department of Labor to a negotiate-at-once basis.

Communities where strikes have been prolonged have found they do injury not only to the firm involved and the strikers but to a good many others in the same area. All these things combined have given to the Minister of Labor a standing he did not used to have in this province. Mr. McBride is facing into a big undertaking, and he has lived long enough and had to do for himself long enough to know what the problem of existence is all about. Of energy he always had what seemed to be more than his share; he is pugnacious enough and possessed of sufficient vocabulary to remain on any platform until the meeting has been declared closed in an orderly way. Beside that he has a sense of fairness and justice. We hope he brings all these things along to his new office and puts them to work. He has not been called to fill any secondary post in the cabinet.

He Was A Useful Citizen

A coroner's jury has found that A. B. Cunningham died at Nicholls Hospital from pneumonia which developed after Mr. Cunningham was struck and seriously injured by a motor car. It appears that the fatal illness was closely related to the accident itself.

It seems more than usually regrettable that so useful a man as A. B. Cunningham would have to go out that way. There were quite a number of things which we dare say he would have liked to attended to once again. Had there been another campaign to abolish drinking places or do away with even the habit of drinking we are sure Mr. Cunningham would have been in the fight; had there been more letters to the press on the subject Mr. Cunningham would be the man who would desire to have written them. Had it been necessary to find or arrange another series of relief garden plots Mr. Cunningham would have done that. So it is that when one reads of such a life coming to a close and being followed by inquest, autopsy reports and witnesses telling what they knew of the tragic circumstances it forms one of those pictures which is hard to interpret and more difficult to clearly understand.

It may not be generally known that A. B. Cunningham gave so much of his time, energy and undoubted talent for management to the relief gardens. Early in the season he found where many of the plots were; later on he laid them out, and attended to the supplying of seeds or plants. One could almost tell the day of the year by the regularity with which Mr. Cunningham would call this office and request a supply of old newspapers to provide temporary shade for the new cabbage plants when first set out. And it was A. B. Cunningham who last season caused potatoes to grow where the average gardener would have said they never could grow. He had one piece of land which could not be plowed; there was part of a old road through it, and there were stones. Also the place was badly grown with twitch grass. Mr. Cunningham never had that land plowed. He merely had the twitch grass cut and stacked at one side for a day or so. Then the potato seedlings were laid in rows on top of the ground and the twitch grass was placed back for a covering. As it settled it held the small amount of rain which fell. The potato tops finally came through and there was never a hoe used on that plot. In the fall the old grass was removed and there were the full-grown potatoes. And he was doing that kind of work merely because he wanted to help. So that is what makes it more difficult to understand just why the death of such a useful man had to come under such tragic circumstances.

We'd Like To Help

The town of Preston has been getting its name in print a good many times this season on account of strikes, and the latest addition to the list makes five different plants to have been strike-bound. As a rule question of wages, working conditions, hours, union recognition and such have been the issues, but on occasion number five the employees of the Preston Woodworking Machinery Company quit work because they said the plant was too cold. Officials of the firm said the trouble was due to leaking gaskets on the reconditioned boilers, and the trouble would be attended to immediately. Then there is the bare possibility that if they get the gaskets all plugged up tight and a good head of steam on the place may get so hot that another strike will be called because there is too much heat.

If poor heating equipment is just cause for a strike being declared then we consider it a good thing that the people who worked in the village printing office we knew so well years ago never heard of such a thing. It was a rather big kind of building and with high ceilings. We always had a suspicion that a great deal of the heat created by the box stove went up toward the roof and just stayed there. And of course as no person was working up there that heat did no good.

When it came on toward cold weather in late fall and winter that box stove had to be stirred into action at 6.30 in the morning, and then it was we always felt sorry for the children of Israel who had to make bricks without straw, for they must have been doing something akin to lighting that box stove with the kind of wood subscribers used to drag in to pay for their paper. Judged by the sort of wood they lugged in we always took it to mean they didn't think much of the paper. It was soggy stuff, it had great knots in many of the sticks, the few pieces of buttonwood were cross-grained and none of it would split. That is why it was necessary to go around back of the grocery stores and find a packing case and to know for sure which property nearby with a fence was owned by some person living out of town who would not be on hand to complain about another board being taken away. It was a mean way to start a day's work.

We do not suppose the people in Preston are trying to heat their plant with that kind of wood. We hope there is no more of its kind being brought in today. As the scientific gentlemen judge such material it would be found to contain few British thermal units; never did it burn with any degree of enthusiasm; at sizzling and smoking and languishing it did a great deal in turn; it would burn if there were something else tossed in the stove which felt more like burning.

The boss in Preston may have been like the one who owned the village print shop. When he found the place cold he made inquiries which were actually complaints. When informed that the trouble was with the quality of the wood he would walk to the back shed and make a sweeping motion with the hand and announce there was plenty of wood there. And that part of the statement was correct. Enough wood piled there to turn back a number of wild Indians, but it had been placed there not on a quality basis but rather to wipe out a debt. If the people who brought it in had burned it in their own stoves they would probably have caught colds and been rubbed with turpentine and goose grease. We know very little about heating plants with gaskets on them, and possibly could help the Preston people very little. If they were heating the place with a box stove we'd be glad enough to go there and try and settle the trouble.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Stratford policeman says he walks twenty miles a night. You'd imagine he would get dizzy walking all the way round the place so many times.

Somehow we do not believe that Hon. Gordon P. Conant, the new attorney-general will recommend Mayor Alex. Hall, of Oshawa, as his successor in the crown-attorneyship of Ontario county.

Canada's tourist trade this year according to D. Leo Dolan, head of the Travel Bureau, may equal that of the peak year, 1929. There is every reason to expect that the next few years will see that figure completely shattered.

Teachers in Simcoe county were advised by a speaker to cultivate the conversational art. However, with a radio in every home opportunities of using that art are scarcely worth thinking about.

While the Empire Migration Conference in London is discussing the possibility of state-aided immigration to Canada we are deporting Britishers who have failed to make good here. The two things do not seem to fit into each other.

It is claimed that 100,000 people will attend the International plowing match at Fergus this week. That seems to be the official figure for the event every year although we seem to remember that the attendance when the affair was held here fell a good many thousand short of that mark.

GRIEF

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When we get to the zero mark, and when the nights are cold and dark, I run the furnace then; and stoking then is easy stuff, of heat I scarcely make enough, like lots of other men.

¶ It doesn't take much skill on that, it sometimes leaves me rather flat, for it's so much the same; folks don't complain on what I've done, they take the heat most every one, and soak it in their frame.

¶ October firing's harder though, as lots of folk have come to know, one has to be quite smart; there's such a little heat required, one has to be almost inspired, in fact it's quite an art.

¶ I rattle at the furnace now, and try to nurse the hope somehow, that it will last all day; I only need a little heat, for now there are no frozen feet, or frost bites by the way.

¶ My furnace gets so joyful then, as though 'twould warm some Arctic men, cheer folk on frigid shores; and then it is I come to grief, the folks want measures of relief, and open all the doors.

¶ The next day when I start down town, I bank the furnace fire hard down, then all the heat retires; I wish some one would plainly state the proper way to regulate—these darn October fires.

ACCORDING to a story from England the British government ordinance laboratories are supposed to be experimenting with a new explosive known as P4 which is said to be as great an advance over TNT as that explosive was over ordinary cordite powder.

A storm has arisen in England over the decision of the Commissioners for Crowned Lands to charge £1 a year fee per horse for riding in Windsor Great Park. The action may be contested in the High Courts for the people of Windsor fear that the Great Park may eventually be closed against all but a chosen few. At present the Crown rights in Windsor are by no means clear.

Every country nowadays seems to have its embryo Hitler. In South Africa the candidate for dictatorial honors seems to be Dr. D. F. From India we are told that Mahatma Gandhi is residing at a dreary, comfortless cottage, living on goat's milk and a little fruit and fasting regularly one day each week. Gandhi believes that the provincial ministers of the Congress party of which he is not leader but is still the greatest single force, should also lead ascetic lives and so he is leading a campaign for voluntary salary cuts. Deeply shocked at the thought of Indian Nationalists wallowing in luxury at the rate of £1,000 a year the Mahatma has made it known that no Minister should take more than £45 a year.

Gravel To Diamonds.

EXAMINING gravel in hot and steamy Kono, Sierra Leone, J. D. Pollett of the colony's geological and mines department seven years ago picked up a glittering crystal.

Tests proved it to be a diamond. Next day another was discovered and a year later Geologist Pollett was able to report an output for the year of £500,124.

Until the end of the last century India was the most abundant diamond field. They have also been mined since the middle of the 18th century in South Africa now the world's prime producer.

When Pollett discovered diamonds in Sierra Leone the Colonial office and Gold Coast Government put development into the hands of the Consolidated African Selection Trust, Limited which now prospects over an area of 4,170 square miles.

According to his report diamonds ranging from bort, the poorest kind used for industrial purposes to gems worth £5,000 and weighing 144 carats have been found.

Sierra Leone's diamond field is assured of long life. Large reserves of promising alluvial stones have been found and many areas remain to be exploited.

Britain has the cycling craze. At the Bicycle and Motorcycle Show recently held at Earl's Court more than 1,000,000 machines were sold representing an expenditure of $25,000,000.

Scrapping the Leviathan.

THE LEVIATHAN, built in Germany and confiscated by the United States during the war, is to be broken up for scrap. She was the largest vessel ever to sail under the stars and stripes. It is estimated that she will fetch between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 in the present scrap market.

The 54,500-ton vessel was built in 1914 for the Hamburg American line and when launched was the biggest ship afloat. She had made only three round-trips across the Atlantic when war broke out and she was interned in New York.

After the war the United States Shipping Board spent $8,000,000 in renovating the liner for the passenger trade and she was operated under government control until 1929 when the United States lines were acquired by a group of shipping men. She has been rusting at a Hoboken pier for the last three years.

Last winter Thomas Hallet of St. John's heard that pot-heads were plentiful in the waters of Chapple Arm, during the summer and told the fisherman he was sure there would be an American market for pot-head oil if it could be obtained.

C.I.O. Shows Its Hand In Michigan

Real Purpose Is To Make Use of Workers; Enters Field of Politics In an Open Way

Detroit Free Press

THE C. I. O., speaking through its political department which it calls the Non-Partisan League, announces that it is out to make a conquest of Michigan and its cities.

It openly says its purpose is to turn this State into a C. I. O. province for "experimental purposes," in other words for communistic experimentation.

Having secured the minority nomination of Judge O'Brien, the organization is making Detroit its first point of assault.

And there is no reason for doubting the report from Washington that the C. I. O. is preparing to pour into this town in the next few weeks the biggest flood of money ever expended in a political campaign here.

If the Lewis crowd do this, they will only be continuing what they started before the Primary.

However, forewarned should be forearmed.

The people of Michigan and Detroit know what are the C.I.O. plans, and they know what the C. I. O. is. They are familiar with the methods it has used and with the outrageous, lawless excesses of which it has been guilty in Wayne County, in Flint, in Monroe, in Lansing, in Port Huron and in other places throughout the States.

They have seen that the organization has no regard for public or private rights when it considers itself in the saddle.

The voters of Michigan must understand pretty well what will happen to most of them if Mr. Lewis and his crowd ever are permitted to put over a plot to establish a tyranny in this State.

The knowledge should be sufficient incentive to make them stop the C. I. O. short in its tracks.

We add this: The C. I. O. undertakes to make its appeal on the plea that it represents labor. It does nothing of the sort.

The leaders have led many honest, sincere people to join up by making them think it does; and they have collected large sums of money from these people for their own purposes.

But the C. I. O. does not even represent organized labor. The American Federation of Labor, which the C. I. O. aims to destroy, is the genuine, straightforward responsible general union labor organization. Through the years it has stood for good citizenship, American principles and sound, constructive labor efforts, a thing the C. I. O. scarcely pretends to do.

The A.F. of L. represents organized labor. The C. I. O. undertakes to organize labor to use it.

Can't Use Short, Simple Words

Scientist Barred From Writing That Way Much of His Material Too Complicated

(From the Baltimore Sun)

THE PRESIDENT-ELECT of the American Public Health Association recently made a speech in New York in the course of which he appealed to his fellow-scientists to state their findings in simple language and to "leave out the complicated stuff." He said that to many discoveries of practical importance were reported in such "stilted language" that the public never got a chance to hear of them, and that frequently the talk of scientists "obfuscated" understanding of their themes.

Doubtless his advice is good and his request reasonable. "Stilted" language is always bad and simple language is nearly always good. But usually what the public regards as a scientific "complication" of statements is in fact not a complication at all but a simplification by way of compression, and what seems to the layman an obfuscation is in reality the result of an attempt to avoid the exaggerations, ambiguities, inexactitudes and all other pitfalls of common, simple speech.

Scientists, when talking or writing for each other, make use of vocabularies which the layman has never learned. Often scientific discussions are baffling to the average man precisely because the average man is not accustomed to exercising the same care in saying just what he is talking about and no more than that. The more rigorously the scientist constructs his own language, the more perfectly he expresses himself—but not, of course, for the person who has no acquaintance with that language.

This does not mean that scientists should not try to write or speak well; and indeed many of them have done so even within the limits they fix for themselves, and have found their way, along with the novelists and essayists and other men of letters, into the anthologies of fine and beautiful prose. Moreover, in late times many of them have, as their subjects have grown more complex, undertaken to write popular histories and surveys and explanations in terms with which the "plain person" will be familiar. Many of them, too, have achieved considerable success.

But that ought not to obscure the fact that frequently simple language is in truth difficult because misleading, or confused, or inadequate; and that when the scientist avoids it, he does so not because he is careless or because he desires to be remote from popular understanding, but because he chooses to be as clear and exact as it is possible to be.

British Firms Are Being Hard Hit

Have Big Interests in Shanghai Area; Earnings Are Away Down Since War Came

(Sarnia Canadian Observer)

AS USUAL, when war is carried on in a remote part of the world, British business interests stand to lose heavily. That is the case at Shanghai where British firms have large investments in factories, shops, buildings and utilities of various kinds.

For the last two months the attacks on Shanghai have made it virtually impossible to carry on commerce there and so British shipping has fallen off 80 per cent.; traffic of buses operated by a British concern has dropped off 50 per cent., and that of the streetcar company, also British, is down 80 per cent. Hundreds of British subjects usually living and carrying on business in the now devastated Hongkow and Yangtzepoo districts of Shapghai are destitute. Their factories are shut down and that represents the stagnation of a tremendous amount of British capital. While actual physical damage to factories has been only about 2 per cent., the loss of business constitutes the hard blow. On the other hand, owners of real estate have suffered heavy damage for the reason that whole blocks of residences and shops were destroyed by the bombardment.

It is doubtful that losers can collect any indemnity. Foreign residents in an area damaged by war have small chance of redress. In the Shanghai case the Japanese raiders will say that they could not spare the foreign property since that would interfere with their punishment of the Chinese. The latter will assert that they did their best to protect foreign property but were unable to do so.

It appears that those foreigners, mostly British, who had substantial property in the Shanghai area are in hard luck. Many of them are ruined and it is possible that Shanghai will never regain its prestige as a great business centre. So much damage has been done to docks and wharves that it would require tremendous capital to restore them. Business is more likely to move to other undamaged parts where there is also a greater margin of security from the kind of disaster that has befallen Shanghai.

When Paul and Silas Were Put in Jail

Recalled That They Made Much Noise; Thinks Fining Pastor is Mistake and Wrong

Letter in Woodstock Sentinel-Review

EDITOR, Sentinel-Review: Sir,—I was amazed to read in the Toronto Star an account of a Woodstock pastor being fined or the alternative of thirty days in jail for holding a prayer meeting too long and making too much noise. Honored pastor, the Lord make His face to shine upon him, a rarity indeed in these days of apostasy to find a man who is a praying man and who pastors a flock of praying Christians. The apostle Paul and Silas were jailed for preaching and praying too much, in fact the community in which they were preaching was incensed against them for their mode of preaching, and the gospel they preached aroused the enmity of all Christians. But God was glorified and the jail was electrified with the mighty dynamite of God's Word in the Power of the Holy Ghost; then the earthquake and the soul-quake, and the jailer was now saved and glorified and sanctified. Now in these days shall servants of Christ fail to witness, because a few of the world's dupes don't relish the noise of hallelujahs and the amens of earnest, praying people.

When Peter and his fellow-disciples were clapped in jail for making such a disturbance 5,000 men were saved by mighty grace (Acts 4), and this young Woodstock pastor is made of the same stuff. We do are all God's mighty men. Read the lives of John Wesley and George Whitefield, praying men, honored of the living God. They prayed even the enmity of all and long. The magistrates put them in prison, and petitions were signed by the noblemen of the country to keep them in jail. Did it deter these warriors of the Cross? Indeed not. England was lifted out of the darkness, into God's marvellous light. And shall God's evangelists be silenced today? Never. Might as well try to stop Niagara from its mighty course. May the Lord awaken Woodstock out of slumber. "Time is short." The coming of the Lord draweth nigh; let all evangelical ministers send out a call to prayer. For the night cometh when no man can work.

I would suggest that all good Christians in your town pray for the salvation of this magistrate. For if God's spirit gets hold of him he too will be praying and praising God, even till morning's early hours.

POPULAR

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Kindly grant me a small space in your paper to correct an impression which could quite easily be gathered by your last item in "Note and Comment" in Wednesday's paper. I am quite sure that the Duke of Windsor would only have to show himself in London to get all the "rounds of applause" he could wish for. His exile is purely voluntary—to make things easier for his successor, King George VI and for the British Government, and he has every right to travel anywhere that any other British subject may travel. Many of us Englishmen fully appreciate the underlying meaning in his act of self-exile. We are deprived of the chance of showing "unitedly" how overwhelmingly popular he still is.

WOOD BURNERS.

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal.)

MR. DAVID POTTINGER, who has celebrated his 94th birthday at his home in Montreal, is one of the real pioneers of railroading in the Dominion of Canada. He became a railwayman in 1863, four years before the confederation of the provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario. He entered the service of the Nova Scotia Railway when that line had but 61 miles of track between Halifax and Truro, with a 32-mile spur running to Windsor. New Brunswick, which had been the leader in actual railway construction in the British provinces of North America, at that time had 108 miles of track between Saint John and Shediac—the European and North American—but the two railways were not then connected.

Mr. Pottinger recalls the days when the huge-funnelled locomotives, fired with wood, belched showers of sparks along their route, and were compelled to stop every 20 miles or so to take on new supplies of fuel from piles placed along the right-of-way.

SOME REMARKABLE things have been discovered in connection with a pack of playing cards, and the following—new to me—appears worthy to be added to the number:

Write the names of all the cards—Ace, Two, Three, Four, Five, Six, Seven, Eight, Nine, Ten, Jack, Queen, King—add all the letters together and you will find they total 52, the number of cards in the pack.

Still more remarkable—write the names in French— As, Deux, Trois, Quatre, Cinq, Six, Sept, Huit, Neuf, Dix, Valet, Reine Roi—add all the letters together, and again you will find they total 52, the number of cards in the pack.

376 VOLUNTEERS HAVE BEEN NAMED FOR Y.W. CAMPAIGN

At Wednesday's luncheon of the General Campaign Committee, Mr. Stalford, Campaign Director, reported that out of 400 workers required by the Women's Division for the general house-to-house canvass, 376 had volunteered their services, and that the Men's Division had five teams with thirty workers. These groups, together with those working on the Men's and Women's Special Names, including the members of the various Subsidiary Committees, brought the required grand total of workers to date close to the total of 500.

Mr. Stalford further stated that in all campaigns of this character, the greatest problem was to obtain the required number of workers, and that it augured well for the success of this campaign to have approximately 500 volunteer workers registered.

Mr. Stalford further pointed out that the workers would have to impress upon their prospects that aside from the usual small annual appeal, this was the first time in thirty years that the "Y" had ever made a General Public Appeal, and that such annual appeal should not be confused with the present Campaign, that while one may contribute $10.00 annually to help make up the deficit occasioned by the public services rendered, it meant that should they base their contribution on the amount of the present appeal was twenty times larger, and in comparative figures, would amount to $200, or $100 per year for two years, if the larger objective was to be reached.

Mr. Stalford also reported that Mrs. Wightman of the West Ward had completed the organization of her workers as follows:

Sud-Division 16—Captain: Mrs. H. Wightman. Team: Miss E. Bain, Mrs. T. Barrie, Miss Bell, Miss May Caird, Mrs. B. W. Harvey, Miss M. V. Jory, Miss Florence MacNaughton, Mrs. G. J. Monahan, Mrs. A. W. Turner, Mrs. C. B. Waite.

Charges Witness Changed Story

LINDSAY, Ont., Oct. 15—(CP).—C. G. Frost, defence counsel, charged a witness changed his evidence at the manslaughter trial here of John H. Watson of Toronto. The manslaughter charge arose from the death in an automobile accident June 23 of Roland Bensonward, Toronto.

Defence counsel said evidence of Percy Chase, farmer residing near the scene of the accident contradicted that given by the farmer at Ward's inquest. Mr. Frost declared the farmer yesterday testified Watson's car was the only one on the road at the time of the accident, while at the inquest he said several cars were on the highway.

CADET CORPS DANCE ENJOYABLE EVENT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 15.—The annual Thanksgiving dance, sponsored by the local Cadet Corps and held in the Armouries on Monday evening, proved a successful and colorful affair, with a number of out-of-town guests among those in attendance.

The 'Birthday Dance' was a popular feature, carried out on the elimination scale by coupling, for instance, January and December for those having birthdays in either of these months, final honors going to the girl whose birthday was nearest to October 11; Dorothy Dawson, of Peterborough, was presented with the box of chocolates that formed the prize.

The 'Spot Light' dance was won by Helen Ellsworth and Arnold Hutchinson. Music was furnished by the Serenaders' Orchestra, and lunch was served in cafeteria style, with the Cadets attending to the wants of the guests. Announcement was made that the next event under Cadet auspices will be the usual Hallowe'en Dance with special prizes offered.

Personals

Miss Dorothy Conliffe, of Toronto, spent Thanksgiving in town the guest of Miss Mary Nattress.

Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong, and daughter, Betty, of St. Catharines, were guests of his father, Mr. Arthur Armstrong, and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wood, for the holiday week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nattress, of Toronto, were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham.

Miss M. E. Needham was in Toronto for the Thanksgiving week-end and is judging at the Simcoe Fall Fair this week.

Miss Flora E. Morgan, B.A., principal of the local Continuation School, spent the holiday week-end with friends in Belleville. Mr. Chas. J. Ireton, B.A., also of the Continuation staff, was in Toronto for the week-end, and Miss D. T. Bannister, B.A., at her home in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Bigelow returned home on Tuesday, after spending the Thanksgiving week-end with friends in Buffalo.

Mr. W. R. Howard, B.A., was in Toronto for Thanksgiving, the guest of his mother, Mrs. S. R. Howard.

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Needler, Mr A. A. and Miss Henrietta Needler, motored to Peterborough, and Otonabee for Tuesday, visiting Mr and Mrs. George Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. Ormie Stewart, during the afternoon.

On their recent return from England, Dr. and Mrs. Needler visited with their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Needler, in Prince Edward Island, after landing at Halifax.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewlleyn Cooper and family, and Mr. Lawrence Ingram, of Toronto, were Thanksgiving guests of Mrs. T. C. and Miss Vanita Ingram.

Henry Lancashire, J. W. Thorndyke, Dick Williams, Bill Simpson, and Ray Rowland, all of Toronto, were home with their respective parents, for the Thanksgiving week-end.

Among local young folk from Peterborough who were home for Thanksgiving, and most of whom attended the Cadet Corps dance on Friday evening, were Misses Bryar Edmunds, Mary Burnham, Madeline and Dorothy McDowell, Roberta Bothwell, A. T. Armstrong, Reg. McKnight, and Harold McCamus.

Wilson Ford, student at the O.A.C., Guelph, was home for Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Ford.

Lyle Nattress, and Jim Larmer, of Cobourg, were home for Thanksgiving. Jim is taking Edward Nattress' place while the latter is absent on a two months' tour of England, sent with two other garage superintendents by the Sunoco Company in whose employ they are.

On Thanksgiving Day a pleasant party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armstrong, Eighth Line, Cavan, when they entertained her sisters and sisters-in-law in honor of the visit of Mrs. J. C. Armstrong, of Roosnville, Sask.

Mr. G. B. Walsh, K.C., of Toronto, spent Thanksgiving with his mother, Mrs. C. M. Walsh, and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Campbell.

The Young People's Union held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening, the special feature being the one-act comedy, "Kidnapping Betty", which they are presenting, by request, at the Conference Young People's Union Convention at Belleville this week-end. The cast included: Dan Fielding (Jack Arundel), owner of the Fielding farm; his aunt, Molly (Phyllis Kidd); Betty Meadows, Marjorie McDowell) the new school teacher; her father, Nat Meadows (Earl Edworthy); Sally Perkins (Bea McDowell) the village gossip; Joanna Fielding (Eleanor Bigelow), Dan's snappy little sister; Bud Simpson (Ken Kidd), a lively youngster working for Dan.

Mrs. B. B. Dawson, dramatic convenor, introduced the players and previous to the play Orville Wainman sang Joyce Kilmer's "Trees", with Bill Edworthy as accompanist at the piano.

The local young people will assist with the opening worship service at the Convention, about two car-loads intending to motor to Belleville for the week-end gathering.

St. Andrew's United Church, Millbrook, is holding its anniversary services on Sunday, October 17, with Rev. R. T. Richards of Napanee, as special preacher for the day. The annual fowl supper will be the following Tuesday beginning at 5.30 p.m.

JAPS WANT CHINA TO RESCUE NATION FROM COMMUNISM

TIENTSIN, Oct. 15—(AP).—In an interview to-day, Yosuke Matsuoka, president of the South Manchuria Railway Company, disclosed Japan seeks control of China to prevent it from falling prey to Soviet Russia and Communism.

The Japanese army, he said, intends to occupy Nanking, the Chinese capital. Matsuoka explained Japan's political and economic plans in North China had been delayed pending the clearing up of the Shanghai situation, as a fundamental solution in the north was impossible until the Chinese troops were defeated and Nanking occupied.

Eighty per cent of the Chinese economic and political leadership, he said, is concentrated around Shanghai, while the coastal zone and northern provinces constitute 90 per cent of China.

Prefer 90% to Nothing

"If the 10 per cent. chooses to go Communist, let it," Matsuoka said. "It is better for Japan to hold the 90 per cent. than lose the whole of China and permit the country to go over to the Soviet. The greatest aim of Japan is to save China from Communism and the Kuomintang (the dominant nationalist political party).

The Japanese, he said, were unable to achieve their aims in China by counter-propaganda and were forced, therefore, to employ their strongest weapon, namely, the army.

Matsuoka ridiculed argument Japan was unable to bear the burden of financing China's development in addition to that of Manchoukuo, pointing out that the rebuilding of Tokyo after the earthquake cost more than 12,000,000,000 yen (3,600,000,000).

"I've been dreaming for years of helping the Chinese farmer by a huge Yellow River conservancy and irrigation scheme in North China. It would cost 1,000,000,000 yen ($300,000,000), and would afford a rare opportunity for humanitarianism in which the co-operation of Europe and America would be welcome."

Decides To Give More Turkeys

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 15.—As a result of much criticism regarding the turkey draw, in connection with the sports day held here Monday, Frank Gilbert, promoter, issued a statement to The Examiner last night to the effect that those whose names were among the first five tickets drawn and did not receive a turkey may, if they wish, call on him and he will buy them one.

The tickets had been sold throughout this district, and the feeling seems to be that the first five names drawn should have been awarded turkeys, regardless of whether they were present at the time of the draw or not. Four of the first five tickets drawn were held by Hastings residents and the fifth a Trenton man.

LAD KILLED AT SPORTS

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 15.—(CP).—Michael Boivin, 13, died today in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital here from a fractured skull inflicted when struck by an eight-pound shot thrown by a school mate while practicing yesterday. The accident occurred on the grounds of the Prescott High school.

'Just A Friend'

Pictured in the role of a slave girl in one of her films is Miss Gloria Youngblood, screen actress, to whom coast gossips had linked Rudy Vallee in romantic manner. The celebrated crooner and orchestra leader denied the canard, asserting that Miss Youngblood is charming and a very good friend of his—just that and nothing more.

COWS ARE KILLED BY C.P.R. TRAIN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Oct. 15.—On Friday afternoon of last week the Canadian Pacific Railway west-bound express train hit and killed two cows about two miles east of Bonarlaw Station. They were owned by Wesley Heath of Springbrook.

J. Davidson and Mel. Fitzgerald loaded five carloads of live stock this week. Both shippers remarked that they received this week as fine a lot of hogs as they ever handled.

A number from this vicinity attended the fowl supper and concert held at Marmora on Tuesday night and report that there were chickens in abundance and a good program.

A SHIP IN DISTRESS FLASHES A MESSAGE TO CAR-OWNERS

AN emergency at sea—confusion—then the calm voice of authority assuring all that no immediate danger exists—a wireless operator sending out his S.O.S.—S.O.S.—the arrival of help in time to prevent a marine disaster.

The contribution that Exide Batteries have made towards greater safety at sea has been an important one. Without a dependable, never-failing source of power in times of emergency many of the protective devices developed for marine safety would be useless. Today on modern vessels, both large and small, Exide Batteries assure in times of emergency, the operation of searchlights, wireless, running lights, steering gear, fire apparatus, radio, pumps and other safety equipment.

Surely the fact that large shipping companies have entrusted the operation of these safety devices in times of emergency to Exide Batteries, is proof indeed of their dependability. Guided by such facts you need never rely upon guesswork when buying a new battery.

Is there any other battery which so completely merits your confidence? There is an Exide Battery built to suit every car and priced to satisfy every motorist. Look for the Exide Dealer Sign—symbol of honest service. 72K

376 VOLUNTEERS HAVE BEEN NAMED FOR Y.W. CAMPAIGN

At Wednesday's luncheon of the General Campaign Committee, Mr. Stalford, Campaign Director, reported that out of 400 workers required by the Women's Division for the general house-to-house canvass, 376 had volunteered their services, and that the Men's Division had five teams with thirty workers. These groups, together with those working on the Men's and Women's Special Names, including the members of the various Subsidiary Committees, brought the required grand total of workers to date close to the total of 500.

Mr. Stalford further stated that in all campaigns of this character, the greatest problem was to obtain the required number of workers, and that it augured well for the success of this campaign to have approximately 500 volunteer workers registered.

Mr. Stalford further pointed out that the workers would have to impress upon their prospects that aside from the usual small annual appeal, this was the first time in thirty years that the "Y" had ever made a General Public Appeal, and that such annual appeal should not be confused with the present Campaign, that while one may contribute $10.00 annually to help make up the deficit occasioned by the public services rendered, it meant that should they base their contribution on the amount of the present appeal was twenty times larger, and in comparative figures, would amount to $200, or $100 per year for two years, if the larger objective was to be reached.

Mr. Stalford also reported that Mrs. Wightman of the West Ward had completed the organization of her workers as follows:

Sud-Division 16—Captain: Mrs. H. Wightman. Team: Miss E. Bain, Mrs. T. Barrie, Miss Bell, Miss May Caird, Mrs. H. W. Harvey, Miss M. V. Jory, Miss Florence MacNaughton, Mrs. G. J. Monahan, Mrs. A. W. Turner, Mrs. C. B. Waite.

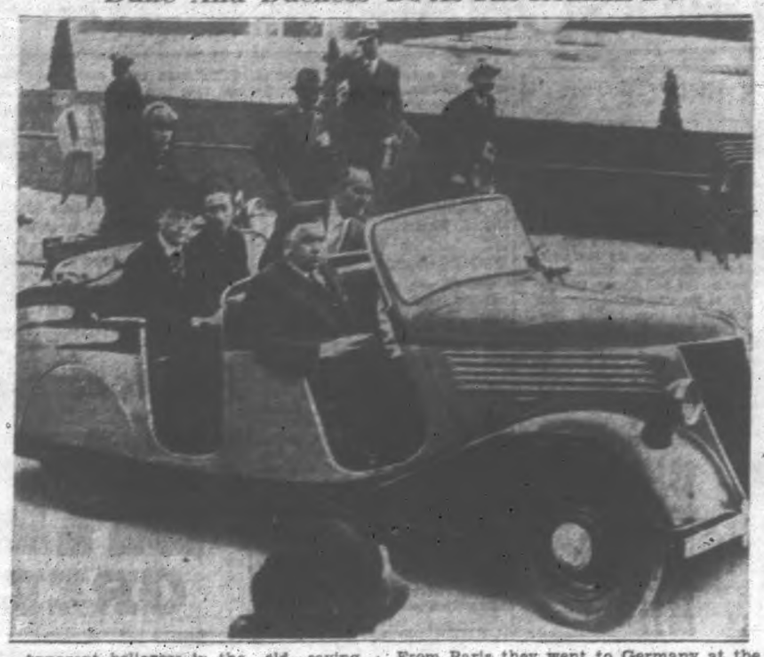
Duke And Duchess Do As The Romans Do



Apparent believers in the old saying "when in Rome—," the Duke and Duchess of Windsor use Paris Exposition taxi when they made their tour of the fair recently. From Paris they went to Germany at the invitation of Adolf Hitler. The United States is next on their list of places to visit, is the report.

Charges Witness Changed Story

LINDSAY, Ont., Oct. 15—(CP).—C. G. Frost, defence counsel, charged a witness changed his evidence at the manslaughter trial here of John H. Watson of Toronto. The manslaughter charge arose from the death in an automobile accident June 23 of Roland Bensonward, Toronto.

Defence counsel said evidence of Percy Chase, farmer residing near the scene of the accident contradicted that given by the farmer at Ward's inquest. Mr. Frost declared the farmer yesterday testified Watson's car was the only one on the road at the time of the accident, while at the inquest he said several cars were on the highway.

SHORTAGE OF PHENOL

Rapid growth of Germany's synthetic resin industry has caused a shortage of phenol, one of the raw materials used in that product, and now a search is being made for a synthetic phenol, possibly from benzol.

JAPS WANT CHINA TO RESCUE NATION FROM COMMUNISM

TIENTSIN, Oct. 15—(AP).—In an interview to-day, Yosuke Matsuoka, president of the South Manchuria Railway Company, disclosed Japan seeks control of China to prevent it from falling prey to Soviet Russia and Communism.

The Japanese army, he said, intends to occupy Nanking, the Chinese capital. Matsuoka explained Japan's political and economic plans in North China had been delayed pending the clearing up of the Shanghai situation, as a fundamental solution it, the north was impossible until the Chinese troops were defeated and Nanking occupied.

Eighty per cent of the Chinese economic and political leadership, he said, is concentrated around Shanghai, while the coastal zone and northern provinces constitute 90 per cent of China.

Prefer 90% to Nothing

"If the 10 per cent. chooses to go Communist, let it," Matsuoka said. "It is better for Japan to hold the 90 per cent. than lose the whole of China and permit the country to go over to the Soviet. The greatest aim of Japan is to save China from Communism and the Kuomintang (the dominant nationalist political party).

The Japanese, he said, were unable to achieve their aims in China by counter-propaganda and were forced, therefore, to employ their strongest weapon, namely, the army.

Matsuoka ridiculed argument Japan was unable to bear the burden of financing China's development in addition to that of Manchoukuo, pointing out that the rebuilding of Tokyo after the earthquake cost more than 12,000,000,000 yen (3,600,000,000).

"I've been dreaming for years of helping the Chinese farmer by a huge Yellow River conservancy and irrigation scheme in North China. It would cost 1,000,000,000 yen ($300,000,000), and would afford a rare opportunity for humanitarianism in which the co-operation of Europe and America would be welcome."

CADET CORPS DANCE ENJOYABLE EVENT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 15.—The annual Thanksgiving dance, sponsored by the local Cadet Corps and held in the Armouries on Monday evening, proved a successful and colorful affair, with a number of out-of-town guests among those in attendance.

The 'Birthday Dance' was a popular feature, carried out on the elimination scale by coupling, for instance, January and December for those having birthdays in either of these months, final honors going to the girl whose birthday was nearest to October 11; Dorothy Dawson, of Peterborough, was presented with the box of chocolates that formed the prize.

The 'Spot Light' dance was won by Helen Ellsworth and Arnold Hutchinson. Music was furnished by the Serenaders' Orchestra, and lunch was served in cafeteria style, with the Cadets attending to the wants of the guests. Announcement was made that the next event under Cadet auspices will be the usual Hallowe'en Dance with special prizes offered.

Decides To Give More Turkeys

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 15.—As a result of much criticism regarding the turkey draw, in connection with the sports day held here Monday, Frank Gilbert, promoter, issued a statement to The Examiner last night to the effect that those whose names were among the first five tickets drawn and did not receive a turkey may, if they wish, call on him and he will buy them one.

The tickets had been sold throughout this district, and the feeling seems to be that the first five names drawn should have been awarded turkeys, regardless of whether they were present at the time of the draw or not. Four of the first five tickets drawn were held by Hastings residents and the fifth a Trenton man.

LAD KILLED AT SPORTS

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 15.—(CP).—Michael Bolvin, 13, died today in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital here from a fractured skull inflicted when struck by an eight-pound shot thrown by a school mate while practicing yesterday. The accident occurred on the grounds of the Prescott High school.

'Just A Friend'

Pictured in the role of a slave girl in one of her films is Miss Gloria Youngblood, screen actress, to whom coast gossips had linked Rudy Vallee in romantic manner. The celebrated crooner and orchestra leader denied the canard, asserting that Miss Youngblood is charming and a very good friend of his—just that and nothing more.

COWS ARE KILLED BY C.P.R. TRAIN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Oct. 15.—On Friday afternoon of last week the Canadian Pacific Railway west-bound express train hit and killed two cows about two miles east of Bonarlaw Station. They were owned by Wesley Heath of Springbrook.

J. Davidson and Mel Fitzgerald loaded five carloads of live stock this week. Both shippers remarked that they received this week as fine a lot of hogs as they ever handled.

A number from this vicinity attended the fowl supper and concert held at Marmora on Tuesday night and report that there were chickens in abundance and a good program.

A SHIP IN DISTRESS FLASHES A MESSAGE TO CAR-OWNERS

AN emergency at sea — confusion — then the calm voice of authority assuring all that no immediate danger exists—a wireless operator sending out his S.O.S.—S.O.S.—the arrival of help in time to prevent a marine disaster.

The contribution that Exide Batteries have made towards greater safety at sea has been an important one. Without a dependable, never-failing source of power in times of emergency many of the protective devices developed for marine safety would be useless. Today on modern vessels, both large and small, Exide Batteries assure in times of emergency, the operation of searchlights, wireless, running lights, steering gear, fire apparatus, radio, pumps and other safety equipment.

Surely the fact that large shipping companies have entrusted the operation of these safety devices in times of emergency to Exide Batteries, is proof indeed of their dependability. Guided by such facts you need never rely upon guesswork when buying a new battery.

Is there any other battery which so completely merits your confidence? There is an Exide Battery built to suit every car and priced to satisfy every motorist. Look for the Exide Dealer Sign—symbol of honest service. 72K

Lang-Robertson

A wedding of great beauty and of interest to a wide circle of friends, was that of Miss Beatrice Mitchell Robertson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Robertson of Niagara Falls, Ontario, to J. Carl Lang, son of Mrs. E. L. Lang of Peterborough, which took place in St. Andrew's United Church, Niagara Falls.

The church was lovely with decorations of yellow and white 'mums, palms and potted plants, the guest pews being designated with heather and white satin bows. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. William A. Fingland, M.A., B.D. The wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. Bernice Merrifield, and during the signing of the register, a vocal solo was given by William Benson.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an exquisite gown of ivory velvet, made with high cowl neck and long draped train. Her long veil of tulle fell from a Juliet cap of seed pearls, and she wore white kid gloves and white satin slippers. Her bouquet was of white Sweetheart roses and lilies-of-the-valley, with a bit of Scotland, in the form of a sprig of heather, added for good luck.

The ushers, Walter O. Gamble and Stewart McLachlan, preceded the bridal party, and were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Marjorie E. Lang of Peterborough, sister of the groom. She was charmingly gowned in a Lac Bleau velvet model made on princess lines with slight train. She wore a gold tiara on a gold veil, white kid gloves and slippers to match her gown. Her flowers were yellow 'mums. The two bridesmaids, Mrs. Claude Williams of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Miss Marie D. Mitchell of Niagara Falls, N.Y., wore gowns of similar design in rosewood velvet, hats and slippers of a matching shade, and carried bronze 'mums. The best man was Claude Williams.

A reception for fifty guests was held later at the General Brock Hotel, where the bride's table was centred with the four-tiered wedding cake, and adorned with yellow single 'mums in silver holders, with similar floral decorations for the guests' tables.

Mrs. Robertson, mother of the bride, was attired in Caribbean blue velvet, and Mrs. Lang, the groom's mother, was gowned in a black velvet ensemble. The young couple left later for New York City, the bride wearing for travelling a black velour DuNord suit with sable trimming, black accessories and white gloves. They will reside at Apartment 3, 450 Queen Street, Niagara Falls, Ont., when they return.

Among the out-of-town guests were: J. Lang, Toronto; J. K. Lang, Oshawa; Misses May, Marion and Martha Earl and Norman Earl, Millbrook.

Ralston-Deyell

A pretty autumn wedding took place in Kew Beach United Church, Toronto, when Shirley Deyell, daughter of Mrs. Deyell and the late David Deyell, was married to Gordon Ralston, son of Mrs. Ralston and the late John Ralston. The Rev. Dr. J. A. Cranston officiated, and the wedding music was played by W. R. Young.

Chrysanthemums and autumn leaves were colorful decorations in the church.

The bride wore a smart suit in French diagonal weave, of rust shade, with matching hat and hip-length coat. Her accessories were of brown suede, and she carried bronze chrysanthemums.

Her sister, Miss Virginia Deyell, was her only attendant, and was attired in a wool suit of olive green with burnt Sienna accessories. Her flowers were yellow chrysanthemums. W. Douglas Sanderson was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception for the immediate relatives was held at the home of the bride's mother, Munro Park. Mrs. Deyell was wearing a gown of black lace, black hat and accessories, and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. J. R. Ralston, mother of the groom, wore a Maywine frock with matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of tea roses.

Missionary from China to Lecture in Bethany Tabernacle

Her capture and miraculous escape from Chinese bandits in Central China, will be the thrilling subject of a lecture by Miss J. D. Cuthbertson in Bethany Tabernacle this evening. For many years Miss Cuthbertson was a missionary in the interior of China, two thousand miles inland, and in a part practically inaccessible. Tribesmen and the Chinese were constantly in a state of war, making the country exceedingly dangerous. The only means of travel is by rowboat, with from fifty to sixty days required to cover the distance from the farthest inland station, with but three or four miles accomplished in a day when dangerous rapids have to be crossed. Bandits infest the country, the missionary having been stopped by eight different bands on one trip.

Miss Cuthbertson had intended to sail for China in September, but her departure has been delayed by the Sino-Japanese war. Mrs. A. McKinley of New Romaine street is a cousin of the missionary, who is her guest at the present time, having just come from a week's lecturing in Ottawa.

W.M.S. of George Street Serves Tea in Hall's Store.

Scattered throughout the Ready-to-Wear and House Furnishing Departments of the Richard Hall Store, little tables with dainty white cloths and centrepieces of Michaelmass daisies in silver vases served a very large number of guests at the delightful tea held under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of George Street United Church on Thursday afternoon.

The guests were received by the president, Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. M. C. Parr and Mrs. A. I. Brown.

The general convenors for the tea were Mrs. H. G. Walker and Mrs. W. H. Cunningham. Treasurers were Mrs. E. Burch and Mrs. E. G. Wellwood. Presiding during the afternoon over the silver tea services at the large table were Mrs. Harvie, Mrs. R. Bamforth, Mrs. W. J. Kelly and Mrs. B. Shortly. Lace-covered, the table was centred with a most charming bouquet of roses, gladioli and fern arranged in a silver bowl on a reflector. Hostesses for the little tea tables were: Mesdames M. McLean, J. W. Hales, Scott, Wildman, G. A. Helson, W. E. McKibbon, B. M. Frederick, C. E. Wiley, E. Brown, A. McHoull, B. Manning, J. Fairbrother, A. Fowler, F. Barrett, L. Unitt, W. P. Purdy, W. J. Routly.

On the main floor an attractive display of home-made cooking was capably looked after by Mrs. H. A. Bonney, Mrs. R. Reynolds and Mrs. A. Olin. "Floorwalkers" in the staples department were Mrs. F. E. Latimer and Mrs. W. P. Hetherington. During the tea hour mannequins from Hall's paraded among the tables, showing many smart creations for the fall and winter wardrobe.

Autumn Tea St. Andrew's Manse

Retaining the charm of an old house, but with the convenient arrangements of a modern home, including fewer steps needed and all waste space utilized, the newly-renovated Manse of St. Andrews United Church was "on view Thursday afternoon, when a delightfully arranged autumn tea was held under the auspices of the Womens Association.

The new pastor, the Rev. E. W. Young, conducted the guests through the charming rooms, explaining the various improvements. At the back of the house modern kitchens are made possible by a new stairway in a more central position, and outside a garage has been constructed in place of five unneeded rooms.

The guests were received by Mrs. E. W. Young and Mrs. G. H. Roper, president of the association. Treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. R. S. Cotton. Ladies ushering to the tearoom were Mrs. W. Brooks, Mrs. B. F. McNeely, and Mrs. H. Wightman.

Convenor for the tearoom was Mrs. F. L. Robinson. The attractive tea table, covered with a fine lace cloth, had as a central bouquet, Talisman roses arranged above baby 'mums in a silver bowl, prettily encircled with some of the flowers placed on the cloth. Tall yellow tapers in silver holders also decorated the table, and on the sideboard blue tapers were placed on either side of a basket of mixed flowers. Various pretty bouquets were arranged in the rooms, including a basket of magnificent roses. Presiding over the silver tea services during the afternoon were Mrs. F. C. Johnston, Mrs. Victor Hamilton, Mrs. A. MacNabb and Mrs. V. Foster. Assistants were Mrs. I. H. Keeler, Mrs. H. Tremaine and Mrs. J. Wharry.

McGuire-Rowe

The Church of the Sacred Heart was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Lois Elizabeth Rowe, daughter of Mrs. Richard Booth, and the late Walter Rowe, was united in the holy bonds of Matrimony to John Joseph McGuire, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William McGuire. The Rev. Father Moloney performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass.

The bride wore a lovely toe-length gown of midnight blue velvet, a matching hat with shoulder length veil and silver slippers. Her bouquet was of Sweetheart roses and maidenhair fern.

The bridesmaid was Miss Mary McGuire, sister of the groom. She wore a charming gown of burgundy chiffon velvet, matching hat and accessories, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and fern. The best man was Bill McCarthy.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Armstrong, and during the progress of the mass, and the signing of the register, Mrs. William Prindible sang.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party and immediate friends were served a wedding breakfast at the groom's home, when a toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. Father Maloney, and was responded to by the groom. Mr. and Mrs. McGuire will reside at 671 Ross street.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold evening bag, and to the best man, a leather bill fold.

Thrower-Reddom

BRIGHTON, Oct. 15.—A wedding of local interest was solemnized at the Anglican Church rectory in Campbellford when Rev. T. Floyd united in marriage Stella Edna Reddom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Reddom, Orland, and Harold Archie Thrower, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thrower, of Brighton.

Slain, Branded

FRANCES HAJEK.

20-year-old New York girl, who was found slain in a Lover's Lane in Queens, N.Y., with her fiance, Lewis Weiss. Both were killed with bullets and a circular brand, described with scarlet lipstick, had been made on their foreheads. Police authorities believe the crime was committed by an ex-suitor.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

A PLACE TO DISCARD

A SUIT which is evenly divided, with four cards in one hand opposite four in the other, makes a more advantageous trump suit than one which presents five cards of the suit opposite three cards. The main reason is that the unbalanced suit, if on the side, affords a place to discard losing cards of some other suit. If, on the contrary, the side suit has the same number of cards in both holdings, there is no possible chance to obtain any discards on it.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Two different kinds of bidding resulted on this deal in a duplicate tournament. In one case, South bid 1-Heart, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-Spades, showing that he had five hearts and only four spades, and North raised to 3-Hearts. Four-No Trumps then came from South as a slam feeler, followed by 5-No Trumps from North and then 6-Hearts by South, since his partner had shown heart preference. With the club queen led, South was down one, losing one trick in each minor.

North did his stuff better at the other table. South started in the same way with 1-Heart, North called 2-Diamonds, South 2-Spades, and then North raised the spades to three, preferring the four-four suit to the five-three. Came next the same four and five-no trumps bids as at the first table, climaxed with 6-Spades from South. Nobody could very well fail to make this contract, as after the club ace was taken, trumps were dropped and the hearts run, North's club loser being discarded and South's then being ruffed.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

INTERESTING WOMEN

It is hoped that Miss Deannard's many friends will forgive any inadequacy in this account, which is written under protest from one who does not admit that years of ungrudging, constructive service to the afflicted form an "interesting" achievement. It is felt however that to omit from this column all mention of Miss Deannard's life and work would be to leave a noticable gap in the ranks of Peterborough's "interesting women."

Miss Elizabeth Deannard has been President of the Catholic Women's League since last May, having come home to Peterborough a year ago. Having broken her foot on the ice of the previous winter she severed her connection with the Ontario School for the Deaf sooner than had been expected. Miss Deannard was born near this city, a true Canadian. Her father, George Deannard, being descended from four generations born in Canada. Her mother before her marriage was Sarah McCaffery and came from Enniskillen in Ireland. Elizabeth Deannard was educated in Peterborough where she achieved the distinction of winning the Governor General's medal during her College days and the Ottawa Normal School. She taught in the county and in the Peterborough Seperate school, and then for several years held a responsible position in the Quaker Oats Company. In 1910 she went to Belleville to begin her work in the School for the Deaf, —work which she has found always more interesting as the years passed —giving her whole time and attention to helping the poor afflicted children that they might become useful citizens. She took special courses in the teaching of the deaf at Northampton, Mass. and St. Louis, and in Speech Correction at Ithaca under the famous Dr. Frederick Martin, to whom Caruso went for help when his throat was affected.

She visited schools in Chicago and New York to observe their methods, and at Miss Bruhn's school in Boston took a course in Adult Lip Reading, which was used at the conclusion of the Great War, when Miss Deannard helped to teach lip reading of deafened soldiers. It is interesting to note that Miss Bruhn, although she has always been stone deaf, can both speak and lip-read French and German as well as English. Miss Deannard has also heard Helen Keller address an audience and says that the listener would never know that the blind and deaf woman is so afflicted.

Last September the "Canadian" published by the Ontario School for the Deaf printed "A tribute to a teacher" from which is quoted the following: "Early in Miss Deannard's experience her enuis for teaching speech and lip reading was recognized and she entered a wider sphere of usefulness as supervising teacher of the intermediate department, where her outstanding abilities have left lasting results on our teachers and therefore on our whole speech program Her knowledge of the work, thoroughness in unfolding its intricacies and willingness at all times to give assistance, have endeared her to those with whom she has been associated—not only to the staff but also the pupils, many of whom now among the adult deaf, will remember with gratitude her careful teaching."

"As teacher in charge of the girl's residence, she has had the physical and moral welfare of our girls at all times in her mind and heart. Few can realize the strain and responsibility of that office and we are sure that the parents of the deaf girls of this province join with us in grateful tribute to Miss Deannard."

"Our Catholic children have had a rare privilege in their association with her. Her devoted interest in their spiritual welfare, timely admonitions and advice have left an imprint on their lives, and only eternity can reveal the fruits of her true Christian influence. The School for the Deaf misses Miss Deannard . . . but we wish for her many years of health and happiness at her home in Peterborough."

For Saturday, October 16.

According to the lunar transits, this may prove to be a very lively and enterprising day, with sudden and unexpected developments, particularly in connection with new plans and projects. Unfamiliar tactics and strange places and personages may bring success. Cultivate new friendships that may prove of surprising value.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively year, with the wheels revolving under high tension toward surprising success. An element of the sudden and quite unforseen is dominant, moving in the direction of new interests and associates.

A child born on this day may be talented and have high initiative in putting over new and original projects. It may have a lively, popular and happy life.

Interesting Painting Exhibit Is On Display At The Y.W.C.A.

Miss Mamie McCarthy and her pupils have a splendid exhibit of painting at the Young Women's Christian Association. It commenced on Thursday afternoon and continues until late this evening. Art-lovers will find plenty of variety in the three hundred and more pictures of various types that are displayed attractively on the wide walls of the green room and library.

Here are oils and water colors, pen and pencil sketches and sepias. There are portaits of local people; sketches of local and district places; landscapes, seascapes; snow scenes; animal and flower pictures of many varieties; sketches from still life, and copies of Old Masters, following out the honored tradition which says you must copy the Masters first, then learn to do your own work from Nature.

There are dainty silhouettes in black and white. Here is a lovely lady and her top-hatted beau, having a delightful tiff beneath lacey, spreading tree branches; here is a quiet reader enjoying his book before a blazing hearth, companioned by a friendly black tabby; here is the lady in the parlor with her spinning-wheel, just like the song.

There are fanciful bits of nonsense in colors; a fat-cheeked bunny coloring Easter eggs 'neath the light of a harvest moon; pussies chasing their tails in the sunlight. There are well-drawn police dogs and sketches in huge portfolios that cover everything from heads done from life to the repose of old-peaceful barns and the taut lines of sculptured horses.

The portraits from life, done in colored oils, are especially intriguing. A blue-eyed girl with matching color in her dance frock looks out gravely from the canvas; a fair-haired miss of spiritual type forms the subject for another portrait, and a dashing old soldier, in brilliant mess attire, makes a brave showing.

There are many pieces of scenic beauty; the countryside and flaming Autumn trees of Ennismore and Smith and Chemong and Halliburton, to say nothing of pale birches at Balm Beach, Georgian Bay, and the sketches of the Smith street bridge and Jackson Park. There are moonlit bits; glowing desert sands; a trout fisherman casting a fly in a quiet pool; a tired worker trudging home at eventide; a deer in a woodland glade; a low sled on a snowy road.

The flower pictures are gorgeous pieces of coloring. Here are blue hyacinths banked deep on the edges of a flickering pool; scarlet poppies blazing in tall vases; charming old English gardens filled with blossoms.

And the topical subjects are alluring. King George Sixth appears in all the glory of his ceremonial regalia; an Indian chief frowns on the world at large; in a candle-lit room a mother holds her babe in her arms; an old-time gallant whispers airy nothings in the ear of a flirtatious dame. Ships and the blue seas are depicted in several examples. And the religious subjects include a beautiful representation of Christ in the garden, and also as Dispenser of the Bread of Life.

It is a pleasing and worth-while exhibition, with some of Miss McCarthy's own work, including two local portraits of girls and a beautiful likeness of her own mother.

To Wed a King

SASI NAZ ZULFICAR

This is the latest portrait study of Sasi Naz Zulficar, daughter of a judge of the Alexandria, Egypt, mixed court of appeals who will wed King Farouk, 18-year-old monarch of Egypt. Friends from childhood, the two will marry next year, when Miss Zulficar reaches her 17th birthday.

Brooch Inspired By Mexican Queen

With romanticism so strongly entrenched in the autumn fashion picture, jewelry, which plays so important a part in style today, must necessarily be romantic, too.

Alberta, one of America's leading costume jewelry designers, has taken inspiration from one of the most romantic figures of history, Empress Carlotta of Mexico, in creating a brooch. The empress' own court pieces now are in a museum in Mexico.

In this piece "Kimberly" gems, cut and set like real stones, form the brooch.

This typifies the trend in fashion this season. An empress' jewels, a queen's trousseau, are a small part of the glimmer and glitter that women are putting on themselves these days. Luxury is the Big Word. It may be that with many world problems to worry about we are determined to have a good fling before the Big Catastrophe—if we can't escape it. At any rate, dresses are simple and sheathlike, and the smartest women are keeping them that way. But upon the dresses are looped and draped and pinned all manner of glittering jewelry—real or simulated—to make a shining glamor about milady.

The Orient has been combed for ideas for costume jewelry — India and other countries which have been for centuries and centuries noted for barbaric splendor.

WORK FOR FREEDOM

In Albania, three young and unmarried princesses, Myseyen, Ruhije and Maxhide are working to emancipate their fellow countrywomen from the veil and other Turkish customs. Their brother, King Zog, started the movement.

Fashion Service

3129

This brown rabbit's wool "drawstring" topper and spirited plaited brown and green plaid wool skirt is the gayest little costume of the season. For variety . . . the brown blouse may be worn with other skirts. Just think of all the lovely changes the plaid skirt affords with your sweaters. All-in-one-schemes are fascinating as monotone woollens, rayon crinkle crepe, velvet, etc. Before you discard the pattern, how about an extra sports blouse of natural cashmere jersey or a more "dressy" two-faced theme in crepe silk with navy back, sleeves and yoke with the front of wine shade?

Style No. 3129 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 2 yards of 39-inch material for blouse with 2 yards of 54-inch material for skirt.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

Too late I loved thee. O Beauty of ancient days, yet ever new. And Lo! Thou wert within, and I abroad searching for Thee. Thou wert with me, but I was not with Thee.

—St. Augustine.

Dear Friends:

Did you ever get conscious all of a sudden of some happiness that was yours? You had had it quite a while, enjoyed it, but took it as a matter of course until suddenly you realized fully all it meant to you. It may have been some small thing which brought this to you so clearly, some other life which seemed to lack what you had.

But it clarified your vision so that you began to appreciate what it meant to you. You began to count your blessings, as the hymn tells us to do, you savored the joy they brought you, and then—you began to lose some of them, maybe the one you prized the most.

Never yet have I gone around singing and thinking this isn't such a bad world after all, but something came whaming along and took it away from me. It seems just as we become conscious of how precious a thing is to us, we lose it.

And then how we ache for the thing we have lost. Yet I think that like children, we must go through different phases of life. We assume it is going to remain summer for us all the time, but forget that winter follows after.

As children we went through teething, learning to walk, to share, to talk, and all childish ailments. But as adults we sometimes think we shall stand still and enjoy what we have learned, but it cannot be done. The world goes on and we with it, and if only we could enjoy our blessings fully, understanding that one day we shall not have them, we would suffer a lot less than we do now.

Count your blessings all right, but don't wait until they have sprouted wings ready to fly away before you begin. Do it now. Open your eyes to your everyday happiness, to the ones who make the path of life happy for you, and show your appreciation before you lose it.

How many of us go along day after day never thinking about our health until sickness lays us low. Or our sight until we need glasses, or our digestion until we get dyspepsia, or how nice it is to breathe easily until we get shortness of breath.

How many parents take the love of their children for granted until they strike out for themselves. How many children accept the loving care of their Mother as a matter of course until they lose her forever.

Many of us never turn to higher things until the lower ones let us down. How many also go along day after day, year after year, ignoring God until some bitter sorrow overtakes them, then cry out for Him to help them.

Count your blessings, not just when you are singing so lustily about them, but when you get home. In all my life I have always found that when I did little things in return for things that were done to me I retained them longer.

Little "Thank you's" to God if it were not possible to do it on my knees at the time: Little appreciations if I could not do big ones. And if you think it over, life is composed of thousands of little things for the few big ones.

Look for the beauty in your life, and look for it in those around you. Listen for it in the speech of others, look for it in their acts. Look for the beauty in yourself, polish it up so that it shines and inspires others. Remember that it lives with you, so try and live with it, casting ugliness aside.

Your Friend.
ROBERTA.

SUFFERED 40 YEARS FROM CONSTIPATION

"For 40 years, I had been praying for a lasting remedy for constipation and its evils. Finally, I tried Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since that time (nearly 10 years ago) I have not taken any medicine. Have been well and entirely free from constipation."—Mrs. I. H. Kendig (address on request).

Don't let common constipation ruin your life. You can end it safely, without using drugs that soon lose their effectiveness.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day—with every meal in severe cases. Serve as a cereal with milk or fruits, or cook into appetizing recipes. ALL-BRAN absorbs more than twice its weight in water and gently clears away the wastes that cause headaches, tiredness and serious illness.

The vitamin B in ALL-BRAN helps tone up the entire intestinal tract. Buy ALL-BRAN from your grocer. Guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

CHINESE FLING JAP LINES BACK, HONGKEW AREA

Hongkew into panic. More than 200 Chinese shells fell in the area. fell in the area.

Japanese reinforcements attempted to land at Yang-Linkow and other points above Liuho on the Yangtze River, the Chinese spokesman said, but suffered such casualties from Chinese land mines and machine guns they were forced to return to their ships.

Shanghai awoke this morning to count the damage done by six Chinese air raids over the area, intensive Japanese bombing on the fringes of the international settlement and French concession and the artillery duel.

A minimum of 150 dead and wounded were officially accounted for as a result of shells and air bombs falling in the streets of the settlement and its suburbs.

The swift descent of frost on an unsuspecting countryside will not have the destroying effect on fall grains as was first expected, farmers stated. While districts to the north were stricken severely by frost, insofar as green crops were concerned, wheat has not been visibly affected.

Farmers in the southern part of the county and in Prince Edward County state that while growth will be retarted to some extent, the grain has not been destroyed. Additional frosts, however, should they come in any degree of severity and consistency, will have a devastating effect on autumn grains, it is stated.

Two Court Cases

At the local police court held on Thuraday afternoon, October 14, before Magistrate Lloyd at the Township Hall, Tweed, two cases were disposed of. Walter Vilneff, laborer, appeared charged with selling illicit liquor. As he was at the time on suspended sentence for having committed the same offence in 1935, he was given a year's hard labor in the Reformatory. He was arrested on August 28 when he was caught selling illicit liquor, and on appearing before the magistrate pleaded guilty to the charge.

Charged with assault and causing bodily harm, John Berry was given two years suspended sentence, and also given a severe lecture by the magistrate. He was warned of the severe penalty to be handed out should he be brought before him on the same charge during the two-year period. A fine of $2.50 and costs were imposed in this case.

COE HILL

Young people of the United church took charge of the services on Sunday, October 10, at Glenelda, Clydesdale and Coe Hill, with Earl Lohnes as speaker.

Mrs. William Davidson and family of Ivanhoe, spent the week-end with Earl Lohnes.

Clarence Whitmore, Marcella Adams and Sylvia Hendricks, of Toronto, and Mrs. C. Adams, of Frankford, spent the week-end with the Rev. and Mrs. Earl Whitmore, of Bethel, and Earl Lohnes of Coe Hill.

Miss Doris Young, teacher of "Smith" School, spent the week-end with folks at Wooler.

Miss Collins, teacher at White School, spent the week-end with her parents at Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gilroy, Joy Ruckstohl and Miss G. May, were at Bancroft Conference in the United church, Wednesday evening, October 6.

Plans Another Search

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP).

FOUR new giraffes were due at the Washington zoo today after a trip halfway around the world, and Nicky Arundel's joy was almost complete.

Nicky, 9-year-old editor of a neighborhood newspaper, had campaigned editorially for giraffes when the zoo had none. He is now working to get a larger lunch room on the grounds.

Dr. W. M. Mann, zoo director, who responded to the plea for giraffes, said "Nicky's News" was the only American newspaper he read while he was on an animal-collecting expedition in the Orient last summer.

OBITUARY

✓ PATRICK FITZPATRICK ✓

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 15.—The death occurred on Thursday in Peterborough of Patrick Fitzpatrick of Hastings. The funeral will take place on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence in Percy township to the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. Interment at R. C. Cemetery.

✓ WILLIAM STANLEY LEWIS. ✓

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 15.—One of the oldest residents of Tweed, William Stanley Lewis, died on Wednesday morning, October 13, at his late residence, following an illness of six months' duration. He had been suffering from pneumonia for some time.

In his ninety-second year, he was born in Shannonville, a son of John Lewis and Margaret Howard. He spent his youth in that vicinity, afterwards moving to Richmond, Ont., coming to Tweed forty years ago, where he has since resided. He was well and favorably known throughout this district.

The late William Lewis was a member of the United Church, and in politics, was a staunch Conservative. He was never married.

Mourning his passing are the following nieces: Mrs. Levi Trumble, Frankford; Mrs. Charles Howard of Shannonville; Mrs. Henry Wilson of Emo, New Ontario; Mrs. Thomas Walling of Peterborough; Mrs. John Lloyd, Develin, Ont., and the following nephews: Mr. F. Benn, Hartford, Conn.; Mr. Percy Benn, Saskatchewan; Messrs. William Benn, Carman, Man.; Fred. Benn, Flint, Mich., and Ross Lewis, Belleville.

MARMORA CHURCH HAS ANNIVERSARY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Oct. 15 — The anniversary services of St. Anlrew's United Church, Marmora, were held on Sunday, with a large attendance, both morning and evening. The guest speaker at the morning service was Rev. R. R. Nicholson of Tweed. He preached an eloquent and inspiring sermon, his subject being "The Supremacy of Christ," and his text, "Lord, to whom shall we go?" Miss Flora Sanderson sang a beautiful solo and the choir rendered an anthem very effectively, with Mrs. F. R. Wells and Mr. George Woodhouse taking the duet part.

In the evening Rev. W. J. Scott of Stirling was the special preacher, and he gave a forceful and thought-provoking sermon on the subject of an adequate religion and three things which are essential to it. Two anthems were sung by the choir which added much to the service, the duet part in the second one being taken by Mrs. Wells and Miss Robb of the Delora Public School staff.

POLICE HUNT AIDES OF SLAIN GUNMEN

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 15—(AP). — Federal sleuths Wednesday backtracked the outlaw trail of the Al Brady gang, which Tuesday came to an abrupt end when two of its members perished in a hail of machine-gun bullets and the third was captured. The investigators were particularly eager to learn who, if any one, gave aid and comfort to Brady and Clarence L. Shaffer, the two who fell before G-men's guns, and James Dalhover, the prisoner, since the trio escaped an Indiana jail a year ago.

Meanwhile Dalhover, under heavy guard, talked. Police Captain Frank Foley said the Federal agents, after lengthy questioning, obtained a confession of the band's outlawry. Murders of three policemen and a storekeeper and numerous robberies of jewelry stores and groceries were charged against the gang.

Pending removal to Indiana for trial Dalhover was held in the city jail. Brady's body remained unclaimed on a slab at the city morgue. An undertaker said he had received instructions to ship Shaffer's body to his native Indianapolis.

Abraham Cherney Slugged Over Head By Unknown Man As He Put Car In Garage

Suffering From Deep Scalp Wound Injured Man Is Taken To Hospital

Some degree of mystery veils the circumstances under which Abraham Cherney, 216 Reid street was allegedly slugged over the head by an unknown assailant, as he was entering the garage at the rear of his house early last night.

Suffering from a deep scalp wound the injured man was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital by ambulance after receiving treatment at the Clinic. His condition is not regarded as serious.

Returning home from business around eight o'clock Cherney was garaging his car, when he claims he was attacked and slugged over the head in the laneway at the rear of the house.

At the Clinic where he was taken in his own car by a cyclist who heard his cry for help, Cherney was said to have told police he had been hit with a blunt instrument. He thought it had been an attempt at ribbery, though his roll of bills was intact. He was unable to give any description of his assailant.

Staggered To Neighbors

After being struck it was learned, Cherney staggered to a neighbors and demanded "Let me in I've been struck over the head." Alone in the house the woman hesitated to comply, but Cherney's loud appeals for aid were heard by other persons in the immediate neighborhood and a young woman telephoned the police.

When Constables W. A. Clarke and A. Menzies responded, Cherney was then at the Clinic, and although the officers undertook an immediate search of the neighborhood no trace of the supposed assailant could be found. An unknown worker believed to be from the C.G.E., is said to have told someone in the locality he saw a man running south on Reid street. Police are anxious he should come forward if he has information which might assist them.

At the hospital Cherney's sons, Harry and Meyer Cherney declined to discuss the matter with reporters. "Father doesn't want to say anything. He will be all right in the morning," was about all they would say.

OBITUARY

MRS. HARVEY A. OWEN

Impressive funeral services for the late Margaret Kenny, wife of Harvey A. Owen was held at St. Peter's Cathedral where Solemn Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. C. J. Carroll, assisted by Rev. Edward Grant and Rev. Dr. J. B. Masterson.

The large numbers who visited the home and attended the funeral as well as the numerous spiritual and floral offerings gave testimony of the high esteem which deceased had enjoyed among her friends during life and much sympathy extended to the bereaved relatives.

Rev. C. J. Carroll addressed the congregation present on the certainty of death to everyone and the loss which the parish has suffered due to her sudden passing.

The cortege then motored to Kingston and the remains were laid to rest in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery where services were conducted by Rev. Father Quinn in company of a number of Kingston friends who assembled at the cemetery.

Pallbearers were: John McCabe, Charles Carson, Kenneth Lawless, Chas. Quinlan, Vincent Lawless and Cecil Wolff, all of Peterborough. Among those from a distance who attended the funeral: Mrs. Ellen Lawless, Vincent Lawless, Mildred and Gertrude Lawless of Kingston, Mrs. Hepson and son, Kenneth of Syracuse, N.Y., Mrs. Ellen O'Neill and Miss Mamie O'Neill, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. O'Neill, Mrs. Robert Spratt and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Neill, all of Toronto.

SEE PARLIAMENT OPENING JAN. 13

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (CP). — The capital's political crystal gazers, seeking to conjure from the unknown parliament's opening date, today pondered as well the question of who will represent Canada at the nine-power conference on Sino-Japanese mediation.

They had Prime Minister Mackenzie King's Wednesday night announcement that Canada would participate as a signatory to the nine-power Washington treaty guaranteeing China's territorial integrity and that he would name representatives as soon as the date and venue of the parley were announced.

Last night one of the Prime Minister's secretaries advised newspapermen at the end of a four-hour Cabinet meeting there had been no developments to report. Mr. Mackenzie King omitted his usual post-council press conference. Correspondents concluded the Cabinet had discussed international affairs and preparations for the session.

Prophets guessing at the closely-guarded secret of parliament's opening suggested some time early in January, others more specifically said January 13, because it is a Thursday.

Two names were mentioned in corridors as possible representatives at the nine-power conference, that of Senator Raoul Dandurand, veteran of Geneva conclaves, head of Canada's delegation at League of Nations Assembly, and that of Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, now on a visit home. It was suggested Mr. Massey might be a second representative if the conference is held in Europe, and if he has returned before the date on which the meeting is called.

NEW REBEL DRIVE

HENDAYE, On the Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 15 (C.P.-Havas) — Long-expected insurgent offensive designed to smash government resistance in Eastern Spain before winter sets in will be launched on the Aragon front in a few hours, informed sources said here to-night.

The first thrust will be delivered in the Zaragoza sector, where fighting has been under way for the last few days, it was said.

MUSIC FESTIVAL IDEA IS GROWING

The executive of the Quebec Musical Competition Festival Incorporated announce that their next Festival will be held in Montreal during the third and fourth weeks of March 1938, and further announce appointment of N. C. Scotheran as honourary local secretary.

The first Festival under auspices of the Quebec Muscial Competition Festival Incorporated was held in April last and rather in the nature of an experiment. There was a tremendous response from all sections of the Community, 5435 competitors entered, the result being it was the largest first Festival to be held within the British Empire, fifteen different Nationalities took part and competitors came from forty-five different places outside Montreal.

The Movement in Western Canada has grown with enormous rapidity. Last year in Winnipeg 31,000 people of the general public attended the various competitions and evening mass concerts. At Brandon forty sleeping cars had to be kept in the railway station as sleeping accommodation for the out-of-town choirs. In Vancouver an audience of 10,000 people attended the final evening concert of the Festival. The enthusiasm and appreciation of those taking part in the movement is enormous.

In the report of the annual general meeting of the British Federation of Festivals, held in London, September, 1935, considerable space is given to a report on the excellent and vital educational work being achieved in Canada through the Festival movement. The late Mr. H. Plunket Greene, in speaking of the movement throughout the British Empire refers to the Canadian Festivals as: "Canada, whose Festivals are a model to us."

The purpose of the Festival movement is educational in a broad sense and its field of work is among the amateur musicians of the country. "It is considered to be the most powerful force in operation today for the advancement of music-making and appreciation among the largest number of people at the same time." The education of taste, the development of existing talent, the drawing out of latent talent, the improvement of performance, the mixing socially of many types of people and races, the training of the team spirit in a choir and the sporting spirit among choirs in a competition are some of the many objects to be gained in the movement. The fun and pleasure of this educational work can be experienced by competitors of all ages, from the most junior class in the school up to the adolescent period. To the after-school period when the popular music hall and jazz tunes are often strong influence, the movement keeps the door open to the voluntary study of and the continued influence of wholesome music. To the adult it comes as a relaxation and a pleasure, bringing an ever-widening interest and vision by means of an active participation in the music of the old composers and of the new composers about us today.

The final justification of the movement is the singing together of the choirs in the mass choir concerts held in the evenings. These are a most important and stimulating feature of the Festival. For hundreds of singers to study standard works during winter months and thus become familiar with masterpieces which they otherwise would never have known, is an achievement of great worth. On this point Mr. Vaughan Williams, the composer, in sending his good wishes to the secretary of the Quebec Musical Competition Festival, which was held in Montreal, April 5-9 writes saying: "I have much pleasure in wishing every success to your musical festival I feel sure that these festivals providing as they do for active participation in music and not mere passive acceptance of it, are going to have a splendid influence on the music of your country.

May I hope that your Festival may be one of co-operation and not only of competition and that you will see to it that your singers have an opportunity of singing with each other as well as against each other."

(Signed) R. Vaughan Williams.

HASTINGS BADMINTON.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 15.—The Hastings Badminton Club will be reorganized shortly for the coming season. The president, V. Fuller, will call a meeting for the purpose of election of officers and making plans for the use of the Town Hall as well as activities for the club for the ensuing year.

MEETING POSTPONED.

The meeting of the Utilities Commission called for this afternoon was postponed.

COUNCIL MEETING.

There will be a meeting of the city council on Monday night at which the appointment of a sanitary inspector will be discussed and other business dealt with.

TELLING THE WORLD.

Banners stretched across George and Charlotte streets tell the world that the local Y.W.C.A. is shortly to inaugurate a campaign here to raise $50,000 for improving its building and extending its work.

ROTARY SPEAKER.

T. Frank Matthews of Toronto, father of Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, and himself a former chairman of that body, will be the speaker at Monday's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club.

POSTERS ON VIEW.

Saturday shoppers will get an opportunity to inspect the posters entered in the Y.W.C.A. campaign contests which will be on view in a window of the Richard Hall store. This contest was open to pupils of the secondary schools and some interesting posters have been entered.

ONCE LIVED HERE.

The Examiner learns that Mrs. Pope, mother of the boy whose body was stolen from a Streetsville grave, lived in Peterborough some seven or eight years ago, the family residing on Brock street.

PREDICTS GOOD WEATHER.

Declaring that the snow this morning was "squaw winter" a farmer visitor predicted that better weather was on its way. He called for Indian summer to make its appearance shortly.

CLAIM WAS FOR $1,500.

In the settlement of the claim of Harold Spinks against the Townships of Methuen and Belmont, the amount of the claim had been placed at $1,500. The amount of damage was considered to have been $387.00, but negligence of the plaintiff was placed at 50 per cent. which reduced the final award to $193.50.

OUT FOR CHAMPION.

Two or three local fishermen are reported to have braved the chill winds to go forth and try their luck on the last day of the bass and lunge fishing season to-day. They headed for Chemong Lake early this afternoon, bent on getting the champion fish of the year on the final day.

CANNING PUMPKINS.

Pumpkins are rolling in by the truckload to Canada Packers now for the plant's pumpkin canning season is at its height. About 30 tons of the big yellow specimens are being canned each day by a special force of 25 workers. In all, about 300 tons will be canned this season, it is estimated. Manager Gordon S. Matthews said today the local crop of pumpkins is good this year. All of those handled at Canada Packers are obtained in this district.

NO SOCCER GAME.

Owing to unforseen circumstances the Canada Packers vs. C.G.E. game to-morrow has been called off.

CARE OF MOTOR CARS.

Members of the Lions Club will be instructed in the scientific care of their motor cars from the engineering point of view at their regular dinner meeting next Monday. C. Lewis of the C. G. E. engineering staff, will handle the subject.

SNOW PLOWING TENDERS.

Apparently the snow flurries of Thursday and to-day reminded city officials that it is time to think of the matter of city snow clearance once again. An advertisement asking for tenders for snow plowing appears in to-day's issue of The Examiner.

SNOW WHILE SUN SHINES.

While the sun shone over portions of the city, snow fell in flurries over other areas on Thursday. The flakes were still of negligible size and left no trace of their presence on the ground. It was still difficult to reckon Peterborough as among the Ontario centres which have had their first snowfalls of the winter.

SUMMER IN TORONTO.

Toronto experienced a drop of the thermometer to 28 degrees yesterday and claimed the coldest October 14 that city has experienced in 60 years. By comparison with Peterborough, Toronto was still enjoying summer breezes for the thermometer dropped to 22 here. Only Ottawa reported a lower temperature in Southern Ontario, 18 degrees.

KINSMEN MEET.

The regualr meeting of the Kinsmen Club was held in the Empress Hotel on Thursday night. Emmett F. Sheehy extended the congratulations of the club to Alex. L. Elliott on his recent election to the Ontario Legislature. Rev. Mr. Craik asked the co-operation of the club in the loading of the cars of clothing and produce for western Canada, and the Rev. R. T. F. Brain delivered a most capable address on "The Significance of Fascism."

Closed Season For Partridge Is Advocated – Birds Far Too Scarce

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Carver have returned after making their annual visit to Haliburton. That might have been placed in the paper as a personal item, but there is more to it. Mr. Carver has been going to Haliburton for 40 years, and he talks about the roads, the leaves on the trees, the partridge and ducks and the level of the lakes, and from all of them he draws lessons.

"I think there should be a closed season for partridge," said Mr. Carver. "Those birds are getting to be very scarce. Why I remember the time when one would be walking along the roads there almost any place and they would rise. Now one goes a long distance and sees so few of them. They should protect them until they get plentiful or soon they will have none at all."

"I think we are going to have a long open fall," continued Mr. Carver.

"Just how do you come to that conclusion?" asked The Examiner.

"Mostly by the level of the lakes in that part of the country. They are down now quite a bit."

"And what does that mean?"

"Simply this—they will have to be filled up again before winter sets in."

"And is it necessary that they be filled in before winter starts?"

"Well it has always worked that way," came the certain reply, "and this year will be no exception."

"But there was a little snow falling here yesterday," persisted the reporter.

"That means very little," was the quiet reply. "It may even snow some more but the season will open up again a little later on. Just wait a little while and see."

MRS. R. H. TURNER RE-ELECTED HEAD OF THE RED CROSS

A successful year of helpful activity, under the leadership of Mrs. R. H. Turner, was recorded at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Red Cross Society held in the Public Library on Thursday afternoon.

With the president, Mrs. Turner, in the chair, the various reports were read. The secretary's by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner; the treasurer's by Miss E. J. Morrow; Buying committee by Mrs. C. G. Graham; Visiting housekeepers, by Mrs. C. J. Ray; Nutrition classes, by Mrs. C. B. Muir; Home Nursing classes, by Mrs. Lynch (for Mrs. Perks, unavoidably absent); Field Work for Soldiers and Dependants, by D. A. Loomis; General Relief, by Ald. R. M. Glover; report on the annual campaign, by Mrs. Mills

The secretary's report showed that "the past Red Cross year has been characterized not only by local activity, but by definite opportunities for service throughout the province." Six carloads of useful goods, including 160 pairs of blankets, were sent for Western drought relief, and cash contributions by individual citizens amounting to $665. In February, $73.40 was collected, and sent to aid flood sufferers in the United States, while the branch also helped to forward a carload of useful articles for the same purpose.

The Relief committee, with Ald. Glover as chairman, looked after local and transient applications for help. Mr. Loomis was chairman of the Soldiers' Work committee. Families of local ex-soldiers were assisted with groceries and hampers of provisions at Christmas time, and as in years past the branch looked after the repairing of boots for needy ex-service men. The Red Cross has also fitted several men with glasses, which is a new form of service offered.

Home Nursing

The Home Nursing Classes, under the competent supervision of Mrs. Walter Perks, assisted by Mrs. Lynch, seven other graduate nurses and three dietitians, were this year especially successful. Helpful lectures were given to the classes by Dr. G. Murray Fraser and Dr. D. S. Fitzpatrick.

Mrs. Muir and Miss Aileen Morgan had charge of the Red Cross nutrition classes during the first eight weeks of the year. These classes teach economical buying and cooking consistent with proper nourishment.

A most important phase of local service, that of the visiting housekeeper, was under the able supervision of Mrs. C. J. Ray, with Miss Hamilton, Miss Munro, Mrs. Shields and Mrs. Fred Hooper as assistants. These ladies very efficiently visited, investigated and followed up each new case. Four visiting housekeepers were employed, with 33 families served, at a total expenditure of $815.

Mrs. C. G. Graham was convenor of the Purchasing committee, which at Christmas supplied families of ex-service men with substantial boxes of bedding, warm clothing and footwear, later in the year despatching boxes to outfit children for school. In response to an urgent appeal four large boxes of good used clothing were sent to needy families. Seven layettes, supplied by the Thursday Club, were given to those in need, and sent to the Apsley Outpost Hospital.

Eight hundred dollars was contributed by the branch for Outpost Hospital work in northern sections of the province.

With Mrs. John Mills as convenor, the annual financial campaign to raise funds for the various activities of the Branch, was held the last week of November, 1936. There were 70 canvassers, and $2,186 was contributed by citizens.

In closing her report, Mrs. Kenner expressed the appreciation of the officers of the branch to all who had contributed to the success of the year.

Treasurer's Report

The general statement of the society for the year ending September 30, 1937, and submitted by the treasurer, Miss E. Morrow, follows:

Receipts.—Balance brought forward, $365.66; membership fees, $15; proceeds of canvas for funds, $2,186; Warren Hall Estate, donation, $5; anonymous donation re visiting housekeeper, $5; rebate on freight charges, $1.09; interest on bank balances, $10.73. Total, $2,588.48.

Expenditures. — Canadian Red Cross Society donation, $800; salaries, visiting housekeepers, $815; current accounts, $124.70; relief work, $161.03; balance, $687.75. Total, $2,588.48.

Officers for the year 1937-38 were elected; the report of the Nominating committee being read by Miss M. H. Rush as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. Robert Harstone; president, Mrs. R. H. Turner; vice-presidents, Mrs. G. B. Boucher, Mrs. C. J. Ray; secretary, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner; treasurer, Miss E. J. Morrow; Executive committee, Mrs. C. G. KIWANIANS HEAR KENNETH WELDON

Kenneth Weldon, one of two young men who recently completed a ten-months "hitch-hiking" tour of the globe was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon today, being introduced to the club by L. J. Pettit.

The youthful adventurer and his companion Robert Parker of Hamilton secured over three hundred pictures, and Mr. Weldon has selected over one hundred of them and is planning to have lantern slides made for use at lectures on future occasions.

Thanks of the club were tendered to Mr. Weldon by president Al Sharpe in the chair on motion of P. E. Warren. Another feature of the meeting was the initiation of a new member in the person of Wilfred E. Wolfe. He was introduced to membership by John I. Allen.

The Rev. P. J. Kelly and Alderman James Dutton who were present as guests of the club voiced an appeal on behalf of the Children's Aid Society and drew attention to the tag day which is being held on Saturday.

From the Y.W.C.A. a clever team of dancers, presented by Kiwanian F. E. Johnston, put on a floor show calling attention to the Y.W.C.A. financial campaign which opens shortly in a drive for funds. The Misses Isobel Shadgett, Mary Mitchell and Hazel Tighe appeared as the "High Hat Novelty Tap Dance Trio", while Catherine Turner and her tiny companion Jean Millard made a hit with their Highland fling which was executed in kilts.

SUN SPOT CYCLE NEARS MAXIMUM BRINGING TROUBLE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15 (A.P.). — A sun spot cycle which astronomers say is the most active in 67 years is nearing its maximum.

This maximum may even exceed that reached in 1870, the greatest since reliable records were kept.

During the high of the last cycle, reached in 1928, the peak monthly average of spots on the sun was 79. Last July, records at the Carnegie Institution's Mount Wilson Observatory show, they reached 139. During September and up to to-day the spots have averaged 91 a day.

The spots are in a temporary slump. Yet on September 27 a large sun spot group paralyzed short wave radio broadcasting half an hour.

October 4 there was another high frequency radio failure and in the next few days ships at sea reported their compasses noticeably disturbed by a magnetic storm. The nearer a ship is to the North Pole, the more seriously its compasses are affected.

A sun spot cycle usually extends over a period of 10 or 11 years. Since the last maximum was reached in 1928, the Mount Wilson observers expect the new one to come possibly in the next few months. In November or December the spots again will increase in number and likely pass the July average of 13.6.

During the peak sun spot period the Aurora Borealis is observed much farther south than usual. One display of northern lights was seen a few months ago from Mount Wilson. Telephone and telegraph service may be disturbed, although not so seriously as the short wave radio. More ultra violet rays reach the earth from the sun.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE ONTARIO DRUGGISTS

Preparing for a drive to organize Peterborough druggists into the Ontario Retail Druggist Association, headquarters officers of the Association held a meeting of local druggists at the Empress Hotel Thursday night. About half the local drug businesses were represented.

W. Dunlop of Dundas, association president, urged that druggists can enjoy many benefits from organization. While the association is only represented by three member stores here, the framework for a local organization exists, he pointed out. J. W. McDermid is president of the branch.

W. Karn of Oshawa, Association vice-president was present at the meeting. In addition to the matter of organizing a strong branch here, the matter of dispensing relief medicines and other problems were discussed.

TRENT RIVER AID HAS NEAT BALANCE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 15. — Members of the Ladies' Aid met on Tuesday afternoon at the church dining hall to wash dishes and clean up after the fowl supper of the previous. After the work was done the ladies met for their regular business meeting with 19 in attendance. Reports were heard from the secretary, Mrs. H. B. Wood and Treasurer Mrs. Thomas K. Thompson. The treasurer reported $141.06 in the bank. The secretary reported cards sent to the sick and more cards were ordered for this purpose. All bills were ordered to be paid. A vote of thanks was given to the following: Mrs. Harry Thompson for cleaning the flat silver, Miss Leatha Davidson for printing tickets for the fowl supper, Bud Inkster for making out bills for advertising the supper, and the girls on the flower committee, who decorated the church.

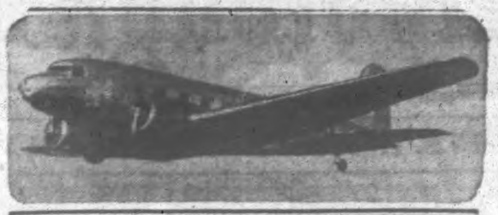
The president, Mrs. Shearer, read a letter from the secretary of the United Church of Canada, Peterborough Presbytery, the object to organize a Presbytery Association, which will in turn by convention and correspondence endeavor to aid each local organization with suggestions, program, etc. A request was made for the president, secretary, and any others interested to attend a meeting at Peterborough on Friday, October 15. Discussion was taken up regarding the collecting of the group money. The Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

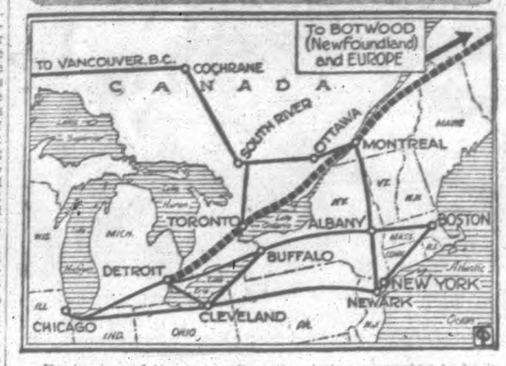
Rev. Mr. Littlewood of Vroomantan was guest with Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Umphrey over the week-end and holiday.

NO MORE APRONS

LONDON—(CP).—"We want to abolish the apron as a symbol of service and servitude." This declaration was made recently by members of the Guild of Household Workers and other girl servants.

Airline To Link Eastern Canada





Beginning of the trans-Canada airline, expected to be in operation early next year, will bring many eastern Canada cities in almost direct contact with important American cities as may be seen in the above map. The Canadian airline will extend from Cape Breton Island on the Atlantic to Vancouver on the Pacific. The main line of the air route is shown from Montreal to Ottawa, South River, Cochrane and on to Vancouver. A branch line connects Toronto to South River. The heavy dotted line shows the route from Detroit to Botwood, Newfoundland, where there will be a terminus for transatlantic aeroplanes. The passenger aeroplane shown in the upper photograph is of the type to be used in the trans-Canada air system.

BABY BAND HOLDS INITIAL MEETING

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, Oct. 15.—The first meeting of the newly organized Baby Band of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United church was held Friday afternoon.

After soft music by Mrs. Stinson and scripture reading by the W.M.S. president, Mrs. S. Connell, Mrs. Moyer led in prayer.

A little song of welcome was then sung to the Baby Band by Helen Stinson, and after the repeating of the Baby Band prayer three of its members took part; Eunice Windrem and Joyce Forsythe reciting, and Morley Connell quoting a scripture text. Then all joined in singing Praise Him, Praise Him all ye Little Children.

When the superintendent, Mrs. S. Vaughan had given a simple talk on the three-fold objective of the Baby Band for 1937 Helen waited on the W.M.S. and the mothers for their offering, while the babies presented their gift boxes after which the gifts were dedicated to work of the Kingdom of God.'

The next item was promotions to the Mission Band. Those eligible i.e. five years of age; were asked to take chairs on the platform and presented with diplomas and where they were addressed by the Mission Band superintendent, Mrs. MacTavish, who also presented them with Mission Band gift boxes and copies of "World Friends." They were then welcomed to the Mission Band by a friendly handshake from Mrs. MacTavish, her assistant, Mrs. Stinson and Helen Stinson who is a junior member of the Mission Band.

The remainder of the meeting was taken by the mothers, Mrs. Sandy and Mrs. H. McKee gave readings and Mrs. Dr. McPhee and Mrs. L. Forsythe read papers on "Motherhood in Heathen Lands" and "Christian Motherhood", respectively.

The program closed with the hymn "Mothers of Salem" and the Benediction.

The W.M.S. then served lunch and an enjoyable half hour was spent with their little guests and their mothers.

The ready co-operation of the mothers was most gratifying to those who planned the meeting.

MISSION PLAYLET GIVEN AT HASTINGS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 15. — The October meeting of the Mission Circle of Trinity United Church and their Thanksgiving offering meeting was held at the parsonage, the home of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Newell. Sixteen members were present, also eight members from Norwood. The call to worship was taken by Miss Irene Oliver and was followed with a hymn and prayer. The Scripture was given in two parts by Misses Frances Metcalfe and Helen Turner. A reading by Miss Grace Orr was in keeping with the worship period. The thankoffering envelopes and collection were gathered and dedicated by the singing of a verse of a hymn. The topic by Mrs. C. Renaud of Norwood was indeed interesting and very helpful as she told of the week spent at the School for Leaders at the Whitby Ladies' College. She gave the members a description of the college and brought to them ideas and plans for the work for the coming year.

After the close of her address six of the Norwood girls presented a missionary playlet.

Business centered around the date November 17 when Miss Kate Aikens of Toronto will conduct a cooking class in the Town Hall Hastings, at 3 p.m. Everyone is welcome. Admission will be 15 cents. Lunch will be served and prizes given.

The new study book for the year is "A New Church Faces a New World." A Mission Circle rally will be held at Westwood on October 22.

Following a closing hymn and the benediction Mrs. Newell and the girls served refreshments.

Young People Meet.

The members of the Elgin Settlement belonging to Trinity United Young People's Society had charge of Monday evening's program. The interesting Scriptural talk was given by the president, Mrs. F. W. Newell. Miss Frances Hoard was chosen as the press secretary. Miss Rhea Preston prepared the following splendid program, with the theme of Thanksgiving: Hymn. "Come, ye thankful people, come"; reading, "The Origin of Thanksgiving," by Miss Frances Metcalfe; piano instrumental by Miss Ferne Preston; topic on "Thanksgiving" By Henry Thistlewaite, superintendent of the Elgin Sunday School; solo, "Working Together," by Miss Aileen Hubbel; reading, "A Thanksgiving Quarrel," by Miss Ferne Preston; guitar instrumental, by Robert Glass; hymn, "Whosoever heareth, shout, shout the sound." Mizpah. Games conducted by Carman Metcalfe.

WITNESS SWEARS MUCH DRINKING PRECEDED CRASH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Oct. 15.—The second day's hearing of evidence at the Fall Assizes on the charge of manslaughter preferred against John Hugh Watson of Toronto, was featured by interesting evidence given by Mrs. Mary Kerr, who was an occupant of the Watson car on the day of the accident, and who suffered a broken back.

The car, she declared, was going about seventy miles an hour when the accident occurred. Before leaving Toronto she swore that the four occupants of the car did considerable drinking, the witness going out on two occasions to purchase whiskey. One stop was made on the trip to Lindsay when another drink was had by the four of them. She did not remember throwing her arm around the neck of the accused man.

In answer to a question witness said she was feeling pretty good and had consumed considerable liquor.

Witness further declared that she was told by Paul O'Neill, one of the members of the party, when he saw her in St. Michael's Hospital, to state that she threw her arms around Watson's neck.

Clarence Hastings, of Toronto, an automobile engineer, stated he had made examinations of the roadway where the accident occurred, making measurements and tests of the curve. He negotiated the curve at 55 miles an hour and did not lose control of the car. He was convinced that a driver would lose control of his car at this point travelling between 60 and 70 miles an hour.

STIRLING MASONS HOLD FINE BANQUET

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Oct. 15.—On Monday night of this week Keystone Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, Stirling, was honored by the visit of Rt. Ex. Comp. W. L. Smith, of Madoc, Grand Superintendent of Prince Edward District No. 11.

At the banquet which followed the lodge meeting Rt. Ex. Comp. E. A. Carleton, First Principal, acted as toastmaster. When all had partaken of a sumptuous repast (pumpkin pie being much in evidence on account of Thanksgiving Day possibly) the toast to The King was given followed by the toast to Grand Chapter which was proposed by V. Ex. Comp. G. B. Bedford, and responded to by Grand Supt. W. L. Smith. Comp. Smith's address was on "Stones of Masonry and Optimism" and was much appreciated.

The toast to "The Visitors" proposed by Rt. Ex. Comp. T. W. Solmes, was responded to by Comps. Mellow, Holmes and Miles of Napanee and Comps. Tummon, Kellar and Pigden of Madoc.

Several times during the evening Ex. Comp. Robt. Patterson led in community singing in which all heartily joined.

In proposing a toast to Keystone Chapter, Rt. Ex. Comp Smith thanked the officers and members for their hospitality and the visitors heartily responded. The Junior Wardens toast closed a very pleasant evening.

PUPILS STRIKE

TORONTO, Oct. 15 — (CP). — A home sit-down strike by 13 pupils of one York Township Public School who refused to be transferred to another several blocks distant was temporarily effective when the township board of education last night decided to allow them to attend their old school until the question can be finally decided next week.

PHEASANT SHOOT LEGAL OCT. 28, 29

TORONTO, Oct. 15 — Two days' pheasant shooting—October 28 and 29—have been fixed by the Department of Game and Fisheries, under Hon. Harry C. Nixon, for Pelee Island; Essex County; and Kent County; and the Townships of Markham, York, Nelson, Trafalgar, Flamboro East, Beverley, Ancaster, Saltfleet, Benbrook, Grimsby North, Clinton, Louth, Grantham, Niagara, Caistor, Stamford, Willoughby, Bertie, Humberstone, Canborough, Dunn, Cayuga South Cayuga North, Oneida, Seneca and part of Westminster.

The bag limit on Pelee Island will be five birds a day, of which four must be cockbirds. Every hunter must carry the Provincial gun license, and in addition pay $3 to the Pelee Township municipal authorities whether he shoots one day or two days.

Must Carry License.

On all parts of the Essex County mainland, and in Kent County, the bag limit will be restricted to three cockbirds a day. There is no municipal charge for shooting in either of these prescribed areas.

Shooting in the twenty-six townships aforementioned has been authorized under a special arrangement between the department and the various municipal authorities. Every hunter must possess the Provincial license, and in addition must carry in a conspicuous place identification cards to be issued by the township authorities. Residents of a township who want to hunt there will pay 25 cents a day for the identification label, and non-residents, $1 a day. The bag limit per day will be three cockbirds.

Restrictions Imposed.

Special restrictions have been imposed by the department on the two-day open season in these townships. They will be enforced by Provincial wardens, aided by a young army of township deputies especially appointed for the purpose. No gun shall be fired within 100 yards of any residence or barns or other outbuildings. The ordinary laws of trespass will apply, and all any farmer need do to legally close his property to shooters is to placard it. No gunning will be permitted in any section of any township that is known as a Crown game preserve.

In Essex and Kent quail and Hungarian partridge may also be shot on October 28 and October 29, although the bag limits have still to be set.

PEOPLE'S LEAGUE MAY BRANCH OUT

EDMONTON, Oct. 14 (C.P.). — Entry of the People's League of Alberta into provincial politics may result if unity negotiations among "old line" parties fail, it was indicated here last night by G. W. Auxier at the first annual meeting of the Edmonton branch.

"In the event the parties will not agree to some definite scheme mutually acceptable, it may yet be necessary, much as we regret it, to enter directly into the political field," said Mr. Auxier, returning secretary.

He stated such entry would be made "either alone or with such parties and organizations as are willing to unite for the purpose of overthrowing the present Social Credit administration, and to restore some semblance of sanity to Alberta administration."

The People's League was formed last year with branches throughout the province with the announced intention of bringing about the defeat of the Aberhart Government. Announced as non-political in character when formed by business and professional men in Calgary and Edmonton, the League sought support of "all who believed in the maintenance of free British institution" which, it claimed, the Aberhart Government was wrecking.

KING COMMENDS PROJECT

LONDON—King George expressed his interest in poor housing conditions today in a letter to his aunt, the Countess of Athlone, who will open two blocks of slum clearance flats in Kensington next Wednesday.

The letter said the King takes "the keenest interest in the housing conditions of his people and is gratified with the Kensington project."

School Meeting Well Attended

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Oct. 15.—The Opening meeting of the Havelock Home and School Association held on Tuesday evening was exceptionally well attended, 38 adults and 22 children being present, and Mrs. Walter Nobes in the chair.

Following the usual opening ceremony, a splendid address by Dr. A. S. Thompson on "Spinal Meningitis" was very much appreciated. A demonstration of singing and verse speaking was given by the pupils of Miss Robinson's classroom. A very interesting paper on "Child Recreation" was presented by Mrs. R. E. Lemon.

A special feature of the evening was the presentation of a shield to the Home and School Association by Miss F. E. Morgan, former principal of the High School. The presentation was made by Mrs. Nobes in the absence of Miss Morgan. The shield, which is identical with the Home and School emblem, was made by Mr. Grey Kemp of town. It is to be awarded monthly to the classroom having the largest number of parents represented at the meeting, and was won this month by the pupils of Miss Watson's class.

NEW LODGE ROOMS TO BE DEDICATED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Oct. 15. — Monday, October 18, will be a red letter day in the annals of the Havelock Masonic Lodge A.F. and A.M., No. 435, it being the occasion of an especial communication of the Grand Lodge here for the purpose of dedicating the new lodge rooms in the Masonic Temple. Deputy Grand Master M.W. Bro. J. A. Dobbie will conduct the elaborate ceremony, and many illustrious brethren from Toronto and other points will take part in the dedication. After the ceremony a hot dinner will be served in the Town Hall by the ladies of St. John's Parish Guild.

HELP FROM U.S.

THOUSANDS IN NEED

MONTREAL, Oct. 15—(CP). — Thousands of persons in the Saskatchewan drought area face a winter of starvation and privation without proper clothing or fuel, according to E. J. Garland of Rowley, Alta., organizer for the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

Addressing the League for Social Reconstruction here last night, Mr. Garland said that in many sections farmers have not had a cash crop for 11 years, while thousands of acres were planted with seed which even failed to germinate.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often brink quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Junior Boys Sprint Record Tied At P.C.I. Field Day

Chill Wind And Slow Track Keeps Mark Down—Successful Affair

A large list of field and track events, under the auspices of the P.C.V.S. Boys' and Girls' Athletic Associations, were staged yesterday at the Exhibition Grounds. It was the annual P.C.I. field day, with teachers, students and athletes co-operating to make it a highly successful affair. A chill wind and slow track kept runners from breaking any records—though the junior boys' 100-yard sprint mark was tied—but competition in the majority of events was keen.

There were 62 trac kand field competitions listed in a busy afternoon, several events being staged simultaneously. A large gathering of spectators watched the performances. Officials included: Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, the Misses Bailey, Brisbin, Muri, McGregor, Copus, Moore, McBride, Gerrard, Hicks, Kendall, White, Lees, McIntosh, Montgomery, O'Connell, Park, Howson and Thompson; and Messrs. Bamforth, Craig, Toole, Browne, Henry, Collingwood, Hall, Rogers, McCarrell, Johnston, Pettit, Ross, Zavitz, Beals, Rutherford, Graham, Richardson, Cornell, Weames, W. Brown, Loomis, D. Brown, Jackson, and a number of scorers.

Members of the boys' athletic committee were: Haig Kelly, president; Donald Duncan, vice-president; Grant Clark, secretary; Roscoe Thornton, treasurer; girls' association members included: Mary McPherson, president; Beryl Johnston, vice-president; Doris Glover, secretary; Irene Gandy, treasurer.

Jerry Creighton won the boys' senior championship to gain 21 points, passing Ross Thornton near the tape in the half-mile run to win out, Thornton having 19 points. In a heavy list of girls' events, Mary McPherson took senior honors with four firsts and one second. Elinor Irwin won two events and was second in two more to capture intermediate honors for girls. The junior girls' champion was Margaret Mason with three firsts and two thirds. Harlow Cutting, an intermediate, entered the boys' senior high jump class and won with a mark of five feet, three inches. Stroyan Leith had a big day with the junior boys' competitions, and tied the school record of 12 1-5 seconds for the hundred yards.

Girls' Winners.

Results in girls' classes were:

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

SEVERAL NEW players—getting into their first game this year—will be with our Orfuns here tomorrow when they tackle Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts at three in Riverside Park. Bill Gerow will be back in action again, while either McIntyre or E. Creighton will be dressed for the game. Maybe Holmes, also. And a 190-pound Deloro product named Smith may be used on the line. Coach Turnbull expects a tough scrap with the husky Ghosts and, with the loss of Magee, is bolstering his squad up as much as possible. Loucks will be used for placement kicking and Don Crowe for punting. He is expected to hold his own in the booting exchanges with Mike Meikle, Cobourg's starry import from Toronto. Direct snaps will be used by the locals in some plays and they plan to show an open brand in this tussle.

* * * * *

IT SHAPES up as the best grid battle of the year in this city. The Speedy Spirits from the Lakeshore town have oodles of class and a couple of dandy imports. They openly predict a win here, after losing a 7-6 scrap to Peterborough early in the season on their own gridiron. But somehow we feel the Orfuns will rise to the occasion—as they did a year ago against both Lindsay and Belleville here—and keep their home grounds' win streak intact. It ought to be a bitter brawl, with no love lost between the husky hombres of the rival squads, and a huge crowd is expected out.

* * * * *

SURE, IT may be chilly over at the park tomorrow—but the cool tang of autumn air and football go together like Scotch and soda. There is some fascination about football that brings out the ladies and gents game after game regardless of the weather. And when they have a grid natural on tap like this Cobourg-Peterborough clash here tomorrow you couldn't keep 'em away with a shotgun. There will be no confusion in colors, the Cobourgites being decked out in ghostly white, while the Orfuns wear their usual snappy maroon sweaters. Keep your eye on the ball at every snap as it is mighty hard to follow those masked plays, and don't forget to give the linemen a gander occasionally as they play a very important part in the game. The raffle draw of the club will be made at this tilt, too.

* * * * *

WE USE the word "alternates" instead of "subs" in rugby, hockey and lacrosse lineups on account of it is a truer term and also the athletes like it better. Substitutes used to just get in the game occasionally when regulars needed rest, but nowadays some of the stars don't start the tussle but are used to alternate with starting players throughout. All are equally important to the club, and a team is only as strong as its alternates.

* * * * *

COACHES BAMFORTH and Jackson take their P.C.I. rugby teams to Bowmanville tomorrow in the second games of their C.O.S.S.A. schedules. They hope to repeat their Oshawa wins of here last week-end. It is doubtful if Al Clark will be back in the senior Garnet and Gray lineup, but the local first squad ought to win. The juniors may have more trouble. The following Saturday sees the P.C.I. seniors idle, with Bowmanville playing in Oshawa, but our junior gang is slated to take on Lindsay here that day. The latter crew winds up its schedule on Nov. 13th, a week later than the older Peterborough squad. Plenty of good football is assured Peterborough followers of these school teams through the autumn.

* * * * *

WE ARE glad to inform folks that the Blue Bombers of Lindsay will finish out their schedule here—that is October 30th—on account of we have been so assured, quite forcibly, by ye scriveners of the two Scugog papers. The Post key-puncher says: "There isn't much danger of Lindsay not finishing out the schedule and, unless the Orfuns pick up their kilts and show more than they did on Monday, that 'Terryish' crack may be the spark that caused the explosion." And the Warder writer states: "The luckless Cobourg Red Raiders were a plucky enough bunch of gridders to carry on for the remainder of last season, though they only won one game in two years, and Lindsay will be, too." And what more could one ask of the gods?

* * * * *

AGAIN LET us remind officers and players of the annual meeting of the Church Basketball League tonight at 7.45 in the Y.M.C.A. All those interested are invited. Reports of last season will be presented, officers elected and plans for the coming season made. A good bunch of entries right away is hoped for, and this lively loop may get started practically at once. Circuit officials hope to have at least four teams in each bracket of the church league, and to have the schedules going within a week. There will be at least one change in office, and possibly more. This is the time for the prospective teams to be represented and to make their requests.

* * * * *

QUITE A crowd of students took part in the big annual P.C.I. field day at the Exhibition Grounds yesterday afternoon. Track was slow and the air was chilly, so no records were broken, but fine competition marked many of the large list of events. Jerry Creighton cleaned up in the senior boys' class, with Mary McPherson getting most of the honors for senior girls. Stroyan Leith had a big day for junior boys and tied the century dash school record in 12 1-5 seconds. H. Cutting, an intermediate, did the senior high jump of 5 feet 3 inches. Elinor Irwin led intermediate girls, and Margaret Mason topped the junior lasses. The teaching staff rates a lot of credit for the way this field day was run off, and so do the school athletic committees, girls' being: President Mary McPherson, vice-prexy Beryl Johnston, secretary Doris Glover, treasurer, Irene Gandy; and boys' consisting of: President Haig Kelly; vice-prexy Don Duncan; secretary Gee Clark and treasurer Ross Thornton.

* * * * *

PICKING 'EM off the grapevine: Jo-Jo Graboski, ex-Oshawa puckist, will play for Hershey B'ars this winter . . . . While Speedy St. Louis and Cy Barriage of Belleville will be with Thorold Mountaineers come ice time . . . . De Laval softballers, champs of the Southend Loop, had a victory banquet the other e'en . . . . Orfuns' player numbers are listed elsewhere tonight . . . . Lindsay Post scribe picks Cobourg to beat Orfuns here tomorrow . . . . Three or four local ball men will attend the C.O.B.L. annual session in Belleville on the morrow . . . . Trenton Fliers are reported the team to beat for the O.R.F.U. intermediate championship this fall . . . . The Quinte Redmen, who won "B" honors last winter, are scattered to the four winds now—two of 'em being down in this neck of the timber . . . . And Harry Ingram, Campbellford defenceman, has retired . . . . Slogan for tomorrow's grid game here: May the better mudders win.

Notre Dame Gridders Really Irish Forty Sons Of Erin On '37 Squad

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.— Notes from a football press box:

Football goes Literary— Kansas has a halfback named Robert Louis Stevenson.....Notice from Notre Dame publicity office: "We respectfully request that use of the term 'Ramblers' to describe Notre Dame athletic teams be discontinued. The official nickname of these teams is the 'Fighting Irish' or simply 'The Irish.' (We have forty Irishmen among the first seventy on the squad this year, and the rest are still Irish 'by association.')" Notre Dames objection to Ramblers is that the name first was used when Notre Dame travelled extensively.

University of Detroit has three southpaw passers....and it has a scout who "scouts" his own team ....John J. McNamara sits in the stands and watches Detroit plays to report flaws.

Mrs. Buck Shaw, wife of the Santa Clara coach, still has an old hat that Movie Actor Andy Devine, an alumnus, wore the day Santa Clara beat St. Mary's in 1923.....

Pop Warner, who gets $20,000 a year coaching Temple, received about $80 for six weeks of coaching at Iowa State in 1895....Mississippi State has a tackle named Louis Munchausen.....Guess what his nickname is—. You are right.

Louisiana State has a pair of twins in its line-up—Jack Gormley at end and Dick at centre....Mayor Dan Butler of Omaha coached Creighton in 1905....George Chiga, former Canadian heavyweight wrestling champion, is a tackle on the Oklahoma Aggies' freshman team.

Francis Schmidt, burly Ohio State coach, once taught folk-dancing in a Kansas high school....Wisconsin players are not allowed to stretch on the turf when time is out.....Coach Harry Stuhldreher says they relax too much.....Bob Wilkie' Notre Dame halfback last year, has two coaching jobs.... He handles the Hamilton (Ohio) High school team and then drives twenty miles to work with the Xavier College backfield in Cincinnati.

INDIANS RULING SLIGHT FAVORITES TO BEAT BEACHES

As choice a dish as you could ask for this early in the season will be served to the East tomorrow for the second course of the 1937 football menu. Five senior games bring together the contenders—and at this stage no team is anything else.

Toronto Argonauts will entertain the Indians of Montreal in frost-bitten Varsity Stadium in the high-light contest. A crowd of 16,000 will see for themselves whether this Indian club has the power and finesse its line-up of "names" implies.

Both were returned victorious in their opening Interprovincial League clashes last Saturday when Indians scalped Ottawa Roughriders, 17-6, and the Scullers outlasted Hamilton Tigers for a 17-16 triumph.

On performance, Indians might rule slight favorites, with the Tiger-Rough Rider game at Ottawa a toss-up. The loser at Ottawa will take the cellar in the Big Four and a crushing to any championship aspirations. But the Montreal team dropped a pre-season game to Toronto's Balmy Beach outfit—don't forget that.

Anything might happen in the Intercollegiate Union where no one team has shown decided superiority. University of Toronto moves into Montreal against McGill, while Queens make a home stand against University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

Toronto will be without Barry Gray for this game against the speedy Red. And without their first-string quarterback, who suffered a dislocated shoulder last week, the Blues may not possess enough snap to move the ball within sight of McGills goalposts for Sharpshooter Cam Gray to boot field goals. Gray's field goals beat Queen's 9-3 last Saturday.

Football Fundamentals

Proper Training Essential To Reduce Rugby Injuries

By LEW HAYMAN

Coach, Toronto Argonauts Football Club

Today's article concludes the series of "Football Fundamentals." I sincerely hope that you have all enjoyed and have derived some benefit from the points discussed.

To the reader, coach or player, may I emphasize the point that the best football is played by those who know, and can execute with the finest technique, the simple sound fundamentals of the game.

Prevention of Injuries

Football is a rough game for it is mostly made up of bodily contact in a high-spirited, competitive contest. Hence it should be played only by boys who have the physique and liking for this type of play. Bumps and bruises are inevitable and players must be able to take them without complaining. But serious injury is an entirely different matter. The coach and the individual player must take every possible precaution against it.

Generally speaking injuries may occur as a result of one of the following causes:

1. Bad physical condition.

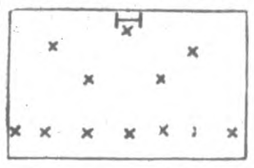
2 Faulty and improper equipment.

3. Wrong technique in executing fundamentals.

Condition

Too often a lad attempts to play in a game without being physically fit. Along about the fourth quarter his mind may have an idea, but the body will refuse to co-operate, the boy is half hearted in his movements and crash! the contact is made and an injury has occurred. It is in the state where the player is without muscular control, that he is so susceptible to bad injuries.

Every player should go into training weeks before he attempts to compete physically. His body must be built up by an assortment of exercises, his wind developed by lots of running and his mind kept clear by rest and plenty of fresh air. Good, simple, solid foods—no fats or starches—will tend to keep his digestive system in order. Too much stress cannot be given to the condition of a footballer. A man easily hurt is a hindrance to himself and to the team.



A good line-up to receive a kick-off

Equipment

Wherever possible, proper protective equipment must be worn. A faulty shoulder pad may result in a bad shoulder injury, a slipping thigh pad may leave you with a number of torn muscles. If the equipment can't be of the best material, at least make certain that the fit is a good one. There is often a tendency not to wear a helmet—this is absolutely stupid. One may go for days, weeks or years without a bad blow on the head, but by change one day, he is apt to get a terrific crack there, which if the head is not protected, can easily result in a serious permanent injury. The consequences of a head injury are too severe to trifle with, and head gear should be worn at all times.

Faulty Technique

Knowing and executing the proper way to fall, tackle and block will minimize injuries as well as help to achieve victories. Thus by study and application of the thoughts and ideas expressed in the previous articles, we can have better football with less injuries.

THE END

Number 28

Two golfers had an argument recently about conditions in the game which depended on certain rules. One player cited what he thought was the rule governing such conditions, the other admitted that he knew nothing of the rule. Neither was able to decide how the ball should have been played or how the score figured according to the way it was played. The outcome of this hole affected their whole game.

Obviously, their inability to apply the rule to such conditions proved a handicap and limited their enjoyment of the game. The results are the same whenever the question of the rule arises. Those knowing the rules feel that others should abide by them during a game. Those not knowing them believe in many cases that an unjust penalty has been imposed when a rule is invoked.

Since so much depends on knowing the rules why not carry a rule book in your pocket for occasional study and reference? You'll be surprised to learn just how many times you have broken rules about taking practice swings near your ball, playing out of turn or having your caddy hold back tree branches while you swing at the ball.

Get a small book of rules from your pro now and study them. It will bring more enjoyment out of your game.

CENTRAL GAINS SCHOOL SERIES

Central Public school soccer team went into second position in the school league yesterday (Thursday) afternoon when they trounced the Prince of Wales' eleven by the score of eight to none. J. Gross and W. Defoe, full backs of Prince of Wales, played an excellent defensive game. Parsons, Central half, is clever in interception of attack and is a steady player in positional play. Millen being outstanding on the attack.

	P	W	L	D	F	A	Pts.
King Edward	5	4	0	1	25	1	9
Central	4	3	1	0	13	1	6
Pr. of Wales	4	2	2	0	8	13	4
Queen Alex.	5	2	2	1	3	7	5
Queen Mary	3	1	2	0	1	3	2
King George	5	0	5	0	2	28	0

Two points for a win; one for a draw.

Exchanges Even.

In the early stages the Prince of Wales' boys showed promise of a real snappy tussle, but failed to check the fast moving front line of Central. In this respect Millen was conspicuous with his clever dribbling to test out the custodian. He was rewarded for his efforts by sending across a perfect pass to Moorehead, who opened the scoring. Within two minutes, the same performer added another counter on a pass up the wing by Parsons, who had robbed the west-enders of a nice opening. Throughout this period Defoe and Gross stepped into the attack to support their goal-keeper to confine the score at the interval, Central 2, Prince of Wales 0.

Central Increased Their Lead.

On resuming, the Prince of Wales' half-backs frustrated many dangerous raids led by Millen and Batten, on the extreme wings; while Parsons, Kiff and Foster played their positions to perfection to feed their attack with beautiful passes into scoring positions that steadily increased the Central boys' score. On an individual effort, Millen dribbled his way through three opponents to register a beautiful goal from an oblique angle. The next counter was scored by the losers' goalie who carried the ball through his own goal when he ran back from the Central pivot. Moorehead added the fifth, Millen the sixth, Clark the seventh from a penalty shot, and Kiff the eighth. Central 8, Prince of Wales 0.

Central—F. Drummond, goal; R. Clarke and G. Lee, full-backs; F. Kiff, N. Foster and F. Parsons, halves; B. Millen, D. Miller, J. Moorehead, S. Clarke and L. Batten, forwards.

Prince of Wales—W. Parnell, goal; J. Groas and W. Defoe, full-backs; C. Stewart, H. Henry and S. French, halves; R. Doughty, P. Burns, R. Lacey, R. Crowe and L. Maudsley, forwards. M. Doughty, J. Saunders and W. Dyer subs.

Referee—D. Buchan.

United States Rugby Giants To Stage Battle Of East

Annual 'Battle Of Futility' Has Football Spotlight On Saturday

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (A.P.)—On the same Polo Grounds green where the Giants made their final, feeble stand against the Yankees, United States College football's annual "Battle of Futility" will be played on Saturday between the hell-roaring Panthers of Pittsburg and the Bucking Rams of dear old Fordham.

For two years now the game, ballyhooed as one of the greatest of the season, has had no rhyme nor reason. Twice the Panthers and Rams have met and bounced each other all over the field with nothing to show the big crowds but a scoreless tie.

Should Start Investigation?

What will happen on Saturday is only a guess, but if it's another 0-0 on the scoreboard, both Jock Sutherland of Pitt and wide awake "Sleepy Jim" Crowley of Fordham will run the risk of an investigation.

Both Sutherland and Crowley deny vigorously that they meet annually resolved not to hurt the other's chances for an Eastern Rose Bowl assignment and it is true they have no regard for each other's future in football coaching success. So there can be no other explanation than this: It is the annual game between the irresistible force and the immovable object. You hear about that one all year, but the Fordham-Pitt scrap must be the McCoy.

Refused to Score.

In 1935, Pitt met the Rams with its great sophomore team. The game was almost all Fordham in the final period, the Rams rammed within scoring distance, but refused to take a single chance to push over the winning score. With seconds to play they still wouldn't try anything but straight line bucks when a fake or a pass might have meant a touchdown.

Last year the Panthers outplayed the Rams, but they, too, refused to try something fancy for a score. Once they were on the four-yard line. They tried four line bucks against a line they knew to be impregnable and go nothing.

"We're going to pull some fancy stuff this year to end this scoreless tie stuff—if we can," says Jock, "but maybe a tie would be pretty good. They're tough."

"If we can get a tie," says Crowley, "well be tickled."

Quebec Baseballers Quit Parent Body

MONTREAL, Oct. 15 (CP).—Officers of the Provincial Baseball Association, which governs about twenty amateur baseball leagues in Quebec Province, announced yesterday the organization had severed affiliation with the amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Immediate cause of the break, according to Secretary Ernest Comte, was the Baseball Association's refusal to accept an A.A.U. of C. ruling against importation of United States amateur baseball players. Next season, he said, the association would permit up to three United States "imports" for each of the 100 or more teams under its jurisdiction.

GALLOPING GHOSTS CLASH WITH ORFUNS

The big football game of the season here is tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at three in Riverside Park. The Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg clash with the Peterborough Orfuns for undisputed possession of first place—if Orfuns win, or a first-place tie in their Intermediate O.R.F.U. grouping if the locals lose. On their season's showing the husky Ghosts rate just as strong as the Turnbull team, having licked Lindsay by a bigger score than Orfuns did and also knocking off Toronto Eastsides. Orfuns had an early season 7-6 win and they promise to win again here. It will be a gruelling battle between two smart teams and ought to draw a record crowd here.

The kicking of Crowe and Meikle will be a feature, and may alone settle the issue. Magee will be out of the local lineup, with Loucks likely in his place, along with Crowe, Giardino and Archibald at quarter. These are the likely linemen (with numbers where available): Marsh (5), Hendren (8), Sloan (13), Weir (18), Begley (24), Pulkinghorn (4), Grosse (6), Cameron (20). Others with numbers include: Giardino (1), Loucks (16), Crowe (9), Archibald (19), Kearns (2), F. Spencely (7), Winslow (8), Prete (10), Broadley (11), Williams (12), Mitchell (14), E. Spencely (15), Coughlin (17), Harle (22), Ascott (23), and Gerow, E. Creighton, Holmes, McIntyre Bartle and Smith. The raffle draw for the club will be held at this contest, too.

BROWNS-BRAVES ONLY TWO CLUBS WITHOUT PILOTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—(CP).—The Wolves are going hungry after all those scalps of major baseball league managers that we promised to the "howlers" a few weeks back are going to stay plastered on the heads to which they belong.

An Associated Press survey to-day showed that the only pilots likely to get the heave-o as a result of the 1937 campaign are the two who received their walking passes before the season ended—Chuck Dressen of Cincinnati Reds, and Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis Browns.

At this writing, even Steve O'Neil, for whose neck the wolves were roaring from start to finish of the season, appears safe. President Alva Bradley of Cleveland Indians announced O'Neil will be back boasing the Tribe next season "unless someone can convince me we'll better ourselves with someone else."

Positions Were Shaky.

Less than a month ago, it was "six, two and even" that half of the 16 leaders in the Big Show would be among the unemployed by winter; Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals, Pie Traynor of the Pirates, O'Neil, Jimmy Wilson of the Phillies, Bucky Harris of the Senators, and Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, all were mentioned as sitting on shaky perches.

Now, however, it's all changed. Everyone of those pilots, as well as all the other holdovers except for the Reds and Boston Bees are in the driver's seat to stay for another year.

The Bees lost their master-mind when Bill McKechnie took the Cincinnati job for $25,000 plus a bonus for each year of a three-year contract. This left the Bees and the Browns the only two outfits not set for next season, and the Browns now are about ready to nominate Gabby Street to succeed Horneby.

For the rest, the contracts are already in the safe, with the exception of the Indians. The choicest plums, of course, were the new papers to which Bill Terry and Joe McCarthy, New York's pennant-winning pilots, put their "John Hancock." Terry's contract a five-year affair, calls for $40,000-per. McCarthy signed up for $35,000 annually for three years.

Louis Signs To Make 6 Pictures

Joe Louis, hard-hitting heavyweight champion of the pugilistic world, is seen here as he signed a contract which will co-star him with Clarence Muse, famed screen and radio star, in a series of six picturs, the first starting with "The Spirit of Youth." $300,000 is the sum reputed to be guaranteed Louis for becoming an actor. Clarence Muse, Joe Louis and Martin Finkinstein, vice-president of the independent company that will back the Louis pictures, are seen here from LEFT to RIGHT.

Rumored Dizzy Dean Will Join Giants' Wigwam Next Season

But Cubs Ready To Horn In On Deal—Van Lingle Mungo On Block

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP).—The hot stove league opened its season today on a baseball situation bearing all the earmarks for one of the busiest trading sessions in years.

From end to end of the big leagues, with the possible exception of the world champion New York Yankees, who are satisfied with things as they are, it looked like the ivory will be moved around in wholesale lots. The dealings in diamond material were touched off last week when Cardinals gave one-for-four in a highly profitable piece of business with Brooklyn Dodgers, but that was only the start.

Most talk at the moment revolved around the uniforms of Van Lingle Mungo and Dizzy Dean will be wearing next season, as well as the changes rumored in store for the national league pennant-winning Giants.

Mel Ott Mentioned

When the Terry Terriers finished getting their ears knocked off by the Yanks in the World Series, there was considerable rumor that several members of the current cast would be hanging their hats in new locker rooms, come 1938. Hank Leiber, the power-hitting centre-fielder; Hal Schumacher, the right hander who hasn't been on too good terms with Boss Bill Terry, and even Melvin Ott, idol of the Polo Grounds, have been mentioned as trading bait.

Incoming, if you listen to the chatter, will be Mungo, Brooklyn's temperamental fireballer, who spent most of the 1937 season nursing his rage (and a bankroll alloed by suspension) down in the black hills of South Carolina, after rowing with the Dodgers. There is also rumor that Diz Dean, after his most disastrous season, will move in from St. Louis to Coogan's Bluff, the Giants wigwam.

But Chicago Cubs may have something to say about that. If you listened to the talk behind the scenes during the series, you could have heard lots of the "experts" telling that the Cubs are ready to lay it on the line for the "Great one."

Certain it is, that the Cubs are playing no favorites in making over the team that couldn't hold its lead in the National League race. Shortstop Bill Jurges, Pitcher Larry French and wallloping Outfielder Frank Demaree have been brought up in discussions Cub officials have had with both St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds. And it is known the Cubs have had longing eyes for some time on Mungo or Dean or both.

The Giants could use more power in their lineup. So could Brooklyn Dodgers, who were a woeful sight for most of the '37 campaign. The Brooklyns already have put Mungo on the block and will let him go in return for some lads who can flail that ball—as well as a bundle of cash. If they deal with the Cubs, Demaree is a cinch to be included in any negotiations.

Whether the Giants will renew their trade talk of last spring with the Phillies remains to be seen. They liked the looks of both Dolph Camilli, first baseman, and Pitcher Claude Passeau at that time.

If they open the dealing again, there's a chance Sambo Leslie or Johnny McCarthy, both first sackers, Leiber and a pitcher will be mentioned.

Yawkey To Spend More

Up in Boston, the Red Sox are ready to take the lid off again. Owner Tom Yawkey, woefully disappointed that his first $3,000,000 didn't produce much in the way of results, is set to remove the rubber from around his bankroll. The Bees, on the other hand, are willing to trade for a third baseman and a clouting flychaser, and may even toss in one of their classy looking pitchers to produce results. They're also in the market for a manager, whether it's Tony Lazzeri, Rabbit Maranville or someone else.

Connie Mack, after several seasons of selling, has been quoted as ready to make some cash outlay to bolster the likely looking youngsters he brought into his Athletics last season. A second baseman is the big need.

Cards In Market

The Cardinals, after obtaining Joe Stripp, Johnny Cooney, Jim Bucher and Roy Henshaw from the Dodgers, may use one or all as trading bait, particularly, if you believe the rumor, Stripp in a deal with the Giants.

Cincinnati's Reds need lots of everything, what with Kiki Cuyler retiring, and may try to trade off some of their up-and-coming rookies. Detroit's Tigers are supposed to be eyeing Washington Senators to make up for their lack of pitching, particularly those flinging rookies brought up by Washington late in '37.

Soccer Notes

Saturday's soccer bill is the final of the White Challenge Cup between the Canada Packers and Canadian General on King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon. Kick off at 2.30. Referee, W. Jones. Linesmen, D. Buchan and G. Blowers.

The local Canadian General expected to have a team from outside here this Saturday but have been notified that they cannot fulfill the engagement.

There will be a special meeting of the local association on Monday evening in Chamber of Commerce rooms at eight prompt.

In all probability, the final of the Public School championship will be played next week. There has been fifty-two goals scored in the competition.

AMERICAN LOOP HOLDS BIG EDGE IN WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The Yankees humiliated the Giants, and another baseball war has been declared. It all revolves around the moot question of which of the two major leagues is the better. There isn't any argument about that. The American League, younger and more ambitious than the National circuit, has definitely proved its superiority by winning ten of the last fifteen world series.

As has been pointed out elsewhere, the American League magnates centred their scouting interest on rookies who could whale the tar out of the seamed apple. Fielding of the said rookies was of secondary importance, it being considered that the best defence was a strong offence. So, in recent years, all the hitting Elmers from the bushes have wound up usually in the uniforms of the American League clubs.

Most of them seem to have landed with the Yankees.

In regard to pitchers, the A. L. managers only asked for blinding speed and control. And the speedball artists from the sticks came under their supervision.

The old-fashioned National League continued to believe that smart pitching and air-tight fielding constituted a winning combination. Hitters were welcome as long as they coud field faultlessly. If not, they went back to the Three-Eye League. But, while clinging to these aged-in-wood beliefs, the National League magnates have seen their American confederates marching briskly past them when the World Series testing time came along. And the said march will continue unless the National loop forgets its "Kitty-bar-the-door tactics and goes into the market for swing-from-the-hips smasheroos.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.— (AP).—True story: Down at Burlington, N.C., the Tower and McEwen Hosiery Mill teams collided in a seven-game series to decide the championship of an Industrial league.... After nine games, the boys voted to call the whole thing off so as to get to the world series on time.... McEwen had won three games at the finish and Tower two.... The other four ended in ties, s'help us.... (Manager of Tower was Dave Barbee, former Big Leaguer.... He hit safely on 10 of his 14 trips to the plate.... Five of the 10 blows were homers. Sports writers down there swear the series was on the level.

Here's an odd twin story: Jack and Dick Gormley, playing end and centre for Louisiana State, look so little alike they don't fool the opposition.... Now if that ain't one for the book, sue us.

The reason Doc Sutherland and other Big League scouts spend their summers in the Ohio Valley is such guys as Pitt's Marshall Goldberg, Notre Dame's Lou Zontini and Tennessee's George Cafego and Sam Bartholomew, all of whom came out of that section.... Ace of the present crop is Alvin Thacker, 190-pounder, who scored 13 touchdowns for Charlestons East Bank High school in the first four games of the season.... Pitt wants him—so do a lot of others.

The only National League manager who didn't wire Bill McKechnie congratulations on landing that fat $22,500-per Cincinnati job was Pie Traynor of the Pirates.... Pie and Bill aren't talking any more, and good old Bill is all cut up about it.... Trouble started when the Bees sent Berger to the Giants for Frank Gabler and $25,000.... Traynor wanted Berger. Bill says he tried to get in touch with Pirate officials before the deal was made, but no dice.... Anyway, Traynor doesn't drop around to the Boston dressing room after the game any more.

DEAD RECKONING

BY

BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy, who has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting, graduated into homicide from the school of armchair murderers. At middle age, having made a fortunate marriage to Esther Ashwell, and possessing a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim felt happy and secure. Then Esther was run down by a truck. Weeks later she was brought home, a physical wreck and a cripple for life, with only a hint of her former beauty left. Tim loses all interest in his wife because of her appearance. He suggests they hold their annual tennis party despite her condition. He looks forward to an appointment with Alma Shepherd, a widow and new client whom he has suggested to Esther they invite to the tennis party. At his office Tim arranges special flowers for Mrs. Shepherd's benefit as she arrives. Kennedy maneuvers to invite Mrs. Shepherd to the party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 11.

Allowing for a suggestion of strain, a tempo slightly accelerated, the tennis party was an undoubted success.

All were a shade more hearty than they would have been on a quite ordinary occasion, exhibiting unusual skill in conveying sympathy to their host and hostess while evading direct mention of the cause of it. It is true that General Doughty, a slightly moth-eaten little man, who whatever his intrepidity on the battlefield habitually ran away from all unpleasantness in his retired state, was so affected by the warm sunshine and the temporary relenting of his liver that he took Kennedy aside and barked bluffly at him: "Had no opportunity Kennedy. Damn sorry. Bad Business—damn bad business." But no other reference was made, and a cheerful flag-flying atmosphere prevailed.....

Alma Shepherd, arriving rather late with Phyllis in her neat little two-seater, struck an exotic note. Mrs. Doughty looked at her as if she suspected her of being fast, General Doughty and Lawrence Cox as though they wished she were. But Alma, after a quick warming smile to Kennedy and the guests to whom he introduced her, behaved with a modesty and a discretion that were both reassuring and disappointing. She sat down beside Esther, who to her own surprise found she was beginning to enjoy herself, and the two seemed to find plenty to talk about.

At three o'clock Mower had not arrived, and a game of doubles was started, Kennedy, as host, Mrs. Doughty, laying claim to a rheumatic shoulder, and Harold Arkwright, who at the age of sixty-eight disliked playing in the heat of the day, stood out. Shortly afterwards, Mower, a youngish man with straw-colored hair and a loose mouth, made a vivid appearance in a polychromatic blazer and shorts.

"So sorry," he apologized. "I had a patient I couldn't leave. Most complicated case; I only got home to my lunch less than an hour ago."

He gave out the air of a man hard pressed for time! Kennedy resented his attitude and was inclined to disbelieve his story. But as Arkwright was umpiring and Mrs. Doughty was beginning to get confidential with Esther, he had to shoulder the burden of sociability and the two fenced civilly for a time.

Mower seemed ill at ease and annoyed at being out of the game, he kept slapping his thighs with his racket; Kennedy had his own preoccupation. At length they lapsed into silence, apart from an occasional comment on the game. "Oh, hard luck, sir!" Mower would exclaim, or "Oh, good kill!" or "Shooting!" or "Oh, well played— well played indeed!"

Kennedy was less vocal in his appreciation, but he was watching the play closely. Or rather he was watching Alma Shepherd; her finely poised head, the warm brown of her arms against her cool tennis frock, her strong thighs outlined by her skirt as she dived for a low return, the motions of her feet, responding with quick precision to the messages conveyed by her brain.....There was something about a beautiful woman playing good tennis that he had always found irresistible.

She reminded him a little of Esther a few years back, but she was even more graceful, and an infinitely better player. The game resolved itself into a duel between her and Lawrence Cox who was tall, active, and a hard hitter, but without much finesse; gradually she got his measure, and at length she and the General ran out 8—6.

"Grand player, Mrs. Shepherd," said Mower. "Seen many worse at Wimbledon. I'd like to have a single with her some time."

Kennedy was not going to have any of that just yet, and he set to work to get another doubles going. It had turned very hot, and there was some reluctance on the part of the players. Mrs. Shepherd looked as cool as when she began, but she seemed anxious not to call overmuch attention to her very manifest superiority, and declined to play any more until everyone else had had a game.

Eventually Kennedy and Harold Arkwright took on Mower and Mrs. Doughty, the latter stipulating that she should not be asked to serve. This suited Mower very well. He had a dozen little mannerisms that irritated Kennedy: an affected poise and precious arrangement of his feet as he served, trick of leaning forward on his racket with chin uptilted as he awaited service, unnecessary acrobatic gyrations as he swooped at balls wide of him, a little shuffling run up to the net preparatory to taking command of a rally, a trick of poaching from his partner at all opportunities, inevitably followed by an offhand "Sorry, partner." He was, in fact, a dapper little swankpot of the first water, but he could play tennis for all his swank. Arkwright and Kennedy, the latter very anxious to win, were kept on the defensive practically the whole time. They lost the set rather easily.

Then it was time for tea, which was served on the lawn. For a while Kennedy was busy handing things around, and he was unable to control his guests. The party split up into groups of two: Dr. Arkwright with Mrs. Doughty, Mower with Alma Shepherd, General Doughty with Lawrence Cox. Kennedy moved round smilingly from one to the other, catching little snatches of conversation—"Massage is all very well, and exercise better still, but in the long run it comes down to diet—anything else is only palliative." "I only saw him once, in '27, but I thought he was splendid." "Not in the same class as Tilden, though, Mrs. Shepherd, I assure you—not in the same class." Dying like

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BUG CIRCUS.

"Are you all ready, my friends?" buzzed the manager of the June Bug Circus over which Uncle Wiggily and the squirrel boys had laughed so heartily down underground in the hollow stump.

"All ready!" answered a little Juner who rode bareback on a tiny field mouse for a horse.

"Then pop up through the hollow stump and we shall perform our circus stunts for Uncle Wiggily's friends who are waiting up above," buzzed the Ring Master who wore a coat made of bright red sumach berries.

"Not at once, if you please," begged Mr. Longears. "If you pop up first, Miss Mouse and the animal children, not seeing me or the squirel boys, may think something has happened."

"You are right," agreed the Ring Master. "What then?"

His Plan.

"Let me go up first," suggested the rabbit gentleman. Then Johnnie and Billie will follow and while they are all happy to see us back I'll tell them about the Bug Circus. Then you may appear and put on your show."

"Just as you say," agreed the Bug Ring Master. "Get ready, my friends!" he called. "Quiet, please!" he ordered for there were loud buzzing sounds. Really the June Bug performers were much excited.

Uncle Wiggily, followed by the squirrel boys, began to climb up the steps inside the hollow stump.

Meanwhile, up on the ground outside, Miss Mouse, with Baby Bunty and the other animal children, had been anxiously waiting.

"What do you suppose can have happened to Unkie Wig?" asked the orphan rabbit using all the baby talk she was permitted.

"Oh, I think he is all right," squeaked Miss Mouse a bit nervous like. "He will surely reappear."

"I wish I could hope so," murmured Bunty. "But I don't like the sounds of laughter we heard down in the stump. It sounded like the laughter of Bad Chaps."

"Oh, you would say that!" exclaimed Jingle. "Stop it, Bunty!"

Find Him Safe.

So Bunty stopped and, a moment later up popped Uncle Wiggily followed by Johnnie and Billie Bushytail.

"I told you so! Uncle Wiggily is safe!" squeaked Miss Mouse.

"Oh, I am so glad!" cried Baby Bunty. "Hurray!"

"What made you laugh down there?" asked Jingle. "We could hear it coming up through the hollow stump?"

"Oh, it was so funny!" chuckled Mr. Longears. "Just as I expected, I found Johnnie and Billie down in the hollow stump. It is the training camp for the Summer Circus of the June Bugs and I have brought them up to the top with me to give you a show."

"Oh, hurray!" cried all the animal children. Even Miss Mouse squeaked "Hurray!" all by herself.

Then out of the stump crawled dozens of June Bug performers and after the Ring Master in his red sumach coat had blown his whistle everything was ready for Uncle Wiggily's bug circus.

Something happened at it, I shall tell you about it in the story tomorrow night. It will be Uncle Wiggily's unexpected guests. And I hope if the gas stove goes out roller skating with the radio it will come back in time for breakfast.

And further, that the clerk be instructed to return the taxes for the years 1935, and 1936 to the county treasurer for collection. Carried.

That the clerk write to His Honor Judge J. A. McGibbon, and ask his opinion on certain matters in connection with his account.

CAR PASSENGER HURT

CHATHAM, Oct. 15—(CP).—Miss Eileen Hitchcock, 19, of Raleigh, suffered back injuries when a car in which she was a passenger skidded and rolled over on the Eighth Concession road of the township.

Eldon Stonehouse, 19, of Raleigh, driver, and Miss Betty Dawson of Raleigh, another passenger, escaped injury.

Died Suddenly

former secretary of the United States treasury, who died suddenly at his home in New York. Mills, who was 53 was born and died a millionaire though the extent of his fortune is not known. He had served in the New York state senate and the U.S. House of Representatives.

Glimpses Of War On Many Fronts

ROME, October 15—(AP).—Forty-one Italian officers and 17 soldiers have been killed in attacks by "Ethiopian bandits," an official announcement said today. The announcement was the Fascist government's reply to repeated rumors of Ethiopian massacres. It did not mention the number of native troops killed, but informed sources believed it may have been large.

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Oct. 14—(AP).—Insurgent troops drove a fresh hole in the Asturian defence line southeast of Gijon, an insurgent communique reported today. Renewed attacks against government defenders of Gijon, Biscayan seaport of northwestern Spain, including the crossing of the Pilona River and the capture of Oxanes, gave the insurgents control of a large section south of the junction of the Pilona and Sella Rivers. That sector is about 30 air miles from Gijon.

MADRID, Oct. 15—(AP).—With pick and shovel, Madrid today dug herself out of the debris of another disastrous insurgent shelling while ambulances hauled uncounted scores of dead and injured. The former Republican capital resumed its "normal" life after a night of terror in which some 700 artillery projectiles poured into the heart of the city.

The bombardment caught Madrid just as after theatre crowds were streaming homeward and the casualties probably were higher than on Monday night. That attack, claiming more than 100 lives, was unleashed when most of the inhabitants were within the protection of their homes.

PERPIGNAN, France, Oct. 15—(AP)—Summary execution of 10 Spaniards who attempted to lead a party of 300 across the border into the republic of Andorra was reported today from Andorra. The 300 refugees were said to have been surprised by Spanish government frontier guards as they were about to cross the frontier.

(Andorra lies between Spain and France in the Pyrenees).

THE HAGUE, Oct. 15—(CP-Havas) — Two Japanese sailors were wounded when the Netherlands gunboat Flores and the Japanese steamship Taishin Maru exchanged shots near the Anambas Archipeligo in the Netherlands East Indies, it was announced here today.

Although details of the incident were lacking it was understood the Japanese ship was poaching in restricted Netherland fishing districts. A similar incident occurred October 1.

flies, dropping down in the streets, cannibalism, too. And the only decent farmers shot out of hand." "I tell you again you're wrong about the kulaks, General. It's not that they're good farmers, they're speculators."

He came to rest by Esther and Phyllis. He was surprised at the color in his wife's cheeks. His prophecy, lightly and insincerely made, seemed to have come true; she was all the better for the distraction. He stood behind her chair for a while, lightly stroking her hair—a picture of marital devotion.

"Would you like to go indoors now, dear?" he said presently. "We don't want to overtire you."

"I don't feel tired, Tim." She smiled up at him. "I'm enjoying myself."

"That's splendid." He did not press her.

They started tennis again, and in the cool of the afternoon the players warmed up to it. Four more sets of doubles, however, proved as much as the mostly rather elderly company could manage with comfort, and at the end of them Kennedy decided it was time to employ strategy. The only real difficulty was Mower. He went up to him and took his arm in a very friendly way.

"You don't look tired Mr. Mower," he said. "I really think our two male stars should have a set to—why don't you and Cox take each other on?"

He had quickly appreciated that Mower considered Cox to be "not in the same class" as himself, and the temptation to demohstrate his superiority proved irresistible. Cox who enjoyed a vigorous game without entertaining any illusions about his play, was willing enough, and the two began to knock up.

It was timed nicely, for Alma Shepherd (who had again been talking to Mower) was left momentarily high and dry. Kennedy smiled at her disarmingly.

"I did that on purpose," he said. "I'm not going to let Mr. Mower monopolize you. Let me show you round the garden—I know you love flowers."

ITALY STICKS TO BELLIGERENCY RIGHTS DEMAND

BURGLARS GET $300 IN SAFE LAUNDRY OFFICE

Entry Is Gained Through Coal Chute

Smashing the combination lock off the heavy steel door, burglars gained entry to the safe in the office at Fannings Steam Laundry during last night, and got away with around three hundred dollars cash.

Notified of the burglary early this morning after the discovery was made by an official of the firm on opening for the day's business, city police were investigating.

Verifying reports that the premises had been burglarized, the manager said someone had gained entry to the premises through a coal chute at the rear of the building. The trap on the chute was broken.

Without disturbing anything else in the laundry, the burglars made their way straight to the office. "They forced off the combination lock, but how they moved the tumblers I don't know. They got away with almost three hundred dollars," the manager said.

24 MONTREALERS HURT IN EXPLOSION

MONTREAL, Oct. 16 (CP).—Victims of a gas explosion that resounded through Montreal's northeast section were released from hospital one by one today and doctors said none of the two dozen persons involved was injured seriously.

The blast last night wrecked a two-storey building comprising a restaurant and rooming house. Five injured were firemen, called to extinguish a small blaze in the basement of the structure. Other fire department officials said they believed a gas leak had developed in a pipe and the cellar had filled with inflammable gas.

The firemen were just leaving the building when the explosion blew wreckage and splintered glass into the streets, sending spectators scurrying in terror. Denise Pouliot, 10, and her sister, Claire, eight, were hit by flying debris and cut about the face and hands.

John Achaldites, proprietor of the restaurant, Paramount Sweets, suffered minor injuries and his assistant Maurice Hebert, received a leg fracture. Acting District Fire Chief James Messett was among those cut by hurled objects.

CHARGE U.S. SENDS ARMS TO RUSSIA

MILAN, Oct. 16.— (AP).—Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia, referring to President Roosevelt's arraignment of aggressor nations as his "Chicago sermonette," pointed to-day to United States arms shipments which it said reached Spain through Russia.

The paper reproduced the Presidents more striking condemnatory remarks in an article entitled "American flowerets," then referred to his assertion that the peace, liberty and security of 90 per cent of the world population was menaced by the other 10 per cent.

This was followed by the comment:

"In the month of September the United States exported arms and munitions totalling upward of $20,000,000, of which nearly $10,000,000 was bought by the Soviet Union, which in turn sent the arms and munitions to Red Spain.

"Il Signor Roosevelt evidently was mistaken in his figures. At least his 10 per cent must have included American arms and munitions manufacturers."

Eden Full Of Praise For Lloyd George

London, Oct. 16 (CP Cable)

FOREIGN Secretary Eden speaking last night on the "stamping ground" of David Lloyd George, paid tribute to the veteran wartime Prime Minister:

"I remember," he said, "the statesman who, as Prime Minister of this country, led us during the dark days of the war with unfailing courage and optimism."

33 Men Are Killed In Alabama Mine Explosion

Victims Are Trapped by Falling Rock and Coal; Tragedy 4 Miles Down Makes Rescue Slow.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 16.—(AP)—A terrific explosion killed 33 trapped men deep in Mulga coal mine near Birmingham early today. Rescue crews battled heroically through smoke and dangerous gases to bring out the blackened and mutilated bodies.

Only one elbow of the mine was affected, and the remaining 350 workers at Mulga shuddered as they contemplated how narrowly their lives had been spared. If the blast had occurred near the mine entrance, all would have been trapped.

Mangled, burned and battered, the bodies were brought up from the depths on coal cars. Fire Marshall Sam Williams blamed coal gas for the blast.

One victim, Ivan Fox, was brought to the surface suffering major burns. While there was no official announcement of the total deaths, miners were unanimous in their belief he was the only survivor of the shift.

R. M. Marshall, Woodward vice-president, said 29 bodies had been located about four miles from the shaft mouth by rescue crews who sent up word that the victims were covered by fallen rock and coal.

Marshall said it was impossible to say when the first body would be brought to the surface, explaining the distance fro mthe tipple and the damage caused by the blast made rescue work slow and difficult.

Only one wing of the mine, which normally employs about 500 men, was affected by the explosion.

Relatives Clog Roads

News of the blast spread quickly and roads leading to the mine, one of the largest in the Birmingham district, were clogged with pedestrians and autos, bearing kinfolk of the miners.

State Highway Patrolmen were forced to shoulder a path through the throng for 12 ambulances summoned from Birmingham and Bessemer.

A cold wind swept the tipple and the crowd huddled together, stolidly awaiting fragments of news from the smoking shaft.

W. Ellhouse, chief state mine inspector, entered the shaft to attempt to determine the cause of the blast, first in several years in a major Alabama shaft. Marshall said it was presumed gas was responsible.

Mulga is a shaft mine, and its coal is used principally in the Woodward blast furnaces, which convert ore into pig iron.

E. D. Doge, superintendent of the mine, led an emergency crew to the spot where the bodies were found, and directed the work of bringing them to the surface. He said the death list probably would be equally divided between white men and negroes.

Faster Expansion Is C.I.O. Plan

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Oct. 16.—(A)—The Committee for Industrial Organization embarked to-day on a militant program of expansion and responsibility and peace with the American Federation of Labor.

John L. Lewis, C.I.O. chairman, ended five days of strategy conferences with leaders of his unions yesterday by exhorting them to renew their campaign for improvement of working conditions for American labor built around C. I. O. principles.

They reported this week almost 4,000,000 members, total expenditures of $1,758,000 in 16 months, and claimed their unions were thriving despite encounters with industry and occasional organization difficulties.

FIRE LOSSES ARE DOWN

TORONTO, Oct. 16—(CP).—Fire losses in Canada for the week ended Oct. 13 were estimated at $70,125 by the Monetary Times to-day, compared with $113,250 during the preceding week and $809,700 in the corresponding week of last year. Fire losses from Jan. 1 to Oct. 13, 1937, totalled $10,067,950, compared with $11,074,500 in the corresponding period last year.

FARMERS INVITED LET DEPARTMENT SHARE IDEAS, ILLS

FERGUS, Ont., Oct. 16 (C.P.). — Farmers of Ontario were invited to use the Provincial Department of Agriculture as a clearing house for their ideas and troubles by Hon. P. M. Dewan in an address last night before more than 1,000 persons at a banquet which brought the 24th annual international ploughing match to a close.

"As long as I am in office, the door of the office of the Minister of Agriculture will be open always," he said.

"When you have any suggestions you think will be of benefit to the farmers of this province, bring them to me. Come and bring your thoughts. There will always be a welcome to you.

"I hope I may have your sympathy and confidence in the difficult task of administering one of the largest and most important departments of our government. It is a heavy job for one man, and I am fully conscious of the tremendous task of property administering and am aware of my limitations."

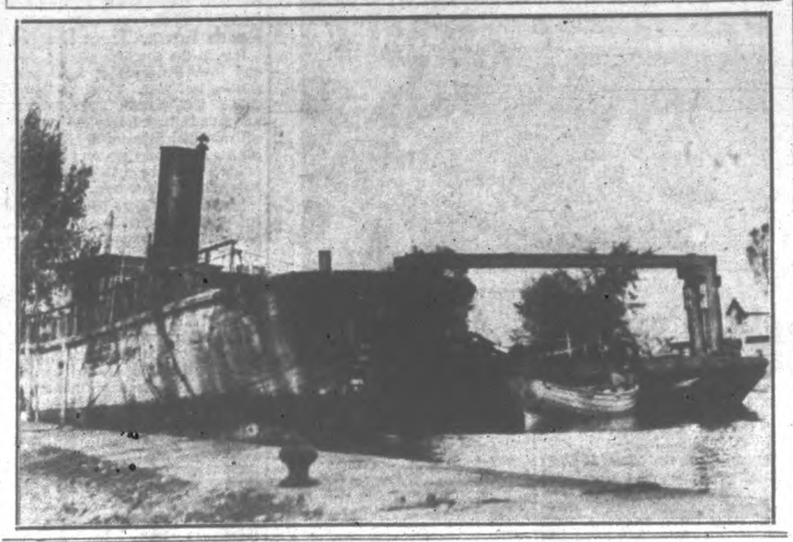
Mr. Dewan lauded the Ploughmen's Association and promised that continued consideration would be given to their interests, because, he said, "where you find a good ploughman you will find a good farmer, a good grower of seed, and a good manager."

U.S. ACCEPTS CALL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP) — The United States formally accepted today an invitation to participate in the nine-power treaty conference over the far eastern crisis at Brussels on Oct. 30 and designated Norman H. Davis to head its delegation.

Belgium's formal invitation to participate in the conference was presented only this morning.

Successful At Last



A stern view of the 'Wauketa", bound from Kingston for service towing scowloads of Nephaline ores down Stoney Lake but held up for three weeks below the Lift Lock by regulations forbidding passage of any vessel drawing more than six feet of water. At noon today the Wauketa's crew announced they had succeeded in levelling the ship off to a maximum draught of less than six feet. Air-filled gasoline drums lashed to the ship's bottom to raise it in the water can be seen at the stern. Preparations were being made at press time to tow the 96-ton craft up the short approach to the Lift Lock for lockage to the upper level. The scow to be seen resting alongside the Wauketa is to go to Stoney Lake also. Special arrangements for lockage of the craft have been made with the Department of Railways and Canals in view of the fact the Lift Locks was closed to regular traffic two weeks ago. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

700 War-waifs Born Daily In Shattered Shanghai

Cradled In Mud, Dressed In Papers As Terrorized Mothers Seek Refuge From Bombs

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16—(AP).—The population of war-ravaged and terror-stricken Shanghai is increasing by an average of 700 births a day, according to figures issued to-day.

With demolition bombs and howitzer shells supplying their first lullabies, many of these war-waifs are born in Shanghai's alleyways, gutters and cellars.

Cradled in mudd and dressed in newspapers, they present a truly pitiable spectacle. Backyard cats and barnyard dogs fare more fortunately in giving birth to their young than do the fear-crazed, famished Chinese mothers who have been driven from their wretched mud hovels and straw huts by Japanese bombs and now are ravaged by cholera, beriberi and other diseases.

Some of them, with their starving, shivering broods, make their homes on shelves in empty stores, sleep in coffins or live in the ruins of blasted buildings.

Death Touches Lad Fails Three Times

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 16 (CP)

AFTER twice before escaping death when struck by a car and rescued from drowning, 11-year-old Harry Craig is recovering in hospital today following another narrow squeak. He fell 30 feet from a tree, suffering a fractured skull.

FEAR 2 MEN LOST AS ARCTIC STORM SETS BOAT ADRIFT

MOOSONEE, Ont., Oct. 16.—(CP).—Blizzards which whipped the James Bay district of Northern Ontario, increased fears to-day for the lives of two men aboard the cabin cruiser Jim Widdie, cut adrift from its moorings Tuesday night, 16 miles northwest of Moosonee.

The two guides aboard the craft are Jack Hunter, 22, single, and Willie Isserhoff, 24, father of a two-year-old girl and one-year-old boy. They were asleep on the boat when a storm tore the craft loose and sent it drifting out over turbulent James Bay.

A foot of snow fell over the Moosonee district yesterday to add to the hardships faced by the mariners. Highest tides in years appeared Thursday and boat crews arriving here told of the terrors faced

Willing Then To Call Her Fighters Home From Spain

Grandi at Parley Hints Commission to Supervise Withdrawal Action Will Also Be Acceptable

LONDON, Oct. 16. (CP-Havas)—Quick agreement on "symbolic" withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain was believed possible today after Great Britain and France warned non-intervention committee members that otherwise they might resume full liberty of action.

Supported by the Earl of Plymouth, chairman of the committee and chief British delegate, French Ambassador Charles Corbin said at a meeting of the chairman's sub-committee of the 27-nation committee belligerency rights would be granted both Spanish combatants after withdrawal of volunteers was well underway.

Italian Ambassador Dino Grandi was reported to have declared Italy was ready to approve withdrawal of volunteers provided an equal number were withdrawn from both sides, to accept the sending of a commission to Spain, and to agree to collaborate in all steps accepted by the two parties to the Spanish civil war.

Count Grandi, however, was said to have emphasized the "absolute necessity" of recognizing belligerency rights before settling the volunteers question, and the necessity of establishing effective control of withdrawals.

The sub-committee adjourned after hearing the declarations read by M. Corbin and Lord Plymouth. The sub-committee will meet again Tuesday after the proposals have been submitted to member governments.

Ribbentrop Raps Eden.

Some surprise was caused when German Ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop criticized the speech made by Foreign Secretary Eden last night in Wales.

In a speech generally similar to Count Grandi's, Herr von Ribbentrop, who came back by plane from Berlin yesterday, made a violent attack on Bolshevism in Spain and elsewhere.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky countered by denouncing "Fascist aggression in Spain," and protested against the present recourse to the Non-intervention Committee, which, he said, could result only in new delays favoring "Italian manoeuvres."

He promised to submit the French proposals to his government, but gave no indication of what the reaction in Moscow would be.

In moderate terms the Portuguese delegate supported the Rome-Berlin viewpoint.

When Lord Plymouth's suggestion for referring the suggestions to member government was accepted at the end of the session, M. Corbin emphasized the necessity of taking up the problem of withdrawing volunteers not later than Tuesday.

'CRACK' BY DOCTOR GETS SELF, WIFE MURDERED BY BOY

NORTH ARLINGTON, N.J., Oct. 16—(AP)—Bodies of a doctor and his wife were found in a parked auto today and Police Chief George Shippee said an 18-year-old youth admitted he killed the couple in South Paris, Me., several days ago. He drove here with the bodies in the rear of the physician's automobile, Shippee said.

The youth under arrest, Chief Shippee said, was Paul Dwyer, 18, of the Maine community, found by two policemen sleeping in the car's front seat. The slain couple, their heads apparently battered by a hammer, were Dr. J. G. Littlefield and his wife, Lydia, both about 60 years old.

The chief quoted Dwyer as saying he called the physician to his home to examine him for a social disease. When the old man made a "crack about my girl friend," Shippee quoted the youth, he knocked the physician against a radiator.

"I thought I killed him so I choked and beat him with a hammer," the police chief said the youth told him.

The Lad's Confession

Shippee said the morbid confession continued as follows: Dwyer placed the doctor's body in a trunk, put it in the car, drove to the doctor's house, and told Mrs. Littlefield:

"The doctor has just killed two people and is on his way to Boston. He said to get all the money you have and meet him at the railroad station."

Mrs. Littlefield got $197 and accompanied the youth to the station, without knowledge her slain husband's body was in the car in which she rode.

When Dr. Littlefield did not appear at the station, the chief continued, Dwyer suggested he had "gone on to Boston" and proceeded to start southward. When the elderly woman became "suspicious" as the car neared Portland, Me., Dwyer choked and beat her fatally with a hammer, he said.

EDITOR OF WEEKLY DIES SUDDENLY

Intending to visit Peterborough Friday to attend the funeral of a relative, George Reeves, editor and publisher of the Elmira Signet, weekly newspaper of Elmira, Ontario, died while seated at the dinner table at his home there Thursday. In fair health and active throughout the day when he published his last edition of his newspaper in the morning, Mr. Reeves was in his 63rd year.

Mr. Reeves had been editor of the Elmira weekly for eight years. Previously he had published weekly newspapers at Eganville, Cayuga and Renfrew. Besides his wife, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. John Fielding of Paris, Ontario; and one son, Dr. Herbert Reeves of Fort Francis. Two sister, Mrs. J. A. Hortop of Blair and Mrs. Allingham of Belfast, Ireland, and one brother, Dr. B. A. Reeves of Fort Frances, also remain.

BULLDOG KILLED A BEAR

MISSOULA, Mont., Oct. 16 (AP)—Spud, a bulldog who thinks he should be as tough as he looks, can feast on bear meat—as soon as he recovers.

His master, Beryl Roark, missed Spud while duck hunting. He found him crouched beside a bear carcass, licking his wounds.

EGG PRICES ARE SLIGHTLY LOWER

Eggs were more plentiful on the Farmers' Market this morning and prices were inclined toward slightly lower levels. A number of farmers still asked the season's high price of 40 cents a dozen but large white eggs could be bought for 35 cents.

Butter was firm between 28 and 30 cents a pound. Chickens sold at 20 to 25 cents and ducks brought 28 cents a pound. Pork quarters were available at 15 and 17 cents a pound.

The price of potatoes remained unchanged at 75 cents to $1 a bag. Apples brought $1.25 to $1.50 a hamper and 30 to 40 cents a peck. Tomatoes had disappared from the stalls and the supply of pumpkins indicated the season.

Sailors Ask Bonus For War Zone Trip

San Francisco, Oct. 16 (UP)

THE Asiatic voyage of the Dollar Line freighter Admiral Nulton was cancelled today after sailors refused to man the ship without a $150 bonus for taking it to Japan, which the crew considered in the "war zone." The Dollar Line announced the cargo and stores on the ship were being removed.

Bag Potatoes Entire Crop 441 Acres

Terrible Dust Storms Are Described By Young Westerner

By BEVERLEY SUTTON

SCEPTRE, Sask., Oct. 11.—I have never tried to write anything for a paper before, but I suppose you want to know just what has been taking place here on our farm, and I will start with the morning of April 22. I mention and remember that date because when we arose in the morning there was a blanket of snow. What we could see of the world seemed to be well covered with it and we were glad because that meant moisture for the ground and it is greatly needed in the spring.

So we started sowing grain again with the hope there would at last be a good crop. Owing to shortage of feed we had traded a pig, some cattle and all our horses except three on a new tractor, and the next move was to rent a half-section of land north of here. It was known to be good land and there had been crops there before. There we put in 216 acres of wheat and 40 acres of oats, or 256 acres in all on the rented land. On the home half-section we put in 185 acres of wheat. So in all we had 441 acres of land sown to grain, all of it wheat except the 40 acres of oats.

Besides that we had a good garden planted, one on each farm, so we would have vegetables for the winter. Now I can tell you exactly what we got off the two farms. It was just one bag of potatoes that we managed to get off the rented property. Of wheat and oats we got none at all. There was not even as much as one good piece of straw. Perhaps that is hard for you to believe but I am telling you just what has taken place this year.

When Dust Storms Came

The grain came up all right and for a time it looked fine. It was green for a long way in every direction. And then the dust storms started to come. It is not easy to describe them, and not easy to make a persons who has never lived in them understand what it is like. I have seen the day look as though it were going to be perfectly calm, and in less than ten minutes dirt begins to sift along the ground. It always starts that way first and we have come to know when that begins there will be worse things before long. Pretty soon in the distance great black clouds begin to roll, getting larger and larger like huge mountains and they get blacker as they approach. By the time all this has taken place everyone has made a rush for the house to shut the doors and close all the windows, and often enough some one has to run out and make sure that the racks are tied and the wheels blocked, and the one who makes that trip is lucky if he can get back to the house in safety for by now the wind is terrific and the sand cuts your eyes and face.

Perhaps in an hour or so the wind will drop, or again it may last for seven or eight hours. Other times it will stay like that for three days, or again there have been times when we have had as many as three dust storms in a single day, all of short duration. For the whole summer the average was three days calm and then three days blowing. Some days the air was not all filled with dust, and on those days it seemed as though the wind was just moving along close to the ground.

What the Dust Storm Does

It was quite early in June when our school teacher decided one day it was best to close the place and the reason was it was so filled with dust that it was hard to breathe. Then there was also the danger that some of the smaller children might get caught in one of the dust storms when they were coming to school or going home.

In those awful storms we have to get the lights on in the house because if you didn't you couldn't see anything. It gets so dark. In June there was a three-day storm from the East and it took the team on the scraper all afternoon to clear away the drift in front of the garage so we could get the car out, while the stable door had to be shovelled out before each feeding time.

That was the East wind. The very next day a wind blew from the West and drove the drifts the other way. We hauled 26 one-deck wagon loads out of the yard to protect the house.

HOW WE HAPPENED TO GET THIS STORY

A few weeks ago The Examiner received some verses written by Beverley Sutton of Sceptre, Sask. He explained that his people had come from this district years before. The verses told of conditions he had experienced in the drought area.

The editor of The Examiner wrote to Beverley explaining the verses were being printed, but suggesting that the boy, who is between 14 and 15 years, should write a story telling just what had taken place on the farm; tell it just as though he were sitting here in the office.

There were a number of questions suggested in the letter so the lad would know what sort of information The Examiner wanted. It was also explained that while we could not pay anything for his verses, it might be possible to pay space rates for a good story of what he had lived through in recent months.

Well—Beverley Sutton has written his story. We consider it quite good enough to warrant paying the lad full space rates. He tells in his own way just what has been taking place in the drought area of the West. And that is the area to which shipments of goods are going to be sent by the kindly people of Peterborough.—Editor Examiner.

Not One Blade of Grass Could Be Seen After Storm

Some of the tree roots had been blown bare and they had to be covered up and packed to protect them. Other trees were piled up with dirt to half their height and most of the leaves had been blown off them.

They never did have a chance to come out in bloom.

The machinery was more than half covered over and has been dug out a number of times because there was always the hope we were going to get some rain out of what looked like rain clouds. But they all passed over and never let a drop on us.

Again and again the wheat came up but again and again it was cut down until it was killed. There was no life left in it. And that is what happened to our 400 acres of wheat and 40 acres of oats. We never saw anything which would make it possible at any time of the season to look at it and say "That is a piece of straw of 1937."

Dirt Choked the Hens

The garden is covered over with more than two feet of drift soil, and the currant bushes and the berry bushes are completely covered. Blow dirt is what they call it here because it is so fine and the color of sand. On the other place which we had rented, and where we planted another good garden we got one bag of potatoes.

And that was the only return for the summer's work.

We always disliked Russian thistle, but this year we would have welcomed it for feed. If it is put up at the right time and stacked with alternate layers of straw or even stacked alone the cattle will keep on eating it and on that diet will come through the winter in fair shape.

Half our hens died off because they were just filled up with dirt and they didn't have anything green to eat. There wasn't even grass or weeds that they could go out and pick at.

The horses went around coughing and sneezing as not only the air was

Ten-Foot Freak In Whale's Stomach May Be Baby Sea-Serpent

Ottawa, Oct. 16 (CP)

THE fisheries department's news bulletin today described a strange creature taken from the stomach of a Pacific Coast whale, tallying closely with descriptions of the elusive cadborosaurus of Southern Vancouver Island waters but much smaller, possibly an infant.

Officials reading the report of the Naden harbor whaling station were surprised to find in it this description of an animal taken from the stomach of a whale killed off Queen Charlotte Islands:

"About 10 feet long, having a head similar to a large dog, animal-like vertebrae and having a tail resembling a single blade of gill bone as found in whales' jaws."

Whether this was an offspring of "caddy," officials were not prepared to say. As scientists they are not prepared to believe unreservedly in the existence of caddy, never having seen him, or her. They said, however, it was surprising to find such a large creature in a whale's stomach as the animals feed usually on squid, octopus and sometimes shrimp.

MUFTI ESCAPES FROM HOLY LAND HIDES IN SYRIA

BEIRUT, Syria, Oct. 16 (AP). — The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, unannounced and unexpected, came to the Lebanese Republic by sailboat last night.

(In Jerusalem, centre of fresh terrorism that included the ambush killing of two British constables yesterday, it was reported that the Mufti, the only member of the Arab higher committee not deported or banished, had slipped out of the Holy Land.

(There had been authoritative denials of this, however. The failure of the Mufti to appear for midday prayers in the Mosque of Omar, where he had taken refuge, had given rise to the report).

Lebanese Customs guards at Nakoura saw the Mufti's sailboat moving toward shore there and boarded the craft in the belief it might be carrying smugglers. After searching the boat, the agents questioned several passengers and found one of them to be the Mufti, Hadji Aminel Hseini.

French authorities at Beirut were informed immediately and sent an escort to bring him to Beirut where the Arab dignitary passed the night, leaving in the morning for an unannounced destination.

AUSTRALIAN LABOR TO STEER OFF WAR

CANBERRA, Australia, Oct. 16. —(CP).—If Labor emerges victorious in the Australian Federal General Election Oct. 23, the nation's foreign policy may undergo radical change.

John Curtin, 52-year-old leader of the Labor party, has promised if elected to keep the country out of foreign entanglements and that Australia will not be committed to warlike activities outside the Commonwealth without the people's consent.

No Australian, he said, should be compelled to serve on foreign battlefields and as Australia could not expect to exercise a decisive influence in problems of Europe, "either as a police or salvage force," it behooved her to be self-reliant in her own defence.

In campaign speeches, Mr. Curtin declared Australia must concentrate on sounder aviation defences as she could not sustain a seagoing navy adequate for her needs. Australia, he said, was spending on defence six times as much a head as South Africa and four times as much as Canada.

Hastings District Plans Relief Car

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 16. — In compliance with a request from the joint committee of the churches for Western relief, this district will plan immediately for a carload of fruit and vegetables to be sent to Western Canada for distribution in the drought affected sections.

The car will be loaded at Norwood on Tuesday, October 26, and will take in Havelock, Hastings, Westwood, Norwood, and the surrounding districts. Announcement will be made in all churches this Sunday. The ultimate objective of the committee in Toronto is 500 carloads. The appeal is not for clothing or bedding, but for fruit and vegetables.

Hastings Angler Ends Lucky Season

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 16. — Francis Kennedy, Hastings ace fisherman, goes on record with having caught four nice catches of pickerel the last four days of the open season, which closed last night at 12 o'clock. Braving the cold weather (two nights his line was covered with ice) he ventured forth to fish off a rock pile just below the Hastings bridge.

His efforts were handsomely rewarded, however, as follows: Tuesday night, 8; Wednesday night, 6; Thursday night, 7 (one a 5-pounder), and Friday night, 4. This makes a total of 35 for the four days. Most of the fish would average between 2 and 3 pounds.

The name Kennedy has been connected with fishing here for a number of years. Keith, an older brother of Francis, has always been an ardent fisherman and an excellent guide.

4 Motorists Fined On Traffic Counts

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 16. — Four motorists were brought before Magistrate O. A. Langley to appear on traffic counts laid by Chief Constable George Hardy of town. Ten dollars, and costs, was the fine levied against one out of town man for driving with defective brakes. The remaining three apparently did not believe in signs—stop street signs, at least, and the Magistrate decided that $2.00, and costs, would teach them that seeing is believing.

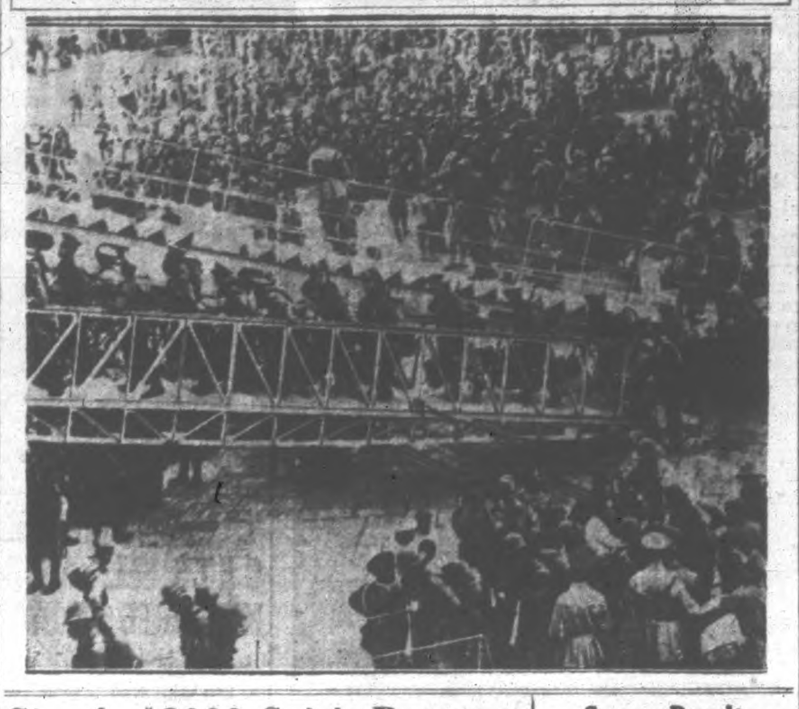
Mussolini Makes A Move

While Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy sends sugary replies to demands of France and Great Britain that he withdraw his "volunteers" from Spain—"or else"—Il Duce simultaneously makes strategic moves on the diplomatic chessboard, designed to check any "or else" that the democratic nations may contemplate. One of these moves is shown in progress at Naples, Italy, as a regiment of Fascist troops is shown boarding a transport en route to Libya.



Gipsy's $8000 Spirit Pow-wow To Net Her 5 Years In Jail

Gets Superstitious Watchman's Life Savings—And His Stomach Still Pains

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (UP).—There was a wail and a wild waving of arms among the gipsies in the corridors of General Sessions Court yesterday, for Anna Costello, matriarch of the tribe, had just been convicted of extorting $8,000 through illegal traffic with the evil spirits.

Inside the courtroom the 65-year-old woman—mother of eight, grandmother of twenty-seven — put her right hand on the Bible and swore that she could neither read nor write and that this was the first time in her long career that she had been convicted and that her home was "nowhere." She wore a bright gipsy skirt, a sweater and had a purple handkerchief knotted around hair that still is jet black despite her age.

The long arm of the law reached all the way to Fort Wayne, Ind., to bring Anna Costello to trial—a trial that was filled with testimony about magic eggs filled with nails, chickens that died because they were tormented by evil spirits, English "gold" and prayers to Allah. The District Attorney contended Anna fled west after getting $8,000 from Nicholas Vetrella on the promise that two months of mumbo-jumbo would drive an evil spirit out of his stomach into the body of a white rooster.

What the Jury Heard.

The Clan Costello — "Nobody knows how many of them there are," said Detective John Sheehan of the gipsy detail — gathered in court, rings in the ears of the girls, long sideburns on the cheeks of the men, to watch the matriarch battle the settled people's law. This was the story the jury heard:

Vetrella complained of pains in the stomach and Anna ordered him to go out and buy six eggs and put one of them under his bed. He did so and the next day Anna cracked the egg and inside of it was a nail. She told him the evil spirits were beginning to pass out of his body—and she collected $500.

For $1,000 more she drew out additional spirits. Vetrella bought a white rooster and Anna rubbed it against his shoulder. The chicken walked about three feet, writhed and fell dead. Anna opened the rooster's mouth and found five marks inside of it—each mark, she said, was the mark of an evil spirit and cost $100 additional. Vetrella paid and came back for more, a mild little man who dissipated all his savings as a watchman and today was hanging around court, cursing the gipsies.

Other items were $20 for incense and candles; $100 for burying eggs, filled with evil spirits, in Paterson, N.J.; $350 for buying clothes for evil spirits that were burned on Long Island, and for hiring two gypsies to trample the spirits back into the earth when they rose from the grave. Then came the day when Anna told Veterella the spirits were angry because he kept the remainder of his money in the bank. He was advised to draw out his money so Anna could buy English "gold," which she rubbed on her face and then "prayed to Allah."

The next time Vetrella came to do battle with the spirits Anna was gone with all the rest of his money. He thought it over two days and then went to the police.

Anna will be sentenced October 26 to a prison term of from five to ten years. Vetrella says his stomach still hurts.

REMAND POWELL, UNWIN

EDMONTON, Oct. 16 — (CP). — George F. Powell, technical advisor to the Alberta government, and Joseph H. Unwin, Social Credit member of the legislature for Edson, were remanded a week when arraigned in city police court today on four charges. Each faces charges on counselling to murder, seditious libel and two charges of defamatory libel as the result of distribution of a pamphlet entitled "bankers' toadies."

HAD A CLOSE CALL

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 16 (CP) —P. M. Beaupre was awakened during the night by strange noises. Visions of midnight bandits crossed his mind but it was not until daylight he realized how great had been his peril. A skunk was found in his yard, its nose caught in a tin can. Fortunately it had not resorted to its usual tactics when in trouble.

The skunk was exterminated at long range and buried deep.

WHEAT FINISHES SLIGHTLY HIGHER

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16.— (CP).— Downward trend of security markets and the unsettled international political situation were reflected on the Winnipeg grain exchange this week as wheat prices moved on a wide range and finally finished slightly higher.

Crop and statistical news was relegated to a secondary position as a market factor, and values closed Friday 1¾-1 cent higher for the week with October at $1.24⅛, November $1.23¼, December $1.19⅛ and May $1.18⅛.

Prices were down most of the week but a better tone developed in late sessions coincident with a substantial export demand for United States wheat and good business in Canadian wheats, the latter exceeding 3,500,000 bushels for the week. Most seaboard buying developed at the lower levels and prices responded with gains.

Heavy Commission House liquidation influenced by weakness of securities featured early sessions. The market had difficulty absorbing this pressure at first but selling waned towards the end of the week and broader export demand created a healthier tone.

20 MEN ESCAPE AS DAM GOES OUT

FAUQUIER, Ont., Oct. 16—(CP). —Twenty workmen escaped without injury yesterday when a temporary dam being erected preliminary to construction of a highway bridge over the Groundhog river near here, collapsed under the pressure of water imprisoned above the dam. Damage was estimated at $4,000. Work will be delayed a week.

More than 300 feet of the 600-foot long timber structure was swept down the river, swollen by recent heavy rains. The men, warned by the cracking of timbers in the centre of the dam, escaped to the river banks before it gave way.

700 WAR WAIFS

seen pitiable processions of these homeless, destitute war-mothers bearing new-born infants, mere fragments of humanity, to clinics where they are baptized with cholera disinfectant.

Too weak to sustain life and too poor to shelter their young, many of these forlorn mothers leave their infants furtively on the doorsteps of foreign householders.

Others deposit their mites of babies in baskets especially placed outside of such institutions as "The Door of Hope," run by the Catholic Sisters of Mercy.

More desperate mothers hurl their young in the river or leave them in garbage heaps outside the International Settlement. Those babies who survive the horrors and rigors of war eventually become what are called "wolf children," who infest dark lanes and gutters.

OBITUARY

BABY MILLIGAN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 16. — The funeral was held on Tuesday last of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William Milligan. The baby succumbed after a brief illness in the Campbellford Hospital, and the funeral service was conducted from the residence of Mrs. N. McComb, Frank Street, by the Rev. C .S. Reddick. Interment was in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

MRS. DAVID SIMMONS.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 16.—The funeral of the late Mrs. David Simons of Lakefield, whose death occurred in Lakefield at 9.30 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 11, was held on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 14, in Forest, Ontario.

Mrs. Simmons, who was seventy-nine years of age, was born in Waterloo county on Sept. 26, 1858, a daughter of Mary Bretz and Jacob M. Clemens. Before her marriage to David Simmons, Maria Clemens spent a number of years in Forest, Ont., and lived there after her marriage until twenty years ago, when she and Mr. Simmons moved to Lakefield. They have since resided in Lakefield.

The deceased was a member of the Lakefield United church and of the Women's Institute. During her residence here, Mrs. Simmons made a large circle of friends and was highly respected by all who knew her.

Mrs. Simmons, whose husband predeceased her on March 20, 1932, is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Geo. Slaughter of London, Ont.; Mrs. Thomas Fields of California, and Mrs. Lloyd of Forest, Ont., and one brother, James Clemens of Forest, and several nieces and nephews.

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 12 at 8.00 p.m., Rev. G. F. Kelly assisted by Rev. W. B. Walker, conducted a service for Lakefield friends at the late residence of the deceased on Clementi street.

The remains were taken to Forest, Ont., on Wednesday, and a funeral service was held there at 2.30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 14.

Interment was made in Beechwood cemetery at Forest, Ont.

BAG OF POTATOES WAS ENTIRE CROP FROM 441 ACRES

filled with dust, but there was dust in the feed which we cut up fine with our Hammer mill. We got an odd sprinkle of rain at times through the summer after a dust storm, and we were thankful for that as it seemed to clear the air, but the dirt would start again sifting along the ground shortly after the rain stopped. The ground never became moist at any time.

Our home farm and the rented one look just like some of the other places which are all around us. One of our neighbors sowed 1,000 acres of wheat because he was so sure this was going to be a good-crop year, and another seeded 800 acres, but neither of them got any returns. If you can imagine what so many hundreds of acres look like in early and late summer and today, just barren with the soil piled here and there, then you know what kind of a place we are living in.

Roads Lower Than Ditches

Due to the shortage of seed, feed and fuel, hundreds of acres grew thistles last year. These are blown full of dirt, causing large mounds, and this in turn leaves the farmers with another prbolem to solve—trying to level these places off before either seeding or with good fortune harvesting another crop.

Several of us boys have gone out to the hills where it has blown down to hard pan. There we found several brown, white, and green stone arrow heads which the Indians had used. Some of them are perfect specimens which we are keeping as souvenirs.

Some of the roads are still impassable as last year weeds in the ditches held the dirt there while it blew off the roads, so the result is that the road is much lower now than the place where the ditches used to be. Some of the fences and posts are completely covered over. The farmers are busy now shovelling the dirt away and scattering it over the fields or just taking the fences away entirely. Others are storing the blow dirt for winter bedding as there is no straw.

Blow dirt, mixed with crack case oil, makes a good sweeping compound, and keeps the sweeper from choking while cleaning out the house.

Many of the gophers have been destroyed in their burrows, and it was found their little homes were filling up with dirt faster than they could dig it out.

The government bought up most of the cattle at 1¼ cents per pound, while eastern buyers have bought the better grades. Most of the farmers have kept only one team of horses as the feed problem has not yet been solved. Car loads of horses went to the East; the thin ones were sold to the fox farms and some that had little life left in them just died because they couldn't go on any farther.

Cleaning Up the House

We are blessed with an abundance of well water close to the house. Most of the wells in this district are bored, some of them as deep as 565 feet. Ours is hand-dug and is 153 feet deep. We need lots of water to clean up after these storms. Usually a couple of pails will hold all the dirt that blows in the house, but after the June storm our house was a sight. Even if all our storm windows were on and all the doors and windows packed with wet cloths, the pantry was the cleanest place and so it was there we took our lunches. However the next day dawned bright and clear, so we all took a hand in the business of cleaning up. First the bed coverings used to protect the bedding, were taken out, shaken and replaced. The curtains and blinds and clothing were put on the line. Next the chairs, cupboard, stove, window sills, etc., were brushed off. Then we began with a shovel and filled a large washtub with the dirt. Then there was the ceiling and walls to be done. After that is over you can believe that everyone was glad enough to get out for a whiff of fresh air.

During the duration of the long storm we kept on dampening cloths and holding them up to breathe through. We were lucky because no one took what they call dust pneumonia.

I do not want to make things here look any worse than they are. You said something in your letter about what the people had to eat, and whether they were going hungry.

Diet Gets Tiresome

So here is just about the way it stands, although I can't exactly speak for a great number of families.

The children here are not what you might call actually hungry, but they do need something like fruit and vegetables because we haven't a thing that's [illegible] like that. You know what [illegible]. A diet of beans without any meat, macaroni, jam, bread—for the most part without any butter on it—and a very little milk is very tiresome, and we have seen it stated it is not the right sort of stuff to be eating all the time.

When we get to town the fruit in the stores look very tempting and it is what you might call pitiful to see a little tot pick up an apple and then be told to put it down because there is nothing in the way of money to be spent for anything like that. I guess there are lots of places where fruit is going to waste. But we have none of any kind around here. There was so much drift dirt being driven through the trees all the time that they never had a chance to get even to the blossom stage and in the middle of summer they looked naked with all the leaves blown away.

I am sorry to say that out of 15 cases of paralysis in our district two children have been left crippled, and the mother in each family is dead. One boy has no use of either his hands or his arms, and they say he was too late getting to a doctor. The girl, who was the first victim, has no use of her lower limbs at all, and her case was not diagnosed soon enough for treatment.

This week it has been damp and cloudy with fair rains and the moisture has gone down about four inches. We know what this land will produce IF we get enough rain, and if that happens then all our misery will soon be over. Even after a season like this there is something about this country that makes people keep on hoping and believing that there is going to be a crop next year. Now I have tried to do what you told me, that is to tell you just what has been taking place here this year. If you think this letter is good enough to put in your paper please send me a copy of it. You know I have never written anything for a newspaper before."

So that's the end of Beverley's letter and we believe readers of the Examiner will agree with this paper's opinion that Beverley has actually written something remarkably good on his first attempt.

FEAR 2 MEN LOST

in sailing over the bay from Charlton Island to this northern port. Wind and high seas made the 75-mile trip perilous.

Jack Palmquist, captain of the Venture, which arrived on Thursday evening with a party from Old Factory River, told of rollers and breakers that rocked his ship.

"We could not see ahead of us, many a time our boat scraped the bottom, waves were not less than 40 feet high," he said. "I could not turn my boat back to Charlton, and I was forced to carry on to Moosonee."

Such heavy seas would probably send the Jim Widdle and its crew of two to the bottom, northern mariners feared.

TORONTO, October 16—(C.P.).—Wholesale prices on fruit and vegetables were unchanged to-day.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16 (C.P.).—Selling waned on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and wheat prices responded to moderate export demand and good overseas buying to climb more than two cents. Values closed 2⅛ to 2¼ cents advanced.

The market opened irregularly and although fair buying credited to seaboard houses was responsible for fractional gains in early trade, continuation of southern selling in December and May futures brought some temporary easiness.

Yesterday's Quotations:

THE GROWTH OF THE CREEDS

Jesus saith unto them, Bue whom say ye that I am. Peter answereth and saith unto Him: Thou art the Christ. St. Mark 8 29. Peter answering said: The Christ of God. St. 9 20. Peter answered and said: Thou art the Christ the Son of the living God. St. Matthew 16, 16.

Some years ago a book was published claiming to be the diary of a lady living more than a century ago. It was highly reviewed. But two reviewers claimed the diary was a forgery. How was it discovered?

Modern scholarship applied the principle of "internal evidence." For instance if you produced a letter from your grandmother written about seventy years ago containing the everyday expression, "I will phone you," it would be proved that your grandmother did not write the letter, for the word was not known at that time.

This principle of internal evidence is applied to the examination of the Gospels. Today the Gospel according to St. Mark is recognized as being the earliest written. It is in this Gospel that we have the confession "Thou art the Christ." It is very probable that these were the very words used by St. Peter in his famous confession. It was all that was required at that time. Our Lord was satisfied with it. It was the beginning of belief in His Divine Sonship. It would develope when men began to ask, who He was.

So in St. Luke's Gospel, written years later to the Greeks, keen thinkers, we have the natural development: "Thou are the Christ of God"; which to the Greek mind meant: "Thou are the anointed of God," that God Himself anointed Him with His Spirit.

The Gospel of St. Matthew was published, probably after the destruction of Jerusalem, of this we are not sure, but anyhow forty years after the confession. Men had had time to think and to define, the Son of the living God." It is the natural development of the doctrine that Jesus of Nazareth is indeed the Divine Son of God; truly man and truly God.

From this gradual development, found in the Gospels themselves, there followed the creeds, which were the definite authoritative statements by the Church for the teaching of the catechumen, those who were being instructed in the faith. Later there came the Baptismal creeds practically in the form we have in "The Apostles' Creed."

This creed in those early days was not written but taught by word of mouth. It was generally reserved as the last lesson to the person about to be baptised. It was the first upon his lips before Baptism. He stood in the face of the congregation and repeated this creed in hushed silence and, according to St. Augustine when he finished there was a loud "Amen" by the congregation sealing his confession and their with the "Amen," which in this case meant: "It is true."

Had St. Mark given the longer confession of St. Matthew it would very probably be open to attack on the ground that such a thought was not in the mind of St. Peter or of the Apostles. Our Lord Himself recognized this when He said: "I have yet many things to say unto you but ye cannot bear them now." The shock would have been too great for the Apostles who had been trained in the strictest Unitarianism, the Jewish creed saying: "Hear, O Israel, the Lord thy God is One God."

When the dying Stephen, an Alexandrian Jew, prayed: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit," he took a step which the Apostles themselves probably could not on account of their narrow Jewish training. St. Stephen, a Jew, in his dying hour did not utter the above creed, which he had been taught from childhood, but prayed to a man, Jesus of Nazareth. It spelt idolatry to Saul of Tarsus. Perhaps this was the reason why he became the bitterest persecutor of the Church. For this sect within the Jewish Church was teaching that Jesus was God. It is good for us to remember how hard and terrible it must have been for the Jewish Apostles and converts to accept the Deity of Our God; that Jesus is indeed the Son of God.

So the plain, everyday man, can say very simply: "Jesus is Lord, my Lord and my God." It is enough.

To the man rich in intellectual gifts there is the philosophical creed in St. John's Gospel, written about A.D. 90. It has gripped the intellectual giants of the ages and humbled them. They knew they would spend eternity in thinking about that fact: "THE WORD WAS MADE FLESH AND DWELT AMONG US."

A National Message

(By the Late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.)

There shall be no permanent enslaving of the people of the Lord. This is another axiom of the law of the Kingdom. For the purpose of administration time is divided into Sabbatic periods of seven years. Each financial period of seven years shall conclude at the end of the current Sabbatic period. A man who desires to use his credit, or who has used it, may contract for his services as a temporary bondsman to the end of the last year of the current Sabbatic period. But at the end of that time he shall go free, and his debt shall be cancelled with all other debts.

The essence of this law would prevent the government of one generation from laying a burden of unremunerated service upon the succeeding generation, or upon the years of the existing generation beyond the last year of the then running Sabbatic period. Under the economic system of the Kingdom of God the people would not be crushed under the immense burden of debt which exists as a result of the Babylonian system now in operation. There must be no long-term bonded indebtedness of the people either to establish credit or to pay debts, or for any other purpose. All debts of whatever nature shall be released at the end of the current Sabbatic period. This law is axiomatic for the individual, for the corporation and for the State. Book debts, mortgages, loans, bonds and debts of whatever kinds must be released finally on the last day of the current Sabbatic period.

Thus every seventh year's term must be financed within the income of that term. God's people and God's land must start out on the new financial period of the next seven years free from incumbrance or debt.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

Wisdom is from within. A man may have all the outer knowledge in the world and yet be truly foolish, while sometimes the wisdom of a child may put the oldest to shame. We speak often of the idealism of youth but what is it but the imperfectly translated memory of the soul? But such is the corroding influence of this world that the bright dreams of youth become overlaid by a hard materialism and fade into oblivion. We must learn to be practical forsooth, and the utter lunacy of this is shown by the fact that our ripest energies and keenest thought are devoted to the bare mechanics of life. We are so caught in the mechanism of a false necessity that we neither know how to live nor what life really is. So that our much-boasted civilization in its complex setting up of false values is like a spiritual octopus enmeshing and strangling our souls. This is one of the many reasons why the general spiritual progress of the race is so slow. It is also why many of the great mystics unless they had a definite mission, preferred to live solitary lives away from the haunts of men. For daily contemplation and meditation are essential to any real spiritual progress. Only when all is quiet and the voice of the outer world is stilled can we really listen to the still small voice within. This is true prayer, a daily communion and attunement with God our Father. How many realize that they are really and truly sons of God, and yet they are. How many also realize that the kingdom of heaven is within them, and that there and there alone, as long as they are encased in mortal bodies, they can meet and talk with Him. Yet this is also true, for our bodies are the temples of the Living God, and the mystic New Jerusalem. Yet millions say "Our Father," and the words are but words, for they convey nothing real to them. Progressing as do from life to life that progress should be our chief purpose, for it is the sole reason why we are here at all. But instead of that, most drift aimless from life to life, going around in a circle and not getting anywhere, for they are spiritually dead or dormant at best. They live after a fashion and die ever and ever repeated while if they really lived they would never die, in the sense of being conscious of death, for they would be alive all the time. For death is only an illusion and deceives none except those who are bound by the still greater deception of self. There is a change of conditions certainly, but it is not a change from life to death but from life to a more glorious transcendent life. In fact to the evolved mystic this present life is not life at all in comparison to the greater life, but then he is one who has gathered the fruit of wisdom from the tree of life. He speaks of what he knows for himself and not of what he has heard from others. For he does not live in his own consciousness, he lives rather in the consciousness of the Christ, abiding in Him; not abiding in the self that is transient but in He Who is eternal.

Rev. E. W. Young To Continue Series

Rev. E. W. Young will continue his series of addresses on Dr. Jesse Arnup's Book, "A New Church Faces a New World," in St. Andrew's Church on next Sunday morning.

The sermon will deal with the thrilling story of the adventures of Canadian missionaries in far-off lands in the middle decades of the 19th century when three of the great missionary societies were established.

The Presbytery of Prince Edward Island and the Synod of Nova Scotia decided in 1844 to send out a missionary to the New Hebrides Islands. A Board of Foreign Missions was organized by the Presbyterian Church, and John Giddie was sent out on his romantic missionary career. The story of entire islands won from the vices of savage men is told by Dr. Arnup in vivid and arresting language.

In 1866 Walter T. Currie sailed for Africa as the missionary of the Canadian Congregational churches. He employed the territory of the Portugese colony of Angola, and travelled districts in which a white man had never been seen before. The splendid Currie Institute stands today as an abiding memorial of an intrepid missionary of the Cross of Christ.

The West China Mission of the former Methodist Church drew its first candidates from Presbyterian colleges. The student volunteer movement swept like a prairie fire through Queen's University and Knox College. Omar Kilburn and George Hartwell offered themselves to the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church and were sent to the strategic field of Szechwan Province with its populous cities as ambassadors of Jesus Christ.

Of peculiar interest to women is the story of Dr. Jean Dow, and her marvellous spiritual influence in Honan, China. Dr. Dow had eminent qualities as a physician, but far exceeding these were the mystic fires that burned brightly in her amazing personality. Dr. Arnup on a recent visit to Honan found a "presence" hovering around, an elevating influence, arising out of the consecrated life of a mystic, musician and scholar whose life made a deep impression.

It has been said by critics of Canadian Christianity that Canada has never had a great spiritual revival. In reply we point them to the inception of the three missionary societies which are now grouped together in the United Church of Canada.

Mr. Young will begin a brief series of addresses on "The Evangelism of Jesus" on next Sunday night, when his subject will be "Jesus and a Social Outcast."

DEWAN IN CRASH

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Oct. 16.—(CP).—Leaving today for Fergus to make his first public appearance since appointed Minister of Agriculture, Hon. P. M. Dewan was involved in a motor accident. His car was crowded into the ditch by another. Mr. Dewan escaped injury, though his car was badly damaged. He made other plans to continue to Fergus, where he is to be the chief speaker tonight at the banquet which closes the international plowing match.

Christian Speech and Conduct

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for October 17 is the third chapter of the Epistle of James, the Golden Text being, Ephesians 4:29, "Let no corrupt speech proceed out of your mouth.")

THE TITTLE "Practical Christianity" might well be given the Epistle of James. No other part of the New Testament so closely resembles our Lord's Sermon on the Mount in form or content. James everywhere insists on faith proving itself in life and deeds. In this third chapter he demands that the believing heart manifest itself in a temperate tongue.

The Peril of Eloquence.

There is a real peril in the gift of eloquence. It must never be permitted to degenerate into a mere "gift of gab." James saw this peril among certain ill-prepared and ill-tempered would-be teachers in the early Christian assemblies who evidently loved to hear themselves talk. So he warned in this earliest of all the New Testament books: "Be not many of you teachers, my brethren, knowing that we shall receive heavier judgment. For in many things we all stumble. If any man stumbleth not in word, the same is a perfect man, able to bridle the whole body also." In his "Essay on Criticism" Pope says, "Words are like leaves, and where most abound, much fruit of sense beneath is rarely found." James would have agreed with this.

The Intemperate Tongue.

James felt that there was no phase of self-control so rare as ability to control one's own tongue. Wild horses could be controlled by a tiny bit in their mouths; great ships could be directed by a tiny rudder, but how different it often is with that tiny organ we call the tongue. Runaway horses and rudderless ships are easy to control compared with the person with a loose tongue. "So the tongue also is a little member, and boasteth great things." A vicious tongue is as dangerous as a match thrown carelessly in a national forest: "Behold, how much wood is kindled by how small a fire. And the tongue is a fire: the world of iniquity among our members is the tongue, and defileth the whole body... and is set on fire by hell." There is but a letter difference between "word" and "sword," so let us be equally careful in their use. "Many a word at random spoken may soothe or wound a heart that's broken."

The Untameable Tongue.

James regarded the tongue as more difficult to tame than any wild beast: "Every kind of beasts and birds, of creeping things and things in the sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed by mankind: but the tongue can no man tame; it is a restless evil, it is full of deadly poison." Then there is a strange duplicity of a tongue that now praises God and again curses man: "My brethren these things ought not so to be." No more so than freak fountains ejecting both sweet and bitter waters, or fig trees bearing olives. May our words express God as did the words of him who was the Word of God made flesh, "Who did no sin neither was guile found in his mouth." Let wisdom be displayed not by eloquent speech but by beautiful living: "Who is wise and understanding among you? Let him show by his good life his words in meekness of wisdom." "Words are the daughters of earth, and things are the sons of heaven," as Johnson said in the preface to his dictionary.

Christian Speech and Conduct — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—James 3:1-18.

Possibly the earliest book of the New Testament is the Epistle of James. None bears closer resemblance to our Lord's Sermon on the Mount. Everywhere James insists on deeds.

James deals with practical religion. A believing heart must show itself in control of one's tongue. An intemperate tongue he likens to a bridleless horse or a rudderless ship.

Careless use of words is as dangerous as carelessness with matches in a forest: "Behold, how much wood is kindled by how small a fire! And the tongue is a fire."

It is more difficult to train one's tongue than to tame a wild animal: "Every kind of beast hath been tamed by mankind: but the tongue can no man tame." (GOLDEN TEXT—Ephesians 4:29)

Shooting Pheasants

Two days of pheasant hunting will be allowed in Ontario—October 28 and 29, although this section of the province is not included. The bags are limited to three and in some places to four cockbirds per day.

We take it that pheasants in other sections of the province are about the same as those we see in this district occasionally. We have not many of them, but those we have seen appear to be very tame. We recall being on one farm near Bewdley where a boy had secured a setting of eggs and placed them under a domestic hen. The pheasants became quite like chickens around the place, only they went off by themselves quite young at night and roosted in some brush behind the wood pile.

A good many pheasants come into existence that way and they are therefore not a game bird. If a hunter were to walk up to one of them and point a gun there would be no natural instinct in the bird which would cause it to take refuge in flight. It would probably stay put and the hunter could hardly miss it. That may be considered good sport in some parts of the country, but we find it difficult to mark it down in that class at all.

Might Have Learned Much

There was a young man talking about his work today, and he does not like it. The firm for which he works apparently does not appreciate him. He has been doing the same job for almost six months and he is sick of it. Then too the boss is kind of crabby about him getting there on time in the morning and at noon. He knows of another young fellow in the same place who got a promotion when he had been there for eight months, but he's certain he could stay right there until he had long whiskers and there would be nothing done in his case.

Then he had been up on one of our lakes for a week in the summer, but that wasn't so hot. He said so. Within recent times he had joined up with some recreation association, but there seemed to be a clique running it and unless you were in that clique you might as well be out of it. Truth is nothing was right. Things were wrong on his job, his vacation and in his social life. The world seemed to have developed the habit of picking on him.

And yet this young man is big; his shoulders are nicely squared, and one does not need to ask him if he is well. Good health sticks out all over him. But he does nothing but complain.

We read the other day of a young lady who died in Goderich at the age of 28. When the 'flu first came in 1918 she was one of the victims, and from the year 1918, at which time she was eight years of age, until she died in 1937, she had been a patient in a wheel chair. She never had a job; never went out on vacation expeditions and never had been able to attend meetings of social clubs, and all the time her health must have been indifferent.

And yet we noticed particularly that it was recounted of her that she had a cheerful disposition; she was skilled in the use of her hands, and she "loved to do what she could for others." She was a lover of flowers and took deep interest in studying and developing them. Of course she has gone now, but it might have been a splendid thing had this healthy but complaining young men had an opportunity to meet with the wheelchair girl and learned something of her outlook on life.

Turning Back To 1867

E. A. Horton, Deputy Minister of the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs, gave an address at the School for Municipal Officers at the University of Western Ontario in London. His theme was in a general way that the Fathers of Confederation had made no particular provision for dealing with matters of welfare. Truth is what we call welfare work is not mentioned at all in the British North America Act. So that fine old document which no person in this country has probably ever seen because it is under lock and key in London, gives us no aid or direction in telling what a province, a municipality or a central government should do about welfare or relief.

But Mr. Horton should go easy. It is undoubedly the habit of one generation to blame the generations which have gone before for a good deal of its own troubles, and it is the self-appointed duty of the present generation to worry about what is going to become of the next. It is probably quite correct to say that in 1867 the Fathers of Confederation never thought about relief or social legislation. Montreal with 100,000 people and Toronto with 60,000 were the only large cities in the country and there was no problem of relief there. There were only nine towns in the country with 10,000 or over. In the West there was only Winnipeg and Victoria and the mining camps of British Columbia. There was no railway problem to baffle the people as in 1867 there were only 3,000 miles of railway in Canada; the telegraph had come 20 years before but it was not in general use; the furnace then was a fixture for a mansion only, and most of the people were using candles to light their homes. Back of all that it is a plain and wholesome fact that people were for the most part on the land. They were more interested in making their own living than they were in arranging treaties with foreign countries for taking care of the surplus goods they might grow or produce.

We dare say if people of 1867 were judged on the standards of 1937 there would have been a good many of the people who would have qualified for relief and the social service end of any government might possibly have been an extremely busy corner. But the pioneers of this country were not extended relief; if they were hard up and out of funds it was their own problem for solution. There are a great many of us today who if were to turn back a few generations would find we had sprung from people who were in their day hard up as far as cash was concerned. So right there is probably the reason why the Fathers of Confederation made no provision for what we now call welfare work. The need of it had not become assertive.

Winter Will Have To Wait

Of course this office is in touch with the Weather authorities in Toronto. In touch at 11 o'clock on the morning of every working day, and we know what sort of weather to expect for 24 hours in advance. Occasionally there is an effort on a holiday week-end to try and look a little farther ahead and say what will take place in 36 hours. But that is not so good. At present 24 hours is about the limit for what can be claimed as 85 per cent. accuracy.

Fortunately we do not have to depend on the Toronto folk entirely. When S. D. Carver comes back from Haliburton county in the fall he has something to say about the weather which is going to take place. For forty years or more he has been going there and he looks at everything there is to see. He is in a position to correctly lament the scarcity of partridge; he can speak with surety and quiet eloquence of the shades on the trees; he can tell that the roads are better than before, and he also knows of the levels of the water in the various lakes which he encounters.

And it is from the level of the lake water that Mr. Carver points his observations regarding the weather. That level is down now and it must come up before the Winter sets in. Therefore we are going to have a long and rather open fall ahead of us. Mr. Carver says so.

Those lake levels must come up to something much better than is being registered at the moment, and therefore the cold weather and the frost and heavy snow will have to wait. It has always been so.

The fact that we have had some snow flurries worries Mr. Carver not in the least; his conviction is just as firm as ever. The snow may fall if it will, but it will go its way; the wind may beat upon us from the north but it will cease. Those lake levels must be attended to first before Winter can have its way in the land. Yes, the experts from Toronto send us great reports each day about troughs of depression and tell us that areas of high pressure exist elsewhere. But we can understand what Mr. Carver says so much better. The water in the lakes is low and it must be higher before we have Winter. So there's open weather ahead of us for a while yet.

Too Many Looking On

We read there were 45,000 people in one day attending the international plowing match at Fergus. And that is a great crowd. The reason probably was because it was one day when the plowing would be devoted to sod, and when a plowman wants to show what he can do he will turn to sod. Give him the sort of soil where the sod cuts sharp and the furrow turns with a little shine on the top and he will have a fairly good time.

But even so, we doubt if it is well to have some thousands of people standing around when a man is going to turn over a bit of sod. When he gets his eye on the stake in the far end of the field and starts steering toward it on his first trip he might be a trifle jiggly or something like that. Or he'd feel like a fellow making his first political speech in a hall where all the people knew him.

Perhaps at a plowing match they have good free land with no boulders and no stump roots remaining. It wasn't like that on the Tenth. There were always stones of generous size which did not show on the surface, and there were in two fields a few old roots from pioneer days. When it came the turn of those fields to be in sod for plowing the handles of the thing had a habit of hitting one hard upon the ribs when stones and old roots were in the way. If there were 45,000 people standing around one could hardly say anything out loud. It would be necessary to suppress strong speech and suppression is hard on a sensitive disposition. If one ran into something like that on the first furrow then it might be there would be a dog-leg course followed which would not hit the marking stake head on. Perhaps there are those who enjoy plowing when 45,000 people are looking, but again there are a good many who would prefer to be about the business with nothing but a steady-moving team of horses for company.

He Has Something To Do

When a man is named Minister of Labor for the province of Ontario it is not necessary for him to sit in his office, look out of the window and wonder what he is going to do. Things to do seem to have developed to the point where they walk right into the office and present themselves. Hon. M. M. MacBride assumed that office only a few days ago and now it is stated a deputation of striking folk from the Kaufman Rubber Co. in Kitchener have gone to see the Minister.

That strike has been running for a full month now. It came after employees made some half-dozen demands, none of which the company would consider. Since then the strikers have been concerned chiefly with trying to make certain that no goods are shipped from the plant, and in so doing there was a clash with police and fifteen arrests were made. It was then a delegation decided to head off for Toronto to see what the newly anointed Mr. MacBride could do about it.

The Minister of Labor will not be able to tell the deputation from Kitchener that strikers have any right to keep cars or anything else from passing in or out of a plant where a strike is in progress. He is as much bound by the law of the land as the police or any other agency. It does seem that strikers are too much concerned at times as to whether a car comes in or goes out. It may be annoying, but it actually has little to do with the ultimate settling of a strike. The real settlement comes when negotiations get under way and are brought to a conclusion. That is the sticking point in Kitchener, and if the new Minister of Labor is seeking for a field in which to try his skill and learn the calibre of the material with which he is surrounded he has had the proper test case brought right into his office. The firm refuses to negotiate; the employees refuse to go to work until it does. No person seems to have been able to make progress. The man who has been eight times mayor of the city of Brantford has something said on his Labor doorstep. Probably it is not as pleasing as the cheers on election night, but in the lives of many hundreds of workers it is more important and substantial. The new Minister of Labor has not had to wait long to find out what he is expected to do in his new office.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Ontario's liquor stores sold $20,733,367 worth of intoxicants in the last fiscal year and it requires a decidedly lively imagination to find any sign of control in that total.

Dr. Faulkner was tossed out of the Ontario cabinet by the electors but the Belleville man was not caught without a parachute. He becomes head of the Pension and Mothers' Allowance Board.

With the official returns showing him down 339 William Newman of the riding of Victoria will have no trouble in arriving at the conclusion that he was one of the first victims of Frost this autumn.

An Irish poet says every school child should learn at least 100 poems. He very modestly refrained from mentioning, however, how many of his he thought should be included in the list.

Four new giraffes have been added to the Washington Zoo, as the result of a campaign conducted by the boy editor of a neighborhood sheet. His success should justify getting out an Neckstra.

The list of the prize-winners at the International plowing match at Fergus fails to reveal the name of George S. Henry, the gentleman of the straight furrow fame.

The Dominion government has set apart next week as Fish Week in Canada. It must have forgotten that the fishing season in Ontario is already ended.

ANTIQUES

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When I go in at Andy's place, I alway's move at cautious pace, and Andy leads the way; I sort of follow on behind, so Andy can get in and find, just what the folks will say.

¶ When I sit down in Andy's room, I feel like leaving pretty soon, and I am not at ease; I hold my hat firm in my hand, and Andy lots of times will stand, and shift around the knees.

¶ It matters not which seat I take, I fear the thing is going to break, for they're antique and old; and some set stiffly here and there, and look to me both hard and bare, and some are painted gold.

¶ I guess they like me well enough, but I feel strange among the stuff, and scarce know what to do; when I sit down why Andy's wife, tells of my chair and all its life, 'twas built in fifty-two.

¶ And every time when things are sold, they're grabbing them because they're old, historic stuff they know; eleven ancient clocks are there, and they get dusted off with care, but none of them will go.

¶ And Andy works out hard each day, and sweats a bit to get his pay, gets shaky at the knees; it seems to me just right and fair, that he should have one roomy chair—where he can sit at ease.

NEW BRUNSWICK apple-growers perhaps do not realize how much they owe to Francis Peabody Sharp who has been the Luther Burbank of the province. It was Sharp, born in 1823 who first demonstrated that New Brunswick was suitable for fruit growing.

Iowa Agricultural College offered Sharp a salary to lecture on soils. The Dominion government placed $1,000 at his disposal for the publication of a book on fruit culture. A delegation headed by Stephen Appleby, member of the Legislature, asked him if he would accept a knighthood in honor of his services to the country. Several eminent United States horticulturists travelled to Woodstock to see if he would accompany them to Russia, with all expenses paid by the United States government, and help them in studying technique there.

But Sharp wanted neither travels or honors. He remained at Woodstock giving information freely to those who sought it. Today professional horticulturists are said to be discovering things found out long ago by Sharp.

From the start he made at Woodstock apple growing spread over a wide area. The principal producing counties now are York, Sunbury and Queens and the provincial yield is estimated at 50,000 barrels, an increase of 16,000 over 1936. At least 500,000 acres in southern New Brunswick alone are said to be suitable for apple orchards and these could yield an annual crop of 3,500,000 barrels, authorities estimate.

Now It's Twin Purses.

PARIS REPORTS say that new twin purses are men's answer to woman's need for more pocket room. Both purses in the twin sets dangle from the same frame. One holds the "vanities" of the hour, rouge, powder, and cigarettes etc., the other the more serious things of life, such as passports, money and samples to be matched.

Music-lovers in St. Louis were indignant recently when they heard that the proposed rendition of a "lost" Schumann concerto in their city by Yehudi Menuhin, the 20-year-old violinist had been forbidden by the German government. The official reason given was that the work must first be played in Germany but the real reason is thought to be the fact that Menuhin is a Jew.

The Swedish explorer Sven Hedin, ardent Pan-Germanist has had his pro-German book Germany and the World Peace banned in the Reich because Goebbels tok exception to Hedin's confession that he was 1-16th Jewish and objected to his assertion that the German people were "too intelligent, cultured and awake to put up for long with a regimented press."

Favorite for London's next Lord Mayor is Alderman Sir Harry Edward Augustus Twyford. The Twyfords have been prominent citymen in London for six hundred years and one ancestor of Sir Harry's was London's sheriff in 1377. King Richard II paid him £22 7s 4d for supplying the royal court with two drinking ewers.

Famous Restaurant Closes.

A famous old New York restaurant —landmark for 40 years—has closed its doors, partly owing to a walkout by 150 unionized employees. On West 42nd Street, a few doors east of Broadway, Drake's restaurant served 30,000 customers a week; its menus carried the slogan "Drake's Never Closes."

But Drake's has served its last meal. No soft-treading waiters move across its floors, bearing plates heaped with sugar-coated rolls, a house specialty and gone is the cheerful ring of knives and forks and the hum of conversation.

"There goes my life's work" said William Richters, the proprietor as he watched equipment valued at $150,000 auctioned off for $7,500 in a sale forced by creditors. He recalled with a sigh an offer of $1,000,000 made him for the business in 1925.

✧ ✧ ✧

Labor troubles were only the last straw. Drake's lost business with the advent of repeal because of the proprietor's refusal to handle alcoholic beverages. Also the practice of serving stacks of sugared buns to every customer cost the business $10,000 a year while sales of large dishes of mushrooms at low prices aggravated the trouble.

Each Christmas for many years, Mr. Richters invited a crowd of orphans to the restaurant for a turkey dinner and presented each with a toy.

It may not be known that radium was discovered in Canada when from a hovering plane, Gilbert LaBine was dropped on the rim of the Arctic circle in a country a wild that even walking was almost impossible. The first mining equipment was brought 1,500 miles by canoe.

Faked Passports.

ALARMED by the amazing growth of the traffic in forged passports, according to an English newspaper, Scotland Yard is trying to stamp out one of the underworld's most lucrative rackets. Three of the Yard's shrewdest detectives have been given the task of tracking down the fake passport factory believed to exist in London. Similar factories in Poland, Austria and France have already been unmasked.

Harry Oakes, Canadian gold mine president and millionaire who now resides in the Bahamas startled an official of St. George's Hospital in London by handing him a cheque for $100,000 and telling him that an additional $300,000 is to follow. The hospital is to be rebuilt and will be the first general hospital in Britain to have a self-contained psychiatric department.

LEOPARD IN TRAIN.

(Indian Press Union)

WHEN a passenger on the Hardwar-Dehra Dun (United Provinces) train opened the door at Mouzzanpur Narain station in answer to what he took for a knock he saw the eyes of a leopard staring at him.

He tried to shut the door but the animal was too quick for him. Springing upon him it tore his shoulders and mauled another passenger who came to his rescue. It was springing upon a third person when it saw a spear being aimed at it. It jumped out of the window and disappeared into the jungle.

SLOT OPERATORS WARNED

(Simcoe Reformer)

In a checkup of slot machines this week, Chief Ashby found at least half a dozen machines in which there were no mints. He gave the operators due warning, which if not complied with will result in seizure of the machines, an eventuality that would meet with the hearty approval of many Simcoe parents.

HISTORIC MESSAGE.

(London Spectator)

Some of us can remember the bitterness caused during the 1900 elections, held in the middle of the Boer War, by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's telegram to a Conservative candidate, running "a vote given to the Liberals is a vote sold to the Boers." Mr. Chamberlain stoutly maintained that he never wrote that, and his original text, when turned up by the post office, was found to read "a vote given to the Liberals is a vote gained to the Boers." So Mr. Gates, a Manchester postal official, interviewed by the Manchester Guardian; but my own recollection is that the message as published ran: "A vote given to the Liberals is a vote given (not sold) to the Boers."

THE PIG AND HEN

I've read your words,
With great delight,
Indeed my friend,
I think you're right.

For the average pig,
There's no square deal,
They can him all,
Except the squeal.

And as for that,
He has no rights,
For they've put his squeal,
In the Scotch bag pipes.

But when it comes,
To the speckled hen,
You can't treat her so,
On Concession Ten.

For she lays an egg
Most every day,
So there's no kick coming,
She pays her way.

The people out here,
I think you'll find,
Speed conscious perhaps,
But very kind.

They never run
A chicken down,
No matter the hurry
To go to town.

A turn to the left,
A turn to the right,
For hens will always
Take their flight.

In front of a car,
Its a common sight,
Across the road
With all their might.

A chicken can't help it,
They're made that way,
But we are endowed,
With more brains then they.

So turn out a little,
Or go in low gear,
To save the chicken,
Who goes all too near.

So will give three cheers,
For the speckled hen,
As we welcome you back,
To Concession Ten.

A Bit of Nonsense

EXPLANATION

Mrs. Smith was vigorously powdering her face before going out.

"Why do you go to all that trouble?" asked Smith, who was waiting impatiently.

"Modesty, my dear," was the reply.

"Modesty?"

"Yes—I've no desire to shine in public."

MEDIATION HINTED IN SINO-JAP WAR BY U.S. PRESIDENT

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Oct. 16 (AP).—President Roosevelt said in substance to-day an attempt at mediation of the Sino-Japanese conflict would be the first step considered by the conference at Brussels of the Nine-Power Treaty signatories including the United States.

Asked at a press conference if mediation was a fair assumption to be drawn from his "fireside" speech last Tuesday night, the President remarked he had said that "in so many words."

While refusing comment on the stock market decline, he indicated he might have something to say on the subject in a general way in his messages to the special and regular sessions of the United States Congress.

Asked if the market developments were bothering him, he told his inquirer to wait and see his messages to the Legislature.

He would not comment on the speech yesterday of Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the Chase National Bank, blaming the drop in securities value on Federal regulation and urging revision of the capital gains and income surtax rates.

No Guess As To Future.

On the foreign situation, the President said it was sheer guesswork as to what the United States was going to do in the future.

Asked what would follow if mediation efforts in the Sino-Japanese undeclared war failed, he said that was an "if" question.

He said he could not discuss the possibility of modification of the Neutrality Act, nor would he say whether Norman H. Davis, Ambassador-at-large to Europe, would represent this country at the Nine-Power Treaty conference.

Up to late last night, he said, the United States had not received a formal invitation to the conference.

FEWER HOBOES ON THE ROAD.

WASHINGTON.—The number of hoboes is on the downtrend, the Association of American Railroads said today, citing 80,000 fewer ejections from trains and yards the first half of this year than in the same period of 1936. The six months' total this year was 2,172,763.

GENIAL POET DIES IN ROBT. JOHNSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 — (AP) — Robert Underwood Johnson has found the "kind night" when, as he wrote on his 80th birthday, Mother Nature crooned:

"Come, sleepy boy, companion of my ways,
"When joy was yours, with me shall be your rest."

The whimsical, genial man, oft acclaimed as the unofficial Poet Laureate of the United States, died yesterday after ill health that stretched back to the winter of 1935. He was 84 and had enjoyed a long literary career.

During his many-sided life he had served as a fellow telegraph operator with Thomas Edison, a clerk in a book agency, a magazine editor, the literary tutor who guided Uylysses S. Grant in writing his "personal memoirs," and Ambassador to Italy (1920-21). But he always vested his chief allegiance in the world of letters.

At the time of his death he was director of the hall of fame at New York University. During his long association with Century Magazine, which dated from 1873, and included the editorship from 1909 to 1913, he edited the series of articles later published in four volumes and known to historians and lay readers alike as "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War."

He won International recognition and decorations from a half dozen governments for his work in promoting the International copyright enacted in 1891.

Funeral services will be held Sunday. Burial will be at Stockbridge, Mass., the home of his son, Owen Johnson, author.

HEPBURN BUYS A BULL

TORONTO, Oct. 16—(CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn has extended his farm interest beyond onions. The purchase by the Premier of Walhill Posch Nig. noted two-year-old Holstein-Friesian Bull, was announced today. Walhill was formerly owned jointly by J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, and E. L. Sweet, Belmont. He is a grandson of Calamity Johanna Nig, once world's biggest butterfat producer.

JUDGE TO DECIDE AS JURORS SPLIT

CORNWALL, Ont., Oct. 16—(CP).—Mr. Justice G. F. McFarland today will give his decision in the case of Joseph St. Amour of Ottawa, whom a jury in an unusual verdict acquitted of manslaughter. The jury failed to come to a unanimous decision on a lesser charge of criminal negligence.

After the jury brought in its verdict last night after seven hours' deliberation, Mr. Justice McFarland said: "There is no doubt about the first part of your verdict, and therefore the charge of manslaughter fails. As far as the charge of criminal negligence is concerned, I am not prepared at the moment to say if I will hold the charge over to another court." He said he would give his decision in this regard to-day.

His Lordship told the jury its verdict "has created a situation which is unprecedented in my experience and reason."

The charge of manslaughter on which St. Amour was tried was after an April Fool's Day collision between a truck, alleged driven by St. Amour, and three automobiles in a funeral procession just outside Winchester, Ont., village. Three persons, Almon Summers, of Winchester, his 18-year-old son, Glen, and Albert Thoms, Ottawa, were killed.

MODERN RADIATOR GIVES MORE HEAT

In but a few weeks the heating problem will be an important consideration for the majority of Canadian householders. A thorough check up to ensure that the heating system will give the most satisfactory and efficient service, is the advice of the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating.

Important units in the new heating equipment are the modern slenderized radiators which have been built to occupy 40% less space, yet are designed by expert engineers to provide better heating. This is assured by the smaller waterways, and freer circulation of the air around the tubes; all surfaces of the new radiators are heating active.

The new radiators are made in various sizes, heights and widths—in fact sizes can be obtained for practically any space requirement. The smaller size is particularly suitable for hallways, bathrooms, and bedrooms where wall space is at a premium. They may also be tucked inconspicuously below windows. Aside from the advantages gained in space-saving, and better heating, the replacement of old-fashioned, ornate, cumbersome radiators with the slender, graceful new type, revolutionizes the appearance of, and even add a decorative note to the rooms which will see active service for the eight winter months to come.

Installed by a competent plumbing and heating contractor, under the easy terms of the Home Improvement Plan, the replacement of old fashioned radiators by the modern "vest-pocket" type, is a worthwhile investment when putting your heating equipment in good shape for the winter, and is an important step in bringing an old house up to date.

WARSAW

Mr. and Mrs. George Harling, each of whom is eighty-three years of age, are the oldest couple who voted at Warsaw last Wednesday. They live on the boundary up near Bryson's.

Friday night's frost wilted everything but the most hardy. The "White line" has shown over the river frequently but on Saturday morning it could be seen from here over Rice Lake.

Dr. Munro had a birthday on the ninth.

The attendance at the October W.M.S. held at the United church, parsonage, was only fairly attended, Mrs. Wilkinson presided.

Mr. Wilkinson told the stories of several of the early ministers in Canada, which are part of the New Study Book, "A new church faces a new world."

Mrs. David Taylor had charge of the work for the day. Plans were made for the Warsaw part of the Rally Day service at Lakefield.

Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson Speaks At Campbellford

Peterborough Deanery Of Women's Auxiliary Holds Annual Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 16—"We must expect the witness of our lips to be added to the witness of our lives. A dumb Christian is no real follower of Christ and the casual word God has inspired has the power to interpret Christ to the common man," Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson told members of the Peterborough Deanery of the Women's Auxiliary when they met at Campbellford for their annual conference Thursday. Canon Paterson addressed the ladies when they attended the Holy Communion service held in Christ Church at 10.30 a.m. Rev. T. H. Floyd the parish rector was assisted in administering the holy rite by Rev. W. Creighton of Lakefield.

Canon Paterson chose his text from the book of John, "For their sakes I sanctify myself that they also may be sanctified." He pointed out that the aims and the objectives of the Women's Auxiliary must be not only to send out bales and hold meetings and raise money for missions "but pre-eminently to introduce men and women to the Lord Jesus Christ." The responsibility to do this claims us first within the circle from our households and among the members of our own families. Drawing attention to the consciousness of failure he suggested the cashes "Utter and entire consummation begins at Calvary" and although the story is well-known and the event is commemorated at every Communion there is great need that all should come to the cross of Calvary for cleansing. The second step in sanctification is claiming the gist of the Holy Spirit. Only as we are the living branches for the true vine can fruit be expected or looked for from us.

Following the service the gathering adjourned to the parish hall where registration took place and lunch was served by the ladies of Christ Church. The Deanery officer, Mrs. F. H. Dawson of All Saints' Church, Peterborough was chairman during the afternoon meeting which opened with devotional exercises following which Mrs. T. H. Floyd welcomed the delegates on behalf of Christ Church Women's Auxiliary.

Main Speaker

Mrs. Sovereign, wife of Bishop Sovereign of Athabaska was the main speaker during the afternoon program and brought a greeting from a host of unknown friends in the Mackenzie River and Athabaska district "who appreciate deeply the work of the Women's Auxiliary." "The W.A. strengthens us by its support every step of the way. Its fellowship is an inspiration which inspires great loyalty to our work and opens our hearts to our brother's needs. For the missionaries in these parts she made a strong plea saying that they should follow these men with prayers not only for them but for the "gallant little wives who went out with them to face the hardships in this land that has been called 'the land that is beginning again.' Seventeen new churches have been built to accommodate the settlers from the drought stricken area of the middle west who have come with neither money nor property to the Peace River District of northern Alberta. "Being used to culture ourselves it is hard for us to realize the conditions that these people are facing." The speaker concluded with a vote of thanks to the W.A. for their help in making work among these people possible.

Life Among Chinese

Miss G. Clark, deaconess of a cathedral in Honan, China, gave a brief word picture of life among the Chinese and their gods. An absolute change in attitude is being experienced in the Chinese view toward Christianity. Twenty thousand students are attending mass religious meetings on Sunday afternoons while among others prayer groups have been formed. Even among China's officialdom men are coming each week for prayer and bible study.

Mrs. A. H. Cuttle, recording secretary for the diocese for Toronto referred to her recent trip to Halifax, N.S. in connection with the Synod and spoke of the W.A. as the background of the church and as a group lends support and inspiration and support to the Synod.

Reports of the work done by each group during the year were read by their respective secretaries of the various groups in attendance which included All Saints', St. George's, Saint John's and Saint Luke's Churches of Peterborough, and the churches of Lakefield, Havelock, Hastings, Young's Point, Norwood, Roseneath and Campbellford. One hundred and twenty-five ladies from the Peterborough Deanery were present and in summarizing the year's work, Mrs. Dawson the chairman suggested that an increase in the average attendance of meetings should be one of the objects during the coming year. The meeting was closed with prayer by the Rev. T. H. Floyd of Christ Church, Campbellford.

Build Book Cases Over Furniture

Book-cases do not have to take up floor space. When a room will not accommodate them conveniently any other way, they can be built in over a piece of furniture.

A room with a built-in bunk had a shelf built the length of the bed but high enough not to endanger the head of the occupant. A double shelf could be built over a desk or table to accommodate both books and perhaps a plant or two.

Book-cases may be built in with funds obtained from any bank under the Dominion Government's Home Improvement Plan.

GET GOOD PRICES AT FARM AUCTION

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOURO, Oct. 11.—The sale of farm stock and machinery held on the farm of Mrs. Francis Moher, drew a large crowd and good prices were realized. A fine team of horses were sold for $148 and $182 for each animal; a colt sold for $90 and two older horses $44 and $63; cows sold for $38 to $40; a two-year old heifer $44; year-old cattle $28 each; eleven pigs brought $9 each and young turkeys $1.50. The machinery which was mostly old, sold rather cheap.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. E. Clancy, of Hastings, were in Douro Sunday for the Holy Name rally and visited her mother, Mrs. P. Fitzgerald.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Christie, of Asphodel, attended the rally and visited her sister, Mrs. J. J. Leahy.

Mrs. John O'Brien, of Norwood, was a Sunday guest of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Forsythe.

Miss V. Kennedy, of Peterborough, was a week-end visitor at the home of her uncle, Mr. Michael McManus.

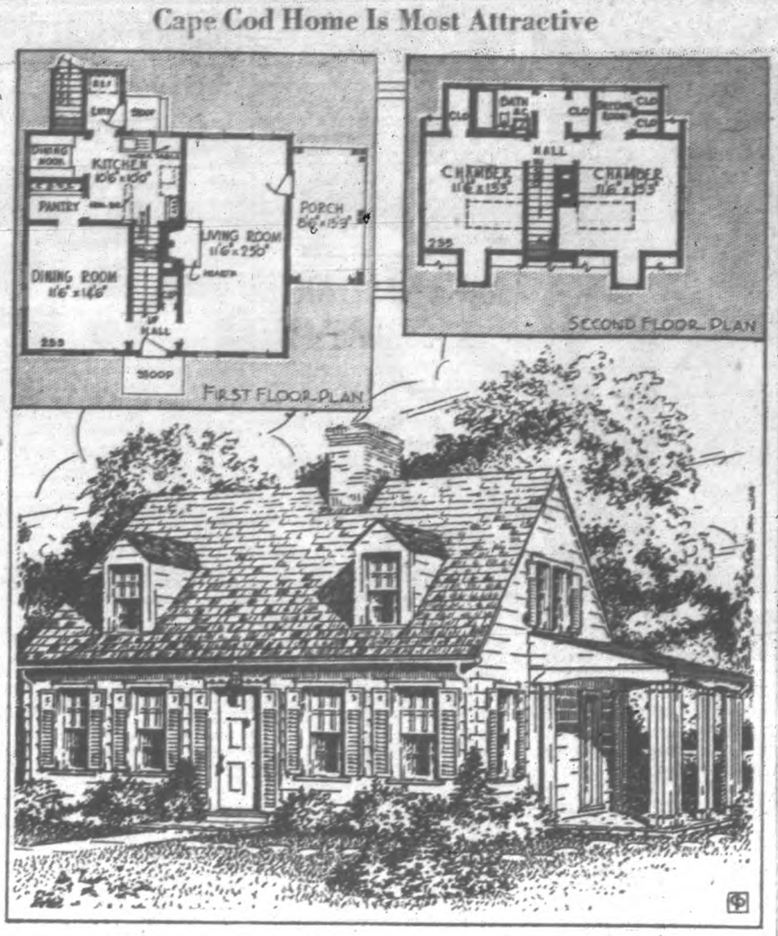
Mr. and Mrs. John O'Rielly and children, of Lindsay, were in Douro for the Holy Name Rally and visited at the home of her cousin, Mrs. David Garvey.

Mr. P. Murphy, of Lindsay, eighty-five years old, attended the Holy Name Rally.

Mr. Thomas Whibbs, of Toronto, spent the week-end at the home of his mother, Mrs. Thomas Whibbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cavanagh and family, of Bancroft, were week-end guests with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McMurray.

Cape Cod Home Is Most Attractive



Cape Cod type of house with side porch and containing five rooms, with dining nook and bath; contains with porch, 19,950 cubic feet.

THE CAPE COD type of house is truly North American and satisfactory. Its square shape and low pitched roof give it a homelike air and insure well shaped and commodious rooms.

This particular house has a large living room opening on to a pleasant side porch; the dining room also is a fair size, and the kitchen back of it is conveniently planned for efficiency, while working and has a breakfast nook.

Two large bedrooms, dressing room, bath and closets occupy the second floor—five rooms in all.

The main building is 30 by 26 feet; size over all, 39 feet by 38 feet six inches; total, without porch, 19,000 cubic feet; porch, 950 feet, making the total cubage 19,950 cubic feet.

LAKEFIELD Y.P.S. HOLD PLAY PARTY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 16.—The young people of Lakefield United church held an enjoyable opening meeting on Wednesday evening, when they held a play party in the basement of the church. The first part of the program consisted of active games after which the crowd split up into groups of four persons who participated in turn, in a variety of games of luck and skill. As they progressed from one table to another, crokinole, pick-up-sticks, a variety of bowling games, dart throwing and ring tossing engaged the attention of the players and kept everyone happily engaged throughout the evening. At the conclusion of the games, delicious refreshments were served in cafeteria style.

President Clifford Hurl addressed the meeting briefly, urging everyone who could to attend the Y.P.U. Bay of Quinte Conference to be held in Bridge street church, Belleville, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 15, 16 and 17.

Quints Ex-Nurse Feels Reunion With Family Only Solution

Would Retain Guardianship But Not Deny Vital Relationship

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 16 (CP) —Despite advanced science and up-to-date health system Canada has "an appalling child mortality," declared Madame Louise de Kiriline in an address here last night. The former nurse of the Dionne quintuplets spoke before a banquet to delegates attending the semi-annual meeting of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire.

"There are slums in the cities," she continued. "There are children in homes who are victims of old wives' methods and untaught mothers."

She referred briefly to her career as nurse of the quintuplets.

"The break between the parents and us who had the care and welfare of the babies resting heavily upon our shoulders created a most unfortunate and untenable situation," she said. "For if it is true that I came to feel for those babies as if they had been born my own, I could not but gradually come to understand the difficult and hurting position of their separated mother."

"And I came to understand, as I feel certain their mother does too, that unless one puts that instinctive mother-feeling strictly within the bonds of sensible and fair judgment by which the welfare of the babies becomes all-important—not only in abstract matters but in every detail of their upbringing—then that blessed mother-love can become very close to a curse."

"And so my experience with the Dionne quintuplets inevitably came to an end. For I felt very clearly that usurping certain rights of the babies' mother—albeit most unintentionally—could never bring happiness."

"Therefore, a reunion of the Dionne family upon a sensible basis—still under official guardianship for the babies— I am emphatically sure is not only possible but might save the babies from what tends to be a most abnormal kind of childhood.

"For, isolated as they are, they are denied that irreplacable bond in life that exists between brothers and sisters, that family relationship upon which their background inevitably is founded."

CAR IS 28 YEARS OLD

DETROIT, Oct. 16—(CP)—Before the eyes of amazed Detroiters, Joseph F. Tembrowski, wearing old-fashioned, elbow-length gauntlets, drove up to the license office to buy a set of plates for his 28-year-old automobile. The old ones were of porcelain, dated 1914.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Blake of Lakefield spent the holiday week-end in Buffalo, N.Y., visiting friends.

The Fall sectional rally of the Women's Missionary Society will be held in the Lakefield United church on Thursday afternoon, October 21, commencing at two o'clock. Miss Evelyn Mitchel, Dominion Travelling Secretary, will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Chas. Renaud of Norwood will give a report of the Whitby School for Leaders, and Mrs. W. W. Yale will report the branch meeting held at Arnprior. Supper will be served after the meeting. A cordial welcome is extended to all the ladies.

Mr. Wallace Hendren, Lakefield, recently purchased the old Traill property, which has become widely known as the former home of Catherine Parr Traill. While Mr. Hendren will make considerable repairs on the property, he plans to preserve it, as far as possible, in its original state.

LABOR UNIONS STRONGER

OTTAWA, Oct. 16—(CP). — The Department of Labor, in its 16th annual report, disclosed last night total membership of all classes of trades unions in Canada at the end of 1936 was 322,473, an increase of 41,769 over the previous year. Membership was comprised in 1,360 local branches, a gain of 156. Ontario with 1,903 had the largest number of local branch unions of all classes.

WASHABLE PAPER FOR THE NURSERY

The heartbreak of finding a newly decorated nursery covered with sticky little fingerprints can hardly be equalled. The poets may write reams of copy about the thrill of the patter of little feet and tiny fingerprints on the wall, but poems do not remove the fingerprints.

When you decide to make a child's room the gay place it ought to be, be sure that your floor and wall coverings are easily cleaned.

Washable wall paper may be obtained in a variety of designs suitable for children's rooms. One ambitious mother decorated her son's room herself. The lower third of the wall was enamelled in a medium shade of green and the upper part was finished in pale green and against this surface ballons of red, blue, green and yellow were stencilled. On the door a trained seal, balancing a ball on his nose had been painted.

Funds for redecorating and remodelling the interior of your home are now available under the Dominion Government sponsored Home Improvement Plan.

Too Many Doors Spoil The Room

Doors frequently spoil a room. Sometimes there are too many of them, sometimes they have been badly placed. For many years this has been accepted as a necessary evil and dull doors have continued to spoil attractive rooms.

When redecorating your home with funds obtained from the Home Improvement Plan it is well to remember that they no longer need prove an interruption to design.

The door may be painted in one of the principal colors used in the room's furnishing or it may be finished in a design to correspond with the wall decoration.

Gotham's Mayor No Bangtail Fan

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—(CP).—Fiorello Laguardia has a private box at each of the Metropolitan race tracks but has not put in an appearance since assuming his post as New York's Mayor. And it's not likely the Mayor will be visiting the Bangtails for a while yet—he's in the midst of a campaign for re-election Nov. 2.

The last time Mayor Laguardia showed up at a race track, according to an eye-witness, was one bleak fall morning at Jamaica 14 years ago. He had been invited by an old friend, Joe Marrone, who wanted the Mayor to watch a filly, Anna Marrone II. work out. She was the leading two-year-old fily of 1923.

Yes, Sir— THAT FINDLAY STERLING WILL SAVE YOU 15% OUT OF EVERY 100% YOU SPEND FOR FUEL!"

YOUR furnace man knows — and, if you are your own furnace man, it will not take you long to find out — that a Findlay Sterling Moistair will give you this saving.

Or, to put it another way, 15 to 20 per cent. more heat for the same fuel.

The Findlay Sterling "heat shield," two inches inside the casing and the heat-retaining apron circling the firepot give you two supreme advantages — no loss of heat in the basement, enough warmth for an extra room upstairs. The scientific humidification of a Sterling Moistair also helps make your home more comfortable.

If your present furnace does not heat your home satisfactorily — if you are building a new home, or remodeling the old — now is the time to investigate the FINDLAY STERLING MOISTAIR.

BRITAIN STRESSES HER ONLY DESIRE IS ONE FOR PEACE

MANCHESTER, Oct. 16—(CP). — Cable). — Great Britain to-day once more extended the hand of friendship to Europe.

Almost on the eve of an important conference to seek means of removing foreign troops from Spain, Prime Minister Chamberlain last night said:

"The mainspring of our foreign policy is the desire to live at peace with our neighbors and to use our influence to induce them, if we can, to resolve difficulties by peaceful discussions and not to resort to war.

"We shall continue to seek and take any opportunities that may offer to remove the causes of ill-will and suspicion among the nations."

The Prime Minister, addressing the Association of British Chambers of Commerce here, devoted most of his address to the relationship between business and industry.

He said he had no intention of dealing at length with foreign affairs, but he added, they "do affect us so directly, indeed they have such a bearing upon trade and industry, that it is really impossible to put them out of our minds."

"I doubt whether our foreign policy ever was less aggressive than it is to-day," he declared.

"If we are striving—as we are night and day—to rearm ourselves, it is not that we have sinister designs against anybody else.

"If we are attacked, we should know how to defend ourselves as we always have done in the past, but it is not the temperament of our people to bear malice and I think we have the shortest memory for quarrels of any nation in the world."

Only Limited Control

The Prime Minister saw the government's proper function in regard to industry to create conditions under which trade, commerce could most successfully be carried on, "only exercising as much control as may be necessary in the public interest.

"That has been the aim of the National government from the beginning, by the restoration of financial preference and by the conclusion of a number of commercial agreements," he affirmed.

"I think we may claim we have not been unsuccessful. We have our critics—especially those who cannot see any middle shade between black and white. But the longer I live, the more it seems to me clear that every important decision arises out of the balance of opposing considerations, and music of the art of statesmanship lies in finding the true balance.

Democratic discussion solved alike government and business troubles, he said. Even as the voluntary system was best for the defence forces it was preferred to compulsion toward industry.

Competition might face British industry from states where the people were willing to give up liberty to secure efficiency, he said. "To us, loss of that liberty would outweight all advantages which might be gained in other ways. But all the same, I do not think we need to fear such a competition provided we use our liberty wisely."

"That does not mean we must base ourselves on the principle of each for himself and the devil take the hindmost," he added, "but that we should encourage the individual to follow his own initiative, subject always to due regard for the rights and liberties of others."

The Good Old Days.

The Prime Minister said that "everyone, I think—certainly not least His Majesty's ministers—must look back with envy on the good old days when Britain was an impregnable island and possessed the only fleet of consequence in the world. And when men, if they cast upward an inquiring glance at the sky, did so only to ascertain what were the weather prospects.

"I think that public speaking must have been easier in those days when every word was not examined with a microscope to find in it meanings invisible to the naked eye, and when a man might address his own countrymen without being accused of directing his utterances—and even his reticences—at some other nation."

The Prime Minister spoke of th "complicated task" facing the join committee of the cotton trade organizations which was attempting to find a satisfactory plan to reorganise that large industry.

"They ought to have the help and co-operation of every section of industry," he said, "because it is only by a combined effort of this kind that Lancashire can hope to solve the problems of her cotton-export trade.

"So far as the Government is concerned, I can promise that we are giving sympathetic attention to any proposal which may be laid before us as a result of the committee's efforts."

Hall Often Spoils Entrance To Home

Have you a small hall in your house which spoils the entrance to your home—a tiny space whose walls seem to crowd you and make you want to push them away?

When redecorating your home you can partly alleviate this condition by intelligent decoration. A door or a panel may be painted to give the appearance of distance and space.

This idea was used by a housewife who had an apartment with an uncomfortably small hall. The walls were painted to carry out the general decorative scheme of the hall. The black and white floor was copied on the walls and panelled white walls drawn. The effect was a hallway much larger in size.

Such improvements may now be financed under the generous terms of the Home Improvement Plan.

FORCED FLOW AIDS WATER HEATING

Among the many improvements which have greatly increased the efficiency of hot water heating systems is the installation of a mechanically operated water circulating device, according to the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating.

Instead of relying on gravity to circulate the water through the pipes and radiators, circulation is speeded up by an electric pump. Too often with the old system too little variation is obtainable between over heatedness and insufficiency of heat. In the new heating systems water can be delivered at low or high temperature, according to mild or cold weather. Equipped with thermostatic controls, a more even temperature can be maintained throughout the heating season. More heating comfort is provided and at the same time, fuel consumption is lowered.

By equipping the system with an electric pump, radiators respond almost immediately, and whereas under the old system, depending on gravity, there is an interval of 20 to 30 minutes before radiators are warmed up after the heating plant is started, with circulation forced by means of the electric pump, there is practically no time lag and water reaches the radiators at once.

Since the water is circulated more quickly and at a higher temperature, smaller radiators and pipes may be used. Modern slenderized "vest pocket" radiators which harmonize with other home furnishings may be installed at low cost. These and many other improvements in heating equipment are made easily available to Canadian householders under the easy terms of the Home Improvement Plan.

DUCE USES SCHOOL FOR TEACHING WAR

ROME, Oct. 16—(AP). — Development of "citizen soldiers" became the announced objective of the Italian education system last night with publication in the official gazette of a new law outlining military training courses for public schools.

The preamble to the law says the purpose of the program is not so much to provide technical military instruction as "to feed, reinforce and render conscious in youth the military spirit which to-day is one of its best characteristics."

Urge Warlike Spirit.

Instructors were told to make military training "instructive and at the same time delightful, with the object of seeing that it is considered by students as a pleasant diversion, a precious element of their own cultural patrimony and an indispensable requisite for fulfilling their duty to the Fascist Fatherland."

Textbooks were prescribed for these military courses, but instructors were counselled not to limit themselves to books in teaching the subject.

They were told instead to seek constantly means for illuminating a warlike attitude by reference to current events and by throwing their own personalities into the work.

Duke Crawls Around Nazi Coal Pit Comes Out Cmpletely Black

Duisburg, Germany, Oct. 16 (AP)

THE Duke of Windsor spent 90 minutes today crawling around in the coal pits of the Friedrich Heinrich mine on his survey of labor conditions under the Nazi regime.

Some 5,000 German miners cheered as the Duke, wearing regulation miner's overalls, went down into the pits. The Duchess remained at Essen.

The Duke emerged from the pit completely black. He observed smilingly: "I hope you photographers won't shoot me before I have had a chance to clean up. I've never been so black in my life."

Officials with him said the Duke had been 1500 feet deep and walked and crawled over two miles underground. No visitor, they said, had ever asked so many questions or indicated such expert knowledge of the mining industry as the Duke.

Visiting the miners' settlement nearby, the Duke was especially interested in the kitchens.

With spring prevailing in Argentina, farmers there are busy planting more corn than a year ago.

TRIO, STOLEN CAR NABBED, COBOURG

COBOURG, Ont., Oct. 16—(CP)—Alleged to have been stolen at Hawkesbury from John Holtby, a car with three youths in it was taken here yesterday by Provincial Constable F. Blucher of Colborne and Provincial Constable Harry Caldwell of Bowmanville.

Trenton police advised Cobourg officers a car called at a service station there and obtained gasoline without paying for it. Police spotted the car, took the three boys and the car to Cobourg. The driver gave his name as John Storey of Hamilton, but later changed it to John Eagles of Hamilton. Eagles was held on a charge of stealing a car and the other two youths for questioning. They gave their names as Gregoire Raymond and Frank Shortina of Montreal.

HAKESBURY, Ont., Oct. 16 (C. P.). — Chief Joseph Beauline and Provincial Constable R. H. Wanneli prepared last night to leave for Cobourg, Ont., to bring back three youths arrested there in connection with theft of a car, the property of James W. Holtby of Hawkesbury.

Holtby reported yesterday his automobile was taken from in front of his home.

EPISCOPALS AIM AT HIGHER SALARY

CINCINNATI, Oct. 16 (AP). — An alignment of clergymen who "worshipped at the altar of Mammon" prompted a movement in the Protestant Episcopal Church today to increase the salaries of underpaid priests.

This subject came to the fore at the Church's triennial convention after legislation was enacted to make the presiding bishop the supreme spiritual and temporal power of the Church.

The House of Deputies approved, and sent to the House of Bishops for concurrence, a resolution to set up a joint commission which would survey salaries of the clergy and recommend to the 1940 convention how "the present unequal remunerations may be adjusted."

Rev. Oscar F. Green, of Palo Alto, Calif., who introduced the resolution, said "this disparity of income" is "jeopardizing our missionary program."

The problem also demands attention, he said, because "all of us think too much of money. We do not stay on the job where we are most useful, but we strive to find a place of higher pay.

Envy Higher Paid.

"Because we have built up a false notion of success, disregarding the ideal of Jesus Who told us to seek the Kingdom of God and His righteousness first, in our hearts we have envied those with large salaries and worshipped at the altar of Mammon."

Mr. Green said he could think of nothing that would "make a greater impression on the world and bring more persons to the fact of Christ than an effort on our part to show that as Christian ministers we are a brotherhood willing to share and share alike."

He declared, "I am ashamed every time I receive my salary cheque," because "my cheque is larger than those of 9-10 of my brethren."

"The theory is that we are all brothers working to bring in the Kingdom of God," he continued. "But here is a bachelor who gets twice as much as his neighbor with a wife and three children. We talk about social justice. Is this justice?"

A survey of the salaries of 300 ministers in Virginia, California, Utah and Nevada showed a range of $7,500 to $720 annually, and an average of $1,863, exclusive of living quarters, Mr. Green told the deputies.

Pianist's Slip With Ponselle's Music Gives Audience Double Treat

Atlanta, Oct. 16 (AP)

ROSA Ponselle's dramatic soprano voice rose and fell in Tschaikowsky's "Adieu Forets" as a hushed concert audience listened last night.

Suddenly the Metropolitan star interrupted the song and tossed back to her pianist, Stuart Ross, a hasty "you're on the wrong key."

But Ross replied in Dulcet: "No, I'm not."

Then to the tensing audience Miss Ponselle said "Excuse me, please" and consulted her accompanist.

After a swift glance at the music board of the piano she announced triumphantly: "You've got the contralto copy."

The audience joined her in laughter while Ross hurried backstage to retrieve the soprano score.

When he was a bit long, Miss Ponselle dipped her chin in hands, elbows on the piano top, crossed one foot over the other and patted the floor. A wave of laughter rolled over the audience.

Ross returned, resumed playing and the soprano finished her number—a la soprano.

The song over, the singer urged Ross to front stage to take a bow, amid a vigorous ovation.

As he bent at the hips, she tweaked his ear.

6 MONTHS TO 5 YEARS to pay for those long wanted HOME IMPROVEMENTS

There is no longer any need to put up with a shabby or out-of-date home. A Home Improvement Loan lets you follow the example of thousands of other home owners who have made their homes more livable with needed repairs and additions — without financial strain.

Just think of the difference insulation and a modern heating system will make to your comfort this winter. Think of the fuel savings. Or take a paint job — inside or out — or re-roofing or any one of a dozen other improvements. Fall is the time to get the work started — for Winter comfort and for the added satisfaction of putting men to work at a time when they need it most.

LOANS EASILY ARRANGED

Any contractor, supply firm or architect can help you arrange a Home Improvement Plan loan if you need it to finance the work for you, or you can apply direct to your banker. No security or endorsement needed: you simply show that you can repay in monthly instalments and the loan is made, the work proceeds, your home is made brighter and more livable and men get needed jobs. Full information on the Home Improvement Plan and what it covers may be obtained from your local committee, your Provincial Chairman, your bank or the National Employment Commission, Ottawa.

Thrilling Race Closes Big Day At Roseneath's Annual Fair

In Spite Of The Chilly Weather Four Thousand Attend One Of Last Of Season

ROSENEATH, Oct. 15. — A black mare owned by S. Palmer of Port Hope provided one of the biggest thrills of Roseneath Fair on Friday in winning the last of the afternoon's nine races.

Over at Norwood on Wednesday she had trailed a field of four in two heats and got up for third money in another. In the same company yesterday she was second to G. H. Caldwell's Molly Grattan in the first heat of the 2.26 class, and dropped back to fourth place in the second canto which was taken by Jim Sutherland driving Weston Grattan.

Then they came out on the track for the final race of the day when the sun was descending low over the Rice Lake countryside horizon. Orphan Annie had to be led up past the judges' stand by Ben Dunaford, and for a time it seemed doubtful whether she would get into the line-up. Jim Sutherland had the pole position with Weston Grattan, and was so cautious coming up to the wire that the starter, Jim Thomas of Colborne, threatened to do something about it, but the driver replied that some of the early home-going motorists were crossing the track at the west gate.

"Get them out of there, and I'll be up," Sutherland shouted. Finally Caldwell let them go with Weston Grattan out in front and Orphan Annie back in fourth place. Only five started in this heat, Cactus Star having been withdrawn. Sutherland was still leading snugly as the pack completed the first half-mile, and swung down the west turn into the back stretch. At that stage the black mare made her move on the outside, and was in third place behind Molly Grattan at the head of the stretch. It is a long run to the wire on the Roseneath track, and provides the crowd with plenty of running.

Orphan Annie rapidly picked up ground on the two leaders, passed Molly Grattan, and had enough speed to nab Weston Grattan about fifty feet from the wire and beat him by a head for first money.

An Exceptional Fair.

If the unseasonably chilly weather had moderated on Friday the Fair directors would probably have had the biggest crowd in their history. As it was, they had probably more than four thousand, as a rough estimate, with an average display of live stock and poultry, but in farm products, grain, vegetables and fruits and also in household work, the women's department, the number of entries seemed to be far more than usual.

The midway and merry-go-round, which is owned by the Exhibition Board, were crowded all afternoon, and a variety program at the bandstand afforded nearly three hours of entertainment with abundant variety and merit. This is one of the most successful features of Roseneath Fair, and its supervision devolves largely to Harry Mouncey, second vice-president, and E. Timlin. Havelock Kilties Band enlivened the midway. Early in the afternoon police confiscated a gambling layout that was set up and just starting business.

Consistent Winner.

Alfred E. Bennett of Campbellford scored again with his team of general purpose horses, adding to the first prize ribbons he had already won this season at Madoc, Campbellford, Stirling, Warkworth, and Wooler.

Sam Adams of Hastings was another repeater with his team of agricultural horses, and Lloyd Kennedy of Bethany, W. H. Lindsay of Campbellcroft, Allan B. Mann of Bridgenorth were again prominent in the light harness classes.

The results of the horse races were as follows:

Free-for-All—

Victor Patch, Hillock, Picton	4	1	1
Daisy Patch, Caldwell, Iroquois	3	3	3
Molly Hall, Caldwell	1	2	2
Richard Hall, Ingles, Norwood	2	4	4

2.20 Class—

Ginger Direct, Jones, Hastings	3	2	3
Ideal Patchen, Lloyd Hess	4	4	4
Admiral Peters, Caldwell	2	1	1
Senator Range, Caldwell	1	3	2

2.26 Class—

Orphan Annie, Palmer, Port Hope	2	4	1
Cactus Star, S. Garrison	5	5	x
Molly Grattan, Caldwell	1	6	3
Miss Senator Patch, VanAistine	3	3	4
Irene Peters, McQuaig, Havelock	6	2	5
Weston Grattan, Sutherland	4	1	2

Each heat was a race, and the purses split accordingly. G. H. Caldwell, from the vicinity of Smith's Falls, had a string of five horses, and pulled down a generous share of the money.

Truck's Faults Total Up To $42 Fine

London, Ont., Oct. 16 (CP)

GOLDWIN Yundt of Stratford was fined $42 today because his truck had no legible name and address of the owner printed on it, no rear license plate, no horn, no windshield wiper. What it did have were bad brakes and a driver without a license.

Yundt told the court he wasn't in the truck when Traffic Officer Gilbert Robertson noted down its weaknesses, but he paid the fine.

CANVASSERS READY IN NORTH WARD

The Y.W.C.A. campaign for needed renovation and extension of the "Y" activities has been unanimously endorsed by the Ministerial Association and other denominational groups in Peterborough. Sunday, Oct. 17th, is to be known as Y.W.C.A. Sunday, when special reference to the appeal will be made from the pulpits of all churches. It has been a means of splendid encouragement to the officers and workers in the campaign to know the appeal has the endoresement and assistance of the Clergy.

Instructional meetings for the hundreds of workers are being held daily at Campaign headquarters and will continue until the campaign opens Friday evening, October 22nd the launching of which will take the form of a dinner in Trinity church at 6.00 p.m. of that evening. Due to the many other various social activities throughout the city the same evening, and considering the large number of guests expected, the committee in charge plan to start the dinner promptly at 6.00 p.m. and make an early adjournment.

Mrs. Charles J. Ray, Commander in charge of the solicitation for the North Ward, assisted by her nine team captains, has completed the organization of her group. Mrs. Ray will have 90 to 100 workers for this ward as follows:

MISSIONARY DESCRIBES CAPTURE BY BANDITS

BANDITS' FEAR UNKNOWN GOD SAVED WOMEN

Miss J. D. Cuthbertson Visits Cousin in City

A newspaper account two weeks ago of the dangers which had beset Miss J. D. Cuthbertson while she was a missionary in West China brought her in touch again with her cousin, Mrs. A. McKinley, New Romaine street, whom she had not seen since both were children.

Mrs. McKinley read the story of how her cousin had been attacked and captured by Chinese bandits as she was returning to Canada on furlough, and telegraphed to her. Since that time Miss Cuthbertson has been visiting in this city.

For 15 years a resident of a rioting, wild land where Communist troops and aboriginal bandits vie for cutthroat honors, Miss Cuthbertson has faced almost certain death many times. She has seen her city of Changhui evacuated time after time when word was received that large bands of robbers were advancing toward it. But the missionaries remained in possession of their homes, even though they knew that if the bands were Communistic they were in more grave danger than were the natives, she said.

She was only a few miles distant from the post at which missionary Howard Smith was captured by Communist Chinese and held for ransom of $100,000. He escaped after two months' imprisonment without paying any money.

To reach the mission post where Miss Cuthbertson has been located requires a journey of 1,000 miles up the Yangtse River, to be followed by another 800 miles of treacherous travel along tributaries. The final 300-mile lap requires from 40 to 50 days by small boat, she said.

It was when she was traversing this dangerous route on her recent return that the veteran missionary experienced her most hazardous experience. Eight times in two days roving bands of robbers halted the little party and threatened their lives. On all but one occasion members of the bands recognized her as the woman who had at one time or another had dressed their wounds, and prevailed upon the others to set the party free, she said.

Ordered to be shot when she struggled after being captured by one band, only her prayers saved her life, the woman missionary related. She was kneeling and praying aloud when the chieftain ordered his men to fire, she said. "Our boatman told me afterwards that they had refused to shoot because they feared our God would wreck vengeance on them," she declared.

OFFICERS ELECTED CHURCH CAGE LOOP

Church Basketball League was reorganized Friday night at an enthusiastic annual meeting in the 'Y'. Officers for the 1937-38 season include: President, Gordon Clegg; vice-president, Vince Holmes; secretary-treasurer, Don Charlton; referee convenor, Ralph Johnston; 'Y' representative, Cameron Gorrie. Jim McClenaghan retired from the executive. The league expects to have three four-team sections operating again.

Three squads definitely entered the junior section, St. John's, St. Andrew's and St. Paul's, while George St. and Murray St. are good possibilities, too. This section was inactive a year ago. St. Andrew's, St. John's, George St. and St. Paul's will have one team each in the bantam or juvenile divisions, and possibly one in both sections. Knox and All Saints may join the bantam series.

Prospective teams are given two Sundays to organize, the closing date for entries being set at October 25th, but the league will open on October 23rd with the first teams entering having the floor that evening. Entry formers will be sent managers at once, and the usual fee of $2.00 is set. The executive is still undecided as to rules but last year's rules will likely be used again, the new set not being published as yet. The new ones may be adopted in the second half.

The contention, "import" question was not raised this year. The ages were left as in church softball and hockey, juniors under 20, juveniles under 17 and bantams under 15—all by January 1st, 1938. Appreciation of the work of Don Charlton, secretary of the circuit since its inception, and of the work of the referee convenor, Gord Johnston — now in Toronto—was expressed by President Clegg and Past President McClenaghan.

TEACHERS URGE $800 MINIMUM

WHITBY, Oct. 16.—(Special.) — Restoration of the $800 annual minimum salary and the election of trustees by secret ballot, along with the municipal elections, were resolutions passed by deegates to the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Ontario Teachers' Institute at their final session here yesterday.

Other resolutions passed by the convention included "that department assistance be given the urban centres in greater educational grants for books to be used in schools, larger administration units in rural areas, greater State support of schols in Ontario, and that contributions made to the superannuations of teachers be based on the teacher's salary for the best ten consecutive years, and that contributions made to the superannuation fund by the department be made equal to that contributed by the teachers."

H. Pascoe of Oshawa was elected President and Miss Winifred Niddery of Scugog Vice-President; Roy Cornish of Port Perry, Immediate Past President, and A. Sennett of Whitby was re-elected Secretary, a post he has held for over ten years.

for years, the provinces of Kwelchow and Szechvan have been inaccessible until recently, she said Only since General Chiang Kai-Shek organized his "New Life Movement" has any semblance of order come to the country. Fifteen years ago she was a pioneer missionary in the district "but now there are twelve churches there and Christianity has certainly left its mark."

Miss Cuthbertson was scheduled to return to China in September but the Sino-Japanese conflict has caused cancellation of her sailing. Her bags are packed and she is ready to return at a moment's notice, she said. "One thing this war has done at least, has been to unite China as she has never been united before. Even the Communist troops have joined forces with the Nationalist government."

Drug Store Of Sixty Years Ago Had Its Soda Fountain Veteran Druggist Claims

William Rutherford Recalls Days When He Delivered Coal Oil

"My first duties as a druggist apprentice were to clean and shine thirteen coal oil lamps every other day. When I wasn't busy doing such old-fashioned tasks, I had to run messages, delivering coal oil in one-gallon lots around the town."

This was the start of William Rutherford's career in the drug business in this city 59 years ago. Mr. Rutherford has continued that career to the present time, established for the past 40 years in Nelson, British Columbia, and is likely entitled to distinction as the longest-practising druggist in the Dominion.

In Lakefield

Mr. Rutherford's early drug store experience continued with four months' service with the T. J. Bird store in Lakefield and he returned to Peterborough to serve with Ormond and Walsh, located on the corner of George and Simcoe streets before going to study at the Toronto Pharmaceutical College as a young man of 23.

Twelve years in the drug business with his uncle, Dr. S. P. Ford in Norwood followed until one day he read an advertisement in a Toronto paper and answered it to find he had obtained for himself a job with a druggist in British Columbia. He had long been desirous of getting out west as he believed the drug business afforded greater opportunities there. So, to the west he went. In 1903 he established the drug business in Nelson which he has carried on to the present.

Great Change

The drug business of 1937 is vastly changed from that of 1878, the year of William Rutherford's first introduction to it. But the change is much the same as that which has occured in the other forms of small independent enterprise, he stated. In 1878 overhead was very small and a very small turnover sufficed to pay the way for the store. Overhead has multiplied greatly in the intervening years through the necessity for carrying of larger and more varied stocks, the need for more expensive fixtures and equipment and through the relative skyrocketting of rentals.

During his long establishment in Nelson, one of his most interesting experiences has been his dealings with the Doukhobors, Mr. Rutherford relates. Nelson is the chief Doukhobor center and he has had dealings with many of them, he states.

"The Doukhobors are great medicine users," he relates. "They are good customers of the drug stores particularly as purchasers of cod liver oil. They do not eat meat so they buy cod liver oil by the gallon."

Harmless People

He states that the majority of the Doukhobors are quiet, harmless and innocent people who have been given a bad name by the unfavourable publicity of the Sons of Freedom, merely one of their sects. The majority are more enlightened than the members of the Sons of Freedom sect and are ready and anxious for education, he reveals.

Mr. Rutherford states he finds Peterborough of today greatly changed since his early days here. "The houses seem bright and clean. Even the oldest houses seem to have been fixed up to present a good appearance. I was quite proud to come back."

Nibbled letters collected in Westhill, England, have been traced to snails in the mail box.

WOOD IS SCARCE

Only three loads of wood were on sale at the market this morning, an unusually limited supply for this time of the year. One of the men who had a load for sale explained that the reason for the small showing was that farmers are not yet through with their plowing and other farm work.

TAGGERS ARE BUSY

A small army of taggers were at work on the downtown streets this morning in the annual tag day campaign on behalf of the Children's Aid Society. The organization was the first to launch this method of raising funds in Peterborough and the response is usually substantial

EXCURSION TO TORONTO

A large number of local people patronized the C.P.R. excursion to Toronto this morning. One of the chief attractions was the Big Four football match between the Montreal twelve and the Toronto Argonauts and Peterborough enthusiasts took advantage of the chance to see this important fixture.

PIKE ON SALE

A visiting fish merchant who is a regular attendant at the Peterborough market was in his usual spot this morning and among his wares he had a number of pike which attracted considerable attention by reason of their resemblance to the muskies of our own waters. He explained that a good many of these fish are caught in Lake Ontario, being found usually close to the shore.

CYCLIST SUFFERS FOOT INJURIES

Daniel Ryan, 16-year-old cyclist, 291 Rubidge street was admitted to hospital around seven o'clock Friday evening with a possible fracture of a small bone in his left ankle and a puncture wound in his left foot.

On his delivery rounds for a local firm of grocers the youth was cycling east on Charlotte street when he was involved in collision with a motor car driven by Herbert Jackson, 267 King street, as the car was making a turn south on Stewart street.

The driver of the car reported he was driving west on Charlotte street with the intention of turning right at Stewart street when he observed the cyclist approaching him. In an effort to avoid an accident, Jackson said, he cut his turn short but the cyclist skidded into the right rear wheel of the car after applying his brakes.

Removed to the surgery of Dr. D. W. Clark nearby Ryan received first aid before being taken to hospital in the doctor's car. Constables John Rogers and Percy Sexsmith investigated.

Will Rogers, and also the late Knute Rockne, famed coach of Notre Dame football team. Mr. Henshaw emphasized their desire for dreaming and how dreams came true. Mr. Henshaw, while travelling in the south by air, had the pleasure to be on the same ship as Will Rogers and met and talked with him. As others he was impressed by the way Rogers could express himself, and adapt himself to different surroundings with such ease. Howard McDonald, on behalf of the Club, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Henshaw for his very interesting talk. The chairman made his remarks, and the meeting closed with the reading of The Creed.

WATERLOO PARTY HERE

Peterborough was invaded Friday night by a party of twenty Waterloo county young people, winners of an educational trip in junior farmer and Women's Institute contests. The party have been visiting Ottawa and spent the night here on their return journey. This morning they visited the Liflock, the Quaker Oats plant and other places of interest. They are travelling in a modern streamlined bus.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

WASAGA BEACH MAN MURDERED JURY DECIDES

Suspect Pistol Butt; Not Kick by Horse

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., Oct. 16 (CP). — Police to-day were faced with a finding of a coroner's jury that Percy Link, Toronto riding instructor was murdered. He was found in a Wasaga Beach horse stall on September 4, and a jury here last night concluded his death was at the hands of some person or persons unknown.

Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert from the Attorney-General's Department, informed the jury a pistol may have caused a fracture of Link's skull and the prongs of a pitchfork may have caused other wounds on the body. He examined the body after it was exhumed, inquiry having been opened a week after burial.

At the time Link was found dying in a Wasaga stable it was believed he had been kicked by a horse. Provincial Police later, however, tracked down rumors that arose a few days after he was buried and complete inquiry was ordered.

In a statement read at the hearing, Dr. Frankish described many wounds, abrasions and punctures on the body. These were in addition to head injuries, including a skull fracture, broken jaw, and several deep gashes. The latter, he said, may have been caused by a pistol butt.

Mrs. H. A. Lewis of Kitchener, and little daughter, Ann, are visitors in town to attend the wedding of Mrs. Lewis' brother, Jack Kingdon, and Miss Marguerite Seabrooke, which took place this morning in Trinity United church.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. held the regular monthly meeting on Friday afternoon. With the president, Mrs. F. L. Robinson in the chair, various business matters were discussed, including plans for the annual bridge to be held in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium on Wednesday, November 17.

Jack Kingdon, whose marriage to Miss Marguerite Seabrooke took place in Trinity Church this morning, was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the staff of the Bowra Electric and Hardware, Oshawa, at the Kennedy Hotel, Bewdley. The enjoyable affair was presided over by the store manager, G. Moulden, who, on behalf of the staff, presented Mr. Kingdon with an electric coffee urn.

Mrs. Harold Coleman was hostess this week at a delightfully planned kitchen shower in ivory and black enamelware for a bride of the near future, Miss Helen Dawson. Prettily wrapped, the gifts were piled in a decorated basket, that was carried in by the Misses Rotha Lotan and Phyllis Coleman. After a pleasant social evening, refreshments were served by the hostess. Sixteen friends of the bride-elect were present.

Miss Marguerite Seabrooke Has Been Much Entertained.

A popular bride-elect, Miss Marguerite Seabrooke, whose marriage to J. A. Kingdon of Oshawa is to take place in Trinity United Church on Saturday, has been the guest of honor at a number of delightful affairs recently.

Mrs. T. Beatty of Otonabee entertained at tea, when a fruit and pickle shower was presented to the bride. The same evening, her associates in Trinity choir gave a miscellaneous shower in her honor. Mrs. Jack Whitfield and her sister, Miss Beryl Cheyne were hostesses at an attractive linen shower at the latter's home, and Mrs. D. Hewitt entertained at a charmingly arranged dinner, followed by a delightful miscellaneous shower, at which Mrs. Hewitt and Mrs. T. Sexsmith were joint hostesses at the latter's home.

Trousseau Tea Given by Bride of Today.

A most delightful trousseau tea was given this week by one of today's brides, Miss Helen Brady, who received her friends at the home of her aunts, the Misses Simons of Rubidge Street.

Wearing a stunning black net frock and a corsage of rosebuds, the bride-elect was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. Claude Brady, who was gowned in black lace with which she wore red roses. During the afternoon, the guests were welcomed at the door by Miss Betty Brady, the trousseau was shown by Miss A. Simons, and the wedding and shower gifts displayed by Mrs. G. Stabler.

A beautiful cloth of Irish linen that has been in the family for a great many years, covered the tea table, the soft lights bringing out the shamrock pattern with lovely gleaming effect. Pink carnations in a silver basket, and pink candles in silver holders, with the silver tea services, completed the pretty picture. In the afternoon, Mrs. E. Wolff and Mrs. E. H. White poured tea, assisted by Mrs. D. Simons, Mrs. M. Murray, and Miss Stella Murray. In the evening, Mrs. A. C. Wolff and Mrs. Basil McGee presided at the table, and the Misses Helen Huppe and Josephine Collins joined the afternoon assistants. Miss Rita Condon was the evening door attendant.

Delightful Bridge Business-Professional Women.

Terrifying black bats and witches on the walls, bright orange paper cloths with bat motifs on the tables and light'd lanterns were the gay or dreadful Hallowe'en decorations at the Business and Professional Women's Clubs when the members enjoyed a most delightful bridge party on Friday evening.

The first prize was won by Miss Edith Young, and the second went to Mrs. Garfield Anderson, the prizes being drawn for by Miss Latimer and Miss Eastwood. Refreshments were served by Miss Mae Anderson and her assistants. Miss Sara Eastwood had charge of the decorations.

Previous to bridge, a short business meeting was held, when Miss L. McElheran of the National Council of the Y.W.C.A. spoke to the club concerning the coming Y.W.C.A. campaign.

October Meeting St. James United Auxiliary

A real spirit of Thanksgiving pervaded the October meeting of St. James' United Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society.

With Mrs. M. H. Drysdale, group leader for the month, in the chair, Mrs. Elliott introduced the new study book, "A New Church Faces a New World," as lending itself more easily to study than that of last year. The "How To Use," a companion book, giving helpful methods of presenting the study, was also on view.

The annual sectional rally of the W.M.S. for this district was announced to be held at Bensfort, Tuesday, October 19, in an all-day session, to which all interested W.M.S. workers were cordially invited. Mrs. W. K. Sloane reported for the Missionary Monthly, and is already gathering in subscriptions for the coming year, for this interesting journal.

One new member was reported, and Mrs. Hosker was welcomed to the Auxiliary by the president and members.

In taking over the topic for the day, Mrs. Drysdale explained that several of her group could not be present, which necessarily disarranged the order of service. A beautiful solo was sung by Mrs. H. P. Doig.

The secretary for Christian Stewardship and Finance, Mrs. Rowe said that "stewardship" is not a matter of giving more money, or being more generous, or raising a budget, but an acceptance of one's personal responsibility to use the right share of anything we possess, time, talent, property, skill, for the Kingdom of God."

Mrs. McAdams gave a resume of the work being done in Korea. Its size, population, its needs and its progress under the work of the Christian missionary. Covering a distant field of W.M.S. endeavor, Mrs. English gave an illuminating picture of a conference held in Trinidad, which she likened to our Provincial meetings of Canada, but held under much greater disadvantage from the view of the entertainer. The whole story was interesting and brought Trinidad and its W.M.S. work very near to her hearers.

Rev. Mr. Oraik brought a challenge to this Auxiliary in his true thanksgivink story of the Far North, in which faith in the answer to prayer held a vital place.

Butler-Moffat

TWEED, Oct. 15.—A quiet wedding took place in Belleville on Monday morning of this week, when Cara Elizabeth Moffat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Moffat, Tweed, was united in marriage to Edward Ormonde Butler, Belleville, son of Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., and Mrs. Butler. The attendants were Miss Mary Butler and Mr. Gregory Butler, sister and brother of the groom. The bride was becomingly attired in a gray suit with green accessories. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home in Tweed. After a short honeymoon, spent in Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec City, Mr. and Mrs. Butler will reside in Belleville.

Kingdon-Seabrooke.

The exquisite colors in the stained glass windows were duplicated in the strikingly lovely velvet gowns worn by the bride and her attendant at a charming Fall wedding taking place at half-past nine in, Trinity United church this Saturday morning. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. S. Easton when Marguerite Viola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Seabrooke, became the bride of John Alvin Kingdon of Oshawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kingdon of this city.

The wedding music was played by Miss M. Clarry, the organist, the bridal party standing before a floral setting of bronze 'mums banked against green ferns.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in Courtly blue velvet, cut on princess lines, with small stand-up collar, and skirt falling into a sweeping train. Self covered buttons trimmed the front from the neck to the hem. She wore a tiny cap of matching velvet surmounted with a cluster of ostrich tips in variegated shades, shoes to match her gown, and carried a shower bouquet of Briarcliff roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Beryl Cheyne, as bridesmaid, wore a gown of chiffon velvet in claret shade, fashioned with a short train, a waist-length jacket, with collar of gold lame, and long sleeves puffed at the shoulders. She wore matching accessories and her flowers were Talisman roses combined with lilies-of-the-valley.

The best man was Harry ("Bun") Kingdon.

Following the ceremony, a recep-

Daily Exercises Gain Slim Waist

By GLADYS GLAD

"I realize that if one desires to look well in the new dress styles, one must have a slender waist. Unfortunately, however, I have acquired a bit of excess flesh about my mid-section.

I am not overweight, and therefore I think that a few corrective exercises would prove sufficient to slenderize my waistline. Can you prescribe any such exercises for me? GRACE."

If you are not generally overweight, the following exercises, faithfully executed every day, should prove effective in slenderizing your waistline:

Stand erect, arms extended overhead. Bending at the waist, touch the tips of the fingers to the floor. Be sure that you keep your knees stiff during this exercise.

Stand erect, feet apart, arms extended sideways. Keeping the knees and arms stiff, try to touch the right toe with the left hand. Come back to first position, and then try to touch the left toe with the right hand.

Lie flat on your back, arms extended overhead. Raise the legs at right angles to the body, and then very slowly lower them.

Lie flat on your back, arms extended overhead. Bending at the waist, rise forward and touch the toes with the fingertips.

tion was held at the groom's home, 589 Charlotte street. Mrs. Seabrooke, mother of the bride, wore a gown of navy crepe, with matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Kingdon, mother of the groom, wore a wine colored gown, matching hat and accessories, and a corsage of cream roses.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kingdon left later for Ottawa and Montreal, the latter wearing for travelling a cherry colored crepe dress, with a wine tweed coat and matching accessories. They will reside at 218 Arthur street, Oshawa.

Wolff-Brady.

Carrying the gift of a very dear friend, a Mother o' Pearl prayer book, showered with white baby 'mums, Helen Brady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Brady, was married to Ferdinand Wolff, son of Mrs. Wolff and the late Alfred Wolff, in St. Peter's Cathedral at nine o'clock this (Saturday) morning. The groom's brother, the Rev. Father Wolff, of Cobourg, celebrated the Nuptial Mass.

Glowing bronze 'mums were on the altar and lovely rosebuds combined with maidenhair fern on the bridal table. The wedding music was played by Miss Veronica Scollard, and Miss Phyllis Cowie sang the "Ave Maria" during the progress of the Mass.

Given in marriage by her brother, John Brady, the bride wore a charming gown of white suede lace over satin, made on simple lines, with high cowl neck and leg o'mutton sleeve ending in points over the hands. Tiny satin buttons trimmed the back, the shoulders and the sleeves. Her shoulder length veil fell from a little coronet of suede lace, and she wore white kid gloves and shoes.

The bride was attended by her sister, as Betty Brady. Her "baby blue" taffeta gown was fashioned with Queen Anne collar, shirred leg o'mutton sleeves and bouffant skirt flaring from a fitted waistline. She wore a halo hat of pink felt, pink gloves and slippers and carried a bouquet of pink 'mums.

The groom was attended by his brother, Ernest Wolff, and the ushers were Gerald Stabler and Frederick White.

The reception later was held at Walkerfield House, where the floral decorations were snapdragons and rosebuds, with the three tiered wedding cake occupying a place of honor. Mrs. Brady, mother of the bride, was gowned in navy blue triple sheer, with matching picture hat and accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Wolff, wore a gown of black velvet, a matching hat, white kid gloves and also a corsage of Talisman roses.

The young couple left later for Ottawa, the bride travelling in a rust crepe dress, a brown "treebark" coat, and matching hat and accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Wolff will reside on McDonnel street when they return to the city.

Fashion Service

A practical addition to any day wardrobe is this easy to wear smart tailored shirt type dress. It has a panel straight down the front to give you a tall slender look. Made of rich dark green wool, flattering to every complexion, it adds dashing contrast in a natural harness leather belt and matching buttons. There's an inset breast pocket for hanky to repeat the contrast color. The model also includes a high shirt neck. Oxford background plaid wool is another idea you'll like for this quick-to-sew dress. A step-by-step instruction chart accompanies pattern.

Style No. 2977 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38-inches bust. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material.

Facts and Fancies

Be Fair to Potato.

Approximately every third person today is refusing to eat potatoes as a means of keeping down weight. Yet some of the food eaten as a substitute contains more calories and is less beneficial. Grownups as well as children require energy foods, and potatoes and milk are still the cheapest ones in the average diet. One of the most interesting facts which most people do not suspect is that potatoes contain less starch than many other vegetables. White boiled potatoes contain only 18 per cent. starch, 2 per cent. protein and 78 per cent. water. Sweet-corn, baked beans and frash lima beans contain 20 per cent. starch, while dried peas and beans contain 60 per cent.; macaroni and spaghetti, 72 to 76 per cent.; rice, 24 per cent., and white patent process four averages 75 per cent.

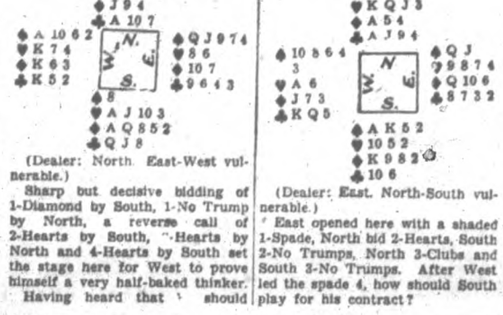
Jackie Coogan—Betty Grable To Wed

Jackie Coogan, who made a million dollars as a child star, and Betty Grable, actress, soon will march to the altar, according to friends of the couple. Jackie proposed three years ago, but Betty's motion picture contract stipulated that she couldn't wed until she attained her majority. Said Betty, "That's all taken care of now, because I'm 21—and there's nothing to stop us."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WORST OF ALL LEADS

WHEN THE hand winding up as dummy has bid just one suit besides what becomes the final contract, the worst lead is nearly always the dummy's suit, as it gives the declarer the jump in the play of the hand. If the dummy has not called any suit, outside of raising the declarer's, the worst lead is usually the underlead of an ace. The reason should be obvious to thoughtless players who continue to throw away points by this means. If the declarer's side happens to hold the king and has a singleton in either holding, the ace dies in your hand without ever taking a trick.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

Sharp but decisive bidding of 1-Diamond by South, 1-No Trump by North, a reverse call of 2-Hearts by South, 3-Hearts by North and 4-Hearts by South set the stage here for West to prove himself a very half-baked thinker.

Having heard that ♠ should never underlead a king—which I suppose he would obey even if he had four kings—West decided in favor of a lead of the spade deuce. By so doing, he beat himself out of ever getting a spade trick. The declarer went on to make five hearts, losing only one trick in diamonds and one in trumps.

Had West underled any of his three kings, his side would have taken three tricks and held the declarer to a mere game without any overtricks. His best lead, however, in this extremity, would have been the spade ace. The worst in the entire hand was a small spade.

Monday's Problem

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East opened here with a shaded 1-Spade, North bid 2-Hearts, South 2-No Trumps, North 3-Clubs and South 3-No Trumps. After West led the spade 4, how should South play for his contract?

Regional Conference Is Held By Home and Schools Associations

Augurin well for the future of educational advancement in the province, was the eager enthusiasm and interest evidenced along these lines by the members of the Home and School Association, who met in regional conference on Friday afternoon and evening in Prince of Wales school here.

Delegates were present from various centres in the district, which includes the area between Oshawa and Kingston and were capably led in the two sessions by the Peterborough council president, Mrs. G. A. Spicer.

Registration occupied the first order of business, when over one hundred and twenty-five members of the Association were enrolled.

The impressive devotional service was in charge of Miss E. McKay, who chose for her Scripture reading the 13th chapter of First Corinthians with charity—or love—as her theme, applying its principles to the work of the association. This inspiring service closed with the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Greetings to the many representatives were given in gracious welcome by the conference supervisor, Mrs. G. A. Spicer, who announced the guest speakers.

"Home Education" was the important subject dealt with in a concise but comprehensive paper given by Mrs. H. H. Graham, Peterborough. This department is one of the two main purposes in Home and School work, which has this year broadened to include religious education and recreation.

Six points for the new program of work, as outlined by the provincial chairman, were stressed by the speaker as follows: Home Economics, Parent Education, Reading, Nursing and Nutrition, Recreation, Religious Education. In conclusion, Mrs. Graham outlined more fully parent education in its two phases: 1st, mass education, and 2nd, the child study group.

The scope of the "Child study group" was enlarged upon with more definite information as to methods and organization. "If you want to feel that you are always right, do not go in for child psychology," said the speaker in presenting the many positive reasons for joining such a group.

A pleasing variation in the program was the community singing, which seemed to bring the members into closer relationship, since one of the songs was the composition of Mrs. A. B. Silcox of Toronto, who is the convenor of secondary schools. The singing was enthusiastically led by Mrs. C. H. Crowe, with Mrs. H. K. Clifton at the piano.

Mrs. Charles Bankey of Belleville, spoke on "Membership and How to Build."

Concrete suggestions for the increasing of membership were made and included such as, study groups, the discussion of child problems, school concerts and an annual banquet for staff and graduating class. "Remember," said the speaker, "the bulwark of success is the sum of small efforts, plus faith in the thing you do."

She advocated close co-operation of parent and teacher, working together for the best development of the child.

Showing that the Home and School Association is not only absorbing knowledge, but giving it out in a most practical way, Mrs. A. B. Silcox, spoke on the new "Training school for leaders" which has recently been established. Mrs. Silcox gave an interesting outline of the training school with the objectives clearly stated. Deploring the evident lack of leadership today, the speaker commented upon the vital necessity of such a training school to equip the officers of local Home and School Associations with efficient leaders. She outlined briefly the course and the methods of study pursued and urged that the associations select women of ability to represent them and to enjoy the benefits of this practical instruction.

Very helpful suggestions are provided for new presidents in the way of "model meetings", the policies of the association, the work of the various convenors and financial objectives are all dealt with, so that every woman will know "the how and why." Fine results from such an endeavor have been seen in Toronto, where the school has been in operation for three years.

Many knotty problems were solved by the visiting speakers, who gave the convention the benefit of their wide experience through a question drawer.

Pin of Merit Presented

During the supper hour, a happy feature was the presentation to Mrs. W. A. Morris of a pin of merit by the Home and School associations of Peterborough in recognition of her outstanding contribution to the work of the organization.

With the singing of the beautiful Vesper hymn, again led by Mrs. Crowe, the evening session opened for an interesting and informativ. program.

Speaking on "The New Curriculum", Mr. Adrian Macdonald, M.A., B.Paed., unfolded its mysteries for the enlightenment of both parent and teacher and bespoke the enthusiastic support of each. He termed the new curriculum "the result of study in United States and in England, with special emphasis upon the Haddon reports."

Among the many striking changes made, is the integration of material into seven main branches, doing away with the former artificial division of subjects and making for a simple and flexible time-table. "Purposeful activity" is to be the key-note of the new systematized knowledge. Another significant feature of the new course is the absence of promotion examinations. The flexibility of the program calls for more initiative and more responsibility on the part of the teacher," said the speaker, who at the close of his address, led a brief discussion period.

Mrs. E. E. Reece, Toronto, provincial president of the Ontario Federation of H. and S. Associations, addressed the conference on "Ethics of the Home and School Movement," bringing a note of inspiration and of challenge. In introducing her subject, Mrs. Reece outlined the purpose of the regional conference as an opportunity for exchange of ideas and to become acquainted with the leaders of H. and S. activities. "Ethics" she defined as "the laws which control the actions of intelligent human beings", and continued with the investigation of the principles and basis of duties for H. and S. members. The H. and S. ethics are based upon Christian dogma and principles and know neither race, creed nor party. These ethics are embodied in the new curriculum which is the promise of many things hoped for. Ethics determine ideals. What we want is an awakened parenthood. In closing her fine message, Mrs. Reece emphasized that education is their chief concern and that "The Golden Rule is the basic principle of their code of ethics.

The National Anthem brought this fine conference to a conclusion.

THE STARS SAY

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Sunday, October 17.

Sunday's horoscope emphasizes the conventional activities of the sabbath, with spiritual, religious and social or sentimental functions claiming the attention. An element of intrigue or secrecy pervades and actuates these purely private affiliations, perhaps expressing itself in clandestine love affairs.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of excellent opportunity for furthering the interests and enlarging the fortunes, although secrecy and intrigue may be factors in such objectives. Secret agreements or diplomacy may be advantageous. Journeys or changes may be called for.

A child born on this day may be versatile, farseeing and ambitious, with great depths and ambitions of feeling, emotion and idealism as undercurrent to high aspirations. A happy life may be devoted to an unique purpose or humane service.

For Monday, October 18

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of agitation and commotion, probably in setting the wheels in motion for new adventures. These obstructions require strenuous and aggressive action, but too impetuous or reckless use of force might prove perilous and cause enmity.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of abrupt and radical upheavel that may take them to fresh fields and in pursuit of wholly new objectives. While determination, force and energy may be necessary to break away from certain static conditions to grasp new opportunities, yet excitement impetuosity and rashness would prove perilous.

Forcing Yourself to Work
A Common Symptom of Nervous Trouble

Fear, worry and fatigue are ever present
When the nerve force becomes exhausted.
You lack the energy which is required
To carry out the daily task.
You may have no organic trouble
But all the organs function weakly
Because the motive power, nerve force, is lacking.
There is help for you in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
Gradually and certainly the blood is enriched
And new nerve force is instilled into the nervous system.
You find a new interest in life
And new pep and energy to carry on.
Sleeplessness, nervous indigestion, tired feelings,
And other weaknesses and discomforts,
Soon disappear under this treatment.

FOR 46 YEARS

THIS GREAT SCHOOL HAS BEEN HELPING MEN TO SUCCEED IN BUSINESS AND IN LIFE

FORTY-SIX years ago, October 16th, the International Correspondence Schools were founded. That was the birth of the idea of correspondence instruction. That was the beginning of a new method of training that has since become an invaluable asset to the educational program of the Dominion...of the whole world in fact.

Any institution that survives the storm and strels of forty-six years and shows increasing vitality with the passing of each milestone must have in it the chief essential of success in any enterprise or individual

Half of all the students enrolled by the International Correspondence Schools every day, every month, and every year are guided to our doors by I.C.S. students, while the other half are inspired to enter our portals by the sheer force of their example.

We cordially invite other earnest men to follow their example. Return of the attached coupon will bring you information about the subject in which you are most interested.

I LEARNED TO 'BEAT' ACID INDIGESTION

ONCE LIFE WAS MISERABLE, NO APPETITE... LITTLE SLEEP...UNTIL THE DOCTOR SAID "ALKALIZE"

BUT NOW—AT THE FIRST SIGN OF ACID-INDIGESTION I USE PHILLIPS' AND I FEEL LIKE A NEW PERSON ALMOST IMMEDIATELY!

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkalizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonfuls of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

Branch Notes

The annual meeting of the Peterborough District Council was held at St. James' Parish Hall, Emily, on Thursday. Representatives from Omemee, Emily and the four City Branches were in attendance.

Roland Krant was in the chair for the business part of the program, after the meeting had been opened with prayer by Rev. Bousfield, of St. Luke's Peterborough. The reports of the year's work by the different officers of the Council were then presented and accepted.

At the close of the presentation of reports, the new constitution for the District Council was then read and adopted.

When the business session was concluded, Roland Krant called on Rev. Bousfield to perform an unusual duty. Rev. Bousfield discussed at length, the qualities of Miss Clemena Long as teacher, and in the A.Y.P.A. both as a member and President of her own branch, and in her unstinting efforts in the local council as secretary of the council. After giving a generous talk about Miss Long, Rev. Bousfield called on Miss Queenie Hope, president of St. Luke's Peterborough, to present a life membership charter on behalf of St. Luke's branch. Roland Krant presented Miss Long with the life membership A.Y.P.A. ring. This gracious act of St. Luke's branch, made possible through the valuable assistance of Miss Long's aunt, came as a complete surprise to Miss Long, but it met with the hearty approval of the whole council. Miss Long made suitable reply to this honored gift.

Mr. Krant then called upon the Rev. H. Johnston, to act as chairman for the election of the officers for the coming year. When the ballots were finally counted the following were declared elected to the offices of the council:

Hon. president, Rev. T. S. Gault, St. George's, Peterborough; past president, Roland Krant, St. Luke's, Peterborough; president, Miss Clemena Long, St. Luke's Peterborough; 1st vice president, Alton Clark, St. James', Emily; 2nd vice president, Miss Isobel Sisson, St. Mary's Lifford; treasurer, B. Pammett, St. Luke's Peterborough; secretary, Miss Aileen Gynane, St. John's, Peterborough; publicity secretary, L. Cavaller, All Saints', Peterborough; Chaplain, Rev. H. Johnston, St. James', Emily.

After the election of the officers, the members of the council present, then adjourned to the Church of St. James', where the officers were duly installed in office. The installation ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Johnston. The Lesson was ready by the retiring president, Roland Krant.

The assembly then returned to the Parish Hall where the new president occupied the chair for a very brief session.

Refreshments were served by the members of St. James', Emily, which brought a very successful evening to a delightful close while the Rev. Johnston closed the meeting with the Benediction.

St. James' Church, Emily

On Friday evening the A.Y.P.A. held their opening rally in the parish hall. A lengthy business session was conducted by the president when arrangements were made concerning the program for the winter months. An invitation extended by the rector, Rev. Mr. Johnston, to hold an executive meeting at his home on Tuesday evening was accepted. It was decided to have an attendance contest worked out in a similar manner to that used in previous years by the branch.

A special children's service is being arranged for the Sunday of October 17, when a large attendance is urged.

Miss Vera Davis, program convenor, conducted a very interesting half-hour of enjoyment in the form of games and contests. Lunch of sandwiches and cake with tea was served by the refreshment convenor, Marion Franks, and her assistants.

The meeting was closed with prayer by the rector.

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH.

Thirty members of St. John's Branch were afforded the opportunity of a tour through the Bell Telephone Company's local plant, by kind permission of the manager. Three attendants explained the intricate details of the wiring and operation, from the cable coming into the building to the last detail in completing a call by the operators.

On returning to the Parish Hall games were enjoyed, with Miss Iris Williams' group in charge.

Music for dancing was played by Phyllis Gardiner.

Next week a scavenger hunt will be the order of the evening.

Tony Lazzeri After Position As Leader Of Major Club

Gets Outright Release From Yankees—Bees, Browns Only Possibilities

NEW YORK, Oct. 16— (AP)—Tony Lazzeri, veteran second baseman of New York Yankees, and batting star of the recent World Series, was given his unconditional release by the world champions last night.

The announcement of the release said the Yanks learned from reliable sources Tony had been offered a job as manager of a major league club for 1938.

Boston Bees and St. Louis Browns are the only two clubs with vacancies for next year. All other teams, with the exception of Cleveland Indians, have signed managers for next season, and the Tribe is expected to retain Steve O'Neill.

Veteran of twelve years of big league play with the Yankees, and holdover from the Yanks' era of Babe Ruth, Lazzeri is one of the shrewdest thinkers in the game to-day.

He left New York the day after the world series ended, Sunday, and is en route to his home in San Francisco.

Lazzeri announced a few weeks before the 1937 season ended that this year would be his last as a player, and that unless he received a post as manager of a major league club he would retire from the game.

After his brilliant performance during the series, however, Tony admitted he wasn't so sure he would quit: Batting leader of the classic, and flawless fielder in five games, he said he would "think it over" during the winter.

His release did not state just what were the "reliable sources" through which the club had been advised, Tony had been offered a managerial position.

Last year, Cleveland Indians wanted Tony as manager, but the Yanks refused to give up their 33-year-old infield ace at that time.

AMERK REGULARS GET INOCULATION

CALGARY, Oct. 16 (CP)—Reminiscent of a war-time inoculation parade, Mervin (Red) Dutton marched members of the regular squad of the New York Americans into a doctor's office Thursday.

At one time last year, during the National Hockey League campaign, nine of the Amerks were laid low with colds. Dutton is trying to prevent a recurrence this year.

Each team member was given immunizing doses of respiratory vaccine, a preventive against catching cold. More trips are to follow before the squad leaves Calgary for the East.

"Go to it 'Doc'," remarked Dutton as he watched Dr. J. H. Birth, the club physician, at work. "Maybe it will make them skate faster."

Executive Elected For Cricket Club

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cricket Club was held at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening, October 14. Those present included Messrs. F. Dyer, R. N. Stuart, G. Caird, S. Lorne, T. Williams, A. Hamilton, G. Colbran, R. Harvey, J. Barry and C. H. Mason.

The following is a list of officers:

Hon. President, Dr. Hammond; Hon. Vice-Presidents: G. A. Macdonald, H. Morrow and E. A. Peck, K.C.; President, Col. C. H. Ackerman; Vice-President, C. Coleman; Patrons: W. H. Bradburn, G. Coleman, J. J. Duffus, M.P., Ald. J. Dutton, Louis Yeates, D. B. Falkner, C. G. Graham, Ald. R. M. Gloyer, Mrs. Eyres, F. Hills, R. T. C. Micks Lyne, T. A. Mackay, Rev. Canon W. Robertson, H. C. Sootheran, H. Steggles and J. J. Turner; Captain, F. Dyer; Vice Captain, S. Lorne; Secretary, G. Caird; Treasurer, R. N. Stuart, and V. Coleman and R. Harvey.

After minutes read and confirmed, the secretary gave a report of the season's activities, and the treasurer had a favorable financial statement, showing a substantial balance in hand.

Considerable discussion followed as to the future of the game here and of the club. Finally sub-committees were appointed—one to arrange a dance and a draw during the winter—and the other as to general conditions here, reporting to the spring meeting. Final decision as to the county championship was also deferred to that meeting.

ADAMS INTERESTED FT. WILLIAM YOUTH

DETROIT, Oct. 16 (CP)—Fire Parsons, 17-year-old rookie with the training squad of the Detroit Red Wings of the National League, brought memories of other days to Manager Jack Adams as he watched the red-headed youth skating with the 50 other athletes in the group.

Fire is the son of Pinky Parsons, former work-mate of Adams at Port Arthur, Ont., where they were employed by the same railroad. He does not intend to turn professional this year. He still has two years of junior hockey at Port William. Pinky sent his son here to let Adams take a look at what the years had wrought.

"I guess it isn't just yesterday," Adams said. "It's hard to realize that big kid out there is Pinky Parsons' son. He's a flaming redhead, just like his dad.

"He's the best amateur prospect on the ice to turn pro a couple of years from now," the manager of the Stanley Cup champions said.

ARE TWINS CHIPS OFF OLD BLOCKS

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 16.—(CP)—It's a little early for predictions but if those McNamara brothers, Paul and George, keep it up look for another set of "Dynamite Twins" in big-time hockey soon.

Right now the brothers have their minds set on an education. But they're in the perfect setting to get plenty of hockey for they attend St. Michael's College here, and the collegians are rated nearly tops when it comes to turning out good junior hockey teams.

And it's a question if they will follow completely in the footsteps of their famous dad, George McNamara, and his brother, Howard, whose deeds became hockey legend and led to their being named the "Dynamite Twins." The original McNamaras played from 1908 to 1916, going then to war.

The St. Mike's coach, Dr. Jerry Laflamme, thinks the junior McNamara edition can make the big league if and when they want to. George is only 17 but he tips the scales at 175 pounds and, though a junior, was rated last year as one of the outstanding amateur defence prospects in Canada.

Paul, 165 pounds and a year younger than his brother, plays right wing, but that doesn't mean some day he won't step in alongside George to form something the National Hockey League has lacked since the days of Odie and Sprague Cleghorn—a brother defence combination.

A proud father, George Sr., says "it is too early now even to think of anything like that." But he does say if they ever jumped to monied ranks he "would like to see them play defence together."

"You know when I played professional hockey," he added, "I was a forward for the first three years and my brother Howard played on the forward line for a year. Then we went back to defence as a team."

The boys will play for St. Mike's again this year.

WESTCLOX GIRLS WIN TOURNAMENT

NORWOOD, Oct. 16.—Playing under abnormal weather conditions, Stephenson's Supremes of Lindsay, who have been tournament champions on two different occasions this summer, were forced to suffer defeat in the Norwood Tournament at the hands of the classy Keene aggregation.

Peterborough Westclox, who were ousted in the Ontario playdowns by Ottawa, romped away with the honours, defeating Cambray in the first game, and Keene in the playoffs. Supremes used three moundsmen in a desperate attempt to quell the terrific onslaught of the Rice Lake crew: Marion McCabe, Jean Corley and Jean Channon, the latter being a star hurler from Uxbridge. Peterborough deserved to win; they were the better team, and their powerful slugging carried them to the title.

In the first game, Westclox defeated Cambray 22-8; in the second, Keene ousted Supremes 13-6, while in the finals Peterborough captured the first prize by downing Keene 8-5.

NEW SPORTS BODY UNDER DISCUSSION

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—(CP).—Formation of an Ontario Athletic Federation to control sport in Ontario as a substitute for the branches of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada was proposed here last night by W. J. Smith, executive officer of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association.

The proposal was made at a meeting held after the 28th annual gathering of the Central Ontario branch of the A.A.U. of C. Mr. Smith, presenting his proposal at the informal gathering, said membership would be confined to governing bodies.

A modern code of amateurism would be introduced. Each organization would be responsible for registration to its own clubs and athletes. The Federation would be a central council for discussion of problems and the assistance of members.

Mr. Smith's plan will be presented in the form of a resolution to all Ontario athletic governing bodies within the next few days and a meeting will be held here Oct. 29 of the central branch of the A.A.U. of C.

The A.A.U. of C. meeting proper heard the president's address and adopted various reports. President Fred Steele said "the position of the A.A.U. of C. is an unenviable one."

The report of the registration committee reported a drop this year of almost 50 per cent. in registration as compared with last year.

The meeting was adjourned for two weeks to hear Mr. Smith's proposal. He refused to present it to the formal meeting holding that it should be first submitted to the various sport bodies.

MORENZ'S UNIFORM BRINGS $100 BID

MONTREAL, Oct. 16 (CP)—First bid in the planned auction of the uniform and hockey equipment of Howie Morenz, veteran centre star of Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League, is an offer of $100 from Lloyd Turner, manager of the Arena Rink at Calgary.

Turner telegraphed his bid for the equipment of the "Stratford Streak," who died here last winter, to Elmer Ferguson, sports editor.

BADMINTON OFFICERS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Philip Greenley was unanimously re-elected president of the Havelock Badminton Club when the members met for their annual meeting and pot-luck supper. Grey Kemp was also re-elected vice-president, and Miss Lucy Wing succeeded Miss Marjorie Jones as secretary-treasurer. The club reported a highly successful season last year with a substantial balance on hand and several new applicants for membership.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

THE FIRST few wintry blasts bring thoughts of hockey. Also colds in the head. But let us deal a bit with the former. Frank Buckland, who piloted the Petes' puck squads last freezing spell, has been busy all summer on hockey plans. And nowadays he is in the throes of team planning so much he scarcely finds time to gnaw his victuals. No knowing yet what groups will be formed up this way, but Peterborough will have two O.H.A. entries, regardless. A junior "B" outfit and an intermediate "A" team—or mayhap even a senior "B" squad, who knows? Depending on what sort of groupings we find ourselves in. The O.H.A. is always pretty slow in the autumn about getting groups arranged, and this leaves teams up in the air for a time.

* * * * * *

PROBABLY A fair sort of junior "B" group will be lined up around this part of the Province, with maybe Lindsay, Oshawa, Belleville and Peterborough, or the locals in a Lakeshore setup. The intermediate picture is something different again. Belleville won't have better than a "B" team—if that much—and Oshawa is liable to be playing senior. The Lakeshore towns will probably have a "B" rating again. Which leaves Peterborough where? If Oshawa could be lined up with Trenton Fliers, the Petes, and Queen's of Kingston, we might have a nice strong group—despite the long jaunt to the Limestone City. But there is nothing known yet.

* * * * * *

A LOCAL Hockey Club re-organization meeting should be called soon to get things started. Meantime, puck mentors here are sort of checking up on surrounding towns to see what sort of leagues may be lined up. The junior grouping of last year was fair, though none too good, but the intermediate wasn't worth a hoot. It just meant two good teams, the Fliers and Petes, playing it off all winter. With a Belleville "B" bunch in there as a filler. We ought to get better groups this winter if at all possible. Peterborough is a swell hockey town, the fans flocking out to support any kind of a fair home team. But players and fans alike deserve good groupings.

* * * * * *

THERE ARE half a dozen or so newcomers here now ready for hockey. Of course, only two imports are permitted by the O.H.A. to an intermediate team, and two juniors. But there are several others who came in with their families in the past year and a few who might qualify under the student or transferred-employee clauses. We will wait and see. A couple of huskies are here from Western Canada, a lad from Ottawa and a boy from Owen Sound. Also Loucks of Lindsay, who plays lacrosse and rugby here, too. And Whitton and Tompkins of the 1936-37 Belleville Redmen.

* * * * * *

TAKE TWO or three of the better imports along with last winter's intermediate Petes—and add several good local juniors who have graduated—and Coach Buckland ought to have a pretty fair puck outfit. We had a good team last year, but they'll be better during the '38 campaign. As for our Colts—remember them losing out in playdowns to Barrie?—we had a smart young squad last semester, but they will be even better this winter. At least, it looks that way now. Some good boys have graduated via the over-age route, but some good ones are left. And there are a host of ambitious young Southend, City and Church Leaguers ready to tryout for spots. And a couple or three good imports. Yeah, it sounds okay at present. More dope on it—with names—in the near future.

* * * * * *

HERE IS what faces Belleville in trying to re-organize their good intermediate "B" O.H.A. squad of last winter: St. Louis and Barriage have gone to Thorold; Whitton and Tompkins are in this district; Ingram has retired; while the Jacksons and Bentley and Murphy will play for Napanee if the Gibbards enter a "B" team as rumored. Morgan is now in Toronto, too. So they haven't many regulars left but McCreary, Watt and McGuire—though there may be a few newcomers and some fair junior graduates. Soon as you get a winning hockey team, they scatter to the winds. A Western puckist, here now, states that every member of the North Battleford outfit—Allan Cup finalists last year—is gone. And look how our good senior O.H.A. championship team was broken up in short order a decade ago.

* * * * * *

IN AN effort to drum up interest in the C.O.B.L. metting there today, the Belleville scribe digs back in memory to recall a famous Central Loop game of 1926 when the Nats and Petes battled to a 3-3 tie in 19 innings. Jack Oulette and Al Heckman hurled sensational ball in this fray and Hap Harrison hit a homer for the Petes. It was tied a 2-all in the seventh and then both sides scored a run in the 18th. It was called in the 19th after fans had gone home for supper and returned to see some more ball. Ye scribe points out that the Quinte gang won the loop pennant seven times, more than any other club in this circuit. The Petes won it twice the hard way and once on a bye.

* * * * * *

REGARDING RULES in rugby, we read in the Kingston column: "The reward for a field goal should probably be two points, which would reduce its value compared to the touchdown and be a bigger reward that a rouge, which requires a punt and tackling. Three points for a field goal seems as unfair as the old rule which permitted a point for a kick over the deadline with the defending team unable to protect itself except by blocking the kick. And touchdowns from fumbles should not have the same value as a try earned by superior offensive work. While on rules, the penalty for an offside pass also seems severe, especially when it is often committed in an effort to open up play or by accident. Play stops when an offside pass is committed and the ball is taken back to the place where the pass was made but a five-yard penalty appears plenty." Some sound reasoning there.

* * * * * *

UP AND down Sports' Rialto: Local Orfuns are scheduled to meet the Eastsides, on the latter's grounds, next Sat'day in a grid fixture. . . . This O.R.F.U. schedule ends the last of this month, winner going into the playdowns . . . . No further word on the boxing club here . . . . Omemee (with a new rink) and Lindsay may enter a district puck loop this winter, winner going into O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns . . . . Something on the Church Cage Loop meeting last eve should be in tonight . . . . In abbreviated gals' games the other e'en in the Norwood Arena, Westclox copped a softball tourney over Lindsay, Cambray and Keene . . . . There should be no more hopping around of O.H.A. puck-chasers now, since yesterday was the last day for transfers . . . . Senior ball club here will hold a re-organization meeting next month . . . . And plan on a few imports for next year . . . . Haven't seen those fancy white windbreakers the lacrossers have ordered yet . . . . Got to chop it off now for the early Sat'day deadline.

EXCITING FINISH GIVES WEST TEAM 3-2 SOCCER WIN

Prince of Wales soccer team gained the deciding goal through R. Burns in the last minutes of an exciting game yesterday (Friday) afternoon, by the score of 3 to 2, on King Edward Park. The score was 2-all at half time.

There is only one more league game to be played and that is the postponed game on Monday afternoon between Queen Mary and Central. If the latter is able to get a draw they will be in the play-offs against King Edward, league leaders; and if they lose they will have to play Prince of Wales a deciding game. In all probability the final games will be played next week.

An Even Tussle

Right from the kick-off, Prince of Wales went into their opponents' territory, to be repulsed when Rhodes kicked clear. Ridyard dribbled his way towards the custodian to test him, but it was Morley who registered first. Their success was short lived, when Crowe tallied with the equalizer. Exchanges continued even with the Queen Mary halves dominating the play, but not sufficient once when Doughty evaded the defense to send his team ahead. Quickly the Queen Mary boys settled down to get the equalizer to make the count: Queen Mary 2, Prince of Wales 2.

Burns Scored Winning Counter

In the second period both custodians were tested repeatedly as the forwards carried an offensive campaign right close upon the full backs that resulted in many scrimmages in front of goal. Gross and Dafoe, full backs, Prince of Wales, were tackling fearlessly to keep Queen Mary forwards from getting too near goal. Play run from end to end until Henry gathered up a loose ball from Morley, to send his left winger—Saunders and Burns away down into the Queen Mary goal, where the latter connected with a long swinging drive that simply rolled in between the sticks to give Prince of Wales the deciding goal and the points. The winners concentrated in defensive tactics thereafter. Prince of Wales 3, Queen Mary 2.

Queen Mary.—R. Taylor, goal; R. Blondin and R. Hughey, full backs; A. Rhodes J. Fowler, W. Smith, halves; B. Jones, R. Ackford, J. Morley, F. Mortimer, and G. Mathews, forwards.

Prince of Wales—W. Parnell, goal; J. Gross and W. Dafoe, full backs; C. Stewart, H. Henry and S. French, halves; R. Doughty, R. Burns, R. Lacey, R. Crowe, and J. Saunders, forwards.

Referee—D. Buchan.

Expect 700,000 To See Games On American Football Menu

Michigan - Minnesota Game May Draw 65,000—Fordham-Pitt Battle Features

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (A.P.). — United States college football, shorn of hampering competition from other sports, really goes to town to-day in nearly every town on the map.

On all counts to-day's program looks more than pleasant for the men who handle the gate receipts, and worse for those who try to name the winners.

With some 65,000 due to watch Michigan and Minnesota battle for the "little brown jug" at Ann Arbor, 97,000 looked for at the Pitt-Fordham encounter at New York, and two gatherings of 50,000 predicted for the Yale-Army and Carnegie Tech-Notre Dame games, the total for the twenty top games this weekend falls just short of 700,000.

A few of the other estimated crowds for games that promise to give every fan his money's worth in action are: Navy-Harvard, 45,000; North-Western-Purdue, 40,000; Colgate-Tulane, Holy Cross-Georgia, Columbia - Penn, Nebraska - Oklahoma, Wisconsin-Iowa, and Southern California-Oregon 30,000 to 35,000 each; and Tennessee-Georgia, Georgia Tech-Duke, Louisiana State-Mississippi, Texas Christian-Texas A. and M., and Southern Methodist-Vanderbilt in the 25,000 to 30,000 class.

Fordham-Pitt Game Features.

Barring further upsets or competition from ivy-clad institutions such as Cornell and Yale, the Fordham-Pitt game looks like this week's No. 1 contest in determining the Eastern "champion." They have played scoreless ties two years in succession.

Cornell and Yale, the "Ivy League" candidates for sectional laurels, have slight edges over to-day's rivals, Syracuse and Army respectively. The Harvard-Navy game could be picked either way without explanations.

Although the Gophers haven't looked like the all-conquering machine of the last couple of seasons, there seems to be no valid reason for not picking Minnesota over twice-beaten Michigan in the leading Mid-Western encounter. Illinois, on the strength of its tie with Notre Dame and reports of an improving attack, is the choice over Indiana. North-Western showed against Michigan it can produce an attack, which is more than Purdue has done so the Wildcats get the call.

Tough Schedule in South.

Games don't come much tougher than this week's headliners in the South, and South-West, but, many say, Alabama over Tennessee and Georgia Tech over Duke on the basis of scoring records. Louisiana State appears able to take Mississippi in a night game.

Jack Morrison and his Southern Methodist Mustangs have the edge in power over Vanderbilt. A tighter defence gives the Texas Aggies the call over Texas Christian in the main battle within the South-West Conference, and, by the same token, Texas figures to beat Arkansas.

On a quick reverse to a trio of highly important intersectional games in the East, Notre Dame, bounding back from last week's scoreless tie with Illinois, can't look for more than stiff opposition and a victory over Carnegie Tech.

Remember When—

Connie Mack, shrewd Philadelphia Athletic manager, bought Bob (Lefty) Grove, ace Baltimore Oriole pitcher, for $100,000 cash 13 years ago today. The southpaw was with the Athletics until the end of the 1933 season when he was traded to Boston Red Sox.

CANUCK RIDER IN RARE FORM

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 — (CP). — Johnny Longden, the tiny Canadian saddle star, was in rare form at Jamaica race track Friday. For the fifth time at the 31-day-old session, the short-legged laddie from Cardston, Alta., scored a riding double. He counted with Mrs. Ethel D. Jacob's Alarming, a 15 to 1 shot, in the second race, and took the featured class "C" handicap of a mile and seventy yards with A. D. B. Pratt's Support, a 4 to 1 shot.

Longden, who a week ago scored a triple at Jamaica, brought Alarming over the six-furlong route in 1 minutes 13 seconds, to capture the $1,000 claiming race, beating out Dorothy Owsley and Pharaboo.

Support turned in the fastest time of the meeting, 1.43, as he stepped home a length and a half in front of Robert L., the favorite from the Woolford Farm. A. H. Waterman's Count Stone trailed by another five lengths for third money in the field of seven.

WINS TRACK HONORS

SALFORD, England—(CP)— The Harvey and C. N. Jackson Memorial Cups, awarded annually for outstanding performances in track events, this year will go to Will Roberts of Salford for his quarter-mile championship win last July in the record time of 48.2 seconds.

HAMILTON WINS IN FIRST GAME SOFTBALL FINAL

HAMILTON, Oct. 16. — (CP). — Procter & Gamble Whitecaps, defending their Ontario senior softball championship, annexed the opening game of the 1937 finals at the Baseball Stadium here Friday afternoon with a 2-0 victory over Kirkland Lake, champions of the North country. The second game will be played on the same field early this afternoon, and in the event of a Northern triumph, a third game will be played as part of a double-header to close out the series to-day in any event.

Russell Johnson, fireball king of this part of the country, matched ability with Bill Durnan, former Toronto ace, and the Hamilton lad had the better of the argument. He restricted the Northern champions to six hits and fanned twelve, while Durnan, striking out ten, was nicked for eleven hits, some of them scratchy in the extreme, and walked one.

While Johnson was seldom in trouble, escaping pinches only in the sixth and ninth, Durnan was in trouble frequently, and it was a tribute to his effectiveness that he left ten Hamiltonians stranded on the paths. The nearest Kirkland Lake came to scoring was in the ninth, when Olliver singled with one down and after Johnston had fanned, Rudel doubled, only to have fast fielding hold Olliver on

ANGLED TIME AWAY.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, I suppose by this time the customers has got through laughing at me saying the Giants was going to win the world serious. I certainly guessed them wrong there, old timer, but at that I'm ready to argue the Terrymen didn't show their real form in the big clash. Any time a tight defensive team like they usually is cracks up with 9 misplays in 5 games they's something wrong, Mac. Mabbe they was shell-shocked watching the Yanks blasting balls into the stands in batting practice or mabbe they spent too much time before the serious looking at the batting averages of the American Leaguers but at any rate they blew up badly in the field.

A Screwy Serious

It was a screwy serious at that. When you stop to figger that only 1 player on each team Mister Lazzeri for the Yanks and Mister J. Moore for the Giants batted over the .300 mark and that although the Yanks made a few home runs they only figured in 1 of the 5 games and that the Giants made almost as many hits as their rivals and then was outclassed, you get a idea what I mean.

Making a Good Start

Our football teams is getting their selfs away to a good start here last Sat. Mister Bamforth's senior F.C.I.'s hadn't no trouble beating Oshawa 24 to 0 in the first game of the Cossa schedule, and Monday they clashed with the Pickering College twelve in a exhibition fixture and licked them 34 to 5. The school gang looks like a smart squad all along the line. Mister Bamforth's machine is built around a pair of crashing middle wings in Mister Kelly and Mister Curtin and a shifty, fast, back division what tosses laterals around like a basketball squad.

Mister Kelly and Mister Curtin does the bulk of the line-plunging and they're tough as whalebone on secondary defence while the former does the forward passing and the latter the punting so that they is danger of the Middle Wings' union calling the lads out on strike for being over-worked or something.

The Collitch lads play plenty of open football and they tore off 1 play Mon. that was a beauty. Mister Kelly tossed a 25 foot forward from his own 20 yard line which Mister Grant Clark took on the run. The shifty little half pinwheeled through about 3 tackles and was in the clear with only 1 pursuer. He might of made it hisself but took no chances, heaving a lateral which Mister Thornton gathered in at top speed and dashed the rest of the distance to the goal line.

Orfuns Does Nicely

Our Orfuns win themselves a useful game in Lindsay Mon., mac, defeating the Scugog lads 12 and 10. My scouts tell me the lads all give a good account of theirselfs and pin special honors upon our Mister Don Crowe who was booting the oval with rare abandon all through the matinee. This is wrote of course before the clash with Cobourg and if the lads tuck that away they will have a firm hold on 1st place. The only regret about that Lindsay game was our Mister Magee was put into dry dock mebbe for the resta season with a damaged shoulder. They aint no need of telling the customers he will be missed for he is 1 of them battling players that gives all he's got until the last second of the 60th minute of every game he plays in and when that kinda bird gets knocked outa the lineup it just naturally leaves a hole.

Well, that seems to be about the helping for the week, so cheerio.

Sportfully Yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Fights Last Night

(By the Associated Press.)

New York — Marty Gallagher, 209½, Washington, stopped Andre Lenglet, 222¼, France (8). Lenglet disqualified for butting.

Detroit — Izzy Gastanaga, 209, Cuba, outpointed John Henry Lewis, 186, Phoenix, Ariz., world light-heavyweight champion (10). Non-title.

Hollywood, Calif. — Lee Ramage, 195½, San Diego, and Sonny Walker, 205, Arizona, drew (10).

ROUNDS UP TRUANTS.

DUNBAR, Scotland.—(CP).— A school janitor was the cause of golfers lugging around their own clubs in a recent tournament here. He invaded the links and rounded up all the caddies—truants.

WOULD IMPROVE FIELD.

GLASGOW.— (CP).— Queen's Park, famous Scottish soccer league amateur club, has asked the Association for a $25,000 loan to make alterations to Hampden Park, its ground and scene of Scottish cup finals.

BORN

CORBETT.—In Port Hope Hospital, October 15, 1937, to Mr. and Mrs. George Corbett (nee Hilda Joyce), a daughter.

IN MEMORIAM

BOLTON. — In sweet and loving memory of our dear Mother, Elizabeth May Bolton, who passed away October 17, 1930.

'Tis sweet to remember a Mother so dear,
Though absent from us, yet ever so near,
Unseen by the world, she stands by our side
And whispers, "Dear ones, death cannot divide."
It is not at the time that tears are shed
That tells of a heart that is torn,
But the lonely tears of the after years
And remembrance silently borne.

—Ever remembered by loving daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Jones, and grandsons, Gary and Leverne.

BROWN. — In proud and loving memory of our dear son, Flight-Lieutenant Percy Llewellyn Brown, R.A.F. (formerly of the Bank of Nova Scotia), who died October 16, 1918, from injuries received in an aeroplane accident while instructing in England.

CYCLISTS IN RACE CONTINENTS APART

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(CP)—With three months to spare two cyclists in the world's most unusual race have already equalled the existing world's mark for a year's cycling.

Two hours after Rene Menzies equalled the record of 45,383 miles in London his competitor, Osele Nicholson, in Australia, 12,000 miles away, completed the same mileage. Each man has been riding an average of 166 miles a day and until near the end of the grind Nicholson led the London rider by distances varying from 200 to 700 miles.

Complicating the duel was the fact each man had entirely different climatic conditions, due to the variation between the season of the two continents. While Menzies has had weeks of fair weather, Nicholson, who started in sunshine, has been ploughing through the depths of the Australian winter.

Menzies has had more bad luck than his rival. A few weeks ago he broke his wrist after a collision with a truck. He was taken to hospital where his arm was bound in plaster of paris. The following day he again set out and cycled 152 miles. His longest day's ride during the year was 259 miles.

Both men hope to exceed 60,000 miles by the end of the year. The previous record was held by W. Graves.

CAMPBELLFORD
TEMPORARY WORK ON TOWN STREETS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 16. — Mayor F. F. Long was authorized to cause a warrant to be issued for the sale of all properties of the town of Campbellford subject to tax sale at a special meeting of the council held in the clerk's office on Friday evening. The sale will be held during the month of January. The request for permission to hold a tag day on October 30 by the Institute for the Blind was granted on motion of Deputy Reeve C. H. Calver.

The report of the Standard Paving Company that adequate repairs could not be made to the pavement during the cold weather caused the council to postpone all thoughts of having this work done during the fall, it being left in the hands of the chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee to make such temporary repairs as were necessary.

The purchase of a wreath for the Cenotaph was authorized as of former years. All members were present except Reeve E. H. McKeel. Mayor F. F. Long presided.

DEAD RECKONING

BY

BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy, who has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting, graduated into homicide from the school of armchair murderers. At middle age, having made a fortunate marriage to Esther Ashwell, and possessing a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim felt happy and secure. Then Esther was run down by a truck. Weeks later she was brought home, a physical wreck and a cripple for life, with only a hint of her former beauty left. Tim loses all interest in his wife because of her appearance. He suggests they hold their annual tennis party despite her condition. He looks forward to an appointment with Alma Shepherd, a widow and new client whom he has suggested to Esther they invite to the tennis party. At his office Tim arranges special flowers for Mrs. Shepherd's benefit as she arrives. Kennedy maneuvers to invite Mrs. Shepherd to the party. The tennis affair is a success and Tim spends most of his time with or watching the attractive widow.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 12

Tim took Mrs. Shepherd across the lawn to the lake, with its three little islands, which he called Isle Superior, Isle Inferior, and Water-Rat Isle. "Superior's the only one you can land on comfortably— we used to picnic there sometimes. Water-Rat's too over-grown, and Inferior's full of red ants." They passed on, round a path on the far side of the lake, to a fringe of woodland by the stream, wild with primroses, daffodils, narcissi, and a few late crocuses.

"We let Nature have its way with this part," said Kennedy. Presently the stream emerged into the sunlight again; there was a lawn dipping gently from the house on the other side, with a few flower beds and quaint topiary figures cut from yewtrees. They passed over a rustic bridge.

"Here are my rose trees. . . . It's early yet, but I think it will be a good year. . . . I'm fond of the old-fashioned roses; color without scent means very little to me."

"What a lovely garden" exclaimed Mrs. Shepherd. "What a lovely place for a child to grow up in."

"Yes, indeed," sighed Kennedy. "I've imagined my own children here; I've always longed for children. But it seems it's not to be."

He took her to the orchard, the kitchen garden, through the greenhouses. They came at last, on their way back to the tennis lawn, to a little summer pavilion, half hidden in the trees. Inside was a pleasant smell of soligmum, a few bench cupboards containing sporting gear, and an old dapple-gray rocking horse, with blood-red mouth and nostrils, wild, rolling eyes, fine sweeping mane and tail, pommel and saddle richly caparisoned.

"It's a gorgeous creature," said Alma. "Do you think he would bear me?"

He helped her on to the saddle, and rocked her gently.

"Esther was brought up with him at East Court—when the place was sold she saved him and brought him here."

He felt in the horse's mouth.

"He's an old fellow; needs a complete lower set, and crowning on two—no, three of his upper molars. . . . " He made his points neatly, as chance offered—domestic affection, nature love, pathos, humor.

There fell a silence, broken only by the regular gentle thud of the rocking horse, which he made no haste to break. He knew the value of silence, that it helped his personality to tell. The declining sun filtered in and was trapped, creating a warm intimate atmosphere. Alma was the first to speak.

"Have you known Mr. Mower long?" she asked unexpectedly.

He was visited by a little stab of jealousy.

"Not very long," he answered, with a close guard over his voice. "He's only been here two years—and the last year we've had our troubles. . . . He seems a nice young fellow —good tennis player."

"Yes. . . . He strikes me as being rather conceited, though."

Relief flooded Kennedy.

"I noticed that. . . . It's a prerogative of youth." He smiled.

"Not only of youth."

Kennedy did not quite know what to say.

"You sound as if you've suffered from conceited people," he tried.

"You're sharp." She looked at him appraisingly. "It's true enough, I have. I used to like people to have a good opinion of themselves. So I do still, so long as it's a sort of inner fire. . . . But posturing in front of the world, trying to storm other people's good opinion by force; I can't stand that. . . . If I ever marry again, it will be somebody who's modest without, however sure of himself within."

Intimacy hovered close. Kennedy nodded.

"I see. I think you're like that yourself, Mrs. Shepherd." He decided to take a step forward. "Have you been a widow long?"

"I'm not a widow. . . . I had to divorce my husband."

His hand, which had suddenly tightened on the pommel of the rocking horse, relaxed.

"Cecil is the most perfectly charming person I've ever met. And the most supremely conceited. And infinitely good-natured with anyone who flattered his self-love. Particularly women."

Kennedy spoke roughly. "He must have been a fool."

"I forgive him—oh, dozens of times. But there comes a time when one can't forgive any longer, without losing all dignity. We finished three years ago."

"Haven't you been very lonely?"

"Sometimes. But one grows a shell . . . You must think me rather . . . exhibitionistic."

"I'm very, very flattered."

"It's funny, I feel as if I've known you quite a while."

"That's a very charming thing you've said to me, Mrs. Shepherd. . . . I'm infinitely grateful to that piece of osso bunco."

She laughed. "Well, that's how things happen. . . . Here we are, we've only met three times, and I'm telling you all my troubles."

"I understand. . . . One feels a sympathy, or one just doesn't; it takes very little time to find out. . . . And I can sympathize with you, Mrs. Shepherd—I can guess what it feels like to have been UNCLE WIGGILY'S GUESTS.

"Watch me!" cried the jolly June Bug, who rode a field mouse horse around the ring in the Woodland Circus that Uncle Wiggily had helped arrange for Miss Mouse and the animal children.

"See me!" shouted a Juner, who was walking a tight rope made from a spider's web.

"Look at me!" called another Juner, who was swinging on a high trapeze made from two spider web ropes with a lollypop stick for a crossbar. "Whoopple!"

"Oh, it's just too wonderful for anything!" said Baby Bunty.

The little orphan rabbit, Jingle, Jangle, and all the other animal children from the Hollow Tree School were sitting around the hollow stump out of which Uncle Wiggily had led the June Bug Circus to give a special performance.

Jumping Trick.

"We're seen it all under ground," chattered Johnnie Bushytail. "My brother and I found the Juners practicing after we had gathered nuts and we decided to crawl down the

"Oh, it's just too wonderful!"

stump to see what was in it. "We found them and then Uncle Wiggily found us."

"We heard you laughing," said Miss Mouse.

"Oh, its all so wonderful!" sighed Baby Bunty.

"Pooh! You haven't really seen anything yet!" said Billie. "Look at that June Bug jump through leaves!" he cried.

That trick was then being done by one of the buzzing performers. The June Bugs did circus tricks almost like those in a real show. While two of the bugs held out a large burdock

"We've seen it all under ground," the back of a field mouse horse through it.

After that the Ring Master June Bug in his red sumach coat blew his whistle and called:

"Uncle Wiggily and Friends! You are now about to witness one of the most thrilling, stupendous, marvelous, breath-stopping and colossal acts ever performed by a June Bug. Tillie Brownback will now turn 3,678 somersaults in mid air."

"Rub-a-dub-duber-r-r-r-r!" rattled the drum.

Tillie, a cute little June Bug, climbed to the top of a tall tree and looked down at a large spider web net beneath her.

"Are you all ready?" cried the Ring Master.

"Ready!" answered Tillie in a far-away voice.

Visitors.

"Then—go!" Louder rolled the drum beaten by a big fat Juner. Down jumped Tillie. Over and over and over she somersaulted.

"Count 'em!" cried the Ring Master. "One thousand, 2,000, 3,000 and 678, just as I told you!"

Tillie bounced into the net and out of the net. There were more June Bug circus acts such as banging into screen doors and flying into electric lights. Then the Ring Master whispered to Mr. Longears:

"I see you have some guests."

The rabbit looked behind him. There were the three Bad Chaps. The Fox, the Wolf and Bob Cat had sneaked in to see the show.

"And after it is over we'll nibble a rabbit!" said the Fox.

"Oh, dear me!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"Shall I drive them away?" asked the Ring Master.

"Please do!" begged Uncle Wiggily.

"Buzz into the Bad Chaps!" cried the Ring Master and the June Bugs, hard and brown as beetles, banged against the Bad Chaps so fast and furiously they were glad to run away. So it all happened for the best and after the circus the bugs went back into the stump.

And if the key hole takes the wallpaper out to the movies and comes back before morning, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's gold pile.

TEACHERS MEET IN HASTINGS HALL FOR ANNUAL RALLY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 16.—The second part of the annual convention of the Teachers' Institute was held in the Hastings Town Hall on Wednesday, when one hundred and fourteen teachers registered, including teachers from five townships in East Northumberland, Rawdon, Stirling and Hastings.

The morning session opened at 9.30 a.m. with the opening exercise in charge of Rev. F. W. Newell, pastor of Trinity United Church, Hastings. The minutes, communications and treasurer's report were read and followed by the appointment of committees. The president, Mr. Cecil Stephens, gave an opening address, followed by the report of the delegate to the O.E.A. by Mrs. H. Gobeen. Mr. A. A. Martin, B.A., B.Paed., inspector of public schools, gave a few remarks.

Mr. Hazel of Campbellford and his pupils of the Hastings Separate School rendered very appropriate music.

New Studies Described.

Mr. Thornton Mustard, B.A., B.Paed., from the Department of Education, Toronto, was listened to very attentively, as he described the new program of studies. Before the noon hour he outlined the general principles of the course and stressed the value of freedom in the schools, and the fact that the child should come before the school. The noon hour proved a pleasant time as the teachers assembled at the United Church to do justice to the hot, appetizing meal provided by the ladies of the Women's Institute. Directly following the meal, when all were seated, Reeve H. G. Fairman of Hastings welcomed the teachers to the convention, which was the first of its kind to be held in the village.

At 2 p.m. the afternoon session began, with the president, Mr. Cecil Stephens, and the secretary-treasurer, Mr. C. S. Haig, on the platform.

Mr. Thornton Mustard again addressed the teachers. He emphasized the value of child's private reading, the value of creating a love for reading, and of speaking speeches. Let each child read a different book, as what appeals to one child will not appeal to another. Give children an opportunity to let them choose their subjects and give them a taste for poetry by letting them make verses and speak verses. He also stressed letter-writing and the art of conversation.

In regards to social studies, he urged the teachers to read the introductory paragraphs carefully and select those stories that one can carefully deal with and those the children can gain information on.

Officers Elected.

Discussion followed, and the following newly-elected officers were reported:

Honorary President, Mr. A. A. Martin, B.A., B.Paed., I.P.S.; President, Miss Hazel Atkinson; Vice-President, Mr. C. A. Wells; Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. C. S. Haig; Executive: Misses Edna Stillman, Josephine Anderson, Frances Morgan, Evelyn Partridge. Delegate to the O.E.A., Miss Luella Munroe; alternate, Mr. F. Carroll.

Mr. J. W. Trusler of Toronto spoke in the interests of the O.E.A.

At the present time Ontario pays directly only 11 per cent. of the cost of education. Every other state or province in the British Empire with the exception of Quebec, pays a higher percentage towards the total cost of education. The municipalities bear the 89 per cent. of the total cost, and it is hoped in the near future that this load will largely be assumed by the Provincial and Dominion Governments.

It was moved by Mrs. Smith and seconded by Miss Nelson that the secretary write voicing a vote of thanks to all those who contributed towards making the day so successful.

Mr. R. Prise of Brighton presented the report of resolutions.

It was decided that the members of the Institute go on a trip to Sudbury next year.

Mr. C. Stephens then thanked all those who were present and paid sincere tribute to Mr. Haig, who was a support to him in his first year as president of the convention.

The newly elected president, Miss Helen Atkinson, took the chair for the closing of the meeting, which closed with the National Anthem.

Toronto's Ukrainian Choir To Sing In Peterborough

Peterborough's music lovers are to hear one of Canada's outstanding musical organizations next Friday night when the Toronto Ukrainian choir is to sing in the collegiate auditorium. Those who have attended the Canadian National Exhibition on music days in recent years have all been impressed with the Ukrainian choir which would be heard singing in different parts of the grounds. Dressed in native costume the choir is shown above. Beside their choral number members of the choir will be heard in solo numbers and also seen in folk dances.

FRENCH PAINTER WINS TOP AWARD

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16—(AP). — An "abstraction" by Georges Braque, the French painter, was announced winner of the $1,000 first prize in the 35th international exhibition of paintings at Carnegie Institute last night.

Braque calls his work "The Yellow Cloth." Insofar as it resembles anything, it seems to be a gray, green, yellow canvas representing a table standing in a bilious looking room, the table loaded with a complicated still life composed of a couple of apples, a bottle, something like a spook, and a basket in which reposes a receptable which may be an empty olive bottle.

Braque's prize canvas would be, Homer Saint-Gaudens remarked the other day, "excellent over a cocktail bar."

The director of fine arts at Carnegie Institute meant no disrespect. "The public doesn't always realize," he added, "that art has more than one function. The question is not whether one kind of painting is better. The question is, 'does it fulfill its function?' In that sense the Braque might be excellent over (for example), a modern cocktail bar, and terrible somewhere else."

Italian Placed Second

Felice Casorati's beautifully painted "Woman near a table," gets second prize and $600 for Italy; and Josef Pieper, Nazi artist from Dusseldorf, is given third prize ($500) for a remote and cool study of family life called "Family portrait"—three children and three adults conventionally grouped.

America runs fourth to France, Italy and Germany. First of the four honorable mentions (they carry awards of $400, $300, $200 and $100 respectively) goes to Robert Philipp of New York city for his bitter, anecdotal canvas, "Dust to dust." A study of a hillside burial in the rain with a darish, almost Dickensian flavor.

The judges who viewed the 407 canvases of 13 nations last month were Henry Varnum Poor and Judson Smith, representing America, and Raoul Dufy and Ferruccio Ferrazzi, France and Italy respectively.

married, to have got used to marriage, dependent on it; and then for chance, someone's unworthiness or just blind chance, to take a hand and smash the thing up."

There was a pause.

"Your wife is a darling," said Alma suddenly. "You must be very fond of her."

"I am. . . . More than ever now, poor dear."

"I know. It would be impossible for you to hurt her, now she's so helpless."

He nodded. He had stopped rocking her, and allowed his fingers, as if unconsciously, to touch hers ever so lightly over the horse's pommel. . . . There was another silence, heavy with unspoken implications.

"I suppose we should go back," said Alma presently.

The set had just finished when they returned to the others. Mower rattled by Cox's imperturbability, had lost. He was looking disconsolate, and inclined to make as many excuses as were consistent with the perfect sportsmanlike acceptance of defeat. He brightened up a little when he saw Alma, and made straight for her. Kennedy resigned her to him happily. A tray had been brought from the house with cocktail things, and he was busy for five minutes, mixing and handing glasses around. There was a little crescendo of conversation, rising to a kind of coda of departure a quarter of an hour later. "Can I drop you anywhere, Mrs. Shepherd?" asked Mower, chin in air.

"No, thank you very much, Mr. Mower. I have a car here. I'm taking Phyllis."

"You must come again, Mrs. Shepherd," said Esther. "We'll be delighted to see you here at any time."

"Thank you ever so much," Alma replied. "I shall love to, and you must both come to Maybank, to a meal. May I ring you?"

Her two-seater scrunched and whined down the drive.

"She's a charming person," said Esther.

Kennedy looked at his wife. Her color was still high; she was undoubtedly the better for the company, the better for the cocktail she had drunk. She looked more alive than she had ever done since her accident; but Kennedy, seeking a trace of th woman she had been, could find nothing of her in this poor creature, scarred and lined, leaning awkwardly on her stick, one arm dangling uselessly at her side. She was not only deformed, she was irretrievably middle-aged. He shivered.

"It's chillier," he said. . . . "Yes, she is charming. I thought you'd get on together."

Once Alien, Now Ally, Rumanian Wants His Seized Farm Back

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Oct. 16

BECAUSE Rumania got a slice of Austria during the war, Ninon Guka wants his Canadian farm back.

When the war started, Guka was running a $10,000 farm at Beloeil, near here. He was a native of Austria, though, so he was arrested as a nalien, deported and his farm seized by the government.

But after the war Guka turned out to be on the Allies' side after all, for his native province in Austria had become Rumanian territory through the Treaty of Versailles. Now, through Rumanian Consul Dr. A. Finklestein, he has filed suit against the Dominion government for the return of his farm.

The plea filed by his lawyer argues that, as a naturalized subject of a country that was an ally of Britain in the war, he is entitled to have his farm back.

Generals Meet At Dedication

Marshal Petain, celebrated French war-time commander and hero and General John J. Pershing (RIGHT), commander of the American expeditionary forces during the world war, are shown as they attended the dedication of the American Aisne-Marne monument at Chateau-Thierry, France. The monument was the last of eight world war memorials constructed in France under the supervision of the American Battle Monument Commission. Between the two military leaders is General Fequant of the French army.

Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario's new Minister of Agriculture, had a narrow escape from injury yesterday when his car was involved in an accident as he was en route to the plowing match at Fergus.

Joseph Lapine, discharged member of the Windsor Police Force, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary on a charge of breaking and entering.

SHOWER IS HELD FOR CAVAN BRIDE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Oct. 16.—On Thursday afternoon, Mrs. J. W. Perrin, Cavan, was hostess at a shower in honor of Miss Norma Staples, whose wedding takes place Saturday. About thirty ladies were present. A pretty decorated chair was carried in for the bride-to-be, to occupy. Mrs. R. Malchett read an address conveying best wishes and asking that this shower be used to purchase something which would always convey fond memories of friends in Cavan. At this moment Mrs. R. Bonner and Mrs. A. Miller showered the guest of honor with dollar bills and silver coins. Miss Staples thanked her friends for their gifts and good wishes.

A program continued with community singing and readings by Mrs. A. Miller and Miss Helen Smith, also a contest was supervised by Mrs. Chas. Smith. After this a very delicious and plentiful supper was served.

Personals

David Staples is attending Toronto University.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Lamb and Mr. Ernest Lamb, visited friends at Sunderland, on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith and the Misses Iva and Helen Smith, motored to Bailieboro on Wednesday evening and attended the shower given for Miss Irma Jewison.

There was a generous response from Cavanville and this district to the call for relief for the West. Cavan community had a generous supply of vegetables, fruit and canned fruit, as farmers and villagers brought in their contributions.

Cavan Women's Institute members each contributed 2 jars of fruit or pickles.

MUSIC DID NOT WORK.

STORRS, Conn., Oct. 16—(AP).—Music is supposed to be inspirational, but at Connecticut State College they're not so sure.

Connecticut State started back in 1935 to send its band along with the football team to away-from-home games. In the two seasons since then, Connecticut State has lost all but one game on foreign soil.

This year, as usual, the band polished up and tuned up for the trip to Amherst and the game with Massachusetts State. Arrangements fell through at the last minute and the band stayed home. The score was Connecticut State 36, Massachusetts State 7.

Ill Man Sent From Hospital Walks Home 10 Miles

Superintendent Claims She Didn't Know He Had No Money

ST. CATHARINES Ont., Oct. 16 (C.P.). — Robert Larmon, Clinton Township farmer, was recovering at home to-day after a 10-mile walk from a St. Catharines General Hospital bed to his home on Tuesday night.

"They brought me my clothes and told me to go home and go to bed," said Larmon. Suffering from dropsy and bad tonsils he had been placed in hospital by his doctor to rest preparatory to a tonsil operation.

"It was a most outrageous proceeding to bundle a sick man out of bed at 9 o'clock at night and then leave him to get home the best way he could," Dr. J. B. Stallwood, Medical Health Officer for Beamsville, said. "Dr. Stallwood had had Larmon admitted to the hospital.

At the hospital, Miss Anne Weight, superintendent, said two hospital doctors had decided Larmon could be saved needless expense by resting at home, since an operation was not necessary for two weeks.

Thought He Would Use Bus.

Miss Weight said she had assumed the man would go back on the bus the way he had come to St. Catharines. She had no idea he had no money and had to walk home. Had she known that, money for his fare would certainly have been provided, she said.

Dr. Stallwood reported the case to Reeve Alex. Groff of Clinton Township, which municipality authorized Larmon's admission to the county hospital for treatment preparatory for removal of tonsils.

Two councillors called at the hospital last night, Miss Weight said. When they heard her explanation of the case they left apparently satisfied. "They said nothing of the man having to walk home," she added.

Larmon was reported running a high temperature and rapid pulse after his long walk. Dr. Stallwood said. Larmon did not know the names of the hospital attendants who ordered his clothes brought and his dismissal from the hospital.

"ASPIRIN" and Your Doctor

Each performs a vital function. "Aspirin" in relieving headache, neuralgia and other muscular pain. Your doctor in locating the cause and correcting it. Intelligent people do not hesitate to call on both.

● This may sound like strange advice for the maker of a headache remedy to give. But, nevertheless, we give it.

If you are subject to frequent headaches, go to your doctor and tell him about it. He may find the cause of your headaches, correct it . . . and make your life far more pleasant.

On the other hand, if you have an occasional headache, step into the nearest drug store, the moment you feel it coming on, and get a box of quick-acting "ASPIRIN". Take one or two tablets with a glass of water, and see for yourself how quickly relief comes.

We refer to "Aspirin" tablets as "quick-acting", for one reason, because they disintegrate or dissolve in the stomach almost instantly you take them. Hence are ready to start their work of relief very quickly.

Just drop an "Aspirin" tablet in a tumbler of water and you'll get the point at once. You'll see it disintegrating before it reaches the bottom of the glass! And that's the way one acts in your stomach when you take it.

● "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

CAR PLUNGES OVER WHARF WOMAN IS LOST

Two Other Occupants Able to Get to Surface

(By a Staff Reporter)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 18.—Trapped in a closed coupe when it hurtled in reverse gear off the government wharf here on Sunday afternoon into twelve feet of water, Mrs. Judith Scobell, 42, of 394 Bloor street east, Toronto, was drowned.

Her husband, Colonel S. B. Scobell, 65-year-old manufacturing chemist, who was at the wheel of the car, and another passenger, Mrs. S. H. Cutts, 265 Howland ave., Toronto, miraculously escaped sharing a similar fate.

Rescued With Pike Pole

Dazed by the shock of the sudden immersion in the icy waters of Lake Katchewanooka the two survivors of the tragedy were rescued by Edward Watson of Lakefield who lost no time in going to their aid with a pike pole. He was assisted by Ernie Allen who was near at hand with a boat.

William Ahearn of Lakefield who was an eye-witness of the tragedy said the rear of the car was 25 to 30 feet from the edge of the dock, when he saw it start to back up. With increasing speed he said it plunged square off the wharf and landed on all four wheels in about twelve feet of water.

After he saw the two survivors bob to the surface of the lake, Mr. Ahearn said, he realized that another occupant of the car was trapped below the surface and raised the

WILLIAM H. DUNDAS IS STRUCK BY TRAIN

William H. Dundas, who was involved in a spectacular level-crossing crash while approaching Newmarket Saturday, is a former resident of Peterborough and a brother of Mrs. Frank Barrett, of Park Hill road here. With a companion, William Little, he is resting in the York County Hospital in critical condition.

The two were driving to a church social near Newmarket when the accident occurred. Their car was struck by the Toronto-Midland train one mile south of Newmarket and was rolled 100 feet along the track by the locomotive. Portions of the car were strewn over a wide area and the remainder of the vehicle, which was eventually tossed into a ditch, was said by observers to resemble a ball of metal junk.

The extent of the injuries to the two men is not known. Spine fractures are feared.

Rich S. Americans Fear Communism

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (CP).—Upper classes in South America fear Communism so much they are reluctant to discuss it, said Rev. Louis F. Barber, Victoria College librarian, home after a two-months' trip to that continent.

Unbelievable extremes of wealth and poverty are in South America.

"The wealthy landowners on haciendas live like feudal lords with complete indifference to the poverty of the peons," he said.

Dr. Barber said among the masses there was an indifference to the church and religion, though a Roman Catholic priest is Mayor of Rio de Janeiro.

A FANCY ROBIN

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 18 (C. P.). — Lincoln Beckett, of Tincap, near here, has an Irish shamrock which, he says, is 58 years old. It is in bloom almost continuously. Beckett said the plant was given his wife in 1879. He also has an asparagus fern which is 20 years old and an immense size.

Missing U.S. Airliner Found Wrecked On Wyoming Peak

Fliers Uncertain If Any of 19 on Board Alive; Rescuers Start For Spot, 12 Miles, By Horse

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A giant "Mainliner" of the United Air Lines, lost 14 hours with 19 persons, was sighted in rugged southwestern Wyoming today with first indications it either had been wrecked or burned.

Whether anyone had escaped alive could not be determined until ground searchers reached the scene—a matter of hours.

Arthur Willoughby, postal inspector, said he "understood the plane was "burned or badly cracked up.

"They have nothing definite on it yet but it is my understanding the men who found the ship got the impression it either had been badly smashed or had been partially burned," Willoughby said.

The plane was located by air searchers a relatively short distance from an emergency landing field on its regular westbound route from Cheyenne, Wyo. to Salt Lake City. The nearest settlements were Evanston, Wyo. to the east and Knight, Wyo. to the west. The spot was about 85 miles east of Salt Lake City and was known to residents there as Hayden's Peak or Porcupine Ridge.

R. W. Schroeder, vice president of United, announced the mighty transcontinental transport was sighted by Bob Bergensen, pilot, and observer Bill Williams, who then radioed they would land at the Knight, Wyo., field near the Utah border.

Ride Horses To Scene

The fliers who sighted the plane said they would land about 12 miles from the spot and obtain horses to go to it. The spot is almost on the Utah-Wyoming border in extreme southwestern Wyoming. A delay of several hours was indicated before the exact condition of the plane could be ascertained.

R. W. Schroeder, a United Air Lines vice-president, announced the find from radio messages from the searching ship.

Evanston is 85 miles northeast of Utah's capital, on the east side of the mighty Wasatch range of mountains.

At Evanston, Wyo., Sheriff Frank L. Narramore, made this comment: "The meagre information reaching my office does not indicate whether any of the persons aboard the plane escaped injury but there is sufficient evidence to believe the plane was badly damaged as one report said wreckage could be seen for some distance from the air."

The passenger list as given out at Chicago, follows: Clever, no initials or address, but was employed as a co-pilot; John Conboy, Cleveland, United employee; Mr. and Mrs. G. Firrara, no address; Ralph McKeown, no address; Charles D. Renouf, Washington, D.C.; W. Pischcil, Salt Lake City; William Pitt and J. Pergola, Pathe News Reel

3 MISSING, 12 HURT AS FLAMES SWEEP SHERBROOKE HOTEL

SHERBROOKE, Que., Oct. 31. — (CP). — Three persons, listed as missing, were believed to have perished to-day in flames which destroyed the 75-year-old Grand Central Hotel, injuring 12 other persons, two of them critically. Damage was estimated as high as $100,000.

Originating in the kitchen as breakfast was being prepared, the flames raced through the four-storey hostel, trapping many of the guests in their rooms before they could be awakened. Most of the injured were hurt leaping from windows to avoid the flames and heavy smoke.

The missing were listed as follows:

Lance Stewart, 33, Castle Charlwood, 24, and Stewart Gross, 26, all of Sherbrooke.

Two Hurt in Leaps.

Robert Cooper, 25, of Sherbrooke, and Octave Cameron, 31, of Quebec, were said by hospital attendants to be in critical condition. Both leaped from windows on the third storey and sufered from burns and shock. Cameron, assistant to a magician, was one of the first to jump.

The other injured:

Mrs. Victoria Robins of Portland, Me.; Douglas Hunt, Reg. Reed, Rogers Dion, Raoul Rouillard; Clovis Lanctoct, Mrs. Clovis Lanctot, Armand Filion, Mrs. Alma Hudon, and Antonio, all of Sherbrooke.

"An ordinary fire,' was what Gordon Miller, managing editor of The Sherbrooke Records, thought at first rushing downtown when he received news of the outbreak. Miller arrived at his office in the Record building across the street from the burning hotel 15 minutes after it started.

"It didn't seem as if the blaze would be serious,' he said, "But suddenly it spread from the kitchen where it started and it no time the entire building was enveloped.

"There was a woman screeching in an upper window and two men jumped to the ground. They wrapped themselves in blankets before leaping and one of the identified as Cooper, had his fall broken by wires. Both men were taken to hospital immediately and one of them is not expected to live."

Trio of Rescuers

Responding to duty's call Sunday afternoon, George Graham (LEFT) member of Lakefield Volunteer Fire Brigade plunged into Lake Katchewanooka off the government dock and recovered the body of Mrs. Judith Scobell victim of a drowning fatality whose body was trapped in a car which backed off dock. Edward Watson (CENTRE) with assistance of Ernest Allen rescued two survivors from submerged car fishing them from the water with a pike pole when they bobbed to the surface. William Ahearn (RIGHT) was an eye witness of the fatality and raised the alarm that brought aid. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

Ten Die In Ontario Weekend Toll

Triple B.C. Tragedy Sees Girl Decapitated; Four Drown; Fire Kills Two; One Murdered

TORONTO, Oct. 18. —(CP)— Death stalked across the Dominion in the weekend, reaping 21 lives in accidents on land and water. Ontario, with 10 recorded sudden deaths, was the blackest spot on Canada's fatality map. British Columbia was next with six. Quebec had four, Nova Scotia, one.

Topping the list was a triple tragedy near New Westminster, B.C., where a jagged fence ripped through the windows of an automobile carrying a party of young people. A razor-edged picket decapitated 19-year-old Frances Harrington, spitted her backseat companion, Allan McCartney, 19. Arne Hilmgreen, 16, was the third victim. The driver, Jack Headridge, 18 was charged with manslaughter.

Ted Hart and Fred Kirkwood were drowned in Vancouver Harbor where a lumber - loaded scow knifed through their launch while across the continent, off Sydney, N.S., seven seamen were sent to hospital after an explosion shattered a Montreal freighter.

Ontario's Share.

Ontario contributed a marine disaster as well as an alleged murder and six fatal accidents. Two fishermen foiled the hungry waters of Lake Erie off Kingsville, floating to safety in empty boxes after jumping from a blazing launch, but their companion, whose box failed to float, was drowned. Henry Kissner was the dead man, James Goodhue and Orval McCormick were saved.

George Strachan, 29, Toronto, was charged with murder after Francis Dafoe, 31, bled to death in an ambulance in Toronto. He received a fatal gash of a throat artery from a jagged beer glass in an alleged altercation over politics in a beverage room.

A man and a woman died near Porcupine in Northern Ontario when the truck in which they were riding was struck by a train. The two, A. Wallo and Mrs. S. Tanner, died almost instantly when the truck was tossed 75 feet. Witnesses said the vehicle stopped near a crossing then suddenly lurched across the track into the path of the engine.

At Lakefield, 12 miles Peterborough, Mrs. Judi of Toronto was drowned driven by her husband, Scobell, backed off a wha feet of water. Mrs. Scobel prisoned in the submerged The husband and anothe escaped.

7 SEAMEN HURT IN FREIGHTER FIRE

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 18—(CP). — Appraisal was made to-day of actual damage to the 1,134-ton Montreal collier Trenora, her forepeak ripped by an explosion that sent seven men to hospital injured.

Dominion Steel and Coal Company officials declined comment on the explosion but Edwin Morphet of Little Current, Ont., who suffered from gas fumes in the fire following the blast said he believed it started in the vessels forward hold.

The explosion occurred Saturday off the Magdelen Islands while the ship was bound from North Sydney for Hamilton, Ont. Six of the seamen were injured as they slept in the forecastle.

"I woke up and saw flames spurting all over the place," said Morphet in hospital here. "The fo'c'sle was a mass of flames. I didn't know what happened. Flames were shooting up all around me and the gas fumes were getting me."

Crew members on duty rescued their companions, then doused the flames. The vessel was put about for Sydney under forced draft.

The injured were: George Annand, Summertown, Ont.; William Bowden, Wiarton, Ont.; Fred Gauthier, Montreal; Edwin Morphet, Little Current, Ont.; John Taylor, native of New Brunswick, and Ted Wells and Tom Walton, addresses unknown.

MOSLEMS TO RISE AGAINST BRITAIN MUFTI THREATENS

PARIS, Oct. 18.—(CP-Havas). — The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin El Husseini, interviewed today by the Near East correspondent of the Paris-Soir, warned Great Britain against "involving herself to the death" with the Moslem work and declared the Arabs will never compromise in their opposition to Jews in Palestine.

(Fleeing from Jerusalem after long hiding in the Mosque of Omar to escape arrest after having been removed from the presidency of the Arab Higher committee, the Grand Mufti was reported hiding in a town in Lebanon, Syria.

Haj Amin El Husseini took the attitude that British promises to establish a Jewish homeland in Palestine could not be carried out "because the country belongs to the Arabs."

"We alone have been masters of this country for 13 centuries,' the Grand Mufti said. "We intend to remain so. No compromise solution will satisfy us.

"Nothing will do but complete independence, which would permit us to end the invasion by Zionists, who not only claim the right to install themselves in our lands, but destroy our mosques and holy places.

"England's promises to the Jews do not interest us. England could not promise them something she does not own—our country!

"But let the English be on their guard. The policy they are following in Palestine is alienating the sympathies not only of the Arabs of Palestine but of all countries of Arab race and of the entire Moslem world."

Two Planes Crash 500 Feet Up Training In Rain

2 Are Dead When Debris at Airdrome Is Reached; Third, Father of 2 Children, Dies in Ambulance

TRENTON, Ont., Oct. 18—(CP)—Three Royal Canadian Air Force flyers were killed today when two planes collided 500 feet over the north end of the R.C.A.F. training camp here.

Dead are 25-year-old R. Doucette, pupil flier from Shediac, N.B., alone in one machine, and Flight Lieutenant J. A. MacInnes and Flight Sergeant E. F. O'Connor, occupants in the second plane.

Spectators said the plane in which MacInnes and O'Connor were flying dove into the Doucette machine, striking it broadside.

MacInnes, married and father of two children, lived at Trenton. O'Connor's home was Ottawa.

Doucette, banking his plane when the collision occurred, was killed instantly as the two machines dropped through the mist and fog and crashed in a tangle of steel and fabric on the aerodrome. O'Connor also was dead when he was lifted from the wreckage. MacInnes died before an ambulance could get him to Belleville General Hospital, about 12 miles away.

Despite poor visibility, about 20 planes were in the air today over the R.C.A.F. airport. The accident occurred at noon.

RIOTS BREAK ANEW ACROSS HOLY LAND AIRPORT IS BURNED

JERUSALEM, Oct. 18.—(CP-Havas).—A clash involving several hundred Arabs in Northern Palestine was reported here to-day as authorities sought to stem the wave of terrorism sweeping the Holy Land.

Advices said the affray occurred between Haifa and Safed in Galilee region, south of the Syrian border. Details were lacking in first reports which stated, however, that the fighting lasted two hours. It was not known whether British armed forces were involved.

A three-day curfew was clamped down on the Arab town of Lyeda, where saboteurs were believed responsible for fires which destroyed a large part of the airport yesterday.

During the curfew hour period, all entry into and egress from Lydda will be banned, while troops scour the area for incendiaries.

British soldiers were reported to have dynamited two houses in Lydda, the owners of which were suspected of having been criminally involved in the airfield fire.

A detachment of the second Black Watch, Battalion was dispatched to Daharia, near Hebron, after Arab terrorists has descended upon a police post and forced the policeman in charge to turn over arms and ammunition.

In Jaffa, on the coast, terrorists threw bombs against the Central Police Headquarters.

Blood again was spilled in ancient Jerusalem and its suburbs. An Arab was killed early this morning and a Moselm and an Armenian photographer gravely injured. Later in the day an Arab was wounded in an incident in one of Jerusalem's suburbs.

Chum Rescues Boy From Quicksand

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (C.P.). — Eddie Fisher, nine, to-day told how Sidney Dyoent, 12, a chum, rescued him from a quicksand quagmire yesterday. The boys were on a hike in the Don Valley. So close was Eddie's escape his shoes were left in the quicksand.

Eddie told how he stepped on what appeared to be hard clay. "I put one foot down and it got stuck. I put the other down to try and get the first one out. It got stuck too. I was going down all the time. Sid jumped over the swampy part and grabbed the limb of a tree. He took hold of my right arm and pulled me out. It took a while. I was in above my knees."

LAST PLEA ISSUED TO KIDNAP GANG

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (A.P.). — Whether the grief-stricken wife of kidnapped Charles S. Ross will ever see her husband—dead or alive—rested to-day in a possible answer to her statement directed at the "seemingly heartless individuals," who abducted the wealthy manufacturer 23 days ago.

Ill, and under the care of a physician, Mrs. Ross yesterday dictated and signed her final appeal to the abductors to release her 72-year-old husband.

She said that, at her request, Federal agents and police have held back their efforts to find the kidnappers until Ross' safety was assured.

The statement warned, however, that if the retired greeting card manufacturer is not safely returned to his home by to-morrow morning, Mrs. Ross "will request all law enforcement officers to proceed with a vigorous effort to locate and punish those responsible for the disappearance."

ROWE MEETS BENNETT

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—(CP)—Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative Leader who with his party was defeated at the polls in the recent Provincial General election, conferred here today with former Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, Dominion leader.

It was assumed the two party leaders discussed organization in general and Mr. Rowe's future in particular. The latter resigned his seat in the House of Commons to contest the provincial election.

FIND WOMAN SHOT

OLDS, Alta., Oct. 18 (CP). — Slumped in an automobile, the body of Mrs. Howard Smith, 28-year-old wife of a farmer in this district, 60 miles north of Calgary, was found today.

Her husband was found near the car critically wounded and was brought to hospital here. Police said the woman was shot to death and it appeared to be a case of murder and attempted suicide.

STRACHAN REMANDED

TORONTO, Oct. 18. — (CP)— Charged with murder in connection with the death of Francis Dafoe of Toronto who died following a beer parlor fracas here Saturday night, George Strachan, also of Toronto, was remanded until Oct. 26 when he appeared in court to-day. Remand was taken at the request of the Crown.

Cruiser Survives Wild Gale On James Bay – 2 Men Safe

Craft Makes Shelter 18 Miles Away After Drifting From Moosonee

MOOSONEE, Ont., Oct. 18.—(CP). —Cut adrift by a storm last Tuesday night, the cabin cruiser Jim Widdle and her crew of two found safe haven at Buoy Bluff, on the east coast 18 miles from Moosonee.

Because of blizzards and high seas on James Bay, fears for the safety of the men, Willie Isserhoff and Jack Hunter, were felt by residents of the Northern Ontario port. The two men were asleep aboard the boat when it was sent adrift in storm-tossed James Bay.

Walter Widdifield of Schumacher, owner of the craft, had arranged for an airplane to search for the missing men but Dick and Walter Rickard arrived from a duck hunting expedition to Hannah Bay and reported Saturday night they had seen Isserhoff and Hunter at Buoy Bluff. They said the Jim Widdle "seemed all right."

Sunday morning George Moore took Widdifield and Dr. Malcolm Hall to Buoy Bluff, where they found Hunter and Isserhoff. The Jim Widdle came back to Moosonee Sunday afternoon under her own power.

Anchor Breaks Loose.

Isserhoff said the stormy journey was the worst he had experienced. Both anchors were put out after they were cut adrift from their

Drunken Driver Gets 6 Months

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 18.—(CP).—Donald Wilton, 24, Strathroy, was sent to the Ontario Reformatory for six months to-day for drunk driving. County Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw said he would recommend Wilton's driving license be cancelled indefintely.

Court officials believed it was the longest sentence for drunk driving ever handed out in a London court.

It was the second time in six months Wilton was convicted of the same offence and the third time in the same period he was convicted of violation of traffic rules.

Boy Finds Policeman Not An Enemy Only Came To Ask About Injured Pup

DESPAIR was clearly expressed Saturday night when a 12-year-old boy answered a knock on the door to find a policeman standing there. His little collie pup had just been hit by a car and he had carefully carried him home. People had said when he picked the dog up that if he was badly hurt he would have to be shot, and surely this man was going to do it.

"Don't let him in, mother," he cried as the officer stood in the doorway. "He wants to shoot my dog."

But the officer was just making inquiries as to the dog's condition, and after examining it, assured the boy that his pet would soon recover. In fact, if the pup was not better by morning, he was to be called back to see what could be done. When he left the house, the policeman looked over his shoulder to see a boy clutching a little puppy in one hand while he wiped away tears with the other.

Ill, Wife 19, Left 3 Days In Brush Tent While Aid Comes, Will Survive

Mayo, Y.T., Oct 18 (CP)

MRS. Carl Burian, 19-year-old wife of a steward river wood contractor, is "resting comfortably" in hospital here after a five-day 120-mile trip upriver by motorboat and Royal Canadian Mounted Police canoe.

The girl, who came north last year from her home at Pioneer, Alta., to marry Burian, was taken ill at her husband's lonely cabin at Independence Creek.

On Monday she was bundled into a power-boat skippered by her brother-in-law, Al Burian, and the trip to Mayo and a doctor began. At Crooked Creek, 40 miles downstream from here, the little boat broke down.

Burian carried his brother's wife ashore, built a tent of brush, and hiked overland to Mayo. Thursday morning, just at dawn, he and a police constable headed downstream to pick up the sick woman and complete the trip to hospital. Doctors said yesterday she was doing well and would recover.

3 R.C.A.F. FLIERS DIE IN COLLISION OVER TRENTON

CAR PLUNGES OVER WHARF WOMAN IS LOST

Two Other Occupants Able to Get to Surface

(By a Staff Reporter)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 18.—Trapped in a closed coupe when it hurtled in reverse gear off the government wharf here on Sunday afternoon into twelve feet of water, Mrs. Judith Scobell, 42, of 394 Bloor street east, Toronto, was drowned.

Her husband, Colonel S. B. Scobell, 65-year-old manufacturing chemist, who was at the wheel of the car, and another passenger, Mrs. S. H. Cutts, 245 Howland ave., Toronto, miraculously escaped sharing a similar fate.

Rescued With Pike Pole

Dazed by the shock of the sudden immersion in the icy waters of Lake Katchewanooka the two survivors of the tragedy were rescued by Edward Watson of Lakefield who lost no time in going to their aid with a pike pole. He was assisted by Ernie Allen who was near at hand with a boat.

William Ahearn of Lakefield who was an eye-witness of the tragedy said the rear of the car was 25 to 30 feet from the edge of the dock, when he saw it start to back up. With increasing speed he said it plunged square off the wharf and landed on all four wheels in about twelve feet of water.

After he saw the two survivors bob to the surface of the lake, Mr. Ahearn said, he realized that another occupant of the car was trapped below the surface and raised the

WILLIAM H. DUNDAS IS STRUCK BY TRAIN

William H. Dundas, who was involved in a spectacular level-crossing crash while approaching Newmarket Saturday, is a former resident of Peterborough and a brother of Mrs. Frank Barrett, of Park Hill road here. With a companion, William Little, he is resting in the York County Hospital in critical condition.

The two were driving to a church social near Newmarket when the accident occurred. Their car was struck by the Toronto-Midland train one mile south of Newmarket and was rolled 100 feet along the track by the locomotive. Portions of the car were strewn over a wide area and the remainder of the vehicle, which was eventually tossed into a ditch, was said by observers to resemble a ball of metal junk.

The extent of the injuries to the two men is not known. Spine fractures are feared.

Rich S. Americans Fear Communism

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (CP).—Upper classes in South America fear Communism so much they are reluctant to discuss it, said Rev. Louis F. Barber, Victoria College librarian, home after a two-months' trip to that continent.

Unbelievable extremes of wealth and poverty are in South America.

"The wealthy landowners on haciendas live like feudal lords with complete indifference to the poverty of the peons," he said.

Dr. Barber said among the masses there was an indifference to the church and religion, though a Roman Catholic priest is Mayor of Rio de Janeiro.

A FANCY ROBIN

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 18 (C. P.). — Lincoln Beckett, of Tincap, near here, has an Irish shamrock which, he says, is 56 years old. It is in bloom almost continuously. Beckett said the plant was given his wife in 1879. He also has an asparagus fern which is 20 years old and an immense size.

Missing U.S. Airliner Found Wrecked On Wyoming Peak

Fliers Uncertain If Any of 19 on Board Alive; Rescuers Start For Spot, 12 Miles, By Horse

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A giant "Mainler" of the United Air Lines, lost 14 hours with 19 persons, was sighted in rugged southwestern Wyoming today with first indications it either had been wrecked or burned.

Whether anyone had escaped alive could not be determined until ground searchers reached the scene—a matter of hours.

Arthur Willoughby, postal inspector, said he "understood the plane was "burned or badly cracked up.

"They have nothing definite on it yet but it is my understanding the men who found the ship got the impression it either had been badly smashed or had been partially burned," Willoughby said.

The plane was located by air searchers a relatively short distance from an emergency landing field on its regular westbound route from Cheyenne, Wyo. to Salt Lake City. The nearest settlements were Evanston, Wyo. to the east and Knight, Wyo. to the west. The spot was about 85 miles east of Salt Lake City and was known to residents there as Hayden's Peak or Porcupine Ridge.

R. W. Schroeder, vice president of United, announced the mighty transcontinental transport was sighted by Bob Bergensen, pilot, and observer Bill Williams, who then radioed they would land at the Knight, Wyo., field near the Utah border.

Ride Horses To Scene

The fliers who sighted the plane said they would land about 12 miles from the spot and obtain horses to go to it. The spot is almost on the Utah-Wyoming border in extreme southwestern Wyoming. A delay of several hours was indicated before the exact condition of the plane could be ascertained.

R. W. Schroeder, a United Air Lines vice-president, announced the find from radio messages from the searching ship.

Evanston is 85 miles northeast of Utah's capital, on the east side of the mighty Wasatch range of mountains.

At Evanston, Wyo., Sheriff Frank L. Narramore, made this comment:

"The meagre information reaching my office does not indicate whether any of the persons aboard the plane escaped injury but there is sufficient evidence to believe the plane was badly damaged as one report said wreckage could be seen for some distance from the air."

The passenger list as given out at Chicago, follows: Clever, no initials or address, but was employed as a co-pilot; John Conboy, Cleveland, United employee; Mr. and Mrs. G. Firrara, no address; Ralph McKeown, no address; Charles D. Renouf, Washington, D.C.; W. Pischcil, Salt Lake City; William Pitt and J. Pergola, Pathe News Reel

3 MISSING, 12 HURT AS FLAMES SWEEP SHERBROOKE HOTEL

SHERBROOKE, Que., Oct. 31. — (CP). — Three persons, listed as missing, were believed to have perished to-day in flames which destroyed the 75-year-old Grand Central Hotel, injuring 12 other persons, two of them critically. Damage was estimated as high as $100,000.

Originating in the kitchen as breakfast was being prepared, the flames raced through the four-storey hostel, trapping many of the guests in their rooms before they could be awakened. Most of the injured were hurt leaping from windows to avoid the flames and heavy smoke.

The missing were listed as follows:

Lance Stewart, 33, Osste Charlwood, 24, and Stewart Gross, 26, all of Sherbrooke.

Two Hurt in Leaps.

Robert Cooper, 25, of Sherbrooke, and Octave Cameron, 31, of Quebec, were said by hospital attendants to be in critical condition. Both leaped from windows on the third storey and sufered from burns and shock. Cameron, assistant to a magician, was one of the first to jump.

The other injured:

Mrs. Victoria Robins of Portland, Me.; Douglas Hunt, Reg. Reed, Rogers Dion, Raoul Rouillard; Clovis Lanctoct, Mrs. Clovis Lanctot, Armand Filion, Mrs. Alma Hudon, and Antonio, all of Sherbrooke.

"An ordinary fire,' was what Gordon Miller, managing editor of The Sherbrooke Records, thought at first rushing downtown when he received news of the outbreak. Miller arrived at his office in the Record building across the street from the burning hotel 15 minutes after it started.

"It didn't seem as if the blaze would be serious,' he said. "But suddenly it spread from the kitchen, where it started and it no timethe entire building was enveloped.

"There was a woman screeching in an upper window and two men jumped to the ground. They wrapped themselves in blankets before leaping and one of the identified as Cooper, had his fall broken by wires. Both men were taken to hospital immediately and one of them is not expected to live."

CHIEF INSPECTOR

Thomas Gourlay, for the past two years superintendent of Burwash Industrial Prison Farm, has been appointed Chief Inspector of Prisons as chief purchasing agent, it was announced to-day. Col. W. H. Powell, Assistant Superintendent at Burwash, becomes Superintendent.

Trio of Rescuers

Responding to duty's call Sunday afternoon, George Graham (LEFT) member of Lakefield Volunteer Fire Brigade plunged into Lake Katchewanooka off the government dock and recovered the body of Mrs. Judith Scobell victim of a drowning fatality whose body was trapped in a car which backed off dock. Edward Watson (CENTRE) with assistance of Ernest Allen rescued two survivors from submerged car fishing them from the water with a pike pole when they bobbed to the surface. William Ahearn (RIGHT) was an eye witness of the fatality and raised the alarm that brought aid. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

Ten Die In Ontario Weekend Toll

Triple B.C. Tragedy Sees Girl Decapitated; Four Drown; Fire Kills Two; One Murdered

TORONTO, Oct. 18. —(CP)— Death stalked across the Dominion in the weekend, reaping 21 lives in accidents on land and water. Ontario, with 10 recorded sudden deaths, was the blackest spot on Canada's fatality map. British Columbia was next with six. Quebec had four, Nova Scotia, one.

Topping the list was a triple tragedy near New Westminster, B.C., where a jagged fence ripped through the windows of an automobile carrying a party of young people. A razor-edged picket decapitated 19-year-old Frances Harrington, spitted her backseat companion, Allan McCartney, 19. Arne Hilmgreen, 16, was the third victim. The driver, Jack Headridge, 18 was charged with manslaughter.

Ted Hart and Fred Kirkwood were drowned in Vancouver Harbor where a lumber - loaded scow knifed through their launch while across the continent, off Sydney, N.S., seven seamen were sent to hospital after an explosion shattered a Montreal freighter.

Ontario's Share.

Ontario contributed a marine disaster as well as an alleged murder and six fatal accidents. Two fishermen foiled the hungry waters of Lake Erie off Kingsville, floating to safety in empty boxes after jumping from a blazing launch, but their companion, whose box failed to float, was drowned. Henry Kissner was the dead man, James Goodhue and Orval McCormick were saved.

George Strachan, 29, Toronto, was charged with murder after Francis Dafoe, 31, bled to death in an ambulance in Toronto. He received a fatal gash of a throat artery from a jagged beer glass in an alleged altercation over politics in a beverage room.

A man and a woman died near Porcupine in Northern Ontario when the truck in which they were riding was struck by a train. The two, A. Wallo and Mrs. S. Tanner, died almost instantly when the truck was tossed 75 feet. Witnesses said the vehicle stopped near a crossing then suddenly lurched across the track into the path of the engine.

At Lakefield, 12 miles north of Peterborough, Mrs. Judith Scobell of Toronto was drowned when a car driven by her husband, Col. S. B. Scobell, backed off a wharf into 12 feet of water. Mrs. Scobell was imprisoned in the submerged machine. The husband and another woman escaped.

Truck Kills Boy 10.

Ten-year-old Richard Kyte died when run over by a truck at Neustadt; Allen Dixon, 23, died in an Oshawa hospital after a motorcycle accident; Luther Julian, 49, in a buggy when it was hit by a car, died at Collingwood; John S. McTague,

WOLVES KILLING SHEEP

KINCARDINE, Ont., Oct. 18.—(CP) — Farmers in Huron township near the fourth and second concessions have lost sheep through the attacks of a wolf pack. Harry Jackson of Ripley bagged one of the animals. The farmers also complain about the monotonous howling of the wolves during the night.

7 SEAMEN HURT IN FREIGHTER FIRE

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 18—(CP). — Appraisal was made to-day of actual damage to the 1,134-ton Montreal collier Trenora, her forepeak ripped by an explosion that sent seven men to hospital injured.

Dominion Steel and Coal Company officials declined comment on the explosion but Edwin Morphet of Little Current, Ont., who suffered from gas fumes in the fire following the blast said he believed it started in the vessels forward hold.

The explosion occurred Saturday off the Magdelen Islands while the ship was bound from North Sydney for Hamilton, Ont. Six of the seamen were injured as they slept in the forecastle.

"I woke up and saw flames spurting all over the place," said Morphet in hospital here. "The fo'c'sle was a mass of flames. I didn't know what happened. Flames were shooting up all around me and the gas fumes were getting me."

Crew members on duty rescued their companions, then doused the flames. The vessel was put about for Sydney under forced draft.

Men of 2 N.B. Mines Resume Jobs

MINTO, N.B., Oct. 18 (CP)—Employees of two of 11 Minto district coal mines affected by a strike of United Mine Workers returned to work today, while almost 1,000 others stayed at home to await developments. They demanded union recognition.

Operations were resumed at the pits operated by John McDougall, employing 70 men, and W. Benton Evans, employing 110. McDougall had agreed to recognise the union but Evans' miners voted almost two to one to return to work after the employer threatened to cease operations rather than recognise the U.M.W.

MOSLEMS TO RISE AGAINST BRITAIN MUFTI THREATENS

PARIS, Oct. 18.—(CP-Havas). — The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin El Husseini, interviewed today by the Near East correspondent of the Paris-Soir, warned Great Britain against "involving herself to the death" with the Moslem work and declared the Arabs will never compromise in their opposition to Jews in Palestine.

(Fleeing from Jerusalem after long hiding in the Mosque of Omar to escape arrest after having been removed from the presidency of the Arab Higher committee, the Grand Mufti was reported hiding in a town in Lebanan, Syria.

Haj Amin El Husseini took the attitude that British promises to establish a Jewish homeland in Palestine could not be carried out "because the country belongs to the Arabs."

"We alone have been masters of this country for 13 centuries,' the Grand Mufti said. "We intend to remain so. No compromise solution will satisfy us.

"Nothing will do but complete independence, which would permit us to end the invasion by Zionists, who not only claim the right to install themselves in our lands, but destroy our mosques and holy places.

"England's promises to the Jews do not interest us. England could not promise them something she does not own—our country!

"But let the English be on their guard. The policy they are following in Palestine is alienating the sympathies not only of the Arabs of Palestine but of all countries of Arab race and of the entire Moslem world.'

Two Planes Crash 500 Feet Up Training In Rain

2 Are Dead When Debris at Airdrome Is Reached; Third, Father of 2 Children, Dies in Ambulance

TRENTON, Ont., Oct. 18—(CP)—Three Royal Canadian Air Force flyers were killed today when two planes collided 500 feet over the north end of the R.C.A.F. training camp here.

Dead are 25-year-old R. Doucette, pupil flier from Shediac, N.B., alone in one machine, and Flight Lieutenant J. A. MacInnes and Flight Sergeant E. F. O'Connor, occupants in the second plane.

Spectators said the plane in which MacInnes and O'Connor were flying dove into the Doucette machine, striking it broadside.

MacInnes, married and father of two children, lived at Trenton. O'Connor's home was Ottawa.

Doucette, banking his plane when the collision occurred, was killed instantly as the two machines dropped through the mist and fog and crashed in a tangle of steel and fabric on the aerodrome. O'Connor also was dead when he was lifted from the wreckage. MacInnes died before an ambulance could get him to Belleville General Hospital, about 12 miles away.

Despite poor visibility, about 30 planes were in the air today over the R.C.A.F. airport. The accident occurred at noon.

RIOTS BREAK ANEW ACROSS HOLY LAND AIRPORT IS BURNED

JERUSALEM, Oct. 18.—(CP-Havas).—A clash involving several hundred Arabs in Northern Palestine was reported here to-day as authorities sought to stem the wave of terrorism sweeping the Holy Land.

Advices said the affray occurred between Haifa and Safed in Galilee region, south of the Syrian border. Details were lacking in first reports which stated, however, that the fighting lasted two hours. It was not known whether British armed forces were involved.

A three-day curfew was clamped down on the Arab town of Lyeda, where saboteurs were believed responsible for fires which destroyed a large part of the airport yesterday.

During the curfew hour period, all entry into and agress from Lydda will be banned, while troops scour the area for incendiaries.

British soldiers were reported to have dynamited two houses in Lydda, the owners of which were suspected of having been criminally involved in the airfield fire.

A detachment of the second Black Watch Battalion was dispatched to Daharia, near Hebron, after Arab terrorists has descended upon a police post and forced the policeman in charge to turn over arms and ammunition.

In Jaffa, on the coast, terrorists threw bombs against the Central Police Headquarters.

Blood again was spilled in ancient Jerusalem and its suburbs. An Arab was killed early this morning and a Moselm and an Armenian photographer gravely injured. Later in the day an Arab was wounded in an incident in one of Jerusalem's suburbs.

Search Party Of Giant Blacks Reaches Wrecked General

Britisher And Wife Face 180-Mile Trek Through African Jungle

KHARTOUM, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Oct. 18 (CP-Reuters)—A native search party today reached Brigadier-General A. C. Lewin and Mrs. Lewin, stranded since their plane made a forced landing in swamps nine days ago.

Earlier it had been feared the search party, composed of enormously tall Dinkas from the Bor region, armed with spears, who made the hazardous 15-mile trek from Konor, had become lost when Royal Air Force planes failed to spot them after sighting them Saturday only four miles from the Lewins.

Lewins made a forced landing in the swamps while on a flight from England to Kenya. A south-bound airliner spotted the wrecked plane and later search planes reported the couple apparently were unhurt and dropped food to them. The swampy ground prevented landing.

The couple face the task of picking their way out of the treacherous country. The nearest point where it is possible to join a river steamer is Bor, 180 miles to the south.

Yesterday a daring pilot, flying close to the ground, picked up a message attached by Mrs. Lewin to a line between two poles. It said the couple had sufficient food and water for three days.

Factories in Colombia are expanding to keep up with orders.

Cyclist Hits Women So He Suicides

Budapest, Oct. 18 (UP)

TRAFFIC Policeman Johann Balazs committed suicide at the Police Station yesterday because of chagrin over his bicycling ability.

Twice during the last week, while on duty, Balazs's bicycle had knocked down women pedestrians.

Neither woman was injured, but Balazs, after reporting the second case, pulled out his service revolver and shot himself.

Ill, Wife 19, Left 3 Days In Brush Tent While Aid Comes, Will Survive

Mayo, Y.T., Oct 18 (CP)

MRS. Carl Burian, 19-year-old wife of a steward river wood contractor, is "resting comfortably" in hospital here after a five-day 120-mile trip upriver by motorboat and Royal Canadian Mounted Police canoe.

The girl, who came north last year from her home at Pioneer, Alta., to marry Burian, was taken ill at her husband's lonely cabin at Independence Creek.

On Monday she was bundled into a power-boat skippered by her brother-in-law, Al Burian, and the trip to Mayo and a doctor began. At Crooked Creek, 40 miles downstream from here, the little boat broke down.

Burian carried his brother's wife ashore, built a tent of brush, and hiked overland to Mayo. Thursday morning, just at dawn, he and a police constable headed downstream to pick up the sick woman and complete the trip to hospital. Doctors said yesterday she was doing well and would recover.

STERN MEASURES SLOWLY CURBING HOLY LAND RIOTS

JERUSALEM, Oct. 1 (AP) — Hopeful of restoring quiet shortly to strife-torn Palestine British authorities maintained close watch today and continued the curfew here and at Lydda.

Sporadic attacks on Jews and Britons marked the week-end but stern measures prevented recurrence of widespread violence.

An Armenian street photographer, apparently mistaken for an Arab because he wore the red fez-like tarboosh, was shot and critically wounded on a main street of Jerusalem.

Shortly afterwards, shots were fired at a party of Arab laborers passing through the suburbs on their way to work. One was injured.

An Arab was shot dead here and a Jewish tailor was stabbed and seriously injured in the Kerenavrahm quarter. Laborers returning by automobile from a quarry outside Jerusalem were attacked but there were no casualties.

The outbreaks yesterday followed isolated attacks on Jewish settlements Saturday night, including fires at Lydda which resulted in the curfew there and orders to collect a $25,000 fine levied during the 1936 riots but not paid.

A seven-year-old boy was killed at the Yemenite Jewish colony near Rehovoth. Defenders of the colony replied with a machine gun when attackers fired 40 shots into the settlement.

REDS, CATHOLICS SEEK SAME GOAL

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., Oct. 16 (CP)—Rev. Father K. J. Kennedy, of St. Mary's College, Brockville, said last night in an address that the Roman Catholic Church, though definitely opposed to Communism, was working towards the same ends as Communism in seeking to better evils of the social order.

Father Kennedy, chief speaker at an annual Columbus Day rally here, said Communism was essentially a philosophy of life which denied man's supernatural destiny and spiritual nature and therefore existence of a supreme being.

The church, he said, was vigorously opposed to that principle and was equally strong in fighting the plan whereby the individual was submerged in and dependent on the state. Under this plan, private ownership was inherent in man, embedded in his very nature by the Creator.

He said the Roman Catholic Church was not allied with capitalism which he declared had beggared many and had brought injustice, hardship and evil.

J. J. Tierney of Brockville, member of the state committee lands settlement scheme, outlined a proposal under which it was hoped to take 100 Catholic families off relief in Ontario and settle them on 10-acre farms. The schedule would be placed to effect shortly.

TOT DIES OF SCALDS

WELLAND, Ont., Oct. 18 (CP). — Hazel Shall, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shall, Welland Chinese, died in hospital last night from scalds, received when she fell into a tub of boiling water.

The parents have nine other children who were absent at school at the time.

It was understood no inquest will be held.

HUNT WRONG FOWL

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 18—(CP).—The duck and geese hunting season is now open in Essex County, but somebody doesn't seem to have the right idea.

E. C. Schramm reported to police that his poultry coop was entered overnight and two geese and three ducks stolen. A Flemish Giant rabbit was also stolen.

Will Use River Mud To Raise City

Georgetown, British Guiana, Oct. 18 (C.P. Cable)

AT last a use for mud dredged from the bottom of the constantly silting Demerara River has been found.

The Government of this colony has decided to use the mud to build up the level of Georgetown, which is below sea-level. The grey mud, it was found by experiments in England, was employable also in the making of paving and building bricks.

ITALY'S VOLUNTEER LIST ONLY 40,000 SAYS ROME PRESS

ROME, Oct. 18 (AP)—Number of Italian volunteers in Spain was put at about 40,000, including both combatants and non-combatants, today by the semi-official "Diplomatic Information," edited by the official (Stefani) News Agency.

A special bulletin was issued to combat what were called "fantastic figures" published abroad.

Of the 40,000 it said: "This is the truth which fears no denial from any source—verified and verifiable," adding that "Valencia's volunteers are much more numerous."

The announcement attacked the former British prime minister, David Lloyd George, for allegedly exaggerating the number of Italian volunteers with the Insurgents, declaring:

"It is serious and scandalous that a former British premier, like Lloyd George who is old enough to be sober and prudent, should in a recent speech give his hearers fantastic figures on Italian volunteers in Spain."

The bulletin said "It is time dangerous hysteries in certain quarters cease, and that the situation be examined calmly."

"There are no illusions as to the good faith of Italy's enemies, but this note is destined also and principally to the Italian people," it added.

The bulletin stated exaggerated figures on Italian volunteers were put out to create a "psychosis of war."

BEER ROOM FIGHT FATAL IN TORONTO MURDER CHARGED

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (CP).—George Strachan, 29, Toronto, will appear in court today on a charge of murder, the result of a beverage room fracas in which Francis Dafoe, 31, also of Toronto, was fatally injured.

Police said Strachan, Dafoe and a third man began to argue about politics while drinking beef in the beverage room of the Grovenor Hotel. Strachan either threw or smashed a half-full beer glass into Dafoe's face, they alleged.

The splintered glass tore a wound in Dafoe's neck, puncturing the carotid vein. Dafoe bled to death in an ambulance while being taken to hospital.

Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson said the man's life could have been saved by pressure on the artery, stopping the bleeding, until medical aid was obtained. An autopsy by Dr. W. L. Robinson revealed the juglar vein was intact.

Strachan was arrested three hours after Dafoe was cut. Police said he was hurried out of the hotel. He was arrested as he emerged from another hotel not far distant.

BROKEN HEARTS MAY BE NO MYTH

LONDON, Oct. 18 (CP). — The broken heart, long considered the exclusive possession of the disappointed lover, may come into its own shortly.

Medical research into cardial pain carried out at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, by Dr. Erich Wittkower, shows there is some foundation for the idea of the broken heart. His work is described in an article in the Lancet, British medical publication.

Dr. Wittkower found that the vast majority of patients suffering from heart pain, irrespective of the underlying organic disorder, consisted of psychoneurotics. This suggested a possible connection of the mental condition with the formation of pain.

In thirty-six of forty-eight further cases emotional stress or strain immediately preceded the onset of the pain. In some cases it was possible for the knowledge of the existence of organic heart disease with its symptoms to precipitate the onset of the pain.

The factor common to all precipitating causes was a menace to vital feelings, life, or existence.

SHOT 24 DUCKS AT 86

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 16 (CP)—Eighty-six winters have not dimmed the eyes of Wilson Hubbs. The other day, with Dr. Don Lighthall, he went after elusive mallards and black ducks. He accounted for 24 birds.

'Graveyard' Ships Sold For Scrap

Relics of the ship building boom which hit the United States during the years 1917-22, the 53 ships shown ABOVE in the Kill van Kull at Staten Island, N.Y., are slowly being sold for scrap due to the tremendous demand for scrap steel. The ships were constructed for the United States government at an average cost of $1,250,000 and are now being sold at prices ranging from $14,000 to $50,000.

4,400 Japs, Chinese Slain In Battle For Tazang

Entire Defending "Death Battalion" Is Wiped Out In Heaviest Fighting of War

SHANGHAI, Oct. 18 (A.P.). — Chinese authorities said to-day a death battalion of 1,400 Chinese troops and more than 3,000 Japanese attackers were killed in fighting for possession of Tazang, about five miles north-west of Shanghai.

They described the engagement, in which Chinese fought to protect supply bases, as the heaviest encounter in the Shanghai area since hostilities began.

Colonel Chin Ching-Wu, commander of the Chinese force at Tazang, had declared they would fight to the last man. After 30 hours of fighting against Japanese infantry supported by planes and naval guns, Colonel Chin was killed and his force wiped out.

Chinese and Japanese air raids and anti-aircraft shelling caused increasing fears in the International Settlement that Shanghai may suffer a repetition of the catastrophe of August 14.

There was a growing demand among foreign residents for some sort of remedial action. It was learned foreign Consuls are asking

RELIEF FIGURES DROP FOR CANADA

OTTAWA, Oct. 18 (C.P.).—Relief recipients in Canada apart from farmers and their dependents numbered 468,114 in September, compared with 722,515 in September, 1936, Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, said in a statement issued over th week-end. The number of farmers and dependents assisted was given as 863,080 for September, but no comparable figure was given for last year.

The statement, in part, follows:

Preliminary reports from the Provinces indicate that during September, exclusive of farm operators, 101,768 heads of families in the Dominion were in receipt of material aid. Dependents numbered 333,496, and there were also assisted 32,850 individual persons, the total number in receipt of such aid being 468,114.

Comparable figures for September, 1936, were 152,946 family heads, 517,579 dependents, 51,990 individual cases, with a total of 722,515 persons assisted.

The reduction in numbers afforded non-agricultural material aid in the Dominion this September as compared to last September is 33⅓ per cent. in respect to heads of families, and the total number is increased by more than 35 per cent.

Find Bodies Of 200 Spanish Border

PERIPIGNAN, France, Oct. 18 (AP)—Colonel C. D. O. Lunn, Danish commander of the non-intervention guard of the Franco-Spanish frontier, reported here his agents had found the bodies of nearly 200 British and American volunteers during the summer.

In an interview, he said most of them apparently had become lost in the mountains of France's Spanish frontier and had wandered until they collapsed from exhaustion.

"Some fell from cliffs and crevasses and many were eaten by wolves, only a few bones and clothing remaining," Lunn said.

France will supply cheap credit for those who modernize their industrial plant equipment.

WRECK VAULT FOR $50

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 18—(CP).—Raiding the vault in Sandwich East township hall a second time this year, burglars got little for their trouble during the night.

Judging from the appearance of the township hall today the nocturnal visitors must have spent hours on the scene. All they got for their trouble was a handful of silver—about $50, township officials said.

DECISION WAITED IN ABITIBI CASE

TORONTO, October 18—(CP). — decision by the Supreme Court of Ontario was awaited Saturday to determine the future of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company, Limited, with bondholders committed to a plan for sale of the company, in receivership for five years, to a company to be organized.

The bondholers at a meeting here Friday approved the reorganization plan advanced by a bondholders' representative committee headed by Joseph P. Ripley of New York. Objections by a defensive committee, a minority group of bondholders, were voted down. The Ontario Supreme Court must rule upon the legality of the meeting's actions.

Several hundred bondholders attended the day-long meeting. For approval of the sale and re-organization plan, commonly termed the Ripley plan, 238,696 votes were recorded, representing $23,869,500 worth of bonds. Against were 76,845

8 PROSPECTORS' CLASSES CALLED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Oct. 16.—Prospectors classes under the Ontario Department of Mines are to be conducted in the Town Hall, Marmora, for a period of eight days commencing October 18, by Dr. W. D. Harding, of the Ontario Department. Day classes open each day at 2 p.m. for the study of rocks and identification of minerals.

On October 19 a series of five evening lectures will commence. Subjects illustrated with lantern slides will be treated in the following order:

1. Chemistry of the earth.
2. Crystals and Minerals.
3. Rocks and Rock Structure.
4. Ore Deposits.
5. Mine Development.

Classes and lectures being free of charge and mining activities in the district having again been renewed, much interest is expected to centre upon the course.

BOY BAKER WINS

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP).—The cake 11-year-old John Hartwig, Jr., baked was so light and fluffy that it won a prize in competition with those baked by girl rivals in a contest at the Midwest Poultry Show. The victory was nothing new to Johnnie. His cakes have won three prizes this year.

Distilleries of Scotland are operating at capacity and cannot keep up with their orders.

CRUISER SURVIVES JAMES BAY GALE

moorings Tuesday night, but one of the anchors broke loose. With one anchor dragging the boat was tossed about on waves 40 feet high.

The Jim Widdie threatened to capsize several times, and finally sprang a leak from the exhaust. Isserhoff said the water started to pour into the boat and he had to bail while Hunter fixed the leak. It took hours for the pair to bail out the water. During that time they were threatened with crashing on the rocks on shore.

Seeks To Improve Yorkshire Herd

An event of particular note in livestock breeders' circles in this county in view of the fact Peterborough has never been in the past a leading centre for purebred swine is the purchase made by Earl Doris of Otonabee township. Mr. Doris has added to his swine herd a prize-winning seven-months-old Yorkshire boar from D. M. Stewart of Osgoode.

A consistent winner at fairs this Fall, the hog placed first at Cornwall and Newington, second at Ormstown and fifth at Ottawa where he showed in the year-old class. He is a choicely-bred individual, his dam being Junior and Reserve grand champion at the 1936 Royal Winter Fair while his sire was second prize winner in the aged boar class at the Central Canada Exhibition.

Mr. Doris has been at work a number of years building a good Yorkshire herd.

Dominion Woollens And Worsteds Shows Profit Of About $217,000

Profit of Dominion Woollens & Worsteds, Limited, amounted to about $217,000 before allowing for depreciation of about $110,000, bond interest and income taxes in the year ended June 30, 1937, shareholders and bondholders are advised in a letter from A. O. Dawson, president. On the same basis profit in the previous year amount to $109,546.

Net working capital of the company at its year end amounted to $732,000, compared with $595,696 at June 30, 1936. Annual bond interest accruing from July 1, 1937, amounts to $63,510, earned three times.

A detailed annual report is not being presented at the present time inasmuch as the directors have passed a by-law providing for changing of the company's year end from June 30 to December 31. In view of this change the annual meeting will not be held until after December, 1937, at which time financial statements for the period from July 1, 1936, to December 1, 1937, will be presented.

Mr. Dawson notes that no bond interest was paid in respect of the last twelve months inasmuch as working capital was below $1,000,000. Interest accruing from July 1, 1937, however, becomes a fixed charge payable January 1 and July 1 each year, and Mr. Dawson states that present indications are that the six months' interest due January 1, 1938, will be paid when due.

Speaking of operations, the company head says that Dominion Woollens has on its books a larger amount of unfilled orders than it had a year ago and "except for the unfortunate labor dispute, which resulted in production of the company's two mills at Peterborough being seriously interfered with for eight weeks, the outlook would have been most favorable." Capital replacements to the amount of $96,000 were carried out during the year on the company's plants.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Weakness in outside wheat markets, influenced by rains in Australia and the Argentine, brought an easier trend to wheat futures on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. At the final bell values were ⅝ to ¾ cent lower, October $1.23; November, $1.22⅝; December, $1.18, and May, $1.16⅝ to ¾.

Prices slumped two cents on light liquidation, but responded to some export buying near the close. Generally trading was dull and volume light.

Though export business in Canadian wheat during the week-end was estimated below 500,000 bushels, outside firms were credited with buying durum wheat.

Liverpool closed ⅝d to 1⅛d lower. Buenos Aires at noon was unchanged to ⅛ cent down and United States markets were off to 2 cents near the close.

Bride and Groom Honored By Friends.

JANETVILLE, Oct. 18.—On Friday evening about one hundred and fifty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Joseph Fisher, north of the village, to honor her daughter, Mrs. Fred Walker, (formerly Miss Olive Fisher), and her husband on the occasion of their recent marriage.

A pleasant social evening was spent, dancing being enjoyed to music supplied by H. Wilson and P. Hamilton. At midnight the bride and groom were given seats of honor while a well-worded address was read by Miss Isabelle McInnis. Mr. and Mrs. Walker both voiced their thanks for the beautiful gifts and good wishes expressed. During the evening refreshments were served. Friends were present from Lindsay, Omemee and Reaboro, as well as the immediate vicinity.

Miss Eleanor Scollard Entertained At Shower

A most pleasant evening was spent when Mrs. F. Curtis and Mrs. Joseph McCarthy entertained at the home of Miss Ayotte, 527 Armour Road, in honor of Miss Eleanor Scollard, a bride of this coming Thursday.

Pink and white streamers and large white bells were pretty decorations in the rooms, and the tea table was most attractive with a fine lace cloth and crystal bowl of autumn flowers. Little Jackie and Doreen McCarthy pulled into the room a gayly decorated wagon holding a large basket of gifts for the guest of honor. At refreshment time, tea was poured by Mrs. Curtis and Miss Rita Hanrahan, who were assisted in serving by Mrs. McCarthy, Mrs. Hanrahan, Miss Mamie Ayotte and Miss Margaret McCarthy. Twenty-five guests were present.

Dinner and Presentations Kawartha Golf and Country.

A delightful banquet and social evening was tendered by the manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, W. C. McCreery to his staff and their wives on Saturday evening at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

On behalf of the Head Office of the Company, Mr. McCreery presented two of his agents, with their Service Medals. A. J. Brennan of the Lindsay office received his twenty year Service Medal, and his Veteran Medal. Arthur J. McLaren of the Peterborough office received his fifteen year service medal. Mr. McCreery spoke in very high terms of the sterling qualities of the two agents, and of his pleasure in making the presentation. Suitable replies were made by Mr. Brennan and Mr. McLaren.

During the course of dinner, served at six-thirty, community singing was enjoyed. The evening was spent at bridge and euchre, the prizes for bridge being won by Mrs. James Gibb of this city, and A. J. Brennan of Lindsay. Mrs. S. G. Marchen and S. J. Houlihan held high score in the euchre games.

The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McCreery, Mr. and Mrs. James Gibb, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Houlihan, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. MacDougall, Mr. and S. J. Hickey, Mr. and Mrs. C. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. S. Brown-McCracken.

At half past two on Saturday afternoon in St. John's church, the marriage was quietly solemnized of Mary Olive McCracken, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McCracken, to John Brown, of Bethune street. The Rev. E. Rigby performed the ceremony, the couple being unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for a short motor trip, and will reside at 543 Bethune street when they return to the city.

MacPherson-Staples.

CAVAN, Oct. 18.—A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Staples, Cavan, when their eldest daughter, Norma Lorraine, was united in marriage to Donald A. MacPherson, of Toronto, son of T. J. MacPherson and the late Mrs. MacPherson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a frock of beige crepe, with navy blue accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. R. Trumpour. On their return from a motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. MacPherson will reside in Toronto.

Walker-Fisher.

JANETVILLE, Oct. 18.—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Manse on Tuesday morning, October 12th, when Olive Fisher, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Fisher, of Janetville, and the late Joseph Fisher was united in marriage to Frederick Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Walker, of England.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiated.

The bride was becomingly gowned in midnight blue triple sheer with corsage of gardenias. She was unattended.

The happy couple left immediately for Toronto and western points and on their return will reside on their farm north of the village.

Helson-McIntosh.

A pretty wedding took place recently at the home of the bride's parents, 399 Front Street, Belleville, when Margaret Laidlaw McIntosh, Reg. N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McIntosh, became the bride of Frederick William Helson, son of Mrs. Helson and the late Alfred Helson of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of beautiful fall flowers by the Rev. D. T. McClintock, pastor of Tabernacle United Church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of dark blue velvet, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses, baby's breath and maidenhair fern. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Clinton McBride, who was gowned in light blue velvet and carried Briarcliff roses and fern. Harry Helson of Peterborough attended his brother as groomsman. The wedding music was played by James McIntosh, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a buffet supper was served, attended by immediate friends and relatives with the bridal party.

Mrs. McIntosh, mother of the bride, was wearing a gown of Burgundy crepe, with a corsage of yellow roses, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Helson, was attired in black crepe with corsage of red roses.

The happy couple left later for Hamilton, the bride travelling in a flowered frock, with black coat and accessories. They will reside at 480 Sherbrooke Street, Peterborough.

Alcock-Hopkins.

Colorful autumn leaves decorated the altar of St. George's Church on Friday evening, when, at eight o'clock, Keitha Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hopkins of Orpington Road, became the bride of Thomas P. Alcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Alcock of Chamberlain Street. The Rev. T. Gault performed the ceremony, the wedding music being played by Mrs. Ray King.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a charming afternoon frock of navy blue sheer, a matching navy hat and accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses, baby's breath and maidenhair fern.

Miss Joyce Alcock, sister of the groom, attended as bridesmaid, wearing a dress of wine crepe, with matching felt hat and accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Arthur Brown attended the groom as best man, and the ushers were the bride's brother and brother-in-law, C. Hopkins and William Carter.

A reception, attended by forty-five guests, was held at the bride's home following the ceremony. Mrs. Hopkins was gowned in navy crepe, with white accessories, and Mrs. Alcock, mother of the groom, was wearing a flowered crepe with green accessories. The charmingly decorated table held the three-tiered wedding cake in a place of honor, the toast to the bride being proposed by Arthur Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Alcock left by motor for Montreal, the latter travelling in a grey wool coat, with navy hat, dress and accessories. On their return the young couple will reside at 68 Orpington Road.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a brilliant brooch, and to the best man a leather bill fold.

TELL CLEVER FORTUNES TO ENTERTAIN FRIENDS

Painful silences? Wallflower evenings? You don't have them if you know even one of the ways to tell fortunes.

And fortunes aren't hard! One of the most interesting ways— card fortunes—you can learn in no time by practising on yourself.

First you pick your name card. If you're a girl with green eyes and brown hair, for instance, you're a Queen of Clubs. Next you shuffle, cut, and deal into three piles. If the card which turned up in the cut appears in the pile with your name card your wish comes true. The nine of Hearts is specially favorable to a wish; the Two of Hearts hints a proposal; the Six of Diamonds, a gift. Each card has its meaning.

You can even see fortunes in your log-fire. Put salt on the blaze and watch for shapes in the flames and embers. If you see a flying bird you'll have good luck.

Our 32-page booklet shows you how to tell fortunes easily—tea leaves, horoscopes, dreams, cards, dominoes—and have grand fun at bazaars, parties.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of FUN WITH FORTUNE-TELLING to THE EXAMINER. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Tuesday, October 19.

While this day may be expected to be very lively and probably exciting one, judging by the predominant stellar forces, yet the trend of affairs may not be without some disquieting moments. Some friction or intriguing event may add complications, despite an expansive and encouraging outlook.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively and interesting year, with many expansive and promising influences at work. But there may be some anxious and disturbing moments, particularly in relation to contracts, property speculation and needful extravagances or expenditures. A personal bereavement may contribute to the unrest. Employment or superiors may give concern.

A child born on this day may be versatile, restless, ambitious and brimful of ideas, but willing to take any sort of chances to put them over, probably resorting to extravagances, expediency and speculation.

We Do Not Believe It

Sir Ernest Petter, who built the first motor car in England, has been visiting in Toronto, and naturally reporters would want to see him and ask questions. One statement of the visitor had to do with the speed limit for motor cars, and Sir Ernest was outspoken on that point. His idea is that "speed laws are positively immoral." He argues that "there's not a reason in the world why a man travelling 60 or 70 miles an hour in a modern car should not be just as safe as the man doing 50."

And that of course is interesting. But not convincing. It would be about as reasonable to state that a man who always brushed his teeth would never have anything go wrong with them. It would be about the same as saying that a railway train going 70 miles an hour would never in its history strike a broken rail or an open switch.

Truth is we have a tremendous assortment of people driving cars, and how many of them have the mental equipment to handle a machine going 70 miles an hour is a great and an open question. In England itself, from which Sir Ernest comes, the number of fatal accidents in traffic is alarming although the penalties have been made stiffer than anything we have yet attempted.

There is too much of a distressing nature going on along highways the world over to encourage the belief that a car retains a margin of safety at 60 and 70 miles an hour. It could probably be argued according to mechanical law that such performance would be safe, but we are daily faced with too much stubborn reminders of the grim fact that it is not.

A Piece Of Good Writing

A story written by Beverley Sutton, a boy between 14 and 15 years of age, was printed in the Examiner. We knew it was a good story before we let it go; we are certain of it now because a number of readers have said the same thing. They have said it was clear and plain and gave such a vivid picture of what a Western home was like in the area of drought and sand storms.

And yet this boy had never written anything for a newspaper before, and it was a rather formidable assignment which he received from this paper — to tell in his own way what had happened on his farm home this year. The Examiner previously had told Beverley what it wanted to know; what sand storms did to field crops and grain, how it affected life in the home, how the people managed to live through it all. Not on any point did this Western lad fall down. He came through with such an intimate picture that people had a better idea than ever before what drought and sand storms actually meant. And that after all is the only purpose served by writing anything. The people must understand what it is all about after its is written.

Beverley missed very little in rounding out his story. There were 441 acres in wheat and oats and it tried to grow, came up several times and then it all died. There was not as much as a piece of 1937 straw. There were two gardens planted and the harvest from that effort amounted to one bag of potatoes; currant bushes and berry bushes were covered with blow dirt. Fruit trees never had a chance to blossom; they looked naked in midsummer because the leaves were all blown off. His folk worked for a day with a scraper to get the garage door open, and it was necessary to dig away dirt drifts when it was time to do feeding in the barn.

The history and habit of the sand storm was traced; its approach is marked by the shifting of the earth before the black clouds and the high winds come; Beverley spoke of shovelling up the blow dirt in the house and filling a large wash-tub; related about nights when they held damp cloths before them so they could breathe. He went farther and explained how roads are now lower than ditches; how gophers were smothered in their burrows because the dirt drifted in faster than the little animals could dig it out. In his whole narrative there was much which might well be studied by a good many people who have been writing for years. He had a story to tell; he had lived through it all, and he adhered to simplicity in putting his facts together. And that is how good stories are written.

We believe that story alone is about the best explanation which can be put forward regarding the filling of cars in Peterborough to send to the West. Those people have no vegetables or fruit, and there are plenty of other things of which they have none at all. If you would like to do something for such folk take your offerings to the Salvation Army Hostel at the corner of Aylmer and Simcoe streets. If you want to make your money active in this work make cheques payable to Ald. James Dutton or contributions will be received at the Examiner office.

Figures Are Startling

Buffalo Courier-Express

IT IS almost beyond belief that 36 out of the 49 millions of young persons in the United States have never set foot inside a church. And yet that assertion was made at the eastern conference of the Methodist Church by the Rev. Frank E. Gaebelein, headmaster of a boys' school on Long Island.

Mr. Gaebelein made the further assertion that a questionnaire revealed that "of 55,000 youngsters attending certain schools in New York, more than 16,000 never heard of the Ten Commandments." Of more than 18,000 students in Virginia, he said, 16,000 were unable to name four Biblical prophets, 12,000 to name the four gospels, and 10,000 to name three of the Christ's disciples.

If that is a correct picture of the attitude of the young people of this country to the Church, then there is a double challenge in it. One is to the Church itself, which fails to make itself attractive to the young generation. The other is to the home and to the individual; to the home in that it adds little stimulation to the church in its endeavors to reach the young, and to the individual in that he is content to live in ignorance of a past upon which so much of the present is built.

At Four Miles An Hour

The Chicago News wanted to find out how fast people were able to go from one place to another in a crowded section of that crowded city, and hit upon the rather sensible plan of having a number of people go by different methods. Contestants were to start at the Dearborn and Quincy street steps of the federal building and go to the elevated railway station at Halstead street, which is one mile. And the contest took place during the noon-hour rush when people in large cities always look as though they were travelling at top speed.

The race was won by a messenger boy on a bicycle who made the mile in 11½ minutes.

A man who took a taxi came in second but he tied exactly with another contestant who rode on the elevated railway. Time 11¾ minutes.

The driver of a private automobile made the distance in 12 minutes flat; a mounted policeman arrived in 12½ minutes. A pedestrian who entered the contest made the mile in 12¾ minutes, which is good enough going through crowded streets. Where there is no crowd four miles an hour is considered fair enough for walking.

One contestant used a bus and it took him 23 minutes, while another tried a surface car and reported at the destination 24 minutes later. The idea was to find which method would take one most rapidly through a congested area during a time of greatest traffic, and the messenger boy on the bicycle proved the winner. Traffic in that section of Chicago is dense at almost any hour of the day; it is so dense that it is slow moving; the streets are not wide, and there would be traffic lights to make it still slower.

Taking all the records by various means of travel it was found the average time was 14.97 minutes, within a shade of 15 minutes, or four miles an hour. We at times think of large cities as places where everything is keyed up to a high state of efficiency, where folk go rushing about and getting everything done more quickly than we do in smaller centres. But noon-hour Chicago travels at four miles an hour. All of which causes the Chicago News to come to the conclusion that down-town Chicago is still in the horse and buggy days.

✓ Worthy Of Support ✓

Peterborough police department has completed arrangements for its annual ball which is to be held this year on the 29th of this month. The profits earned by this enjoyable event are to be used, as on other occasions, to build up the pension fund which the department launched some years ago and which is the only sources to which officers can look for help when they reach the age for retirement. The annual ball is the principle channel of revenue for this benefit fund.

It has become one of the big social events of the year, with a good time assured for everyone who attends. It is, however, something more than a mere night of entertainment and enjoyment. It represents a constructive effort to build for the future; an effort that is worthy of the support and commendation of the public.

It Is Getting Complicated

This one is difficult to put together. It may be necessary to use a pencil and a bit of paper before concluding. It has to do with yet one more of the automobile smash cases which are being taken to court for settlement and adjustment. People go there after they wrangle for a while after a smash and are unable to fix things up themselves.

It ran about like this. Plaintiff in the case claimed his damages were such and such and the defendant did likewise. Then they went through the serious business of trying to fix the blame for the accident which had taken place on the second day of January. Jurors assessed damages of the plaintiff at $835 and the defendant at $2,500. Then there came the consideration of the contributory negligence element, and that appears to be something which has to be worked out on a highly scientific basis. The conclusion was that the plaintiff with $835 damages had been 25 per cent. negligent; the defendant with $2,500 damages had been negligent to the extent of 75 per cent. So they would have to take the 25 per cent. from the $835 award and then subtract 75 per cent. from the $2,500 award. If you are inclined to figure it out for yourself it is quite all right; doing so might fit you for service in one of those up-to-date juries where such matters must be adjusted.

The answer reached in Hamilton was that the defendent with $2,500 damages plus a 75 per cent. responsibility would have to pay to the plaintiff with $835 damages and a 25 per cent. degree of contributory negligence the sum of $1.25.

The suggestion was made that each party to the suit should pay the costs of the other and that ended the case. What the costs are is not stated, but apart from the lawyers who will receive their fees the man who secured $1.25 damages was the only victor and his victory was temporary because $1.25 does not go far in paying court costs. If this dual business of assessing damages and then proceeding to allot them on the basis of the degree of contributory negligence attributed to each party is to continue we may yet have to change our system of selecting jurors. Only those who are smart at figures and who have spent long hours at doing ponderous problems will be considered eligible for duty as jurors.

NEW TUNES

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Uncle Eben gets annoyed, he says his worship's being destroyed, by some new hymns he hears; for Uncle Eben knows them not, upon his mind they leave a blot, nor do they please his ears.

¶ Now Uncle Eben likes a hymn, that's like an old friend unto him, he knows how it should go; it will not fool him here and there, nor does he have to pump much air, he knew it long ago.

¶ And Uncle Eben likes to sing, and he can go like anything, his notes are big and round; when he gets warmed up to the work, of singing old tunes in the kirk, he makes a goodly sound.

¶ But when they pull new tunes on him, then Uncle Eben looks so grim, there's danger in his eye; and he just glares upon the thing, and stuff like that why he can't sing, nor will he ever try.

¶ And when he's through and walking home, why uncle's apt to grunt and groan, there is is no joy within; he sputters then throughout the day, I think he'd like to find and slay, the chap who wrote the hymn.

¶ Some folks can judge the weather's state, and juggle with affairs of state, by looking at the moon; and Uncle Eben I can guage, when he turns up the hymn book page—and spots a brand new tune.

THE GOVERNMENT of South Africa has decided to highlight the career of Dingaan famous Zulu chief in a film designed to sell African to overseas tourists. A native city has been set up at Otto Bluff where parts of "King Solomon's Mines" were filmed and the place is said to be authentic in every detail including the distinctive rope-plaiting outside the doors of the huts to be occupied by Dingaan's wives.

In the story days a century ago when Europeans were just penetrating into Zululand in South-east Africa the bloodiest of all the murderous Zulu chiefs was Dingaan, the self-styled "Black Napoleon."

Dingaan rose to power by murdering his half-brothers Chaka the Zulu king and Umthlangana. In 1835 he permitted British settlers at Port Natal to establish missionary stations and soon American missionaries and Boer immigrants were admitted.

A year later the treacherous chief murdered the Boer leader Pieter Retief and started a campaign of wholesale slaughter but eventually he had his own armies routed by a Boer force. Dingaan fled to Swaziland in advance of his retreating forces and was murdered there.

A resident of Jamica has reported that voodism still exists in that part of the West Indies. Recently he noticed a peculiar odor in his backyard and discovered a heap of strange objects indicating someone had put a "hoodoo" on him. Twenty-five articles made up the odd assortment which included a human skull, limes, black cloth, black pins, candles, several bottles of various colors and shapes, and a note written in red ink which read "nine days to live."

Gambling In Potatoes

ONE OF THE world's greatest gambling games is played in the heart of the New Brunswick potato belt every year. Hundreds of men in ordinary circumstances gamble thousands of dollars when they plant each spring without knowing if they will reap riches or bankruptcy. Potatoes costing 75 cents a barrel to grow may sell for 15 cents or $12 a barrel.

The story is told of one New Brunswick farmer who refused an offer of $8,250 for his crop in the fall because he had a hunch the price would go to $10 a barrel. In the spring he had to sell the crop for about $500.

An average yield of potatoes per acre is 100 barrels. A 300-acre crop costs $2,250 to grow. If the farmer has to sell the crop for 15 cents a barrel he suffers a loss of $1,800. But if he gets $12 a barrel his net profit is $33,750. These prices are exceptions but in the season of 1925-26 New Brunswick potato growers received as high as $12 a barrel and three or four years ago the price sank to 15 cents. Thus the price may fluctuate much more than that of any other major commodity.

✧ ✧ ✧

More than half the population of Carleton and Victoria counties and about half the people in York County are said to be directly or indirectly dependent upon potato growing. This output with that of Restigouche, Kent, Northumberland and Westmorland makes potatoes the biggest cash crop in New Brunswick.

Whale Drive Off

FOR THE FIRST time in over a decade no white whale drive was held in the vicinity of Pangnirtung, Baffin Island last summer. Lack of demand for whale oil and whale skins caused the Hudson Bay Company to discontinue the drive much to the disappointment of the natives, who are paid on a percentage basis and to whom the passing of the drive has been considerable loss. The drive and the treating of the skins usually gives employment to the entire Eskimo family for six weeks.

White whale drivers hark back to the old whaler days. Kingoak fjord north of Pangnirtung has been used almost exclusively for the purpose because the bottom is level and no reefs interfere.

The whales collect around the fjords early in July. They seem to like to go into the shallow protected waters to stretch themselves. When the drive is on natives in whaleboats with tin dishes and other noise-making implements, accompanied by motorboats approach the mouth of the fjord, herding the whales ahead of them. Fearful of the racket the animals remain in the shallow water and the tide going out leaves them stranded and easy prey for the hunters.

Frequently as many as 2,000 whales will be stranded in this fjord in one drive and it has been the practice to kill not more than 700, selecting the largest. The skins and the blubber are taken to Pangnirtung where a plant has been built to extract the oil and treat the skins. Natives keep the poorest quality of oil which supplies their stone stoves to keep the igloos lighted and warm in the winter.

Strikes Are Feared.

A PLOT IS being prepared to bring munition works in Britain to a close according to a British newspaper, which alleges that strike committees have been formed in aircraft, gun and shell factories and many warships-building yards. The Government, the paper says, is so seriously concerned that it has drafted Secret Service men into the works disguised as clerks and mechanics. More than 1,000 agitators have already been identified.

In Dublin President De Valera's "Irish press" has been demanding the removal of the Nelson pillar monument and the erection on its site of a statue to Wolfe Tone who led the revolt of 1798 and is revered as the Father of the Irish Nation.

Could Cut Down On Japan's Might

Effect of Boycott Would Soon Be Felt; Britain Takes About Half of Her Exports.

(St. Catharines Standard)

WHILE THE JAP warships in the China Sea may sweep everything before them, while their aircraft may make a cauldron of the crowded Chinese settlements, their army and their tanks brush aside everything before them, if all that Japan is a highly vulnerable nation.

As The London Daily Herald (Labor) says, for all Japan's strength rests upon one simple thing—the willingness of other countries to buy her goods. Withdraw that willingness and before long the Japanese Government is helpless. Crying "Shame!" has no more effect upon the Imperialists of Tokio than the moans of the dying. Moving language, moral disapproval, leaves them untouched. What Powers should take the lead in organizing the conference? They are the British Empire, the United States, France, Russia and Holland. These countries alone buy more than half Japan's exports. Even if they had to act alone—and they would not have to do so—they could paralyze Japan's military capacity by the mere act of refusing to buy a yen's worth of Japanese goods until the carnage stops. The responsibility rests most directly upon Britain and the United States. The British Empire alone takes a quarter of all Japan's exports. The United States takes between a fifth and a quarter. So great is their power that in all probability no other action would be needed to stop the war beyond a joint Anglo-American decision to buy no silk or cotton goods from Japan, and to sell her no oil, iron, cotton, rubber or machinery, and makes no loans.

Whether sanctions will be imposed on Japan, and that Kingdom be declared a pariah among nations as far as trade is concerned, remains for the future to disclose. Rich provinces have already been acquired in Northern China, but the war on the Nanking front is not so favorable to the invader. There is reason to believe that China will not prove another Ethiopia, and there is a long drawn out struggle ahead.

Jap Politely Explains the Killings

Civilian Population Get Too Close to War; And Then the Chinese Are Apt to Exaggerate

(Letter in Ottawa Journal)

SIR.—In writing this, I have in my mind a thought that so British a journal as yours will surely lend me an ear to listen to what is expounded below, in connection with the much regretted conflict now going on between Japan and China. In substance, I appeal to that loftiest of human virtues calling British fair play, of which The Journal is such an outstanding exponent, so that you may judge it for yourself whether Japan is all wrong. . . .

Far cries are being raised, in the name of humanity, against Japanese bombings of Chinese civilians. It is one of the biggest of human qualities to be sympathetic toward the sufferances of fellowmen. But the important point is under what circumstances and to what extent the bombings took place. It is now well established that newspaper reports emanating from Chinese sources were greatly exaggerated to mention the actual number of casualties in Nanking and Canton. The Chinese are great users of superlatives and similes, as their literature clearly shows, and in counting numbers, the figures are always cited in round numbers, which are bombastic if not entirely groundless. Thus, 50 non-combatants killed may easily be reported as several hundred, as there is no telling how unstatistic Chinese have arrived at such figures.

I am not in any way deprecating the average Chinese, who are, as a rule, naive and law-abiding. But it may be said of conspiring Chinese authorities, that they may concoct unreliable and false figures in order to put the Japanese at disadvantage in the eyes of other nations. I do not think foreign correspondents have ever actually counted the victims of Japanese planes themselves, but they are more likely to swallow those round numbers and despatch them all over the world. . . .

Another thing. A question is asked why the Japanese did not confine their bombings to strictly military objects. The truth is that actually military objects in Nanking, Canton, and elsewhere are located too close to the civilian sections, so close that some of them are right along busy business quarters. Moreover, all civilians were warned of the coming attacks well beforehand by the Japanese. Had the Chinese authorities taken precautionary measures, the extent of casualties possibly would have been kept to the minimum.

Accusations are directed against Japan almost universally, but who knows what is going on in China is not what we might get, if the next world war ever comes. In fact, all civilians will not be safe, if enemy planes attacked some military works near Piccadilly Circus in London, or for that matter the Cartier Square in Ottawa, where the drill hall is located. Only the progress of science is to blame—science which made aerial navigation so easy. Unless that progress is stopped, a new method of war will always crop up, and the one who takes initiative must shoulder the whole blame.

The Journal says this Chinese war is waged under horrible circumstances, but does not say whether any war can be fought killing none.

It is quite inconceivable that there is such a thing as mimic war between any two nations. War itself is an act of murder, and the day when non-combatants were safe seems to have ended in 1937. Let us work hard to prevent wars at all cost—at cost probably to those who can bear best, for there is no assurance whatever that defenceless men, women and children will be spared, no matter where they live.

THINKS IT SILLY.

(London Daily Herald)

HITLER IS A silly man to maintain his Nazi Party organization in London and encourage it to do its little bits of spying and badgering and intriguing. It irritates the whole British people. And it makes it difficult to meet the most innocent German tourist and visitor without wondering what he may be up to. This is a pity because there is much to be said for an exchange of non-propaganda visits between individuals of different countries. It performs the immense service of demonstrating one simple fact which is always in danger of being clouded over in times of international suspicion and fear; the fact that the average Frenchman, the average Russian, the average German and the average Englishman are much the same sort of human beings. And the more people there are in every country who know that to be true, the more difficult it is to whip up war fever and war-like hatreds.

OLD LIQUOR

A visitor found the young wife pouring whisky down the sink, bottle after bottle.

"For goodness' sake, why pour that whisky away?" asked the visitor, aghast.

"Oh, it's quite all right. I heard my husband say to his guests last night that it was some very old stuff," was the smiling reply.

HYMN 90 YEARS OLD.

(Toronto Star Weekly)

NINETY YEARS ago the Rev. Henry Francis Lyte walked to his home in Devon, Berry Head House, after preaching his last sermon as vicar of the Brixham Parish church, and put into the hands of his daughter, Mrs. Hogg, the manuscript of the hymn he had just written, now known as "Abide with Me." He also gave her the tune for the hymn. The vicar knew that he was near the end of life and shortly thereafter he died. He has gone on, but his hymn has become, according to good authorities, the most popular in the world. Brixham now proposes that Berry Head House, in which the hymn was written shall be bought as a permanent memorial.

The hymn has been sung on many important state occasions. After the battle of Omdurman and the rescue of the Soudan from the control of the dervishes a thanksgiving service was held in Khartoum in which the hymn was prominent. During the great war when General Allenby snatched Jerusalem and the holy places out of infidel hands, the hymn was sung reverently by the triumphant British soldiers.

"Abide with Me" is justly popular in Canada and the people of most religious denominations will be interested in the proposal to purchase the house in which it was written as an outward mark of appreciation. About fifteen years ago Canadians erected near Port Hope a permanent memorial to Joseph Scriven who, while living on Rice Lake, wrote the beautiful hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus."

SAVED BY COOL NIGHTS.

(Sarnia Canadian Observer)

AT THIS STAGE, when the coming winter's fuel bill is something to think about, there is an appropriate occasion to review some phases of last summer's heat waves and it is interesting to discover that we had cool nights in July. Most people compelled to remain in the cities throughout the summer may be inclined to counter any assertion that there were cool nights in July but the official thermometer does not lie and the record shows that, while it was intensely hot in daytime, there was a notable drop in the temperature at night and that saved the lives of 644 people.

During July of the previous year, when the temperature was 105 on occasions, the deaths in Toronto alone, credited to the heat, numbered 234 and, in all Ontario 661. In July of this year there were only 17. The cooler nights proved a remarkable life-saver.

PIE THREAT.

(New York Sun)

AN INDIANA man has taken out a patent on a pie pan equipped with knobs on the flange by sighting along which the pie cutter can divide the pie into mathematically equal slices. This is the most disturbing mechanical device put on the market since engineering science brought to perfection the mechanical bread slicer. The bread slicer served notice that the American housewife had lost the strength and skill required to cut the loaf in accordance with the whims of the family—a thick slice for Bill, a lace handkerchief slice for Emma, a medium slice for Uncle Joe — and that freemen must accept the standardized slice. The Hoosier's pie plate means another invasion of freedom of choice at table, a fresh systemization of gustatory delights, a new dictatorship abhorrent to all the children of liberty.

Lakefield Grandmothers' Day Meeting Largely Attended

Toronto Speaker Will Be Guest At Special Gathering This Week

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 18. — About sixty persons, including twenty-three grandmothers, attended the special Grandmothers' Meeting held by the Lakefield Branch of the Women's Institute, in the Memorial Hall, Lakefield, on Wednesday afternoon, October 6.

The president, Mrs. H. J. Bullock, presided, extending a hearty welcome to the grandmothers and other visitors present.

After the minutes of the last meeting had been read, and on motion, adopted, Mrs. O. E. Kingdon, and Mrs. A. Davis moved that the money collected at the District Rally held in Lakefield the previous week, for the purpose of assisting a family who had lost their home in a fire, should be used to buy clothing for the needy family, and that the matter be left with the relief committee. Carried.

Miss M. Sanderson and Mrs. H. J. Bullock were appointed members of a committee to make arrangements for the special speaker for the meeting on October 21, when Miss Elizabeth Atkinson, of Toronto, will address members of the local Institute as well as representatives from the branch at Hall's Bridge and the Junior Institute in Lakefield.

It was moved by Mrs. W. E. Gillman and Mrs. Stanley Higgins that the treasurer be instructed to pay the prize money for the Lakefield Fair.

It was moved by Miss M. Sanderson and Mrs. Stan. Higgins that the society send a delegate to the Provincial Convention, to be held in Toronto, November 17, 18 and 19.

It was moved by Mrs. J. W. Ridpath and seconded by Mrs. J. J. McFadden, that an afternoon tea be held by the Institute on Friday, October 29. Miss Margaret Sanderson offered her home on Caroline street for the event.

Members of a committee to be responsible for the tea and sale, and for decorating, were chosen as follows; Mrs. W. E. Gillman, Mrs. John Blakely, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. S. E. White, Mrs. Chas. Lake and Mrs. T. W. Chaplin.

On motion the secretary was instructed to order a wreath for Memorial Day.

Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Chaplin were responsible for a resolution suggesting that the "Travelling Shirt", being circulated to raise funds for the Institute, be opened at the meeting. The opening of the shirt and the counting of the proceeds was made a part of the program, the proceeds being found to amount to $11.38.

After the business session, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. A. Davis who presided during the program, which was on Historical Research.

Mrs. Davis gave a talk on the history of the Public School in Lakefield, from the time of its founding up until recent times. She mentioned a number of teachers whose names would be of interest to older folk in the community, who attended the school years ago. She also mentioned Miss Isabella Duff, whose years of service to the local school form a unique record.

Mrs. T. W. Chaplin, who looked charming in a pale blue moire gown, and carrying an old fashioned nosegay, contributed a delightful vocal number "Her Alice Blue Gown."

Mrs. W. E. Gillman then read excerpts from a Toronto paper published in July, 1876. The paper gave an account of the industries in Lakefield in 1876 mentioning that the village at that time had a population of about 900 inhabitants and comprised, "3 sawmills, 1 grist mill, 3 shingle mills, 1 stave factory, one cooperage 3 cabinet-makers, 3 hotels 7 general stores, 2 druggists, 1 tin and stove depot, two hardware stores, one jeweller, 2 boot and shoe stores, one bakery, 2 butchers, 2 merchant tailors 4 blacksmiths, 3 liveries, etc.; besides these industries there are 5 churches, namely, Church of England, Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist and Bible Christian; a large brick school house with four teachers and an average attendance of 268; a Masonic Lodge; 2 medical practitioners, a telegraph and post office; eight million feet of lumber, 6,000 barrels of flour, [illegible],000 staves, and 400,000 headings, [illegible] exported from this place annually. Lakefield lies at the foot of a chain of lakes that abound with fish and are dotted with picturesque islands. A steamer connects three times a week with summer hotels at Mount Julien, Burleigh, etc. Large quarries and valuable mines are in the vicinity, and stone resembling Scotch granite is found in abundance 2 and one-half miles from the village."

The Lakefield Flouring Mills, established in 1860 and owned by John Hull, were dealt with at some length. "The mill is a building 3½ storeys high, containing 3 run of stones driven by centre discharge wheels. From five to six thousand barrels of flour are shipped annually and the flour exported fetches the highest market prices in Montreal and the Maritime Provinces."

"R. C. Strickland and Co.'s Mills consist of two saw mills and a shingle mill, one of which is run by water and the other by steam. They manufacture eight million feet of lumber annually; own 10,000 acres of land, the steamer that plies the lakes and a number of scows, and supply the Midland Railway with large quantities of cordwood, and the factory with stove bolts.

"The Lakefield Planing Mill, was established by Peter Baptie, in 1872. Mr. Baptie manufactures sashes, doors, etc., and is largely interested as builder and contractor, and has the reputation of doing good work at reasonable prices.

"W. H. Casment's store is situated on the corner of Queen and Reed streets. It is fully stocked with hardware, groceries, crockery, glassware, etc.; and is one of the largest established in Lakefield."

At the conclusion of the program, contests were held in which only the grandmothers present could participate.

Mrs. Azor Northey won the grandmother's lucky chair prize. The prize for the grandmother who had longest been a member of the Institute was won by Mrs. O. E. Kingdon, who has been a member of the local branch, continuously since its organization over ten years ago. The fact that Mrs. Kingdon was that day celebrating the twenty-sixth anniversary of her marriage made the event doubly important.

The prize for the grandmother who guessed the nearest to the correct weight of a covered basket was won by Mrs. E. J. Sanderson.

The grandmothers present who were members of the Institute were asked to stand, nine person responding. Six other grandmothers joined the Branch during the afternoon. When the grandmothers entered the hall they were welcomed by Mrs. S. Higgins and asked to sign their names in a register which will be kept as a memento of the occasion.

Delicious refreshments were served, a large cake with lighted candles forming the table decoration. The cake was in honor of the grandmothers and was particularly of Mrs. O. E. Kingdon, who was celebrating her Twenty-sixth wedding anniversary.

A delightful social half hour brought the meeting to a close.

SUCCESSFUL DINNER

The turkey dinner given by the ladies of St. Paul's Parish on Thanksgiving evening was a most gratifying success.

The tables, which were arranged in the form of the letter U, were tastefully decorated with autumn flowers and literally groaned with their weight of delectable viands. Over two hundred guests were served all were loud in their praise of the sumptuous repast.

The Leahy Brothers supplied suitable music during the evening; especially appreciated were the selections rendered by Masters Kevin and Philip, the junior members of the orchestra.

The ladies in charge are most grateful to all who contributed to the success of their first Thanksgiving dinner.

Lecture On Health By Dr. J. E. Slocum

Observance of the simple rules of health would save Canadians many thousands of dollars annually in their health bills is the opinion of Dr. J. E. Clocum of Des Moines, Iowa, who will give a public lecture on health at the Paragon hall on Thursday evening, October 21st.

Dr. Slocum will be the guest of Dr. C. M. Lawrence and Dr. M. C. Goodwin while in the city. He is an internationally known lecturer and has been lecturing before schools and civic organizations throughout Ontario.

"In our busy lives," he says, "we find little time to devote to the sources of our physical difficulties. In the field of curative science we are constantly moving across new frontiers, making discoveries of benefit to man. Yet the simplest and most elementary rules of health are disregarded by many people. The primary law of health is temperance. I do not mean to use this term only in relation to alcoholics. Temperance has as many angles as a compass. It is far-reaching in its effects upon the human body. I believe that more people are injured by over-eating than by over-drinking. Most of us are slaves to health-destroying habits."

Dr. Slocum urges tolerance and co-operation among members of the branches of healing. "It is a splendid thing," he says, "that there are different systems of healing, surviving on a basis of merit, for this stimulates endeavor and keeps alive the spirit of pioneering and discovery."

CHINESE USING GAS JAPS TELL PRESS, DRAMATIC SCENE

SHANGHAI, Oct. 18—(AP).—Japanese authorities staged a dramatic demonstration today of alleged Chinese use of poison gas.

Fifty foreign correspondents were assembled in the office of the Japanese consulate general to receive an announcement which they had been told would be so momentous it had to be made on Japanese territory.

They were shown a shell which emitted evil smelling fumes which the Japanese asserted was phosgene smoke. Lieut.-Colonel Hajime Tani, of the Japanese chemical corps, declared the shell contained sufficient poisonous gas to kill the roomful.

An official spokesman said six shells with unusual red markings were seized Oct. 14 when a Japanese patrol surprised the crew of a Chinese trench mortar on the Taping-kiang-Liuhong sector north of Shanghai.

Chemical and medical tests, the Japanese said, proved shells contained sufficient poison gas to cause asphyxiation under favorable conditions.

The curl of fumes arising from the quantity left in the exhibit, however, was enough to cause only a slight headache.

A spokesman said gas mask precautions saved the Japanese from casualties.

Questioned whether neutral experts participated in the tests of the alleged Chinese shell, he replied he considered the Japanese charge sufficient.

Jap Charges Repulsed

A Chinese spokesman declared renewed attempts by the Japanese army to-day to smash Chinese lines at Tasang 10 miles north of Shanghai, were repulsed.

Chinese troops, he said, machine-gunned a Japanese force attempting a flanking movement to cut off Chinese forces in the Chapei sector on the northern edge of the Shanghai international settlement.

He said two battalions of Japanese trying to cross a creek were caught in water up to their waists. The Chinese fire killed and wounded several hundred Japanese, he added, many of the wounded drowning. He said 10 Japanese machine guns and more than 100 Japanese rifles were captured.

Reports from North China said Chinese forces were making spirited resistance against the Japanese march southward toward Tsinanfu, capital of Shantung province.

Among centres raided by Japanese airmen, a Japanese spokesman said, were Hangchow, Nanziang, Huangtu, Luklapen, military depots at Zakow and Pingwang, barracks at Chuchow and an airdrome at Kuyung.

Repeated Japanese air raids on Hangchow, capital and chief port of Chekiang province, south of Shanghai, brought terror to the city's 1,500,000 population.

CURE FOR CHRONIC ALCOHOLIC NEAR?

BOSTON, Oct. 18—(AP)—Hope for a cure for the chronic alcoholic—within certain restrictions—appeared today on the horizon of medical achievement, as the first report of a pioneer study of alcoholism was published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The story, designed to furnish a scientific answer to the question, "Can a chronic alcoholic be cured?" and described by psychiatrists as having far-reaching implications for society, is being undertaken by the McLean Hospital.

In the report two major conclusions stand out:

Both the age, and the length of time a person has been drinking heavily, affect the outcome of treatment.

A patient must sacrifice a year of his life in order to be sure of obtaining adequate treatment.

Many "ifs" and "ands" qualify findings, which are only tentative and subject to revision. But from its studies so far, the McLean Hospital, one of the leading private institutions in the country for the treatment of nervous and mental disorders, reports certain definite observations.

Chief of these are:

That "the large amount of chronic alcoholism in the families of patients was rather striking."

That, among men alcoholics, one of their outstanding characteristics was their ability to get along with others, approach sociological problems realistically and put day-dreaming behind them in their attitude toward life.

That drinking, "which at first was social and periodic, tended gradually to become solitary and continuous."

TORONTO MOTORIST IS FREED BY JURY

LINDSAY, Oct. 18.—Concluding one of the longest trials in the history of Victoria County an assize jury Saturday night found John Hugh Watson, Toronto motorist, not guilty of manslaughter or criminal negligence. The charge arose out of the death of Rolan Benson Ward, aged Toronto resident, who died here June 23rd from injuries said to have been received in a car accident west of here on June 14th when he was a passenger in the car driven by Watson.

The jury foreman advised Mr. Justice McIvoy that the jury was unable to find enough actual facts to warrant a conviction on either charge. His Lordship agreed with the verdict. He informed the accused the decision might easily have been the other way and advised him to change his ways just a little in the future. The trial opened Wednesday morning and took four days before it was completed.

The Government of France is trying to revive building activity throughout the country.

MARKET SLUMPS WITH THE GOLDS FIGHTING HARDEST

TORONTO, October 16—(C.P.).—Heavy selling set stocks back on the Toronto Exchange last week, and the market was spotted with new low prices at the close. Golds offered most resistance to the persistent dumping and were the only group on which the index did not reach new low ground.

With the entire board heading downward, the industrial index closed 10 lower at 123.35 after making new lows daily. The miscellaneous marker dropped 11 to 116.37. Volume increased each day and selling was accelerated later in the week.

Consolidated Smelters fell 7¼ to sell at 52½, the lowest price in more than a year. International Nickel slipped 3 to 45¼, and Noranda was off 5 at 44. Falconbridge, Sheritt, Sudbury Basin, Waite Amulet, Ventures, Pend Oreille and Chromium posted new low marks on losses up to $1. Eldorado eased 30 to 1.80 on the silver section.

Brazilian Traction closed at 17, down 3¼, but losses on Canadian Pacific and Ford "A" were narrower. Montreal Power sold down to 28. Abitibi skidded ¼ point to 3, and Great Lakes at 12, was off 3. Walkers and Distillers lost about 3 points each.

Dome Slips

Although strong in late trading, Dome had the biggest loss among senior golds, and slipped 4 to 39¾. Lake Shore, McIntyre and Hollinger were clipped a point or more and sizeable decreases were suffered by Wright-Hargreaves, Pioneer, Bralorne, Little Long Lac, Pickle Crow, Macassa, Siscoe and O'Brien.

Darkwater dropped from 50 cents to 16 on rumors, later confirmed, the company would suspend operations until the spring break-up. Beattie, Moneta, Kirkland Lake and East Malartic each moved 10 cents lower and losses up to 36 were taped for Central Patricia, Sylvanite, McKenzie, MacLeod-Cockshutt, Hard Rock, Kerr Addison and Francouer.

International Petroleum slumped 3 to 28¾ in active trading and Imperial Oil and British American were down about 2 points, all making new lows. Royalite foundered 3¾ to 30 and Home, Calgary and Edmonton, Okalta and Vulcan were sharply lower.

Steel and construction issues were heavy all week and such stocks as Steel of Canada, National Steel Car, Canadian Car, Dominion Steel "B", Building Products, Canada Cement and Canada Dredge lost 2 to 7 points. Food and farm implement listings moved down, but selling was not so pronounced.

CAR PLUNGES OVER WHARF WOMAN IS LOST

alarm, and dispatched a younger man to telephone the Lakefield Fire Department.

A Volunteer Hero

From his home on the opposite side of the lake, over a mile from the scene of the fatality, George Graham, 22-year-old volunteer fireman heard the siren on the Fire Hall tower that summoned him to duty.

Reporting to Cheif Allan Clark without delay, Graham was sent to the government wharf in an effort at rescue. Although only classed a "fair" swimmer Graham fearlessly divested his jacket and shoes and plunged into the lake, bringing the woman up at the first dive.

He told reporters he found the woman's body trapped in the car and said he had some difficulty in releasing her. "I don't think I could have stayed under another second," he said.

Artificial Respiration

About the time the victim's body was brought ashore by the rescuer fifteen minutes after the car accidentally backed off the wharf, a squad from Peterborough Fire Department was on hand. They applied artificial respiration for over half an hour but without avail. Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith who ordered removal of the body to Webster's Undertaking Parlors to await burial, also attended the survivors at Lakefield.

After investigating the circumstances, Dr. Smith declared an inquest would be held at Lakefield on Friday next, at 8 p.m. The coroner was assisted in his investigation by Chief Wallace Hendren of Lakefield and by Provincial Motorcycle Patrol Constables Lloyd A. McClure and Gordon Broughton.

Overcome By Grief

Almost overcome with grief and shock, Colonel Scobell told a reporter he was preparing to drive away from the dock after he and his party had paused to admire the lake scenery, when one of his passengers presumably noticing the nearness of the water and becoming alarmed made an involuntary grab at his arm and caused the gears to slip into reverse. His watch stopped by the action of the water indicated the accident occurred at 3.04 p.m.

Word of the tragedy spread fast through the village and shortly afterwards the wharf was crowded with people who were able to see the death car dimly outlined below the choppy waters of the lake. Efforts to raise the car were postponed until today.

SLOWEST TYPIST IN PETERBOROUGH GETS NEW JOB

You know the listless, tired-looking blonde she was—last to arrive at the office, first to leave. A "tired Tillie", she just hated to work. The town's tired typist is now a tireless typist, breezing through the day's work, full of life, sparkle, energy. She's got a new job and she's going places!

The trouble with that girl was a clogged, poisoned system. Indigestion plagued her, irregular elimination sapped her vitality. Her liver was sluggish. She couldn't help feeling slothful, sleepy, half alive.

What she needed was the sort of treatment rich women get at famous English spas—and she gets it right in her own home with Fynnon Salt. For the best salts of the earth found at these mineral springs—Sodium, Potassium, Lithium—are combined in this British saline. Fynnon Salt rinses away uric and bilic acids, eliminates the clogging wastes, tones up her whole system. She's a different girl and, by eliminating wastes and acids now with Fynnon Salt, she's building for suppleness and youthful vigour in later years. You can do the same. If you feel lazy, achey, half alive, let Fynnon Salt drive out the acids that cause rheumatic aches, stiffness, lumbago. Fynnon Salt will help you to feel young, to stay young. 75c a large package. Pays Speeding Fine On Gridiron

Two days ago Police Judge Fred T. Harsh told Yeager at Santa Barbara:

"I'm fining you $10—or two touchdowns against Redlands."

Thus inspired, Yeager wasted no time.

In the first quarter last night he sped 12 yards to a touchdown. In the second he pulled down a 21-yard pass behind the goal line. Final score: Santa Barbara 31; Redlands 0.

Judge Harsh said he would mark the fine paid today.

Fur Trimmed Wraps Were Needed At Roseneath's Annual Fall Fair

Lloyd Kennedy (2) Bethany continued his winnings in the class for roadster horses at Roseneath Fair Friday. He had just been awarded first prize for teams 15.2 hands and under by the judge, William J. Maher of Cobourg, when this picture was taken, and he was also awarded four other firsts in this class with several specials. Mr. Kennedy has been a frequent winner around the district circuit of fairs this season. Velma Lightle of Bethel Grove, left, and Marjorie McCullouch, right, (1) intently watching some interesting feature at Fred Slade's Fair. Their fur trimmed wraps were a barometer of the chilly weather that failed materially to reduce the attendance. County Constable Thomas Marsden (3) of Alderville, the reserve adjacent to Roseneath, has been an officer of the peace for twenty-eight years, and is a familiar official at the Alnwick township Fair. There is a calm dignity and reserve about him that prompts the public's title of Chief Marsden. Sections of the crowd around the grandstand (4) and along the race track (5) indicate the variety of Roseneath Fair's attractions. A long program of singing, dancing, public speaking, fidling and so on is provided at the grandstand. The finish of the second heat of the free-for-all race is being keenly watched by rail birds. Meanwhile the midway was packed with people, and other groups were following the judging of light and heavy horses in separate rings. The Roseneath Fair in its complete plant presents all the signs of prosperity.

ONTARIO IS WORST LISTING TEN DEAD

father of Mr. Justice Charles P. McTague of the Supreme Court of Ontario, died at Guelph of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile; Warner, Newman, 30, was fatally injured at Sault Ste. Marie when an emery wheel, with which he was grinding a bolt, split and struck him upon the head.

Reports from several centres told of multiple traffic accidents in which many persons were injured. More than 20 persons were hurt in week-end crashes in Toronto. In one accident, eight persons required hospital treatment. At Oshawa, 10 persons were hurt in a head-on collision. Seven others were injured near Pembroke during an automomile crash in a fog. Of five hurt near Sarnia, one woman was in a critical condition after two cars sideswiped at an intersection.

Motorcyclist Dies.

Alan Dixon, 23, of Toronto, died four hours after his motorcycle spilled on Highway No. 2, a mile east of Pickering, early Saturday evening. He suddenly lost control of his machine, friends who were riding other motorcycles near by, after attending an Oshawa meet, told the police.

He was found stretched out in the middle of the road, surrounded by his fellow motorcyclists, by Jack Alkwinkle, of Oshawa, who rushed the unconscious man to an Oshawa hospital. An undated inquest was ordered by Coroner Dr. H. M. MacDonald.

At noon Sunday, near Whitby, on Highway No. 2, a car driven by Lloyd Covert, Toronto, collided head-on with an auto driven by R. A Jones, Port Hope.

The passengers in the Covert car, all of whom were injured, were Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hepburn and their daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Covert. Covert himself suffered broken ribs and his wife a fractured pelvis. Those injured in the other car, besides Jones, who required several stitches to close head wounds, were Mrs. R. A. Jones, 30; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stapleton of Newtonville; Cecil Stapleton, 39, and Betty Stapleton, 17.

The force of the impact drove the Covert car into a ditch and swung the other half-way around. So badly damaged was the former car that it was necesary to use crowbars to open the door.

Two ambulances, a panel truck equipped with mattresses and several cars were used to remove the ten injured to Oshawa General Hospital. Provincial Constables G. R. Waude, Whitby, and Arthur Runnciman, Pickering, investigated the accident.

Runs 2 Down Killing Them

Member of parliament for Maisonneuve-Rosemount, Sarto Fournier, was at the wheel of an automobile that killed Valmore Jobin, 57, and Pintella Goula, 52, at Montreal. He reported to police the pair walked in front of his car, affording him no chance to miss them.

Two Montreal women, Mrs. John Cantwell, 68, and Mrs. Hormisdas Miron, 46, were burned fatally in separate household mishaps. Mrs. Cantwell's clothing ignited as she put charcoal on a stove fire, while Mrs. Miron was burned when gasoline fumes flared as she cleaned a bed with the fluid.

Death came at the end of 30 days' unconsciousness to Mrs. Clara Cordon, 32, of Halifax, injured when struck by a bicycle. Montreal register a near-tragedy when three members of a household were sent to hospital with minor injuries after illuminating gas exploded in their home.

Additional Brit[illegible] Columbia death was that of James Dwyer, 19, a cabin boy, drowned in the Fraser River. He was playing football on a wharf when the ball went into the water. A small boat in which he and another lad attempted to retrieve the ball capsized and he failed to make shore.

MARMORA CHURCH HAS FOWL SUPPER

MARMORA, Oct. 18.— The annual fowl supper and entertainment of St. Andrew's United Church was held on Tuesday evening and was the most successful in many years.

After super an entertainment was held in the town hall. Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School Band under the direction of Ross Hunter, who has a full time position as musical instructor in the school, provided most of the program. They gave four groups of several numbers each, which were all well applauded.

Mr. J. F. Baker and Miss Flora Sanderson each contributed two vocal solos and an encore. Both were very much appreciated by the audience.

William Towason and Percy Gray of Deloro gave two short skits dressed as negroes and proved to be splendid comedians.

Mr. P. C. MacLaurin, principal of B.C.I., gave a short address on the value of the youth of Canada and the need for training and opportunity if they are to make the most of life.

Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell spoke, bringing greetings from St. Pauls church.

Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth acted as chairman and on behalf of the congregation thanked everyone who assisted in making the event such a splendid success.

FENELLA

The Young People's Society of Fenella United church held their weekly meeting in the Community Hall on Tuesday. The program was in charge of the missionary convenor, Miss Ruby Herrington, as follows. Scripture lesson, by Miss Bernice McNaught; solo by Miss Donna Lonsberry; instrumental by Miss Lenore Leach; a very interesting topic wae given by Miss V. George. After the meeting a game was put on by Miss Gertrude Knox and a contest by Miss Valerie Madge.

Mr. Willis Herrington, Vancouver, called at the home of his uncle, Mr. John Herrington, and Mrs. Herrington, during the past week.

their home governments to protest to China and Japan against warplanes flying over the foreign areas.

Japanese, failing to break Chinese resistance in the Chapel sector of Shanghai in 57 days of continuous assaults, resorted to air bombardment of all Chinese communication lines and supply bases behind the lines.

Chinese Fliers Make 6 Raids.

The bombardment followed a Chinese raid which ended at dawn Chinese planes made six forays over the International Settlement and French concession to drop bombs along the Whangpoo River front and Japanese Yangtzepoo and Hongkew sections of the International Settlement.

The bombardments were said to have forced Japanese to abandon their landing field in the Yangtzepoo area and transfer equipment to Woosung, 12 miles downstream.

During the Chinese raid and the Japanese counter shelling, a shell fell into the hitherto comparatively safe French concession. It struck in the Salvation Army camp and injured a child refugee.

Casualties among Shanghai noncombatants since the warfare started were estimated to-day to total 2,000 dead and 3,000 injured.

Japanese naval planes dropped bombs on Chinese concentrations along Soochow creek. One squadron raided the Chinese airdrome outside Nanking without success.

SKULLS ON STREET

HAMILTON, Oct. 18—(CP)—Determined to shock motorists into greater caution in driving on city streets, members of the Young Men's Chamber of Commerce painted huge skull and cross-bones signs on the pavements in 16 places during the night. The diagrams marked the spots where 16 persons had been killed in traffic accidents since the first of the year.

ABERNETHY CASE ON HEAVY DOCKET OF ASSIZE COURT

COBOURG, Oct. 18.—Four criminal actions and four applications for divorce are included in the eleven cases on the docket of the fall assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario for Northumberland and Durham which opens here this afternoon. In the criminal list is a charge of manslaughter against Russell Abernethy of Campbellford relating to the death by drowning of Florence Watt in the Trent Canal a short distance south of Campbellford on May 1 last. It is alleged that Mr. Abernethy was the driver of an automobile, with Miss Watt his companion, when it plunged into the canal. G. N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough is counsel for the accused.

The united counties of Northumberland and Durham are plaintiffs in a civil action against W. A. Moffat & Son, Limited, and the Employers' Liability Assurance Corporation of London, England, for the amount of a bond for $1,050 guaranteeing for one year the mastic flooring laid in the new House of Refuge built by the counties several years ago. Plaintiffs allege that the flour constructed by Moffat & Son is not satisfactory, and that the conditions of the contract for which a bond was given to the counties were not fulfilled.

Cyrus Ashton of Port Hope is charged with manslaughter as the alleged driver of an automobile that killed Mrs. Edgar Neal of Detroit and Miss K. Freer of Toronto in Port Hope July 22 last.

In another manslaughter case volving an automobile accident William T. Churchill of Forest, Ontario, is blamed for the death of his three-year-old son. His car was in collision with an automobile driven by DeSmet Carton of Huntley Village, Missouri, on July 7 this year near Grafton. The fourth case to go before the grand jury accuses John Beggs, Port Hope, of rape.

Andrew Meiklejohn Recalls Days Of The Open Voting, One Of Rawdon's Pioneers

Politics Were More Rugged And Police Often Called To Polling Booth

When Andrew Meiklejohn received the first ballot issued at the Centreville poll in Northumberland riding, and marked it for Harold N. Carr of Campbellford, the Liberal candidate, Wednesday morning October 6, memories of the days of open voting may have come back to him from his youth in Rawdon township.

Mr. Meiklejohn is the father of Mrs. O. B. Johnson of Centreville. Son of a pioneer family of Hastings county, he entered his ninetieth year on September 11, his eighty-ninth birthday. His clear eyes with which he can see to read and thread a needle without glasses, and his tall, upright figure indicate the virility, sustained by sound habits, that has borne him so long and far through life.

Police At Polls

"Open voting was the political custom of my youth," Mr. Meiklejohn told the Examiner today. "It applied to municipal as well as general elections. A man was appointed in charge of a polling place to record the votes of the electors. The place might be a school house or private home. There was nothing secret about how you voted in those days. The official clerk asked you which candidate you wished to vote for. Then he wrote in his book your name and address and also the name of the candidate you had given him, and it was all over. Every person who happened to be present at the time heard and knew how you had voted. I remember occasions when a policeman had to be appointed to keep order and to protect some electors. Men of one party might try to persuade a voter to declare himself for their candidate. Sometimes there was intimidation, and as other abuses developed it became evident that another system was required. That is how we got the secret ballot. In those years there were no women around the polls, and politics were more rugged than they are today."

A Rawdon-Seymour Family

For nearly one hundred years the Meiklejohn family has been widely known throughout this district, and especially on both sides of the Rawdon-Seymour boundary. According to its traditions five brothers arrived in Canada from Scotland in 1842. Their sailing ship crossed the ocean in six weeks. One of the brothers returned to the Old Land, but the four others, James, John, Peter and David decided to settle in this land, and made their way into Hastings county. They had learned the weaving trade in Scotland, and their skill was of service to themselves and their pioneer neighbors for quite a number of years. While they were building their first log houses and clearing the land of the primeval woods, the four Meiklejohn men used to make cloth for many of the settlers in their district. They had looms in their homes on which the farmers' yarn was woven into homespun and full cloth. The settlers had their own sheep, and clipped their wool every year. Members of their families, usually the wives and daughters, did the carding and spinning, hence the significance of the distaff in domestic symbolism.

Gradually as times changed, and the limited and crude industries and modes of the pioneers became more refined and mechanized, the four Meiklejohn men gave all their time to the cultivation of their lands, and became established as farmers.

Where Brothers Farmed

James Meiklejohn, the father of Andrew, lived in Rawdon township, about fifteen miles north of Stirling and nine east of Campbellford. His farm was a mile east of what is known in that locality as the town line. James had nine children of whom three sons and one daughter are still living. They are Lindsay Meiklejohn, hardware merchant at Stirling; John of Campbellford; Andrew of Centreville; and Sarah of Seattle.

David Meiklejohn acquired land in Seymour township, not far from Campbellford. He had two children, both of whom are dead.

The two other brothers, John and Peter, settled in the ninth concession of Rawdon. Each of them had nine children, in those strenuous days of large families.

John's two surviving children are Mrs. Hiram Barnum at Rylstone in Seymour, and one son George of Tweed.

Of Peter's family two sons are living, Dr. H. J. Meiklejohn of Winnipeg and William of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Meiklejohn, in his conversation with the Examiner, said that his eldest brother, William, died six years ago at the age of eighty-seven.

Andrew's Family

Life his father, his three uncles and other members of the numerous and extensive family, Andrew has been a farmer all his life, and resided at Campbellford prior to his coming to Centreville. His wife died twenty-four years ago, in the autumn of 1913. Their children are, one son, Lindsay H. Meiklejohn, an oil refiner at Wainwright, Alberta; and two daughters, Mrs. O. B. Johnson, and Mrs. W. R. Mather of Toronto, and formerly of Menie in Seymour township. Mr. Mather's father built the general store at Menie and for several years Mr. Johnson assisted him in the business.

Potash A Cash "Crop"

"One of the sources of ready cash in the early days was the making of potash, Mr. Meiklejohn recalled. "The settlers burned the timber and from the ashes made a leach that was boiled down to its residue of potash which was sold in Belleville. I suppose it was largely used in the making of soap and other

"My brother William could remember when my father bought his first horses. Before that he used oxen in doing the heavy work about the farm, clearing and plowing the land, and so on."

Sent For Sweethearts

It is related in the Meiklejohn family that after the four pioneer brothers had been in Canada several years they sent for the four Scottish lassies whose memories they had kept in their hearts, and so it came about that they married and had many children; and so today in Rawdon and Seymour, and elsewhere in the district and throughout the land there are many Meiklejohns in the third and fourth generations who have every reason to be proud of their ancestors, and the secondary pioneers like Andrew, now within a decade of the century mark, and still keenly interested in the younger generations and the customs which have changed so sweepingly since his own day and its open polling.

Lad Studying Drafting Because Dad Draws A Lot Of Drafts On Banks

A LOCAL youth is reported to have been experiencing a tough time in his endeavour to get some higher learning.

It was stated on reliable authority that recently the lad made an effort to enroll for a high school course, but was told he would first have to go back to public school and pass his entrance examinations.

An appeal by the youth's parents against the principal's dictum to the Minister of Education apparently failed to admit him without his entrance qualifications, because this week he presented himself at Night School to enroll for a book-keeping course.

Here again he met with a further rebuff. It was not that he lacked the necessary qualifications for admittance so much as the fact that the book-keeping classes were filled with the maximum quota.

"Well", he decided, "I'll take a drafting course."

Asked his reason for such a decision, the lad was reported to have replied, "Dad draws a lot of drafts on the banks so I thought I'd like to learn how."

READY RESPONSE FOR WESTERN AID

Ready response is being made to the city and district-wide appeal by the local Western Relief Committee on behalf of people in the drought-stricken areas of Western Canada.

Alderman James Dutton, chairman and treasurer of the committee, said promises of assistance had been received from Quaker Oats, Limited, Haboco Stores, Mason's Groceterias, National Grocers, York Trading Company, Silverwood's Dairy, Fitzpatrick and Geraghty, A. Wander, Limited, Dominion Stores and Canadian Department Stores, Limited.

In addition, it was stated, a representative of Zion Church, Otonabee, dropped into Alderman Dutton's office Saturday night and promised on behalf of that congregation the donation of 38 bags of vegetables. St. Andrew's United Church members have undertaken to supply 100 bags of potatoes.

Donations in cash, so far received, are acknowledged by the treasurer as follows: Murray Street Baptist Church (Thanksgiving offering) $14; All Saints' Church (Thanksgiving offering), $15.85; Alderman James Hamilton, $5; "One Man's Family," $3; Order of the Eastern Star, $1.

Banks in the city have kindly consented to accept donations of cash to the Western Relief Fund, while churchgoers may place their gifts on the offertory plates in churches on Sunday next, marking their envelopes, "Western Relief."

Objective of the local committee is to despatch from the city and district 3 freight car loads of produce to the West on or about October 27. The Salvation Army Temple is being used, by kind permission of Adjutant Neil Warrander, as the central receiving depot for gifts of produce.

UKRAINIAN CHOIR HAS TWO CHORUSES

The program which is to be presented in the Collegiate auditorium on Friday evening next by the Ukranian Home Choir who are appearing under auspices of St. Paul's Men's Association promises to be a popular one. It includes two groups of choruses for the entire choir who are to appear in Ukranian national costume, as well as Ukranian folk dances and instrumental interludes, and vocal solos. The Shklar sisters (two violins and piano) are billed to play the "Third movement from Concerto in D Minor—Bach", while Miss Mary Chrapko is featured as vocal solist and is to sing "Serenade —Schubert." The program will open with the National Anthem after which the choir will be heard in the first of two series of choruses. The first group of choruses includes: "The Waveless Sea" an extract from the opera "Vsey". A boisterous song of the vacationist students who visit the home of a military official and sing his praises; "A Mound on the Steppe"—Two lovers meet by a cossack mound and the girl vents her grief over her sad lot; "The Cranes"—A song popular with Ukranian soldiers during the war; "By the Mill—Another popular Ukranian war song in which a soldier recalls the happy moments spent at home and the sad farewell with his sweetheart; "A Wandering Star"—a young girl, surprised by sudden night fall asks a Cossack to accompany her home from a night party. The balance of the program is in similar vein, and will doubtless provide music lovers with a rare treat.

MOTHER AND SON INJURED IN CRASH

Mrs. Nelson Godfrey, 290 Stewart street and her infant son Larry were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital on Sunday evening after being injured in an automobile collision at George and King streets around 8.50 p.m. The mother suffered shock, while the child sustained a minor scalp wound. Both were attended by Dr. J. M. O'Brien.

Mrs. Godfrey with her husband and child and Mrs. Keith Innes, 210 London street were passengers in a car that was being driven south on George street by the latter's husband Keith Innes.

According to police report the Innes car was travelling at a moderate speed, when it is alleged another car owned by Jack Steinkrauss, 231 King street and driven by F. O. Phillips, 406 Water street, east on King street collided wit hthe Innes car at the intersection. Others in the Steinkrauss car besides the owner and the driver were stated to be Mrs. Steinkrauss (mother of the owner) and Miss Violet Steinkrauss.

As a result of the impact both cars were damaged, while Mrs. Godfrey and her child were injured as stated.

Lance Kemp, R.R. 10 Peterborough reported that on Saturday he was driving his car south on Aylmer street when he was involved in collision with another automobile being operated by William McNott, Park street.

William Buott, 807 Gilchrist street, parked his bicycle on Charlotte street Saturday and complained that a motorist had run his car over the machine breaking the frame.

MEANEST PEOPLE

TILLSONBURG, Ont., Oct. 18 (CP)—Police are seeking a man and woman described as "the meanest people on earth." They successfully canvassed church societies and residents for food and clothing designed for Western relief.

Loyal Pals

When his pal "Rex" was hit by a motor car Leslie Brown, 12,176 Adaline street carried the dog home. Notified the dog had been hurt and wishing to learn the extent of the injury, a police officer called at the house. With fierce devotion the boy tearfully appealed to his mother, "Mommie, mommie, don't let the cop shoot him". Needless to state the officer had no such intention, and was glad to see that the lad's puppy had not suffered serious injury.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

SOME LARGE POTATOES.

Fred Bissonette of the River Road, has a garden of potatoes which affords some of the district's champion specimens. Six selected potatoes dug from the garden have been found to total 7 pounds, 5 ounces in weight. Even the largest of the tubers was found to be solid right through the core.

FOUND NO FIRE

Occupants at the home of E. Kelsey, 190 Reid street, called the Fire Department when they smelled smoke on Friday and feared a hidden fire was smouldering somewhere. Investigation by firemen proved the fears unfounded. Calls to chimney fires at the homes of W. Sage, 420 Donegal street, and B. Livingstone, 540 Park street, were answered.

JUST A NUISANCE.

There may be something picturesque to most people in falling leaves, especially when they are highly colored, but to the men of the city's street cleaning department, they are merely a pain in the neck. The usual practice is for residents to sweep the leaves out into the roadway, putting the issue up to the street cleaners, and according to one of the latter, they are handling enormous quantities of them these days.

LIKE WINTRY CONDITIONS

The wintry conditions that have prevailed during the past few days, may not be to the liking of the general public, but it is being welcomed by several merchants on George street. "This is great weather for business," declared the manager of a large dry goods store. His satisfaction was expressed by the manager of a department store who said he would be better pleased when the first real snow comes, so he can rid his shelves of the new stocks of rubber footwear and woollen underwear.

ASSISTANCE NEEDED.

On ... 18th a man, wife and three small children had the misfortune to have their coal oil stove explode in the tent in which they were living and calling it their home. This man through not being able to get much work, although willing to do anything, was trying to keep some kind of a home for his family. He is not a man who spends what he earns in drink. He has located a house whom some friends are sharing with him. This family will be very grateful if some of the more fortunate people can give him things to put in the house so he can get his family in it. Some people took them in their home but it is not convenient to be kept any longer. A gentleman says that any furniture, heater, bedding or anything anyone has for these people, can use his phone, 2409, and articles will be called for.

ANNIVERSARY IS HELD AT ST. JAMES'

The pulpit of St. James' United Church was occupied on Sunday by Rev. Sidney Davison, the pastor of Trinity United Church, Bowmanville, Ontario, who preached at both services for the anniversary thankoffering of the church.

Special music had been arranged by the organist and choir leader, Cecil Lapp and the church was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

In the morning the anthem "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung with fine effect by the full choir and at the evening service "Sweet Hour of Prayer" was sung as the anthem, with Mrs. J. Monks taking the solo part in sweet high soprano voice.

As guest singers, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Turner of Mount Dennis contributed much appreciated selections in their duets "Why Should He Love Me So" and "Do Not Turn Away From Jesus."

On this anniversary occasion the visiting minister brought pertinent messages to the people of St. James, in the evening using the Old Testament story of the ark as the basis for his inspiring sermon.

Choosing for his text, I Samuel 6:13. "And they of Beth-Shemesh were reaping their wheat harvest in the valley, and they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and rejoiced to see it," Rev. Mr. Davison applied it to the world of today.

"The ark," he said was to the Israelites a symbol of the Divine presence and brought to them the realization that Jehovah was still with them.

Many Changes

Since that day there have been many changes in our conception of the Deity, yet in the attitude of the Israelites toward the holy ark we may find much to emulate. To them, the ark brought the thought of reverence and we need to emphasize reverence for God today—we need to realize the consciousness of His presence, as did these men of old.

The ark also stood for good-will and peace. Today the nations are at war—citizens are not allowed to live in peace, although they are peace-loving. Is it not time for the world to give organized brotherhood a chance?

Good-will is the need of the hour, for ill-will lies at the root of all our troubles. The world must get back to the ark of the Lord. It is the only thing that will bring peace.

Again the ark elevated the thoughts of the people. It has been said that "he who lives beneath great domes acquires a lordly stride."

Let Jesus get into the life's building and the whole structure will have to come up to His standard, said the preacher.. If we had Jesus with us in industry, in the home, in society and in the nation, He would enrich us all. We must live up to God, "He Gave Himself—are we going to pay our debts cheaply?"

The congregation of St. James has special reason this year for rejoicing and thanksgiving in their newly decorated house of worship and will continue their anniversary celebration on Tuesday night with their annual fowl dinner and their usual fine entertainment.

OBITUARY

MRS. CATHERINE CLEARY.

In declining health for the past two years, Mrs. Catherine Cleary, widow of the late Timothy Cleary, and resident at 121 Douro Street, died at her home on Sunday. She was 89 years of age.

Born in Asphodel, she was daughter of the late Richard and Catherine Coughlin. She spent the past 55 years here. A member of the Immaculate Conception Church, she was active in the Altar Society and the Catholic Women's League.

Surviving is one sister, Mrs. Con Gahagan of Austin, Minnesota.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday morning at 8.45 o'clock from the residence to Immaculate Conception Church and St. Peter's Cemetery.

The death of Samuel Prophet, Lot 10, Concession 2, Smith township, occurred in Nicholls Hospital Sunday following a period of declining health. He was in his 72nd year.

Born in Bodman, Cornwall, England, he was son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Silas Prophet. He came to this district 41 years ago from Stayner, Ontario, farming for the past 18 years. He was a member of Trinity United Church.

Surviving are four sons, Clarence, Charles and Clifton, of Peterborough, and Howard of Hawkestone, Ontario, and three daughters, Mrs. John Edgar of Avonlea, Saskatchewan, Mrs. Bruce Bell of Smith and May at home. Remaining also are five sisters and five brothers.

The funeral will be held Wednesday from the family residence, one mile west of Jackson Park, at 2 p.m., Rev. G. S. Easton officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

Power Of Prayer Saved Woman From Treacherous Whirlpool

Mrs. R. O. Stull Returned From Peru Tells Of Experiences In That Country

Drawn into the turbulent depths of the rapid Pichis river when the dug-out in which she was voyaging accidentally crossed a whirlpool, to be miraculously saved from a danger none had ever escaped before, Mrs. R. O. Stull, missionary returned from the north-eastern jungle of Peru, said that nothing but the power of prayer could have saved her from this or other hazards of the life in that country.

At the mouth of the Pichis, a tributary of the Amazon, Mr. and Mrs. Stull were stationed for eight years, at a place called Cahuapanas, now a settled native village. Living first in a palm leaf hut, folowed by a wooden structure made of split palm trunks, with roof of palm leaves, they finally attained a cedar bungalow with copper screening as a protection against the malaria mosquito. The natives who came under their influence were taught to build themselves houses of split palm wood with floors raised high above the ground. "At first they grumbled and grunted and had to be forced to erect the unfamiliar dwellings" said the missionary, "but now they could not be induced to go back to the primitive leaf shelters, since they have found they are no longer sick in the rainy season, their women are well and their babies live."

Darkness Greatest Enemy

These are the Campa Indians of pure blood unmixed with Inca or Spaniard. Primitive Redmen following the customs of their forebears, but without traditions or written language, they are simple sun-worshippers whose greatest enemy is the darkness of night. Its worst terror is a fear of visits from the evil spirits of the dead. They believe in a spirit world that is all evil, having missed the conception of the North American Indian's "happy hunting ground." The missionary said that this was strikingly brought to her notice on one occasion. A party of seventeen, including two boys and their mother arrived at the mission in two dilapidated dug-outs. After three weeks the mother died. The Stulls noticed that after this the boys kept a small fire burning near their dwelling every night, and discovered it was to frighten away their mother's evil spirit, and keep her from harming them. The missionaries' first approach was made easier by this belief in spirit life, and they were able to begin teaching the gospel by presenting the idea of a Good Spirit as well as evil.

"And they are really intelligent," said Mrs. Stull, "we found the women weaving their garments from cotton, spinning it into thread between their fingers." The men who are great hunters make different types of bows and arrows for different game. Standing in their dug-out, they shoot fish with arrows, and were fascinated with the white man's rod and line. Their heavy dug-out canoes, 35 to 60 feet long, hollowed out with fire and stone axe from cedar trunks, are the only means of transportation.

A Death Trap

It was from one of these that Mrs. Stull was thrown into the whirlpool, when travelling with two other missionaries to visit sick Indians. She was thrown against a tree trunk and into the river. Occasionally an Indian had been drawn into a whirlpool at this spot never to appear at the surface again, and any companions always lingered a little in farewell near the spot. When they had waited for a few moments near where Mrs. Stull was drawn down, she reappeared at the surface, and was picked up. Arriving back at the mission, Mr. Stull hastened to meet them, calling to know if she was all right, having been seized with a conviction a few hours earlier that he must pray for her.

Mrs. Stull told of her missionary experiences at afternoon and evening services in Bethany Tabernacle on Sunday and at a women's meeting this afternoon. Tonight she will speak again, wearing the costume of the jungle Indians, who wear all their ornaments every day. When they go hunting or fishing they carry all their possessions with them in baskets, as anything left behind is just naturally taken possession of by someone else. When the Stulls left Cahuapanas, because of Mr. Stull's impaired health, the Indians were attending day school as well as Sunday school, the missionaries having reduced the Campa language to writing.

Fire Chief Allan Clark Of Lakefield Goes To Aid Of His Old Commander

(By a Staff Reporter)

Lakefield, Oct. 18.

FIRE Chief Allan Clark of Lakefield Volunteer Brigade who directed rescue efforts when a car backed off the government wharf here Sunday afternoon and carried Mrs. Judith Seobell to her death, has identified her bereaved husband Colonel S. H. Seobell of Toronto as commander of the 235th Battalion with which unit he went overseas during the Great War. Chief Clark told a reporter, "I did not recognize my old commanding officer when he was brought from the water because it is over 20 years since I had seen or heard of him. But when I learned his name, I recalled he commanded the 235th Battalion to which I was drafted at Ottawa as a rear rank private from the band of the 93rd Battalion in which I originally enlisted for service". He added that Colonel Seobell took the 235th to England after which it provided reserves for other service battalions. The body of Mrs. Seobell is to be forwarded to Fredericton, N.B., for burial there, it was stated.

The Rambling REPORTERS

ADDRESSED S. S. CLASS.

At the invitation of Arthur B. Burrows, class leader, Traffic Officer Archie Menzies of the City Police Department on Sunday afternoon addressed a group of over twenty young men at George Street United Church Sunday School. The officer discussed with them some of the things, which they as drivers of motor cars might do or not do, in assisting to cut down the mounting death toll on highways throughout the province. He touched on the need of a constant exercise on the part of the automobile driver of the rules of common sense and courtesy, and warned of the dangers of drinking and driving, and of the penalties for such offences as prescribed in the criminal code. Constable Menzies' appeal for safe and sane driving was voiced not only to motoring members of the class, but to the cyclists motorcyclists and pedestrians as well. His talk was followed by a question period during which the popular officer was required to answer scores of queries, relative to the subject matter of his interesting address.—R.

LIGHTENED VESSEL GOES OVER LOCKS

Held up almost a month on its journey from Kingston to Stoney Lake, the "Wauketa," 96-ton steamer bound for service towing ore loads of the Nephaline Company, was finally lifted to the upper canal level in one of the Life Lock basins Saturday afternoon. Large air-filled gasoline drums under the ship's stern lifted it sufficiently high in the water to meet the Lift Lock's maximum six-foot regulation.

Fearing further difficulties in the canal, the ships crew decided it advisable to leave the supporting drums lashed to the stern until deep and safe waters are reached. During Saturday and Sunday, the ship was towed as far as Nassau by an outboard motor. Under a similar tow, the Wauketa's barge was brought part-way up the reach to Nassau.

It was reported to-day the Nephaline Company plans to charter one of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company steamers to tow the Waukea and its barge the remainder of the way to Lakefield. There the Wauketa will take on coal and water and proceed to Upper Stoney Lake under its own power. As the Young's Point lock is one of the deepest on the system, no trouble in lockage at that point is expected.

CONDITION IS SAID TO BE CRITICAL

Harold Beatty, 19-year-old Plainville youth who was found early Friday morning beside his wrecked car, 2 miles south of Bewdley on Highway 28, is reported to be in a critical condition. He is in Port Hope General Hospital with a fractured skull.

It was believed Provincial Motorcycle Patrol Officer McKellar told The Examiner, that the injured youth lay beside his overturned automobile for some considerable time before he was discovered by the driver of an early morning creamery truck.

The car had been proceeding north on Highway 28, and failed to make a right hand turn, when the driver presumably fell asleep at the wheel of his car, the officer suggested.

EASTER LILY BLOOMS

SEATTLE, Oct. 18 (AP).—Easter lilies, being what they are, can't be expected to follow the calendar closely. But Mrs. Fred White was a bit overwhelmed when her's blossomed in October.

Minor Ontario Lacrosse Titles Set at Tourney Held in Norwood Arena

Cornwall Champlains, St. Catharines Athletics, Toronto Brock Grads Crowned Champs

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Oct. 18.—Cornwall Champlains, St. Catharines Athletics and Toronto Brock Grads took Ontario lacrosse titles in the bantam, midget and juvenile finals played in the Norwood Arena Saturday night. The boys put on a good lacrosse show for the large crowd in attendance.

In the bantam game, Champlains of Cornwall took a 9 to 2 decision from Toronto Columbus Boys.

St. Catharines Athletics swamped Cornwall Eagles 11 to 2 to win the midget title, and the Brock Grads of Toronto won the juvenile championship when they took a close-checking 4 to 0 decision from the Cornwall Strathconas.

Lead From Start.

In the first game Cornwall Champlains had a 2 to 0 lead at the end of the first period, and led 4 to 0 at the end of the second. They outscored Columbus Boys 5 to 2 in the third and last period. McCracken opened Cornwall's scoring after 5 minutes of play. Hornby put Cornwall 2 up 3 minutes later, and the first period ended with no further scoring, and both teams were starting to turn it on. Cornwall doubled their lead in the second when Miron and Emerton both counted goals. In this period Boynette of Columbus Boys and Bates of Cornwall were both penalized in the only scrap of the game.

Bates gave Cornwall a 5-goal lead to open the final period, before Columbus Boys came through with 2 goals from Boynette and Pritchard. Emerton and Hornby then scored 2 goals each to put the game away for Cornwall. Cornwall's best were Bates, Hornby, Emerton and Hewitson, while Columbus Boys' stars were Boynette, Hunter, Pritchard and Cunningham.

The teams:

Cornwall Champlains—Goal, G. Smith; defence, Hewitson and Hart; centre, Bates; rover, Emerton; wings, McCracken and Miron; subs.: Burnett, Webster, James and Hornby.

Toronto Columbus Boys—Goal, Sulyma; defence, Fisher and Fenton; rover, Hunter; centre, Pritchard; wings, Simpson and Kirk; subs.: Boynette, Rowe, Cunningham, Bews, Kingston and Beddy.

9 Cornwall—Hornby 9.00
10 Cornwall—Hornby 10.00
11 Cornwall—Emerton 11.30

Gain 11-2 Victory.

St. Catharines Athletics, with a much heavier team, easily defeated Cornwall's Eagles, 11 to 2, in the midget game. They were also a smooth-passing outfit. They took a 7 to 0 lead at the end of the first period, 9 to 1 at the close of the second and outscored their rivals 2 to 1 in the third. Teather opened the scoring for St. Catharines when he sank one after one minute of play. Miller took McLean's pass 2 minutes later for St. Catharines second counter, while Teacher added their third 2 minutes later. Low and Anthony scored 2 quick goals for St. Kitts to give them a 5 to 0 lead. Madsen, with 2 more, gave St. Kitts a seven-goal lead just before the period ended.

Cameron scored the Eagles' first goal 2 minutes after the start of the second period, but McLean and McLauchlen scored 2 more for St. Kitts to end the second period. Smith took Lachamse's pass to open the scoring in the third for St. Kitts. Wheeler sank Cornwall's second goal of the game only to have Melville come back with one for St. Kitts 30 seconds before the game ended. Madsen, Teather, Melville and McLauchlin were St. Kitts' standouts, with M. Cameron, Gauthier and Bates going best for Cornwall Eagles.

The teams:

Cornwall Eagles—Goal, Smith; defence, M. Cameron and Ferguson; rover, Lalonde; wings, Fawthrop and Gauthier; centre Caine; subs.: H. Cameron, Miron, Lahansee, Wheeler, and Bates.

St. Catharines Athletics — Goal, Lachamse; defence, Melville and Madsen; rover, Pickering; centre, Teather; wings, Smith and Anthony; subs.: Miller, Ferguson, Tavell, Low, Nelson, McLean and McLauchlin.

12 Cornwall—Wheeler 14.00
13 St. Catharines—Melville .. 14.30
Penalties — Pickering, McLauchlin.

Close Checking Fray.

The juvenile game between the Strathconas of Cornwall and Toronto Brock Grads proved to be a close checking game, with the Brock Grads having a slight advantage in passing. The Brock Grads took a one-goal lead in the first period and made it 2 to 0 in the second period. They added 2 more in the third to complete an exceptionally low-scoring game.

After 8 minutes of play, Slemmon opened the scoring and gave Brock Grads a one-goal lead. There were 2 penalties handed out, both to the Brock Grads. Parkins and Wilson getting the gate.

G. Hayes sank the only goal of the second period, giving Brock Grads a 2-goal lead in a period that produced nice lacrosse and no penalties were imposed.

The third period opened with Cornwall pressing hard. Play got rough and finally D. Dempster and Boucher were given the gate for slashing. While they were off Masters sank another counter for the Brock Grads. Grauthier and Parkins were both penalized for fighting that threatened to break out in a free-for-all. R. Dempster scored Brock Grads fourth goal and tempers began to rise as the game ended. The efficient referees, Norm Gair and Joe St. Dennis however, managed to break it up.

The teams:

Cornwall Strathconas—Goal, Deroosers; defence, Nicholson and Leroulx; rover, Gauthier; centre, Cutt; wings, Wheeler and Roth; subs.: Gosaler, Boucher, Cline, Lebrecque, Blanchard, Servias and Cameron.

Toronto Brock Grads—Goal, Hartley; defence, Law and W. Dempster; rover, Slemmon; centre, Pritchard; wings, G. Hayes and Love; subs.: Master, Tyrell, J. Hayes, Parkins, Wheatcroft, Wilson and C. Dempster.

Summary.

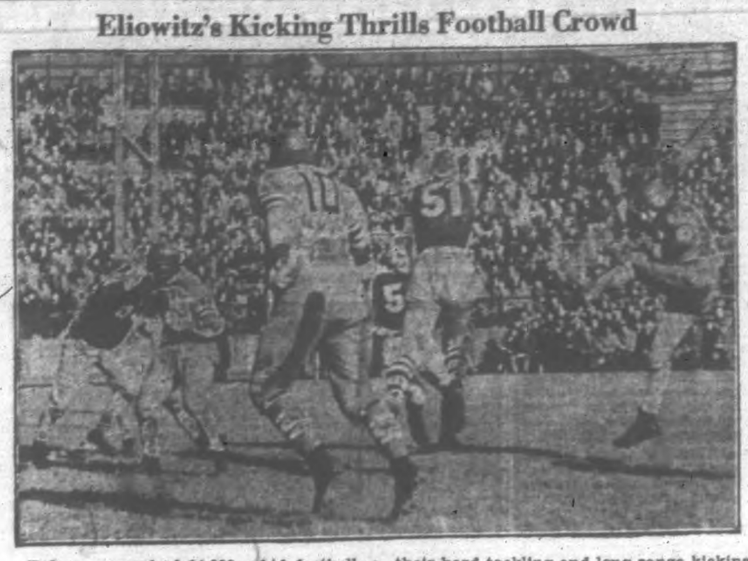
Eliowitz's Kicking Thrills Football Crowd



Before a crowd of 14,000 rabid football fans, the Montreal Indians and Toronto Argos met in Toronto on Saturday and played one of their best games this season. It was nip and tuck all the way with the Indians supplying plenty of thrills with their hard tackling and long range kicking by Abe Eliowitz. The action photo above shows Eliowitz, extreme right, getting away a kick near the Argo goal line. The final score was Argos 14 and Montreal Indians 0.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

DOWN IN Belleville on Saturday, the C.O.B.L. moguls had a gabfest, electing officers for next year and giving reports on the past season. A very tame session, on account of Kingston delegates weren't there—sending word that the football game there would interfere and that they'd abide by any loop rulings. Officers were returned again, Max Swanston of Peterborough going back as president, Art Casterton of Kingston being returned as vice-prexy, and Newt Thompson of Belleville again getting the nod as secretary-treasurer. These are capable gents and they offer each year to retire but the clubs won't hear of it, but insist that they run again. The attitude is: when you have a good business executive, why change it? You can't beat Max or Art or Newt.

* * * * * * *

SWANSTON STATED that he really wished to retire from office this year as he had been in there for five years and it was time for another to step up. He said he found it as hard to quit the executive end of baseball as he had to retire from an active spot on the field of play, but he had no intention of acting selfish. However, the vice-president and all the club delegates insisted that he should stay in for another year, and Max finally agreed. It is a real tribute to his ability, impartiality and popularity.

* * * * * * *

THE LOOP showed a balance of $266 this year, which is pretty fair dough after all expenses were deducted. No doubt, the C.O.B.L. is the most prosperous senior ball circuit in the Province—playing to the best crowds—and they dish up the best ball games, these Central Loop squads. It was amply proven in the O.B.A.A. semi-final and final games when the Oshawa club more than tripled gate receipts over the Hamilton and Toronto teams. For this reson, the loop delegates felt that a hot letter of protest should be sent the O.B.A.A. over Bert Smith of the T.A.B.A. changing umpires—without notifying Oshawa—in the final series. This will be done, mesamis, and muy pronto.

* * * * * * *

AND THAT'S about all they did at this session. The main business of the C.O.B.L.—the stormy session—comes in the spring, tra la. Lots of general discussion at this fall meeting, but not a great deal done outside of electing officers and reading reports on the past season. We talked to several of the delegates and will give you ball fans some of their ideas from time to time, but now let us deal a bit with the subject of rugby—on account of this is grid weather rather than a baseball atmosphere.

* * * * * * *

ORFUNS AGAIN proved they are tough onions on their own field when they knocked off the Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg here Saturday, 7-1, before a goodly crowd of customers. While it may be be a bit early to toot the triumphant trumpet too loudly, surely we may be permitted a gentle tweet or two. It was the third win in as many starts for the Turnbull team and two losses in four for the Phading Phantoms—who will likely wind up by going into the O.R.F.U. intermediatt "B" playdowns. Toronto Eastsides daubed the Bluish Bombers of Lindsay with an 8-0 whitewash brush in Toronto over the weekend, which practically means curtains for the 1936 group champs. Eastsides may be tough enough yet for the locals. But the huskies from the town of infantile paralysis have dropped two so far.

* * * * * * *

NOT A great deal of excitement at Riverside when the Ghosts faded before the Peterborough crew. Just straight rugby most of the way, with plenty of fumbles, and both sides looking weak on running plays. They were slow, and the few forward passes attempted missed connections like an 8.22 dash for the 8.14 train. Only major score came when Giardino—who picks 'em off like a kid goes for apples in the neighbor's orchard—intercepted a forward heave and galloped gally over the line. Other points were singles, with play kept at a safe distance from the two money lines. Not nearly as good a fixture as predicted, but a nice win, nevertheless. Loucks and Crowe went best for the winners, the latter easily holding his own in booting exchanges with the highly-touted Toronto import, Meikle.

* * * * * * *

WE HEAR there were several fist fights in Toronto as Lindsay fell before Eastsides. A poor exhibition, too, with lotsof fumbles and no open play to speak of. Kirley and Morton didn't play for the Bombed Ones and the tough Toronto team outplayed 'em in the first half, when all the scoring was done. A blocked kick resulted in the lone touchdown of the tussle. It was the third loss in four starts for the Scugog squad and about lets 'em out for this year. At least, you must mitt these lads for gamely going in there—minus several stars of last year—and battling hard every game. We know they'd like nothing better than to pin back the ears of our Orfuns when they come here October 30th—but yes, indeed!

* * * * * * *

P.C.I. GRIDDERS had a twin bill in Bowmanville on Saturday, Coach Bamforth's seniors romping through to a 24-0 chuckle but Coach Jackson's gang taking the runty side of a 2-1 score in the junior joust. These lads tell us they had a rough passage all through. So did the seniors but they had too much class for the Rubbertown outfit and shoved over four touchdowns. Had to do it all in a strong second-half drive, the score being only 2-0 at the breathing spell. Monsieur Kelly, el capitan, was conked hither and yawn and felt he had been tangling with a typhoon before 'twas over, but, the Kellys always did like action. Lots of penalties in these tilts, we're told, and the B.H.S. boys play for keeps.

* * * * * * *

GRAB-BAG: Dope on the lacrosse tourney in Norwood on Sat'day is in elsewhere tonight . . . . Lindsay papers speak highly of Mick Magee, local gridder who is out with a busted shoulder . . . . Orfuns are at Eastsides—dunno where they'll play—next Saturday, with Lindsay juniors here; P.C.I. seniors are idle . . . . Local touchdown here with Cobourg came in the dying minutes of the fray, or it would have ended in a 2-1 count . . . . Napanee will be back in senior ball next summer and with several good imports . . . . Ball moguls in Belleville the other day agreed that Al Clark of the Petes and young Walt Gerow of Napanee were the most improved seniors of the past season . . . . Church Cage League teams have till Oct. 25th to enter this circuit . . . . A badminton column is published in tonight's paper . . . . Oshawa will definitely ice a senior O.H.A. team this winter . . . . POME: He hoofs 'em high, he hoofs 'em low; he outhoofs Meikle—our Don Crowe!

Y.W. Sports Hour

The Junior Sports Hour was a scene of intense excitement Saturday when two rival schools, Queen Alex, won from King George in a closely contested shuttle relay race. Central won from Prince of Wales; St. Mary's won from Queen Mary.

In the diving competition—Queen Alex., 1st, Joan Pattison, Phyllis Liddell; St. Mary's Convent, 2nd, Grace Schiarizza, Jean DeCarlo; Central, 3rd, Doris Fanning, Betty Braund; Prince of Wales, 4th, Loreen Bradley, Beulah Milburn; King George, 5th, Ruth Harris, Barbara Wyatt; Confederation, 6th, Delina Anderson, Jean Millard.

A treasure hunt in the pool completed a jolly afternoon's fun. The sports hour will continue October and November when the school finals will be held.

CAM GRAY LEADING GRIDIRON SCORERS

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (C.P.)—When it comes to booting field goals from placement, this fellow Cam Gray of University of Toronto is in a class by himself. One look at the record of the hefty Intercollegiate Union backfielder proves that.

Gray led the scorers in the College Union last year and it looks now as if he might do the same thing this season—via the three-point field goal.

The Toronto team now is in a second place tie with McGill in the college race that finds the undefeated University of Western Ontario team on top. But it probably would be resting out in front if Gray had added opportunities for those three-point tries.

Miss Just isn't a word in the Gray vocabulary when the Toronto team comes within striking distance of the goal-posts. He's had four cracks at it so far this year in games against Queen's and McGill, and all four were successful.

Three came in the first game of the year against Queen's. Toronto won that one 9-3, which meant that Gray got all nine points by placements. Against McGill on Saturday it looked like another Gray-day with the field goal bringing victory.

Gray only attempted one, making it good, but McGill finally snatched a 7-5 victory with a touchdown on a forward pass in the last seconds of the game.

He's scored all of his team's 14 points to date and if he keeps up this field goal stuff it isn't likely there will be a new champion crowned this year as top scorer in the college loop.

Hayman's Toronto Argonauts Gain First Place In Race

Stan O'Neill's 66-Yard Run Features Ottawa's 11-0 Win Over Tigers

TORONTO, Oct. 18 (CP) — Straighted away after the opening scramble, the east's football situation took definite shape today. There were leaders in all three senior unions with none to dispute their position for at least a week.

The section's second round of cannonading left its mark on five fronts Saturday. It also left Toronto Agronauts heading the Interprovincial Union, University of Western Ontario showing the way in the Intercollegiate and Toronto Balmy Beach topping the O.R.F.U.

Actually there was nothing surprising in these teams heading their respective leagues. But there was surprise in McGill's 7-5 triumph over the favored University of Toronto and in the thoroughness of a 14-0 drubbing Argos handed the power-packed Indians from Montreal. These were outstanding results of Saturday's card.
